Patrice Chéreau's production updated the play and sacrificed meaning for "pictorial illusion" (Guardian). Observer also noted the production's "visual splendour" and that Chéreau went further than Marivaux intended. "Chéreau has taken a forty-five-minute play and inflated it into a deadly example of director's theatre running for two and three-quarter hours without interval" (Spectator). "Director's theatre run mad" that left Times with "a splitting headache."

Review: Stage 16/12/76, 38. Comment: The adaptation was “aimed at the 6 to 12 age range, but it is faithful to its original and some of the Dickensian English and Mayhew-type commentary may well go over the heads of such a juvenile audience” (Stage).

76.573 Counting the Ways (Vaud, 1a) Edward Albee. Comment: MPS 686. National Theatre. Given “at mid-week mat. prices” (advt). Press night was 6/12/76. This two-hander for ran one hour. Guardian described it as “a series of New Yorkerish cartoons deprived of their pungency and bite.” “A smoothly uninvolved catalogue of understated marital discontents” (Observer). “Diffuse and fragmentary, with spotty and only moderately engaging humour and sentiment” (Variety). Times could not think of a reason for staging the piece apart from Peter Hall’s predilection for Albee’s works. Illustrated London News declared the piece was not right for the Olivier. The production was retained in repertory until 6/1/77. The first USA production was by the Hartford Stage Company, Hartford, Connecticut, 28/1/77; the first New York production (Signature 5/11/93) ran for 23 performances.

"In general the production was acutely sensitive to the emotional risks inherent in such high-coloured material" (Spectator). "Well-made stereotyped feminism" (Tribune). Times (10/12) lavished praise on "Nancy Meckler's superb production" and the acting of Diane Fletcher and Mary Maddox. On the play's transfer to the May Fair Times (11/2) added: "by far the best written and most penetrating new feminist piece that has come my way." See also Lloyd Evans, 221–22.

Comment: The production was set in the late-nineteenth century and was careful and intelligent; Leonard Rossiter was "a master-technician in action" (Guardian 10/12). Observer praised both the production and the translation. Times said the translation "maintains an effortless run of idiomatic formality, anchors the play in late Victorian reality."

An unevenly performed revival (Stage).

76.594 Old King Cole (Ent) Ken Campbell. THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD EAST, 13/12/76. Cast: Theatricalia; WWT/17. M. C., Vicar Bruce Alexander; Brenda Cole Jane Briers; Cyril Vincent Brimble; Twoo Geoffrey Freshwater; Baron Wadd John Halstead; Old King Cole Robert Pugh; Daphne Janet Spencer Turner; Faz Robert Whelan. Dir Clare Venables; Dgn Alison Chitty. Plot: French/2, Griffiths. Reviews: Guardian 24/12/76, 9; Observer 19/12/76, 21; Stage 13/1/77, 23. Observer commended Alison Chitty's "very clever" sets; the production itself needed more cleverness. "All good natured nonsense, but terribly slow and a less than rivetting script" (Stage).

76.595 Wheelchair Willie (P, 1a) Alan Brown. ROCK GARDEN 13/12/76. 1st perfd St. Mary's Street Hall, Edinburgh, 21/8/76. Willie Greg Childs; Alan Halliday. Review: Stage 30/12/76, 15. Comment: The play featured a dysfunctional family at the centre of which is the wheelchair confined Willie whose tongue is eventually cut out. Stage wondered what this "distasteful mixture of horror, violence and sickness" meant.

76.596 Babes in the Wood and the Good Little Fairy Birds (Panto) H. J. Byron (adpt Maurice Browning and Denis Martin). PLAYERS' 14/12/76. 1st perfd Adelphi 8/7/1859; 1st perf this adpt. Sir Rowland Macassar James Bree; Lady Beth Macassar Eleanor McCreedy; Ruffians Deryk Parkin, Clifton Todd; Babes Josephine Gordon, Jan Hunt; Witches Liz Moscrop, Norma Dunbar, Annie Tyson; Queen of the Fairy Birds Joan Ryan. Dir Reginald Woolley; Sc dgn Mary Greaves; Cost dgn Reginald Hanson; Ch Doreen Hermitage; Mus arr, Mus dir Geoffrey Brawn. Reviews: Stage 13/1/77, 23; Times 24/12/76, 9. Comment: "For full appreciation of this splendid work, it is necessary not only to know the story of Babes in the Wood and the historical background to that fable, but to have a good working acquaintance with Macbeth as well" (Stage). "A literate feast of pun-punctuated allusions to Shakespeare (with more recent musical thefts from such as Verdi)" (Times).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Previews 9/12–13/12/76. The RSC's "happiest comic discovery since London Assurance (Guardian); echoed exactly by Illustrated London News. "Produced with style and imagination, and the ensemble performance is excellent. The undeniable star is Alan Howard (Variety). Spectator reported the audience looked as if they had had a quite unexpected treat" from "this splendid revival." Daily Mirror said the piece was tedious. The production ran for 324 performances at Piccadilly.

Comment: A revised version of Cindy-Ella (62.397). Guardian commended "the music's uncomplicated gaiety and the company's professional verve." "A slight evening, but agreeably performed and moderately entertaining for those with nothing better to do" (Variety). Times noted a change in the casting, which dispensed with the original "West Indian show" atmosphere, resulted "the pounding drive and gymnastic precision of urban America."

76.602 The Point (Mus, 2a) Harry Nilsson (mus, lyr) and Ron Pember (adpt) and Bernard Miles (adpt). Comment: "A softsell on the theme of discrimination" (Variety). Observer noted the piece had evolved from a television cartoon and the stage production was lacking "an equivalent visual style." Times described the technical difficulties the production experienced in transforming the original film to the stage; however, the result was "a fable of surpassingly winsome spinelessness."

76.603 Dick Whittington (Panto) Alan Brown. TOWER, CANONBURY, 17/12/76. Cast: Stage 9/12/76, 14; TCC.

76.604 Exiliad (Epic show) Bruce Lacey and Jill Bruce. DRILL HALL 17/12/76. 1st perfd Chapter Arts Centre, Cardiff, 1976. Cast: Stage 16/12/76, 30. Comment: Galatic Theatre. A multi-media show performed by the authors that "traces the evolution of Earth and Man right up to the totalitarian state where an Orwell type court convicts Mr. and Mrs. Lacey of doing their own thing, wanting to be individuals and refusing to conform. They are exiled to the Moon" (Stage 6/11/76, 19).

76.605 Cinderella (panto) John Morley. RICHMOND 18/12/76. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 16/12/76, 36. Prince Charming Aimi Macdonald; Buttons Roy Kinnear; Baron Stoneybroke Bill Pertwee; Ophelia Julian Orchard; Cinderella Sheila White; Gloria Melvyn Hayes; Fairy Godmother Liz Fraser; Dandini Linda Thorson; Dancers Astrid Clifford, Amanda Jane Komlosy. Pres Duncan C. Comment: Stage (23/12/76, 3) reported a record demand for tickets which resulted in the run being extended. "Relentless in mixing media: some stars from television; some jokes from the movies; and some songs from the radio" (Observer). "A panto best seen in the company of small children" (Daily Mirror).

76.613 Mr. Punch's Pantomime (Ent) Lindsay Kemp and David Haughton. ROUND HOUSE 21/12/76.* Cast: WWT/17. Judy, Blackbird of Time The Incredible Orlando; Harlequin Maurice Faime; Fairy Fluff Annie Balfour; Dog Toby Robin Martin; Clown Joey, Ghost Neil Caplan; Doctor Duck, Wizard of Bong David Haughton; Butterfly Douglas McNicol; Policeman John Spradbery; Policewoman Roderick Melvin; Jack Ketch Michael Matou. Dir, Dgn, Ch Lindsay Kemp. lewdly gay" (Observer). "Adult admirers of Lindsay Kemp's work and company will find plenty of amusing Gay allusions in the rhyming couplets. It's the sort of knockabout show children will enjoy (the vocal interruptions were vociferous the night I was there), yet the older members of the audience may be entertained on a quite different level" (Stage). Gay News previewed the show and included Kemp's report of his company's fourteen-month tour of Australia.

76.614 Tintin's Great American Adventure (Mus for children) Geoffrey Case (adpt of Hergé, Tintin in America, 1931) and Ilona Sekacz (mus). Reviews: New Statesman 7/1/77, 26; Stage 6/1/77, 9; Times 24/12/76, 9. Comment: Unicorn Theatre. New Statesman noted Tintin was "currently a great favourite in the upper echelons of our primary schools."

76.615 HMS Pinafore; or, The Lass That Loved a Sailor (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 23/12/76. Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

76.616 Big Me and the Wilting Witch (P for children) Susan Kodicek. GREENWICH 27/12/76. 1st perfd Stage Centre, Plumstead, November or December 1976. Big Me Orde Browne; Witch Delia Morgan; Jan Koene. Dir June Mitchell; Dgn Fay Barratt; Light John Daniell; Mus Robin Marsden. Review: Stage 30/12/76, 15. Comment: Bowsprit Company. Staged noted the production, which included puppets, used "black theatre techniques a good deal more skilfully than do most of the groups which have latched on to this extra dimension of illusion of late."

76.617 An Evening of Memories (Ent) Hinge and Bracket. INTIMATE 27/12/76. Comment: See Bowden (143) for an account of this drag show.

76.618 Freddie the Super Flea (P) Anon. TRAMSHED 27/12/76. Jack Frost Mark Steeves; Sylvia Carson, Joe Griffiths, Sherry Alexander, John Cooper, Bill Turner. Dir John Cooper; Mus dir Joe Griffiths; Projections John Varney. Review: Stage 20/1/77, 21. Comment: "It is a genuinely original show for children, strongly built around a quest plot, that allows for genuine audience participation (by which is not meant the 'oh no he didn't,' 'he's behind you' variety) and even a moral!" (Stage).

76.619 The Great Wall (Revue). GREENWICH 27/12/76 (Lt). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 23/12/76, 1; WWT/17. Max Wall, Dicken Ashworth, Frank Barrie, Petra Markham, Sally Mates. Dir John Link; Dgn Peter Rice; Light Nick Chelton. Plot: OTF/2. Reviews: Guardian 11/1/77, 8; Times 11/1/77, 11. Comment: Although described as a new revue, in fact the production consisted of Max Wall's well-worn sketches together with his own commentary on them (Guardian). The supporting cast were quite good but the evening belonged to Wall: "there is no argument with the show title" (Times).

76.620 Mother Goose (Panto) Anon. WIMBLEDON 27/12/76. Cast: Stage 16/12/76, 38. Mother Goose John Inman; Squire Arthur English; Mike and Albie Hope and Keen; Sammy Ken Wood; Gillian Humphreys, Jacquey Chappell, Paul and Peta Page Puppets, Barbara Newman, The Stewart Stagers, The Rita King Dancers. Pd Ronnie Scott-Dodd; Dir Bill Robertson; Ch Rita King. Review: Stage 13/1/77, 23. Comment: "An episodic show, thin in story line, not especially well constructed and relying for success on the skill and personal popularity of the star-laden cast and a not unusual plethora of television slogans and advertising jingles" (Stage).

76.621 Good King Lucifer (MP for children) Mark Heath (bk; adpt of Obotunde Ijimere's radio play, The Fall) and Ben Gooding (mus). AFRICA CENTRE 28/12/76.* Cast: Stage 23/12/76, 13. Tempter Ben Gooding; Hadam Keith Hodiak; Eve Joanna Lloyd; Lion Ivan Frazer; Gabriel Geronimo Sehmi; Monkeys Elisabeth Madams, Fiona Reid; Zebra Lesley Hayward; Elephant Jenni Jubb; Unicorn Hugh Mennie. Dir Mark Heath; Sc dgn, Cost dgn Penny Saunders; Pd dgn Carlotta Barrow. Ch, Mus Ben Gooding. Review: Stage 6/1/77, 15. Comment: The piece told the biblical story of the creation from an African viewpoint and setting.

76.622 King Grunt's Cake (Mus for children) Julia Donaldson. ROUNDHOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 28/12/76.* Cast: Stage 2/12/76, 19. Tony Allen, Graham Ward, Daphne Elston, Julia Donaldson, Heather Allen, Malcolm Donaldson. Mus dir Tim Holden; Dgn Jerome Abbo; Cost dgn Cecilia Ware. Review: Stage 6/1/77, 15. Comment: Brighton Gallery Theatre. "A fantasy adventure involving a good and a bad cook who work for an elderly king and his irascible wife" (Stage).

76.623 Charley's Aunt (FC, 3a) Brandon Thomas. 77.1a Have Another Cake (P) John Horder. KING'S HEAD 3/1/77 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 13/1/77, 9. Sandra Freeman, Peter Tilbury. Dir Anthony Matheson. Reviews: Gay News 27/1/77, 25; Guardian 10/1/77, 8; Stage 20/1/77, 21. Comment: Performed under the collective title Cakes and Carrots. The play involved a couple eating cakes as a substitute for sex. Gay News described the piece as "a very lopsided caricature." Guardian declared both plays "lack any drive towards a visible destination."

77.1b Sing a Song of Carrots (P) John Horder. KING'S HEAD 3/1/77 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 13/1/77, 9. Peter Tilbury, Martin Burrows. Dir Anthony Matheson. Reviews: Gay News 27/1/77, 25; Guardian 10/1/77, 8; Stage 20/1/77, 21. Comment: Performed under the collective title Cakes and Carrots. In the play one half of a gay couple finds scraping carrots "life enhancing." Gay News found the play "unresolved."

77.2 Charlie and Buck (P) Ray Hassett and John Ratzenberger. BUSH 4/1/77. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 6/1/77, 1. Ray Hassett, John Ratzenberger. Reviews: Guardian 6/1/77, 8; Observer 16/1/77, 20; Stage 13/1/77, 11; Times 10/1/77, 8. Comment: Sal's Meat Market. The piece, involving two men traveling across America by bus and relating their experiences, did not add up to much (Guardian). "By the end of the journey I was rather wanting to be let out" (Observer). Times appeared to be suitably entertained within the limits of this two-man show.

77.3 The Story of Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp (Panto) Ronald Parr and Arthur Sullivan (mus). PHOENIX THEATRE CLUB 5/1/77.*

77.4 uHlanga (The Reed) (One-man show) James Mthoba and Mshengu. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 5/1/77. 1st perfd Johannesburg 1975; 1st British perf. Cast: Findlater; WWT/17. James Mthoba. Dir Mshengu; Light Jack Raby. Reviews: Guardian 6/1/77, 8; New Statesman 14/1/77, 65–66; Observer 9/1/77, 18; Spectator 15/1/77, 27; Stage 13/1/77, 11; Times 6/1/77, 11. Comment: Workshop '71 Theatre Company (Johannesburg). "The play attempts to give an insight into Zulu history, or experience, in the course of two and a half hours," but it lacks coherence (Spectator). With reluctance, New Statesman described this "concatenation of tribal lore, black sociology and national rage" as being "rather amateurish," but conceded it was originally directed towards an entirely different audience. Times refused to be patronizing and declared "the theatrical side of Mshengu and James Mthoba's production ... [was] abysmal."

77.5 The Mikado; or, The Town of Titipu (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 6/1/77. Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

77.6 The Pie-Eyed Piper of Wots It (Panto) Winifred Robi. LAMB AND FLAG 6/1/77.* Cast: Stage 6/1/77, 10. Keith Norrish, Iris Rougier, Yvonne Fisher, Bobby Robi, Brigid MacKay. Comment: LAMP.

77.7 Mandy, the Actor's Cat (Mus ent) Sandor Eles and Richard Austin (mus). ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 7/1/77. 1st London perf? Cast: Stage 23/12/76, 13. Sandor Eles. Pianist Angela Brownridge. Review: Stage 27/1/77, 17. Comment: A "thoroughly delightful and sophisticated" piece about the travels of a cat that evoked a parallel with T. S. Eliot for Stage.

77.8 Old Times (D, 2a) Harold Pinter. TOWER, CANON-BURY, 7/1/77. Cast: TTC. Plot: Demastes/2, Fletcher, Griffiths, Hischak, Hischak/2, 39, Hochman, Loney, Patterson, Salem, Vinson, Weintraub.

77.9 Krapp's Last Tape (Monol) Samuel Beckett. GREENWICH 8/1/77 (Lt). Cast: WWT/17. Max Wall. Plot: Demastes/2, Fletcher, French, French/2, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Schrank, Vinson, Walford, Weintraub. Comment: Performed with The Great Wall (76.619).

77.10 Small Change (D, 2a) Peter Gill. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 8/1/77. Gerard James Hazeldine; Mrs. Harte June Watson; Vincent Philip Joseph; Mrs. Driscoll Marjorie Yates. Dir Peter Gill; Light William Dudley. Reviews: Guardian 13/1/77, 10; Spectator 15/1/77, 27. Comment: "An extraordinary dramatic reverie. Its four characters are wandering in a no man's land, drifting as if by compulsion, through the wastes of their lives" (Guardian). "Peter Gill draws superb performances from all four in the cast" (Spectator).

77.11 Out! On the Costa del Trico (Mus show) Anon. BUSH 12/1/77.* Lyn Ashley, Clair Chapman, Sue Eatwell, Anne Engle, Marion Fudger, Jean Hart, Jane Meadows. Reviews: Observer 16/1/77, 20; Stage 20/1/77, 21; Tribune 28/1/77, 7. Comment: Women's Theatre Group. The play was based on a strike for equal pay by the female workers at the Trico factory in the summer of 1976. Stage declared the show reached an "extremely high musical standard with a nice line of tongue-in-cheek both in its songs and in its dialogue." "A witty and informative entertainment" (Observer).

77.12 Patty Hearst (P) William Tanner. ALMOST FREE 12/1/77 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 13/1/77, 9. Patty Hearst Robyn Goodman; Defreeze Joseph Charles; Stephen Weed, Gordon Sterne, Jean Boht, Joseph Charles, Vincent Ebrahim, Jimi Rand, Sherrie Berk. Dir Tessa Marwick. Reviews: Observer 16/1/77, 20; Stage 20/1/77, 21; Times 14/1/77, 13. Comment: Ambiance. An uninteresting play about Patty Hearst and her kidnapping (Observer). Times commended the cast for their handling of the stereotyped characters.

77.13 Sizwe Bansi Is Dead (D, 1a) Athol Fugard and John Kani and Winston Ntshona. COURT 13/1/77. Cast: Findlater; WWT/17. Styles, Buntu John Kani; Sizwe Bansi Winston Ntshona. Dir Athol Fugard. Plot: Hischak, Hischak/2, 79, Hochman, Patterson, Vinson. Reviews: Guardian 14/1/77, 8; New Statesman 21/1/77, 98; Spectator 22/1/77, 26; Stage 20/1/77, 21. Comment: English Stage Company. A successful revival with the original cast.

Comment: The original titles were Table by the Window and Table Number Seven. Forum Theatre (Billingham) production. A "careful, detailed, and loving" production by Michael Blakemore, the mood of which was spoiled by "a clap-happy audience" (Guardian). New Statesman thought the time had come to give Rattigan a careful reappraisal. Times found Table Number One had not stood the test of time, while Table Number Two possessed "many strokes of fine craftsmanship"; Illustrated London News shared that view.

77.15a Shelter (P, 1a) Alun Owen. KING'S HEAD 17/1/77 (Ln). Plot: Vinson. Review: Gay News 10/2/77, 29. Comment: Advertised originally for performance at the Little Theatre Club (Stage 20/1/77, 15). "Both [plays] are intelligently performed and produced" (Gay News).

77.15b The Waiting Room (P, 1a) John Bowen. KING'S HEAD 17/1/77 (Ln). Plot: Walford. Review: Gay News 10/2/77, 29. Comment: Advertised originally for performance at the Little Theatre Club (Stage 20/1/77, 15).

77.16 Vinegar Tom (Hist D, 21sc) Caryl Churchill. HALF

MOON 17/1/77. Man, Doctor, Bellringer, Packer Roger Allam; Jack Ian Blower; Ellen, Kramer Chris Bowler; Margery Linda Broughton; Betty Josefina Cupido; Alice Gillian Hanna; Goody Helen Glavin; Joan, Sprenger Mary McCusker. Dir Pam Brighton; Dgn Andrea Montag; Mus, Mus dir Helen Glavin; Cost dgn Gemma Jackson; Co. mgr Meri Jenkins. Plot: Demastes/2, Patterson, Weintraub. Review: Guardian 3/2/77, 9. Comment: Monstrous Regiment. The Guardian article is a general piece on Churchill.

77.17 Troilus and Cressida (T) William Shakespeare. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 19/1/77. Cast: Stage 13/1/77, 9. Paris Meriel Brook; Nestor Margaret Diamond; Troilus Judy Monahan; Cressida Rupert Frazer; Helenus Margo Reid; Aeneas Jennifer Lipman; Ulysses Margaret Wedlake; Agamemnon Pam St. Clement; Diomedes Kristin Milward; Penny Stehli, Janet Amsden, Candida Fawsitt, Petronella Ford, Ida Goldapple, Irene Hamilton, Katharine Iddon, Pauline Kelly, Adrian King. Dir Ronald Hayman. Reviews: Spectator 29/1/77, 35–36; Stage 3/2/77, 11; Times 20/1/77, 13. Comment: The male roles were played by women, the female roles by men. Times said the production was partially successful so far as the characters of Troilus, Helen, Cressida, and Thersites were concerned. “The venture does not really add to our understanding of the play, which is surely a prime aim for any production of any play” (Stage).

77.18 No Man's Land (D, 2a) Harold Pinter. LYTTTELTON 20/1/77. Cast: WWT/17. Hirst Ralph Richardson; Spooner John Gielgud; Foster Michael Kitchen; Briggs Terence Rigby. Dir Peter Hall; Dgn John Bury. Plot: Demastes/2, Dorney, Fletcher, Hischak, Hischak/2, 108, Hochman, Law, Loney, Patterson, Vinson, Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 21/1/77, 10; Spectator 29/1/77, 36; Stage 27/1/77, 17. Comment: National Theatre. A successful revival of the National's production (75.189).

77.19 Ruddigore; or, The Witch's Curse (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 20/1/77. Plot: Ayre, Gänzl, Hochman, Shipley. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

77.20 The Island (P, 6sc) James Saunders. ORANGE TREE 21/1/77. 1st prof perf. Cast: Stage 20/1/77, 15; WWT/17. Lorna Patricia Brake; Caroline Julie Neesam; Jo Ruth Goring; Helen Helen Blatch; Sheila Isobil Nisbet; Tony Geoffrey Beevers; David Mark Jones. Dir Roger Swaine. Reviews: Guardian 24/1/77, 8; Stage 10/2/77, 17; Times 25/1/77, 13. Comment: MPS 581. Richmond Fringe. “An odd mixture of nonsensical comedy and philosophising, a sexy variation on Robinson Crusoe and The Admirable Crichton, with a dash or two of Huxley and Orwell for good measure” (Stage). Guardian said Roger Swaine's production failed “to create the dreamy, paradisaal atmosphere” of the island, but there was good acting from Helen Blatch and Julie Neesam. Times commended the cast for its good performances and for coping with Saunders's “writing problems.”

77.21 Tales from the Vienna Woods (TC, 2a) Ödön von Horváth (trans Christopher Hampton of Geschichten aus dem Wiener Wald, 1931). OLIVIER 21/1/77. 57 perf. 1st perf this adpt. Comment: MPS 685. National Theatre. Press night was 26/1/77. Guardian (27/1) averred this was the sort of play the National should do: “a standard part of the European repertory never before seen in Britain.” Times agreed and noted the production carried off “the task with a grand-scale conviction befitting the occasion.” “Maximilian Schell's production sets the actors and the stage itself whirling in sympathy” with the play (Observer 30/1). Variety thought the English company had quite captured the mood of the play. “Christopher Hampton's English translation ... preserves the melodrama but is not all that successful in conveying the sour satire” (Daily Mirror). The production remained in repertory until 25/8/77.

77.22 Prometheus Bound (P, 1a) Aeschylus (adpt Robert Lowell). QUESTORS 22/1/77. Cast: QTA. Plot: Gassner, Hochman, Law, Patterson, Salem, Shipley, Vinson. Review: Acton Gazette 3/2/77, 8.

77.23 Flowers—A Pantomime for Jean Genet (Panto) Lindsay Kemp (an interpretation of Jean Genet, Our Lady of the Flowers [Notre-Dame-des-Fleurs], 1942). ROUND HOUSE 24/1/77. Cast: WWT/17. The Abbé Douglas McNicol; Ernestine Annie Balfour; Darling Neil Caplan; Divine Lindsay Kemp; Mimosa The Incredible Orlando; Tap-Dancer Michael Matou; Our Lady of the Flowers Douglas McNicol; Café Proprietor Robin Martin; 1st Sailor Pierre Althoff; Archangle Gabriel David Haughton. Dir, Dgn Lindsay Kemp; Assist dir Celestino Coronado; Mus Andrew Wilson; Light Lindsay Kemp, John Spradbery. Plot: Hischak, Hischak/2, 76, OTF/2. Reviews: Stage 3/2/77, 11; Times 26/1/77, 9. Comment: Lindsay Kemp Company. Previews from 20/1/77. Times approved of the show now that it was “purged of all the self-conscious naughtiness that formerly restricted it to a homosexual cult show.”

77.24 Madame Truesoul (One-woman show) Jane Wibberley. FULHAM ARTS CENTRE c. 24/1/77. 1st perfd Edinburgh Festival 1976? Comment: Black White and Red. Jane Wibberley also performed her show at the Battersea Arts Centre 4/77.

77.25 Nemesis on 234 (P) Anthony Swerling. GREEN MAN 24/1/77.* Dudley Jones Graham Lines; Jeanne Carole Boyd; Joe Praml; Debbie Arnold, Miss Boyd Paul Bentall, Kenneth Shanley. Dir Francis Harvey; Dgn Marian Berry-Hart. Review: Stage 17/2/77, 19. Comment: Mole Stage Company. A somewhat static play about a call-in radio programme and its host and his female replacement (Stage).

77.26 German Skerries (P) Robert Holman. BUSH 25/1/77.* Cast: Stage 27/1/77, 1; WWT/17. Jack Williams Paul Copley; Martin Jones John Normington; Michael Haddaway Mark Penfold; Carol Williams Caroline Hutchison. Dir Chris Parr; Dgn Miki Van Zwanenberg; Light Buz Williams. Reviews: Guardian 26/1/77, 8; New Statesman 4/2/77, 165; Observer 6/2/77, 30; Spectator 12/2/77, 29; Stage 10/2/77, 17; Times 26/1/77, 9. Comment: “A nice, sensitive, open-minded piece” about two birdwatchers exchanging thoughts about thwarted human potential (New Statesman). Guardian commended the play’s “quiet indictment of an unjust world.” Times called the “two beautiful performances” by John Normington and Paul Copley “an acting experience of a high order.”

77.27 No Sheep on the Bush (P) Alan Passes. HALF MOON 25/1/77.* Cast: Stage 20/1/77, 15; WWT/17. Denise Armon, Matthew Kuipers, Matthew Guinness, Robin Samson, Ruth Seglow, Frank Whitten. Dir Chattie Salaman; Dgn Andrew McAlpine; Assist dgn Anna Mackenzie; Mus Robin Samson. Reviews: Stage 3/2/77, 11; Times 28/1/77, 9; Tribune 18/2/77, 7. Comment: Common Stock Company. Times reported the piece, about old age, was based on interviews and discussion with various classes of people. Tribune commended the production’s use of “splendid surreal imagery”: “old people in masks shuffling about ba-baaing like sheep, and a woman ‘shadowed’ by the shadow of her former self, linked by an umbilical chain.”

77.28 Scum—Death, Destruction and Dirty Washing (Mus celebration) Claire Luckham and C. G. Bond. DRILL HALL 25/1/77. Comment: Monstrous Regiment. The cast was probably the same as for 76.241.

77.29 Hay Fever (C, 3a) Noël Coward. TOWER, CANON-BURY, 26/1/77. Cast: TTC. Plot: Best/25, 460, Bordman/3, 269–70, Demastes/1, Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Griffiths, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Levin, 61–64, Loney, 134, Mander/4, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Sobel. Comment: Performed in repertory with A Moon for the Misbegotten (77.37) and The Duchess of Malfi (77.45).

77.30 The Gondoliers; or, The King of Barataria (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADDLER’S WELLS 27/1/77. Plot: Ayre, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D’Oyly Carte Opera Company.

77.31 Traps (P) Caryl Churchill. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 27/1/77.* Cast: Findlater; WWT/17. Jack Nigel Terry; Syl Catherine Kessler; Albert Anthony Milner; Reg Tim Pigott-Smith; Christie Catherine Neilson; Del Hugh Fraser. Dir John Ashford; Dgn Terry Jacobs; Light Duncan M. Scott. Plot: Demastes/2, Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 28/1/77, 10; New Statesman 4/2/77, 165; Observer 30/1/77, 29; Spectator 5/2/77, 29; Stage 3/2/77, 11; Times 28/1/77, 9; Tribune 18/2/77, 7. Comment: MPS 655. English Stage Company. “Unsatisfying ambiguity and arbitrary conclusions apart, John Ashford’s sympathetic production was spellbinding” (Tribune). Spectator found the ambiguities “tiresomely modish” and the play lacked the “clarity and directness” of Churchill’s earlier works. New Statesman commended the muddiness of “this clever, arcane play.” The characters in this “mysterious” play failed to arouse the interest of Times despite the efforts of the cast.

77.32 Mixed Economy (P) Jenny Laird. KING’S HEAD

31/1/77 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 27/1/77, 20. Guinevere Margaret Rawlings; Alyson Karin Fernald; Harry David Gooderson; Aubrey Woods. Dir Douglas Storm. Reviews: Guardian 4/2/77, 10; Times 2/2/77, 14. Comment: London Contemporary Productions. This play, composed of “silly vignettes of unbelievably eccentric middle-class Londoners,” was worth seeing only for the rare appearance of Margaret Rawlings (Guardian). The play lacked “robust construction” (Times).

77.33 Black Slaves, White Chains (P, 1a) Mustapha Matura. COCKPIT 2/77. Comment: L’Ouverture Theatre Trust.

77.34 Gimme Shelter (P) Barrie Keeffe. SOHO POLY 1/2/77; trfd to COURT 22/3/77. 1st perf thus. Cast: Stage 27/1/77, 20; Variety 20/4/77, 120; WWT/17. Kev Phillip Joseph; Gary Ian Sharp; Janet, Lynne Sharman MacDonald; Bill, Tom Roger Leach; Kid Phillip Davis; Head Peter Hughes. Dir Keith Washington; Dgn Mary Moore. Plot: Bull/2, Fletcher, Hirschak/2, 140–41, Salem, Walford, Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 2/2/77, 10, 26/2/77, 8, 24/3/77, 8; New Statesman 1/4/77, 440; Observer 6/2/77, 30; Spectator 12/2/77, 28–29, 2/4/77, 32–33; Stage 10/2/77, 17, 31/3/77, 9; Times 2/2/77, 14; Tribune 1/4/77, 7; Variety 20/4/77, 120. Comment: The Network. The production comprised three one-act plays, Gem, Gotcha! and Getaway. Variety said Keeffe had managed to concentrate “a huge chunk of writhing, virulent, social amoeba into these pertinent, sometimes amusing playlets.” “Lovely naturalistic vignettes on the hopelessness of the young on the boot end of the system” (Tribune). New Statesman declared itself a convert to Keeffe but still found the achievement here uneven. “Keeffe’s “great talent is to create characters with whom he sympathizes, whose cause he supports” (Times). The first New York production was at the Brooklyn Academy of Music 10/12/78.

77.35a The Bald Man and the Computer (P). HOLYROOD 2/2/77. Comment: Mole Stage Company.

77.35b The Canonization of Solly Cohen (P). HOLYROOD 2/2/77. Comment: Mole Stage Company.

77.35c Mustang and Euphoria (P). HOLYROOD 2/2/77. Comment: Mole Stage Company.

77.36 Kemp’s Jig (One-man show) Chris Harris and John David. COCKPIT 2/2/77.* Cast: Stage 20/1/77, 15. Chris Harris. Dir John David; Dgn Louise Belson. Review: Stage 17/2/77, 21. Comment: “Half of this traces Will Kemp’s famous dance from London to Norwich in 1599; the other part is his stormy relationship with the other shareholder-players in the theatre company headed by Shakespeare and Burbage” (Stage).

77.37 A Moon for the Misbegotten (D, 4a) Eugene O’Neill. TOWER, CANONBURY, 2/2/77. Cast: TTC. Plot: Bordman, Bryer, Fletcher, French/2, Hirschak, Hochman, Law, MacNicholas, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Wilmeth. Comment: Performed in repertory with Hay Fever (77.28) and The Duchess of Malfi (77.45).

77.38 Iolanthe; or, The Peer and the Peri (Fairy O, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER’S WELLS 3/2/77. Plot: Ayre, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D’Oyly Carte Opera Company.

77.39 The Sons of Oedipus (P) Euripides (adpt David Thompson of The Phoenician Women, c. 411 B.C.). GREENWICH 3/2/77. 1st this adpt. Cast: Stage 20/1/77, 1. WWT/17. Jocasta Siobhan McKenna; Polyneices Scott Antony; 1st Messenger David Brierley; 2nd Messenger Frank Barrie; Eteocles Michael Deacon; 1st Narrator Freda Dowie; Tutor Patrick Hannaway; Oedipus Denys Hawthorne; Creon Ewan Hooper; Tiresias Richard Mayes; Antigone Ursula Mohan; Menoceus Jonathan Warren. Dir David Thompson; Dgn Bruna Santini; Light Nick Chelton. Plot: Gassner, Hochman. Reviews: Guardian 4/2/77, 10; New Statesman 11/2/77, 198–99; Observer 13/2/77, 34; Stage 10/2/77, 17; Times 4/2/77, 11. Comment: Observer commended David Thompson’s translation and direction, but disapproved of “some fumbling bits of naturalism” and some of the acting. Times found the production interesting but not revelatory. Stage concluded “Perhaps it would all sound better as a radio play, for on this showing I fail to see what advantage there is in watching it.”

77.40 A Quick Slash in Brick Lane (P) Peter Dawson. TRAMSHED 4/2/77.* Cast: Stage 3/2/77, 20. Pauline Edmett, Nicky Edmett, Rick Lloyd, Peter Dawson. Dir Peter Dawson. Comment: About Jack the Ripper.

77.41 Alice in Wonderland (Mus) Malcolm Sircom (adpt of Lewis Carroll, Alice’s Adventures in Wonderland, 1865). ROUND HOUSE 7/2/77 (m). 1st perfd Georgian, Richmond, Yorkshire, 12/73. Duchess Beau Daniells. Dir Roy Skelton. Reviews: Guardian 5/2/77, 13; Stage 24/2/77, 16; Times 8/2/77, 13. Comment: Yorkshire Theatre Company. Times complained the “text is fragile and foolishly updated” and pandered to children’s “simplest responses.”

77.42 Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat (Mus, 2a) Andrew Lloyd Webber (mus) and Tim Rice

(bk, lyr) and Ray Galton and Alan Simpson. RICHMOND 7/2/77. Jess Conrad, Kim McCarthy, Caroline Angus, Jean Heard, Sheila McLeod, Moira Leslie. Plot: Bordman/5, 709, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hischak, Kennedy, OFT. Comment: A one-week engagement.

77.43 The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia (P) Preston Jones. HAMPSTEAD 7/2/77. 60 perf. 1st perfd Dallas Theatre Center, Dallas, 4/12/73; 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 3/2/77, 24; WWT/17. L. D. Alexander Ian Hogg; Milo Crawford Michael J. Kinkaid* Ramsay Williams; Olin Potts Thick Wilson. Dir Michael Rudman; Dgn Philip Parsons; Cost dgn Lindy Hemming; Light Howard Eldridge. Plot: Bryer, Hischak, Hischak/2, 106, Mac-Nicholas, Salem. Reviews: Birmingham Post 9/2/77, 2; Guardian 8/2/77, 8; Illustrated London News 1/4/77, 61; New Statesman 11/2/77, 198; Observer 13/2/77, 34; Spectator 19/2/77, 27; Stage 17/2/77, 19; Times 8/2/77, 13. Comment: The play was the first part of Jones's A Texas Trilogy. Guardian found the play somewhat thin and too narrowly focused. New Statesman agreed the events in the play needed a broader context. "I found it too predictable and was easily bored by the exposure of male childishness" (Spectator). "Both satirically amusing and curiously affectionate; it is presented, accents and all, by a sturdy all-male cast" (Illustrated London News). The first New York production (Broadhurst 22/9/76) ran for 22 performances.

77.44 Penthesilea (P) Micheline Wandor (adpt of Heinrich von Kleist's play, 1876). ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 8/2/77. Penthesilea Sandy Maberley; Priestess Jill Greenhalgh; Prothoe Maria Moustaka; Achilles Chris Ferris; Odysseus John Rawlinson; Antilochus Brian Jennings. Dir Cindy Owen; Dgn Odile Dicks-Mireaux. Plot: Gassner, Hochman. Reviews: Guardian 9/2/77, 8; Stage 17/2/77, 19; Times 9/2/77, 9. Comment: Salt Theatre. Guardian noted the original play had been "boiled down to a 60-minute version" that minimized many aspects. "Compressed into little over one hour's playing time, this is all-effective theatre with the new emphasis on woman's role in society not so hammered home as to distract from balance of the story" (Stage). Times opined the staging made it look as though the play was located in a gymnasium: "any nonsense about classical heroes is further set aside by a stage consisting of scaffolding and mobile walls, which fit in all to well with the tracksuits, fencing masks and bamboo swords."

77.45 The Duchess of Malfi (T) John Webster. TOWER,

CANONBURY, 9/2/77. Cast: Stage 10/2/77, 20; TTC. Plot: Best/46, 426–27, Fletcher, Gassner, Griffiths, Hochman, Holzknicht, Law, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: Performed in repertory with Hay Fever (77.28) and A Moon for the Misbegotten (77.37).

77.46 The Silver Tassie (TC, 4a) Sean O'Casey. THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD EAST, 9/2/77. Cast: Stage 3/2/77, 24; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Sylvester Heegan, The Staff Wallah Robert Whelan; Simon Norton, The Croucher John Halstead; Mrs. Heegan Yvonne D'Alpra; Susie Monican Kathy Meryck; Mrs. Foran Jane Briers; Teddy Foran Robert Pugh; Harry Heegan, D.C.M. Vincent Brimble; Jessie Taite Janet Spencer-Turner; Barney Bagnal Bruce Alexander; 1st Soldier Raymond Collins; 2nd Soldier Ben Thomas; The Corporal, Surgeon Forby Maxwell Geoffrey Freshwater; The Visitor Rhys McConnochie; Robert Whelan; 1st Stretcher Bearer Patrick Moore. Dir Clare Venables; Dgn David Fisher. Plot: Best/29, 429, Fletcher, Gassner, Hochman, Law, Loney, 166, Matlaw, Mplots, Patterson, Schrank, Scrimgeour, 111–28, Shank. Reviews: Birmingham Post 19/2/77, magazine, 1; Guardian 10/2/77, 8; Illustrated London News 1/4/77, 61; New Statesman 25/2/77, 264; Observer 13/2/77, 34; Stage 17/2/77, 19; Times 10/2/77, 13. Comment: Theatre Workshop. A successful revival by the new director Clare Venables (Guardian). "Miss Venables's direction is timid and her players accordingly desperate" (Observer). "Shambling acting" (New Statesman). The production was unlikely to alter anybody's opinion of the play "as it swings between the usual poles of anti-militarism and comic relief" (Times). The revival was acted inadequately (Illustrated London News).

77.47a Cox and Box (Oa, 1a) [J.] Maddison Morton (lib) and F. C. Burnand (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 10/2/77. Plot: Ayre, Gänzl. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

77.47b The Pirates of Penzance; or, The Slave of Duty (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 10/2/77. Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

77.48 Regina versus Stephens (P) David Illingworth. HALF MOON 10/2/77. 1st perfd Arts Centre, Bristol, 7/10/76. Cast: Stage 17/2/77, 23. Tony Guilfoyle, Tim Munro, Theresa Streatfield, Lynda Rooke, Steve Hoye, Maggie Wilkinson. Dir John Caird; Dgn Sarah Paulley; Mus Pauline Green, Mike Edwards; Sm Steve Greatorex. Reviews: Guardian 16/2/77, 8; Stage 24/2/77, 16; Tribune 25/2/77, 7. Comment: Avon Touring Company. The play, about the workings of the judicial system, was “curiously terse,” and removed from reality (Guardian). “A much too sparse, one-dimensional moralising account of the bad-guy establishment versus the good-guy social misfit” (Tribune).

77.49 Salome (T, 1a) Oscar Wilde. AFRICA CENTRE 10/2/77. 1st perfd Théâtre de L’Athénée, Paris, 12/2/1896; 1st London perf (private) Bijou 10/5/05. Reviews: Guardian 16/2/77, 8; Stage 24/2/77, 11; Times 16/2/77, 13. Comment: The production consisted of On Your Mark and The Accident, and concerned the adjustment of Caribbean immigrants to British life. “My reservation about both plays ... is that, as so often in black writing, they seek the comic route into painful situations by simplifying their characters into children” (Times).

77.52 The Dumb Waiter (P, 1a) Harold Pinter. YOUNG VIC STUDIO 15/2/77 (Ln). Cast: Stage 10/2/77, 20. Brian Attree, Alasdair Ramsay. Dir Howard Curtis. Plot: Demastes/2, Fletcher, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Weintraub.

77.53 Stevie (D, 2a) Hugh Whitmore. RICHMOND 15/2/77.* Plot: Demastes/2, Fletcher, Hischak/2, 143, Loney. Comment: The pre-West End production prior to opening at the Vaudeville in March (77.112). The first New York production was at the Manhattan Theatre Club 6/2/79.

Comment: Guardian said the show needed more words and “Libby Morris herself is far more Ethel Merman than Edith Piaf.” “The production as a whole, including snatches of narration, seem contrived and self-conscious” (Variety). Times (22/6) noted the piece lost its “intimate charm” at the Shaftesbury.

77.56 Princess Ida; or, Castle Adamant (CO, 3a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER’S WELLS 17/2/77. Plot: Ayre, Bordman/5, 74–75, Gänzl, Hochman, Sobel. Review: Stage 24/2/77, 13. Comment: D’Oyly Carte Opera Company.

Havel “is that rare thing, a social satirist with a heart” (Guardian). The plays give “a much clearer idea of what it’s like to be a dissident in Czechoslovakia” (New Statesman). Observer said Havel “makes most, not all, of our political plays look shabby ... [because of] his ability to see a situation, humanely and ironically, in the round.” “Cool moral satire, beautifully constructed and brilliantly funny” (Times). The first New York production was at the John Houseman 20/11/83.

Comment: Lindsay Kemp Company. "Wilde's tragedy was always trivial; it can rarely have appeared more bizarre than in a transvestite version undecided whether to be a play or an extravagant sub-Beardsleyesque dance-drama" (Illustrated London News). "Flawed as drama ... unforgettable as theatre" (Spectator). "There seems a genuine idea here—Salome as the dream of a paranoiac homosexual—but it is trapped in a kind of ornate banality" (Observer). This was "surely the Salome of Wilde's dreams ... puts out of one's mind any idea that Salome should appear as a beautiful woman" (Times). The Broadway became Kemp's base (Stage 5/5/77, 1).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. The production ran three hours. "A captivating surprise ... with this comedy mixture, bittersweet reminiscence and stylish lampoon ... should prove a smash" (Variety). Excellent performances from Denis Quilley ("has a field-night as the star-queen") and Nigel Hawthorne "as the bible-belt major" (Guardian 23/2). "Michael Blakemore's production conveys the idea of a spotlight centre of precarious gaiety surrounded by moral bigotries, class barriers, and sudden death" (Times). "The play falters whenever it aims more than a centimetre beneath the skin" (New Statesman).

Comment: A modern-dress production that suggested “nothing so much as a Mafia poetry reading,” with Denise Coffey drawing too insistent “relevant” parallels (Times). “The sound of the verse, or a good deal of it, disappears ... but the narrative comes through strongly, and audiences respond to it as if they were hearing it for the first time, which indeed is probable” (Illustrated London News).

Young People’s Theatre Scheme. “A prolonged marital row ... obstinately simple” (Observer). “Too often falls into soap-opera cliché when it faces the central dilemma” (Guardian). The play consisted of “prolonged sessions of mindless bickering” by the central couple, while the marginal characters were potentially much more interesting (Times).

Comment: Joint Stock and English Stage Company. The piece consisted of three episodes set in 1937, 1977, and 1997 respectively, and presenting “a tripartite view of the sinking British middle class” (Observer). Variety described it as “a talky bore” with unoriginal material. Tribune said it was an uneven play “but with some memorable images and some fine pieces of writing.” Despite the good performances of Philip Donaghy, Jane Wood, and Simon Callow, Times disliked the play’s “lack of focus,” and objected to its “disdainful long-distance attitude to the people involved.”

Comment: The comedy, “about a warring couple who cheat on each other, is one of those slick joke-a-minute jobs ... for undiscriminating audiences” (Variety). Spectator discerned a possible deeper purpose in the play, but it was unrealized because Frisby was “too determined to make us laugh.” Times faulted most aspects of the play and production. Daily Mirror said the piece was “ghastly” and no more than “a long, drawn-out dirty joke.”

77.78 The Birds and the Bees (P) Robert Colwyn. LAMB AND FLAG 3/3/77. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 3/3/77, 18.

Comment: Guardian said this “grossly dated play” was the most boring thing he had seen at the Young Vic. A “ramshackle revival” (New Statesman). An “amateurish,” “half-hearted” production (Stage).

77.83 The Ballad of C33 (P) Francis Sargent and Knight Mantell. LAMDA 6/3/77.* Cast: Stage 24/2/77, 13. Oscar Wilde Knight Mantell; Frank Harris Francis Sargent; Jill Baker, Bruce Bould. Review: Stage 7/4/77, 20. Comment: The play was about the last three years of Oscar Wilde’s life after his release from prison and particularly his relationship with Frank Harris.

77.84 Paradise Garden (One-man ent) George Little. ARTS 6/3/77. 1st perfd Alhambra, Bradford, 18/11/76.

Reviews: Guardian 8/3/77, 8; Observer 13/3/77, 30; Stage 17/3/77, 9. Comment: MPS 5362. An East End version of Romeo and Juliet. Observer said the play could have been “a lively, even penetrating study of factional strife in the East End” if it had not been tied to Shakespeare’s story. Guardian agreed.

77.86 Blind Date: An Anecdote (P, 1a) Frank Marcus. KING’S HEAD 7/3/77 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 3/3/77, 18; WWT/17. Angie Julia Foster; Brian Nigel Hawthorne. Dir David Sullivan Proudfoot; Dgn Parry Parman. Reviews: Guardian 9/3/77, 10; New Statesman 25/3/77, 408; Stage 17/3/77, 9. Comment: Guardian said this “wry, dry fable” about a blind date revealed “a strong sympathy for the tenacious quirkiness of human behaviour.” Performed with “remarkable perception” (Stage).

77.87 The Monkey Walk (C) John Murray. RICHMOND 7/3/77. Lionel Blair, Diane Keen; Dir Brian Peck. Comment: A one-week engagement.

Comment: MPS 664. National Theatre. Press night was 16/3/77. “One of the funniest and best sustained” of Ayckbourn’s plays, “cleverly staged and immaculately and hilariously performed” (Variety). Guardian saluted the entire cast, as did New Statesman with the exception of Maria Aitken. “I hope no one is going to undervalue this dramatist’s inventive genius and his tireless and honest observation” (Illustrated London News). Spectator detected some banality in the piece and ended up “suffering from claustrophobia.” Gay News said it contained “most of [Ayckbourn’s] favourite jokes.” “The play marks the return of Ayckbourn the virtuoso technician and comic gymnast ... as funny as anything he has written” (Times). The production remained in repertory until 17/1/78. The first New York production (Brooks Atkinson 29/3/79) ran for 276 performances.

77.99 Twelfth Night; or, What You Will (C) William Shakespeare. Reviews: Guardian 16/3/77, 8; Illustrated London News 1/5/77, 89; New Statesman 18/3/77, 372; Observer 20/3/77, 30; Spectator 26/3/77, 26; Stage 3/3/77, 17; Times 16/3/77, 11. Comment: Previews 10/3–14/3/77. The production ran more than three hours. A bizarre revival, with the “consolation of Max Wall’s Malvolio—a brave try for a comedian attempting his first Shakespeare when nearly 70” (Guardian). “An uncomfortable evening” (New Statesman). “A relentlessly decorative production” and little else (Spectator); Times agreed, and said, while the show was nearly sold out because of Max Wall, Wall’s performance was unsuccessful. Illustrated London News said there was little of the production worth remembering.

77.100 Julius Caesar (T, 2a) William Shakespeare. OLIVIER 17/3/77. 52 perf. Comment: National Theatre. Press night was 22/3/77. The play was performed in Edwardian dress. Variety was disappointed by the production but "Gielgud's personal draw" would attract "healthy business." Times declared "Gielgud eclipses every other actor in sight." Observer blamed John Schlesinger's direction for failing to give point to the play. Guardian said it was "certainly handsomely mounted" but the "overall effect [is] so dreary," and also laid the blame on Schlesinger. Illustrated London News singled out the performances of Gielgud and Ronald Pickup. The production remained in repertory until 3/9/77.

77.101 Young Writers' Festival. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 17/3/77. Cast: Findlater. Plays performed: Lenka Janiurek, Walking; Liz Bellamy, To Err Is Human; Shirley McKay and Christina Martin, West Side Bover; Alexander Matthews, Fishing. Reviews: Observer 20/3/77, 30; Stage 31/3/77, 14.

77.102 The Memorandum (C, 12sc) Václav Havel (trans Vera Blackwell of Vyrozum ni, 1965). Plot: French/2, Hochman, Patterson. Reviews: Gay News 7/4/77, 33; Stage 7/4/77, 9; Times 21/3/77, 12. Comment: Richmond Fringe. Gay News found this production, which strongly emphasized the political, "chillingly effective," but said the play could be envisioned as "a deceptively comical piece of entertainment." This "masterpiece" was "Kafka plus marvellous jokes, plus mastery of mathematical design. A satire on mechanistic thinking" (Times).

77.103 The Wild Duck (P) Henrik Ibsen (trans William Archer of Vildanden, 1885). TOWER, CANONBURY, 18/3/77. Cast: TTC. Plot: Bryan, Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Shipley, Sobel.

77.104 Seagull Rising (C, 3a) A. E. Ellis. QUESTORS 19/3/77.* Cast: QTA. Reviews: Acton Gazette 24/3/77, 15; Stage 7/4/77, 20. Comment: "Bemused me to the extent of boredom with its plays within plays within" (Stage).

77.105 Early Shakespeare and the Late Marlowe (P, 1a) Michael Moriarty. QUESTORS 20/3/77.* Reviews: Acton Gazette 24/3/77, 15; Stage 7/4/77, 20. Comment: A fictional account of Shakespeare in London, together with the dead Marlowe mending Shakespeare's plays.

77.106 The Amazons (F, 3a) Arthur W. Pinero. WIMBLEDON 21/3/77. Cast: Stage 27/1/77, 1, 3/3/77, 24; WWT/17. Galfred Earl of Tweenwayes Hugh Walters; Barrington Viscount Litterly Ralph Lawford; André Count de Grival Simon Cadell; *Rev. 77.108 A Cure for Freedom (P) Quentin Crisp. KING'S HEAD 21/3/77 (Ln). Cast: Stage 3/3/77, 19.

77.109 Lykos: The Danger in the Maze (P, 1a) Paul Ramsey. QUESTORS 21/3/77.* Review: Acton Gazette 31/3/77, 4. Comment: "It is a deliberately mystifying play, written in an abstract, bloodless and irritating way.

The billing claims it is a mixture of mystery thriller and supernatural psychological drama. But the performance gave no indication that it was anything more than self-indulgent and pretentious" (Acton Gazette).

Comment: MPS 666. National Theatre. Press night was 5/4/77. "Leans far too heavily on lurking menace and unspecified attitudes to be satisfying" (Guardian 6/4). Observer thought Poliakoff could write better, and faulted the characterization and some "forced" big speeches, but acknowledged his "feeling for detritus." Times said Poliakoff might be correct in his dire predictions but had failed "to establish a credible action for the three characters." Spectator thought the piece could be the "basis for a short film," but it didn't work as a play. The production remained in repertory until 23/6/77. The first New York production (Stage 73 24/5/78) ran for 28 performances.

77.125 One for the Road (P) Derek Smith and Ian Macpherson. STAGE ONE 4/77. Ian Macpherson, Terry Alchin. Review: Tribune 6/5/77, 7. Comment: Soapbox Theatre. The piece was about “the plight of the single homeless” (Tribune).

Comment: 7:84 (Scotland). Guardian found this play, about "what it is that drives the Scottish man to drink," beguiling, and admirably performed. While New Statesman described the piece as a relentless "dramatic sermon," it noted "the dialogue is often less stark and unyielding than the message." Times was impressed by "this company's deft stage management and resourcefulness within limited means."

77.139 Recitals of Mystery, Violence and Desire. KING'S HEAD 12/4/77. Cast: Stage 7/4/77, 1. Celia Booth, Christian Burgess, Pam Ferris, Bob Goody, Raad Rawi. Dir Mike Alfreds. A trilogy consisting of The City of Brass, The Rogueries of Dalilah the Wily, and The Loves of Kamar and Budar, performed on different nights. The performers relied solely on story-telling, "without props, scenery, music or costume" (Guardian). Times reported The Loves of Kamar and Budar had been performed "a couple of months ago at the Battersea Arts Centre." "The City of Brass did little to alleviate the discomfort [of the theatre] ... [and] a less lengthy production would better sustain more concentrated interest" (Stage).

The acting is caricature upper class” (Guardian). Times was “struck by [the play’s] resemblance to Peter Pan.” The first New York production (Lyceum 17/11/03) ran for 144 performances.

77.143 I Made It, Ma—Top of the World! (P) Tim Fywell and John Chapman. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 14/4/77. Cast: Findlater; WWT/17. Doyle Brian Hall; George Albert Welling; Tommy Alan Butler; Joyce Johanna Kirby; Christine Caroline Embling; Harry Mike Kemp. Dir Tim Fywell, John Chapman; Dgn Robert Harris; Cost dgn Odile Dicks-Mireaux; Light Steve Whitson. Reviews: Guardian 15/4/77, 12; New Statesman 22/4/77, 541; Stage 21/4/77, 15. Comment: English Stage Company. “The play defines quite a new social problem, that of the successful gangster’s wife, going neurotic from boredom in suburban Wanstead” (New Statesman). Times observed there was “an authenticity to the characterizations that is rare in the under-rehearsed production.”

77.144 Grandmother’s Steps (P) Bryony Lavery. STAGE ONE 15/4/77; trfd to ACTION SPACE 22/4/77; trfd to KING’S HEAD 30/5/77. 1st perfd 1977. Cast: Stage 7/4/77, 10. Su Elliott, Pippa Sparkes. Dir Bryony Lavery; Mus Jessica Higgs. Reviews: Stage 21/4/77, 13; Times 1/6/77, 14. Comment: Les Oeufs Malades. “Not a wholly realized play and more a sequence of gradually revealing songs and routines” (Times). Stage said there was no plot as such, merely the atmosphere created by two women talking.

77.145 Letter from a Soldier (P) Wilson John Haire. ORANGE TREE 15/4/77 (Ln). 1st perfd BBC-2 TV

27/2/75; 1st stage perf. Cast: Stage 14/4/77, 10. Maggie Dean, Andrew Hawkins, Neil Robertson, Mela White. Dir David Ashton. Comment: Richmond Fringe. The play was about a soldier who had been wounded in Ulster and who could not adapt to life in London (Acton Gazette 14/4/77, 21).

77.146 Illuminatus! (Science fiction epic) Ken Campbell and Chris Langham (adpt of Robert Shea and Robert Anton Wilson’s book, 1975). ROUND HOUSE 16/4/77. George Dorn Chris Langham; Hagbard Celine Neil Cunningham; Mavis Prunella Gee; Inspector Saul Goodman John Joyce; Sheriff Jim Cartwright Jim Broadbent. Reviews: Gay News 5/5/77, 31; Guardian 20/4/77, 10; Stage 28/4/77, 9. Comment: National Theatre. The epic had been reduced from eight and a half to four hours in length.

77.147 The Old Familiar Juice (P) Jim McNeil. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 17/4/77. 1st perfd Russell Street Theatre, Melbourne, Australia, 7/8/72; 1st London perf. Cast: Stage 7/4/77, 10. Bulla Bob Hornery; Dadda Lloyd Lamble; Stanley Jeremy Chance. Dir Tom Rothfield; Dgn Richard Bullwinkle. Reviews: Gay News 5/5/77, 31; Stage 28/4/77, 9; Times 19/4/77, 13. Comment: The play, written by a former prison inmate, was about two older prisoners offering advice to a young one. Gay News said it made “an immediate impact.” Times remarked on the honesty of prison plays, and this one “shows the amazing way in which craftsmanship develops in answer to an expressive need.”

77.148 Abigail’s Party (C, 2a) Mike Leigh. HAMPSTEAD 18/4/77.* 34 perf. Cast: Stage 14/4/77, 1; WWT/17. Angie Janine Duvitski; Tony John Salthouse; Beverley Alison Steadman; Lawrence Tim Stern; Su Thelma Whiteley. Dir Mike Leigh; Dgn McCallin; Cost dgn Lindy Hemming; Light Alan O’Toole; Co. mgr Jo Edmunds. Plot: Dorney, Fletcher; Griffiths, Patterson. Reviews: Birmingham Post 25/4/77, 6; Guardian 23/4/77, 8; Illustrated London News 1/6/77, 99; Irish Times 12/5/77, 8; New Statesman 29/4/77, 577; Observer 1/5/77, 26; Spectator 7/5/77, 31; Stage 28/4/77, 9; Times 22/4/77, 11. Comment: “An unsparing and extremely funny look at one form of suburban society, its fashions and its idioms” (Illustrated London News). Observer opined the play was “stuck on a grim plateau of social mannerism that completely neglects the heart of the matter.” Spectator declared the cast of five were “excellent without exception.” “Within its canvas [the play] is a triumph” (Guardian). See also Lloyd Evans, 224–25.

77.149 The Bystander (P) Robert Williams. SOHO POLY c. 18/4/77 (Ln). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 21/4/77, 14. Harold

Grant Bob Hoskins. Dir Jonathan Hales; Dgn Rita Furzey. Reviews: Stage 28/4/77, 9; Times 20/4/77, 9. Comment: Bob Hoskins was a man preoccupied with his plants and living a contactless existence with his next-door neighbor.

77.150 Hancock's Last Half Hour (One-man show) Heathcote Williams. ALMOST FREE 18/4/77.* Cast: Stage 14/4/77, 10. Tony Hancock Henry Woolf. Plot: Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 22/4/77, 10; Irish Times 12/5/77, 8; Observer 24/4/77, 26; Times 22/4/77, 11. Comment: Henry Woolf "found his own route to the character's blend of inner desolation and comic attack" (Times). "Seems little more than a public image, an actor portraying himself" (Guardian). Irish Times described the piece as "desperately sad," very moving, and never sentimental.

77.151 Rebecca (P, 3a) Daphne du Maurier (adpt of her novel, 1938). RICHMOND 18/4/77. Mrs. de Winter Hayley Mills; Maxim de Winter Paul Daneman; Mrs. Danvers Pauline Jameson. Plot: Bordman/4, 244, Fletcher, French, Hischak, Kabatchnik/2. Comment: A one-week engagement.

77.152 Tippity, Flip-Flop, Gum Drops and Boots (MP for children) John Cooper and Stephen Wyatt. TRAMSHED 18/4/77.* Cast: Stage 3/3/77, 19. Dr. Jolly John Cooper; Joe Griffiths, Roy Kean, Gaynor Macauley, Sheila Irwin, Doyle Richmond, Stirling Rodger, Marion Fiddick. Review: Stage 28/4/77, 20. Comment: A very good work about dolls that come to life (Stage).

77.153 Brother Francis (P, 2a) Peter Albery and William Fry and Sydney Carter (songs). WESTMINSTER 19/4/77. 1st perfd St. Paul's Church, Covent Garden, 2/77? Martin Browne. Review: Birmingham Post 21/2/77, 3; Stage 10/3/77, 24 (reviews of St. Paul's perf). Comment: Theatre Roundabout. A fairly straightforward, if long, account of the life in which four actors performed twenty-five parts.

77.154 Fat Harold (P) Alan Bleasdale. SHAW 19/4/77. 26 perf. Cast: WWT/17. Fat Harold Rex Robinson; Bignall Nicholas McArdle; Kavanagh Kevin Lloyd;

Uncle Edward Arthur; Alcock Thomas Henry. Pres Lupton Theatre Company; Dir Sue Wilson; Dgn Alison Waugh; Cost dgn Lynn Clarke; Light Derek Jones. Reviews: Guardian 20/4/77, 10; Illustrated London News 1/6/77, 99; Observer 24/4/77, 26; Stage 28/4/77, 9; Times 20/4/77, 9. Comment: A rewritten version of the earlier play, Fat Harold and the Last 26. Guardian noted that for various productions the play had been set in varying geographical locations, that it looked out of place at the Shaw, and that it was "a work of bone-cracking obviousness." "See this play of five men—I think—in a bus depot only if you're crazy about buses" (Observer). The production combined "slack timing and garbled dialects with the failure to cast a fat actor in the title part" (Times).

77.155 Wreckers (P with mus, 2a) David Edgar and Gareth Williams (mus) and Mike Barton (mus). HALF MOON 19/4/77. 1st perfd Barnfield Theatre, Exeter, 10/2/77. Chrissie Cotterill, Vari Sylvester, Jim Barclay, Gareth Williams. Dir Penny Cherns; Dgn Di Seymour. Plot: Weintraub. Comment: 7:84 Theatre Company (England). Stage noted both sides of the political arguments were presented equally. For Tribune (6/5) the play's "virtue seemed to be precisely its demonstration that 'no worker is an island.'" "Despite the blatancy of its form, the play has subtleties and is richly entertaining" (Times).

77.156 Just Between Ourselves (C, 2a) Alan Ayckbourn. QUEEN'S 20/4/77. 156 perf. Comment: "I recommend this as an acute, civilized, and finally haunting piece, with much of Ayckbourn's special brand of domestic comedy" (Illustrated London News). Variety predicted the play would be a failure because it was not a typical Ayckbourn "rollicking comedy and satire." Christian Science Monitor commended the cast of five. Guardian indicated the play was not a change of direction for Ayckbourn: "I have long maintained ... that [his] plays amount to one of the most bilious documents on suburbia any Englishman has compiled." A new "Ayckbourn comedy these days is not so much a matter of meeting new characters as of discovering old friends in altered circumstances" (Times).

77.157 Curse of the Starving Class (D, 3a) Sam Shepard. COURT 21/4/77.* 39 perf. Comment: MPS 662. English Stage Company. Guardian was surprised by the play's "old-fashioned linear structure," but concluded "it is the work of a genuine poetic imagination." Observer commended Shepard for creating characters "with a rich interior life which we can experience with them." "An unfocussed effort in which the symbolism challenges the audience" (Variety). Times said everything in this "verbally trigger-happy" show was arbitrary and the characters "progressively alienate one's sympathy." Daily Mirror pointed out there was urination in the opening minutes and later a live lamb, but little else worthwhile. The first New York production (Public 14/2/78) ran for 64 performances (apparently the official opening night was 2/3/78).

Comment: National Theatre. Press night was 25/4/77. A selection from the York mystery plays. "If a successful theatrical event is one that reminds an audience of its common humanity, then this demystified Passion certainly does the trick" (Guardian). "Here, under flickering oil lamps, the people of The Passion weave in and out of a standing audience. The best vantage point is in the first circle; below, in mid-crowd, one can lose touch with the players who are performing the Easter sequence" (Illustrated London News). A special performance in memory of Pitt Wilkinson was given on 26/10/77 at 11:00 pm (Stage 20/10/77, 38). The production remained in repertory until 26/10/77.

Comment: National Theatre. Press night was 26/4/77. "Superbly staged by Peter Hall ... performed with verve and comic charm by a spirited ensemble," with excellent performances by Paul Scofield and Ben Kingsley (Variety). "Radiates the joyous confidence of a magnificent team working with a master director" (Times); Illustrated London News was equally laudatory of the entire production. Spectator praised the production for "its imagination and intelligence," but was unimpressed by Kingsley's puritan Mosca. New Statesman expressed more extensive reservations about this somewhat meritorious production. The production remained in repertory until 29/12/77.

The play was “beautifully rescued from the academic oblivion in which it has rested for three centuries” (Guardian). Times commended the adaptation, Stuart Burge’s direction, and the performances, particularly of Anna Calder-Marshall, Alan Rickman, and Peter Vaughan.

77.174 Oh, Camille! (Mus) David Aman (mus, lyr) and Barrie Stacey (bk). ARTS 1/5/77, 8/5/77.* Cast: Stage 21/4/77, 14. Camille Ruth Madoc; Armand David Farrow; Audrey Leybourne, Russell Grant, Adrian Truscott, Mary Dee, Maitland Chandler, Richard Franklin, Keith Hopkins, Jini Steel, Margo Wain, Allan Deakin, Eileen Bell. Pres Barrie Stacey Productions; Dir Terry O’Sullivan; Mus dir David Carter. Review: Stage 12/5/77, 20.

Comment: This “spoof musical based on Garbo’s film Camille ... doesn’t work because book, score and performances all seemed to be whizzing off in different directions” (Stage).

77.175 A Mad World, My Masters (C, 2a) Barrie Keeffe. YOUNG VIC 1/5/77.* Cast: WWT/17. Vi Sprightly Gillian Barge; Superintendent Sayers Simon Callow; Robertson, Charlie Paul Freeman; Bill Sprightly Robert Hamilton; Janet Claughton Cecily Hobbs; Mr. Fox Will Knightley; Horace Claughton David Rintoul; Dr. O’Flaherty, Guard Tony Rohr; Grandma, Elizabeth Jane Wood. Dir William Gaskell, Max Stafford-Clark; Dgn Hayden Griffin; Light Rory Dempster; Sound Bill Cadman. Plot: Bull/2, Patterson, Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 2/5/77, 10; New Statesman 13/5/77, 651; Observer 1/5/77, 28, 8/5/77, 28; Stage 12/5/77, 20; Times 2/5/77, 11. Comment: Joint Stock. Observer (8/5) detected various influences in the piece and commended “the ceaseless energy of Keeffe’s plotting.” “Lacks crispness and bite, but it’s always raucous and ebullient” (New Statesman). Guardian said the link with Thomas Middleton’s play of the same name was the “notion of character as something ruled by ungovernable obsession.” Times commended the production generally and the use of “old-fashioned theatricality” and “absolutely splendidly playing” specifically.

77.176 Fears and Miseries of the Third Reich (P) Bertolt Brecht (anon trans of Furcht und Elend des dritten Reiches, 1938). ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 2/5/77. Plot: French/2, Hochman, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shipley. Comment: Lighthouse Theatre Company.

Reviews: Guardian 6/5/77, 10; Observer 8/5/77, 28; Spectator 14/5/77, 28; Stage 12/5/77, 11; Times 6/5/77, 15. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. The production was set in the early twentieth century. Guardian commended Donald Sinden for getting to Lear’s “true heart.” “As soon as Donald Sinden enters you know you are in the presence of greatness” (Spectator).

77.178 September Tide (P) Daphne du Maurier. WIMBLEDON 2/5/77. 1st perfd New, Oxford, 8/11/48. Jennifer Wilson, MacDonald Hobley, Lynne Carroll. Comment: A one-week engagement.

77.179 The Pokey (D, 1a) Stephen Black. SOHO POLY 3/5/77 (Ln). 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 28/4/77, 10. Beth Porter, David Baxt. Dir Derek Lister; Dgn Frances Tempest. Reviews: Stage 26/5/77, 18; Times 4/5/77, 11. Comment: The play was about a drunk rock star, suggestive of Janis Joplin, waking up in jail and her encounter with the small-town sheriff (Times).

77.180 A Taste of Honey (P, 2a) Shelagh Delaney. TRAMSHED 3/5/77 (m). Cast: Stage 5/5/77, 18. Gaynor Macauley, Sheila Irwin, Stirling Rodger, Doyle Richmond, Roy Kean. Dir John Cooper. Plot: Best/60, 70, Demastes/2, Dorney, Fletcher, Griffiths, Gunn, Hirschak, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Shipley, Vinson, Weintraub. Comment: A daytime production for schools.

77.181 The Kingfisher (C, 2a) William Douglas Home. LYRIC 4/5/77. 205 perf. 1st perfd Playhouse, Nottingham, 4/4/77. Comment: Home was accused of plagiarism in this play by Basil Ashmore (see Stage 13/3/80, 1). This “geriatric triangle” comedy resulted in “an unexcitingly pleasant evening,” with adept performances (Variety). Spectator noted the “deceptively casual elegance” of Home’s writing: “he is saying fairly serious things about his characters ... but saying them lightly, in a soothing tone.” New Statesman said the language was “stony and arid.” More a celebration of the actors; what happens in the play hardly seems to matter (Times). The first New York production Biltmore (6/12/78) ran for 181 performances.

77.182 Measure for Measure (C) William Shakespeare. LYTTTELTON 4/5/77. Cast: Stage 28/4/77, 1; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Abhorson Christopher Ryan; Angelo David Burke; Angelo’s Servant Michael Menaugh; Barnardine

Reviews: Guardian 6/5/77, 10; Observer 8/5/77, 28; Times 6/5/77, 15. Comment: Birmingham Repertory Company. There was a matinée preview 4/5/77, with the opening on 4/5/77 evening; press night was 5/5/77. Guardian was disappointed by the production which lacked directorial complexity.” Observer approved the production which treated the play as a straightforward comedy. Times agreed and observed “‘Seeming’ dominates the action.”

77.183 Saint Joan (Chronicle P, 3pt) Bernard Shaw. OLD VIC 4/5/77. Cast: Theatricalia; WWT/17. Baudricourt Frederick Treves; Steward William Lawford; Joan Eileen Atkins; Poulengy, D’Estivet Peter Miles; Archbishop of Rheims Robert McBain; La Tremouille Anthony Langdon; Court Page Nigel Pratt; Bluebeard, De Courcelles Paul Jesson; La Hire Nick Stringer; The Dauphin Charles Kay; Duchess de la Tremouille Janis Winters; Dunois John Bowe; Dunois’ Page Paul Sherman; Earl of Warwick Geoffrey Palmer; De Stogumber Ronald Lacey; Cauchon Emrys James; Warwick’s Page Robert Schofield; The Inquisitor Robert Eddison; Brother Martin Terry Scully; English Soldier Dave Atkins; Mr. 1920 William Lawford. Dir John Dove; Dgn Robin Archer; Light Mick Hughes; Mus Carl Davis. Plot: Demastes/1, Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Hirschak, Hochman, Law, Mander/3, Matlaw, Patterson, Purdom, Salem, Shank, Shipley. Reviews: Illustrated London News 1/7/77, 111; New Statesman 13/5/77, 650–51; Observer 8/5/77, 28; Spectator 14/5/77, 28; Stage 12/5/77, 11; Times 5/5/77, 11. Comment: Prospect Theatre Company. New Statesman observed Eileen Atkins’s Joan had “a peasant canniness about her, a knowing slant of the eyes, a knack of seeing through urban nonsense.” Observer acknowledged those attributes and added “radiant.” Illustrated London News was unimpressed by Atkins’s performance. Times noted John Dove’s direction injected “much amusement and humour” into the production. “A sparkling boulevard play masquerading as an intellectual dramatisation of history” (Spectator).

77.184a Milady’s Silver Musick (Royal machine-play, 7sc) Martin Duncan. THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD

ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 9/5/77. Patty Alyson Spiro; Dean Derek Beard; Nichola McAuliffe, Dan Shor, Nigel Planer, Julian Evans, Diana Morris. Dir Helena Kaut-Howson. Plot: Demastes/2, Dorney, French/2, Hochman, Vinson, Weintraub. Review: Stage 2/6/77, 20. Comment: Actors Soup Kitchen. This partially updated version "still makes its point, but far too much is woefully overstated, and this both the direction and the style of performance failed to correct" (Stage).

77.193 Suez (P) Royce Ryton. WIMBLEDON 9/5/77. 1st perfd Harrogate 19/4/77. Roy Dotrice, Jennifer Daniel, Ed Bishop. Review: Observer 15/5/77, 32. Comment: The play was about "Nasser's seizure of the [Suez] canal and culminating in the resignation of Sir Anthony Eden ... is entirely sympathetic to Eden" (Observer). A one-week engagement.

77.194 Godspell (Mus, 2a) John Michael Tebelak (bk) and Stephen Schwartz (mus, lyr). HER MAJESTY'S 10/5/77; trfd to PRINCE OF WALES 28/6/77. 88 perf. Cast: Stage 5/5/77, 1; WWT/17. "Portrays Idi Amin as a self-vindicating fantastist who finally meets the assassin's bullet he has long anticipated" (Guardian 19/5). New Statesman recognized the play's factual aims but said it failed to provide a psychological answer to Amin. Amin "was given a bulky performance with hidden depths of menace by Rudolph Walker. Basil Henson, Roger Milner and Renu Setna tread the tricky tightrope of their relationships with him with a compelling uncertainty: excellent performances" (Stage). Times commended the performances of Walker and Henson.

77.197 Inside Kid (P) Martin Stellman. OVAL HOUSE 11/5/77. 1st perf? Christine Ruth Seglow; Cheryl Julie

Hudspeth; Tibbs David Gillies; Price Michael Cassidy; Pollard Michael Garner. Review: Stage 10/6/77, 9. Comment: Common Stock. The play involved male teenagers destined for a life of crime and prison, and female teenagers determined not to be involved with them.

Comment: MPS 671. "A shallow, sentimentalized docudrama about the two opposite personalities who founded the car firm ... an undistinguished bore" (Variety). "If money can be found for 23 actors and a fleet of vintage cars in a piece as feeble as this, then the commercial theatre is not yet on its uppers" (Times). "A highly entertaining potted biography" (Daily Mirror).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Previews 10/5–11/5/77. A “rackingly eloquent and vitally important play” about the National Front (Guardian 13/5). “A hate-filled work; but its target is worthy of hatred ... sets a new standard in stage documentaries” (Times). Tribune (20/5) thought Edgar’s aims were defeated “by matters of sympathy.” Spectator described the play as a “familiar spectacle: the English left-wing intellectual barking up the wrong tree.”

Comment: Based on Lionel Bart’s life and works. “It is sketchy, tepid, revealing little about the man or the people who slapped his back on the way up and ignored him on the way down” (Daily Mirror). “A venture that should have been scrapped before it opened” (Variety). “A desperate concoction ... fatuous to the point of incomprehensibility” (Guardian). “John Wells’s book is woefully at variance with the gusto of the music, most of which was written for one particular context and fits uncomfortably into any other” (Stage). The songs were familiar, but it was difficult to know what the show really intended to do (Times).

Comment: The opening of a new Open Space theatre (in a converted post office in Euston Road). The piece, set in Jerusalem in 1946 “when Zionist resistance groups were attacking the British forces,” offered “a more acceptable moral than its murky original” (Spectator). Observer said that, with some exceptions, Marowitz’s version retained much of the original “with no very clear purpose, other than the familiar one of making everybody seem as ludicrous and disreputable as possible.” “True in many respects to Shakespeare’s play but only so far as the original ideas serve Mr. Marowitz’s purpose. The characters may talk of Venice but they are unmistakably in Jerusalem” (Stage). Times expressed its disappointment that “too little has been done to transform the text.”

77.208 Four to One (P) Gawn Grainger. Comment: “The violence and the despair of Four to One frightened the author himself the first time he saw it in the flesh” (Guardian). “It is a hard, disturbing and, one hopes, not-too-truthful little play which provokes some fears, acted with precision ... and directed with a sure command” (Stage). Guardian found “the characters’ violent reaction to the intruder was clearly absurd.”

Plot: Demastes/2, Hischak/2, 60–61, Vinson, Weintraub. Review: Stage 26/5/77, 13. Comment: “Rhys McConnochie’s staging used a revolve to good effect ... Pat McNamara’s costumes and the furniture of David Fisher gave a properly slight flavour of the Rachman era—this is, after all, already a period piece” (Stage).

Comment: MPS 684. National Theatre. Variety opined this “cool, detached study of the 1917 Bolshevik uprising in Russia” would have only moderate interest. Guardian said the piece lacked “much sense of personal passion. It is restrained to the point of excess.” New Statesman expressed similar reservations. Times pointed out the original title of the piece was Lenin’s Testament which “refers specifically to the one episode where Mr. Bolt comes boldly into the open to exercise his independent dramatic judgment.” Bolt’s reply to the Tribune review (8/7) was published in Tribune 9/9/77, 14. The production remained in repertory until 21/1/78.

Comment: Prospect Theatre Company. Previews 23/5–24/5. Guardian called Logue's adaptation "strong, muscular, colloquial," and the production "an extremely spectacular piece of thong-and-dance." A "factitious ritual, simulated myth, and a romantic attitude to fighting and killing" (New Statesman). Spectator declared the show was not Homer's Iliad. "A flash, attention-grabbing pseudo-experiment to be ranked with" past Prospect mistakes (Times).

Comment: Prospect Theatre Company. "I'm not sure Jacobi has the internal gunpowder for Hamlet, but West is primed and ready to play Macbeth" (New Statesman). Observer noted unfortunate cuts in the text, but admired the intelligent performances. Guardian commended the production for conveying the diseased, corrupt state of Denmark, while individual performances had yet to mature. "A thoroughly orthodox production" with some novelties and amendments which Times (31/5) described. On the production's return in the autumn Times (23/11) declared Jacobi's Hamlet was "believable and powerful" and "memorable."

Comment: New Shakespeare Company. Guardian said David Conville's production was "humorous rather than satirical, physical rather than verbal." The Open Air "isn't the best place for the delicate arpeggios of Shakespeare's most musical play" (New Statesman). Times agreed this theatre was ill-suited to the pastoral works; nevertheless, "the show brings unusual clarity to the narrative and seizes on the main comic point of each passing situation."

77.239 Quadrille (RC, 3a) Noël Coward. RICHMOND 6/6/77. 1st perfd Opera House, Manchester, 15/7/52. Plot: Best/54, 372–73, Bordman/4, 325, French/2, Hischak, Levin, 93–6, Loney, 277, Mander/4. Comment: The cast included Margaret Lockwood, Anne Rogers, John Stone, Richard Todd, Nan Munro, Margaret Inglis; Dir Charles Hickman. A one-week engagement. The New York production (Coronet 3/11/54) ran for 150 performances.

77.240 Rosie (One-woman P) Harald Mueller (trans Steve Gooch). HALF MOON 6/6/77 (Ln). 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 10/6/77, 10. Mary Sheen. Dir Steve Gooch. Reviews: Irish Times 1/7/77, 8; Stage 16/6/77, 9; Times 9/6/77, 13. Comment: An hour-long monologue, performed with passion by Mary Sheen, relating a prostitute's life as "an unhappy haul from man to man [being] simply a search for her father's love" (Times).

77.241 Worm's Eye Review (Revue) Rod Dungate and William Flemming and Rogert Turner (mus). TOWER, CANONBURY, 6/6/77.* Cast: TTC.

Comment: "Entirely documentary, unadulterated by conventional dramatisation or characterisation. It is extremely theatrical, nevertheless" (Tribune). "A documentary which justifies itself as theatre and as a moving comment on those witch-hunt, cold war years" (Guardian 13/6). Times praised the all-American cast. There were 74 performances at the May Fair. The first New York production (Promenade 15/10/78) ran for 129 performances.

77.243 Cripple Play (One-woman P) Max B. Richards. ARTS 7/6/77. Cast: Stage 19/5/77, 12. Barbara Angell Review: Stage 16/6/77, 15. Comment: The play says nothing new about the problems of handicapped living, and I found its fundamentally negative attitude most dispiriting and lacking dramatic validity. Barbara Angell was an impressive actress" (Stage).

77.244 Measure for Measure (C) William Shakespeare. ST. Comment: The production was an improvement on previous productions at the St. George's (Times). "St George's ... continues to prove that Shakespeare's face belongs to his friends, and that such work as Measure for Measure gains from a production ... which avoids the vapouring of some recent revivals and allows Joseph O'Connor, Anna Carteret and Alan Dobie to speak, unblurred, for their dramatist. Since last year the St George's acoustics have greatly improved" (Illustrated London News).

Comment: "Three hours of confusion" (Observer). Spectator admired the cast for "their talent and courage but think they would have been wiser to distance themselves." "Reworks a good deal of vintage Williams material," although aspects of the plot were not always clear (Times).

77.246 The Ascent of Mount Fuji (P) Chingiz Aitmatov and Kaltai Mukhamedzhanov (trans Nicholas Bethell of Voskhozhdenie na Fudzhiamu, 1973). HAMPSTEAD 9/6/77. 1st British perf. Comment: The play, "about a reunion of old class-mates and their wives," suggested the Russian "middle class is remarkably like ours," with "an excellent ensemble performance" (Spectator). Observer echoed that judgement. Times was pleasantly surprised the play "presents a social dilemma without ideological distortion, and sustains unbroken interest from its first to its last line."

Review: Stage 7/7/77, 11. Comment: The Combination. "A spoof Napoleonic adventure with a werewolf, an abandoned heroine retrieved, an execution faked and the merest hint of political comment just to remind us that this sort of show is a good deal older than the Brecht-Weill collaborations" (Stage).

77.248 Loyal Tribute (Show) Hinge and Bracket. GREENWICH 10/6/77 (Lt).* Hinge and Bracket. Reviews: Gay News 30/6/77, 31; Stage 16/6/77, 9. Comment: The focus of the sketches was patriotism and a running gag about the expected arrival of a royal person.

Comment: Nuria Espert Company. Performed in Spanish. Guardian described the piece as "this weird village tragic-comedy ... packed with grotesque Goya-like characters and interflowing scenes." "A production for the Spanish sophisticate, who knows author and play well" (New Statesman). As an introduction to the work, this production was "about as helpful as Charles Marowitz's Hamlet collage would be to an audience of Eskimos" (Times).

Comment: MPS 669. English Stage Company. "A feeling of harangue and melodrama hangs heavily over the symbolic proceedings" (Variety). "A clever, arid series of jigsaw pieces which I have conscientiously tried and failed to construct into a meaningful pattern" (Observer). Tribune said the play was "extremely funny ... a bit too thin on analysis, but rich in humour and imagination." "A bitterly funny piece on what we were and what we become"; however, "the fault of the play is its failure to dramatize why people do things" (Times). For Daily Mirror Max Wall could not save this "monumental bore."

77.254 The Glass Menagerie (P, 2a) Tennessee Williams. SHAW 13/6/77. 71 perf. Of the cast, James Aubrey stood out (Guardian). Stage praised the production.

77.255 It's All in Our Heads (Rock MF) Derek Connell and Neville Ware. COLLEGIATE c. 13/6/77.* Cast: Stage 16/6/77, 10. Derek Connell, Janice Halsey, Michael Dalton, Liz White, Sharon Lyle, Dean Harris, Michael Huxley, Michael Claughton. Review: Stage 23/6/77, 13. Comment: A futile attempt at writing about trying to write a show, of which this piece was the dismal result (Stage).

77.256 Jubilarity (Revue) Peter Robert Scott and David Wykes (mus) and John Gould (mus). KING'S HEAD 13/6/77.* Cast: Stage 16/6/77, 1. Peter Spraggon, Annabelle Lee, Christine Edmonds, Peter Robert Scott. Dir Aline Waites.

The company for this double bill comprised Mary Rutherford, Kevin Lloyd, Sally Faulkner, David Halliwell, Derek Sallsallus. Dir David Halliwell. Stage reported there were only five in the audience (the theatre held 50). The piece was an exercise in "the difference between what people say to themselves and aloud and how they act either in fantasy or in reality" (Stage).

77.260b A Last Belch for the Great Auk (P, 1a) David Halliwell. YOUNG VIC STUDIO 14/6/77. Cast: Stage 10/6/77, 10. Review: Stage 23/6/77, 13. Comment: Maggot Theatre. A good revival (Stage).

Comment: Billingham Forum Theatre. Guardian

(16/6) described Janet Suzman's Hedda as "bathed in uncertainty" and ultimately unsatisfactory; Daily Mirror disagreed completely. Hedda appeared as "a modern masochist ... It is as if she had been rewritten by Sylvia Plath" (Observer). "The production lacks style, tension or cohesion" (Variety). Hedda failed to be interesting because she was presented purely and simply as a coward (Times).

Plot: Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Hochman, Law, Patterson, Salem, Shank. Review: Times 20/6/77, 7. Comment: Theatre Workshop. Times pointed out Fielding's piece was a true adaptation; what the production lacked was "a constant focus on Fielding's vision, a celebration of the very Englishness which makes it so interesting."

77.265 Old Movies (C, 2a) Bill Bryden. COTTESLOE 15/6/77.* 22 perf. Comment: MPS 690. National Theatre. Press night was 16/6/77. E. G. Marshall's London debut. The production ran for more than two and a half hours. "Atmospheric and often funny, but it's also glib, diffuse and overlong"; Marshall gave a "strong and steady performance" (Variety). A "weak, sentimental, cliché-ridden ... second-rate play" (Gay News). "Dreadfully lacking in dramatic momentum" (New Statesman). Times found the piece about movie making all too obvious and self-indulgent. The production remained in repertory until 31/8/77.

"Most London audiences should find it agreeable fun in the spirit of broad caricature" (Variety). "Whacky, satirical, good-natured nonsense" (Daily Mirror). Gay News loved the production, but opined others might loathe it. The first New York production (Lyceum 27/5/76) ran for 61 performances.

Comment: National Theatre. Press night was 22/6/77. "One of the great productions of the decade" (Times). The production benefitted from William Gaskill's "sharp clarity of outline with intricacy of detail" (Guardian). Paul Scofield gave a "compelling performance," but "the show is studded with excellent playing in both cameos and major parts" (Variety). An important revival that could not have better interpreters (Illustrated London News). Spectator held a negative view of the production. The production remained in repertory until 16/1/78. The first New York production (Neighborhood Playhouse 29/10/21) ran for 80 performances.

77.272 Saint Joan (P) Bernard Shaw. QUESTORS 18/6/77. Cast: QTA. Plot: Demastes/1, Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Mander/3, Matlaw, Patterson, Purdom, Salem, Shank, Shipley. Review: Acton Gazette 23/6/77, 8.

77.274a The Bespoke Overcoat (P, 1a) Wolf Mankowitz (fnd on Nikolai Gogol's story, "The Overcoat," 1842). UPSTREAM c. 20/6/77. Plot: Vinson, Walford. Reviews: Stage 30/6/77, 11; Times 22/6/77, 9. Comment: The company for the triple bill comprised Alfredo Michelsen, Roy Poole. Dir Una Trimming. A triple bill of Mankowitz plays, although reviews failed to identify the third one. The play was "given a dire, gloomy interpretation in Una Trimming's production" (Times).

77.274b The Mighty Hunter (P, 1a) Wolf Mankowitz. UPSTREAM c. 20/6/77. 1st perfd New Lindsey 25/7/56. Review: Stage 30/6/77, 11. Comment: "This parable about Nimrod, given a hunting outfit by Old Adam (former owners of the garb include Napoleon and Alexander the Great) which makes him Emperor of the World, is well-written" (Stage).

77.275 The Friday Murder (P) Benjamin Kuras. SOHO POLY c. 20/6/77 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 23/6/77, 9. George Pravda, Wolfe Morris. Dir Michael Almaz; Dgn Rita Furzey. Review: Times 2/7/77, 7. Comment: The play involved an Orthodox Jew who asks to be arrested for murdering his neighbour. In fact he was originally a Nazi leader at Belsen and was his superior officer.

Comment: "Eyen's would-be satirical comedy of life in a women's prison runs for approximately one hour and twenty-five minutes. I reckon it is about one hour and twenty-four minutes too long" (Daily Mirror). "Doesn't work with the British audience ... many of the intended punch lines fall flat" (Variety). "American/New York trash theatre ... junk" (Guardian). Times observed Eyen's humour was "wickedly blatant." The first New York production (Astor Place 1/5/75) ran for 54 performances.

77.279 Candida (C, 3a) Bernard Shaw. ALBERY 23/6/77. 205 perf. Comment: "An arresting performance" by Patrick Ryecart and a miscast Deborah Kerr (Guardian). New Statesman agreed. Observer described Kerr's Candida as being an "elderly Barbi Doll ... a hollow-voiced icon who performs her functions: no more." However, Variety found Kerr "appealing," and thought her name would be a big audience draw. Illustrated London News said the production was flat. Times raised questions about numerous improbabilities in the play while noting "Michael Blakemore's well-cast and workmanlike revival contents itself with the usual all-embracing cosiness."

77.280 Singles (P) John Bowen. GREENWICH 23/6/77.* Cast: Stage 26/5/77, 1; WWT/17. Sophie Baines Frances

Comment: The play was about a single woman advertising for a man to father her child and the man's desire to be an actual father. Guardian thought the play unremarkable. Times said the play was thoughtfully constructed, but the characters seemed to be "manipulated to fit events"; commendable performances from the cast.

Comment: "Entertaining, well written, but ... too simple for the complexities with which it toys" (Guardian). "Weak on action and on character" (Observer). "Lacks development, not to say depth; but it is packed with swaggering caricature and flaunting repartee" (New Statesman). Times welcomed the play enthusiastically praising Vonnegut's "warm, witty and wise manner," and hoping he would write more plays. The New York production ran for 190 performances.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. The production was set in nineteenth-century India and was “one of the truest and most touching accounts of this play I can remember” (Guardian 30/6). “Succeeds grandly in its transference of Messina to a late 19th-century cantonment in India under the British Raj. Judi Dench and Donald Sinden are in the wittiest partnership as Beatrice and Benedick, and John Woodvine even allows us to accept Dogberry as a Sikh” (Illustrated London News). Spectator thought there was too much “playing to the audience ... [and] funny business ... but the audience revelled in it.” Judi Dench and Donald Sinden were emblematic of the “balance between serious and comic” the production achieved “with absolute certainty” (Times).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Guardian commended the piece on many levels including “combining a tonic verbal playfulness with a palpable social conscience.” Times agreed and hoped the production would not disappear after just one performance. Observer thought the use of a live orchestra was really “incidental” and recorded music could have been used instead. The first New York production was at the Metropolitan Opera House 30/7/79

Comment: The play was inspired by the Rattenbury and Stoner murder trial of 1935. Guardian said the piece had transferred "rather patchily" to the stage, and lacked "the fluent inevitable rhythm of stage drama." Variety agreed, but added it was "staged with imagination and impeccably played," notably by Glynis Johns. Rattigan "has combined an acute psychological study—Glynis Johns has never been surer—with his sharpest sense of theatre: it is a powerful night" (Illustrated London News). Irish Times noted the original radio version had caused people to turn off their televisions to listen to it. Times commended Rattigan for revivifying "the despised genre of courtroom drama," and for his successful handling of flashbacks.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Guardian was persuaded by Trevor Nunn’s production that “the intensity of Romeo and Juliet’s passion can only lead to death”; convincing performances by Ian McKellen and Francesca Annis. “Trevor Nunn’s treatment of Romeo and Juliet is a practically straight rendering in which Francesca Annis, her Juliet beautifully true, is more at ease in Verona than Ian McKellen, who cuts up the verse in his resolve to express a young man’s passion” (Illustrated London News). Times thought the first half of the production, with its comic effects, was quite successful.

Reviews: Stage 14/7/77, 9; Times 9/7/77, 9. Comment: Stage noted it was the production’s “devastating comic pyrotechnics” that rendered this piece, about a man’s multifarious misfortunes, extremely funny.” “A crackling vaudeville of the American dream ... There is rich comedy in the situation, wit in the lines, and a sharp, near-Brechtian humour in the songs” (Times). Also given a special benefit performance at Theatre Royal, Stratford East, 4/7/77.

Comment: London Theatre Group. Spectator (30/7) called this revival “superb theatre.” Gay News said “the profusion of foul-mouthed expletives” tended to pall, but the piece did provide an unconventional evening. Times was impressed by the language, “the energy of each performance,” and the evocation of the East End. There were 83 performances at the Regent.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. The production (a transfer from Stratford) did run in repertory at the Warehouse from 20/7/77 onwards. For reasons unknown, reviewers apparently reviewed the performance on 13/9/77. "In spite of fashion, I cannot really believe that it helps to stage a production, meagrely equipped, in the barebones intimacy of a converted rehearsal room" (Illustrated London News). Times praised Trevor Nunn's production for compelling the audience "to reimagine the events steps by step" and for showing that "the test of great acting is not impersonation but revelation." Guardian lauded virtually every aspect of the production including the performances of Ian McKellen and Judi Dench, all adding to the felt experiencing of "pity and terror." "The best Shakespeare production I have ever seen, combining minute textual scrutiny with throat-seizing emotional power" (Observer).

Comment: Alberto y Los Trios Paranoias (satirical rock group). "The funniest show I've seen in years" in which the group invents "a new form, snuff-rock, in which the lead singer is killed on stage" (Guardian 22/7). Variety called it "an amusing spoof ... It is less than shocking, and at times even smacks of an updated old-time vaude show with gags to match." Times (22/7) thought the piece offered "a more authentic new direction for musicals."

77.334a Do It Yourself (P) William Humble. PRINTER'S DEVIL 21/7/77. Cast: Stage 21/7/77, 12. John Hughes, Crawford Logan, Stephen Reynolds. Dir Hilary Wood. Review: Stage 28/7/77, 11. Comment: Coquelin. The piece poked fun at the fringe theatre as two actors and a director get together in response to an advertisement.

77.334b Stormtroopers (P) Larry Law. PRINTER'S DEVIL 21/7/77. Cast: Stage 21/7/77, 12. Terry Alan Bennion; Michael Bernard Douglas. Dir Hilary Wood. Review: Stage 28/7/77, 11. Comment: Coquelin. "Yet another look at the people who join the National Front" (Stage).

77.335 The Gondoliers; or, The King of Barataria (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus).

SADLER'S WELLS 21/7/77. Plot: Ayre, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

77.336 Rosie (One-woman P) Harald Mueller (trans Steve Gooch). BUSH c. 23/7/77. Mary Sheen. Reviews: Guardian 26/7/77, 10; Stage 11/8/77, 11; Times 26/7/77, 9. Comment: "An alcoholic monologue delivered by a German woman who has gone from bed to worse ... valiantly performed by Mary Sheen" (Guardian). For Times this "hard-luck story" had not been given "dramatic form."

77.337 Don Quixote (P). COURT 25/7/77. Review: Times 26/7/77, 9. Comment: Theatre Marcinek, Poland. The production involved both actors and puppets. "The one-hour performance is ingenious, at times splendid in its invention" (Times).

77.338 One for the Pot (F, 3a) Ray Cooney and Tony Hilton. RICHMOND 25/7/77. Bill Maynard, Melvyn Hayes, John Clegg, Joe Black, Mavis Pugh, Len Howe. Dir Jimmy Thompson. Plot: Fletcher, French/2, Loney. Comment: A one-week engagement.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. "A poorly constructed, expletive-ridden affair about an England of the near future in the toils of conspiracy" (Illustrated London News). Observer thought the play was composed of "headlines," the characters were thin, but excellent acting from John Nettles, Patrick Stewart, and Ian McDiarmid. "Another example of that increasingly popular genre, the Theatre of Cataclysm, its merits and shortcomings by now almost predictable" (New Statesman). Tribune worried Barker's plays "communicate unqualified unadulterated nihilism."

Comment: A full length version of The Prince of Darkness (76.225b). Variety commended the expansion of the piece and Tony Britton's "outstanding" performance. Observer thought the plot was now coarsened and attenuated, and the performances overworked. Times and Illustrated London News agreed this stretched version was not an improvement.

77.342 Dean (Mus) John Howlett (bk) and Robert Campbell (songs). WIMBLEDON 27/7/77.* Cast: WWT/17. Plot: OTF. Comment: The pre-West End production prior to opening at the London Casino in August (77.387). On 26/7/77 there was a performance for the Save the Wimbledon Theatre charity (Stage 26/5/77, 1).

77.343a Double Glazing (P) Anthony Swerling. THREE HORSESHOES 27/7/77 (Ln and Ev). Cast: Stage 21/7/77, 12. Peter Yapp, Anthony Talbot, Janet Brill. Dir Philippe Perrottet. Reviews: Stage 4/8/77, 11; Times 29/7/77, 13. Comment: Mole Stage Company. The Times reviewer and his companion were outnumbered by the cast of three performers who "gave convincing and handsome performances while working with the cumbersome and allegorical dialogue" of the play.

77.343b My Snows of Yesteryear (Monol) Anthony Swerling. THREE HORSESHOES 27/7/77 (Ln and Ev). Cast: Stage 21/7/77, 12. Peter Yapp. Dir Philippe Perrotet. Review: Stage 4/8/77, 11. Comment: Mole Stage Company. "A monologue for a murderer in Harlequin white-face attended by shop-window dummies representing the girls with whom he has unsatisfactory relationships each culminating in the woman's death" (Stage).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Guardian thought John Barton's production had blown the cobwebs off a masterpiece. Variety was unimpressed by the play but commended the acting: "While McKellen's performance is knockout, Judi Dench and Mike Gwilym bring the required fresh air to the stuffy community." An "efficient revival" (New Statesman). Times pointed out Ibsen's play "supplied the basic model for the drama of social criticism" taken up by so many subsequent dramatists.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. "Like a lot of leftish puritans, [Taylor is] strong on disgust but low on moral positives ... [nevertheless] an entertaining piece" (Guardian 4/8). Observer commended the characterizations. Times said Taylor was wrong to present his piece in the form of a detective thriller when his interest lay in the "social material" involved.

77.353 Men Only. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 4/8/77. Cast: Stage 28/7/77, 17. Comment: Forkbeard Fantasy (the Britton Brothers [Chris and Tim]). About two brothers competing for their mother's attention.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. The production was advertised (as sold out) in Times (4/8/77, 10) for 4/8/77. Press night was 19/7/77. "Michael Williams's Schweyk is much influenced ... by north-country comics" (Observer). Times was critical of some of the performances and noted the odd assortment of accents used by the Nazis. Guardian described the translation as "awkwardly modish," but praised some performances: "Williams's Schweyk is an ideal example of wry and jaunty durability while Bob Peck and Ian McDiarmid fulfil a positive portrait gallery of opportunities deftly and comically."

77.355 Epsom Downs (P) Howard Brenton. ROUND HOUSE 7/8/77.* Cast: Stage 28/7/77, 1; WWT/17. Comment: Joint Stock Theatre Group. Tribune was disappointed: "up-market 'political' theatre, a sort of Simon and Garfunkel treatment of Derby Day." "The play is afflicted by a monotony of rhythm and by the surprisingly low pressure of the writing" (Observer). For Times the piece evoked Bartholomew Fair although Brenton also managed to inject his social criticism.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Performed in modern dress; "as a result, one loses the particularity of Bond's central image ... that [of] Shakespeare ... asking time and again 'Was anything done?'" (Guardian). Times disagreed saying the modern dress did not diminish the play's "evocative power."

77.361 The Final Announcement (P) Barbara Angell. ARTS 9/8/77 (Ln). Cast: Stage 4/8/77, 12. Damon Sanders, Bob Hornery. Dir Barbara Angell. Review: Stage 18/8/77, 49. Comment: The play contrasted two views of Britain held by a father and son as the father returns to his adopted Australia.

Comment: MPS 673. English Stage Company. Variety said the "comedy is beautifully done," and "one Protestant viewpoint" in the play might increase its otherwise limited Catholic appeal. Spectator thought Mike Ockrent's production "glides over the darker scenes," but otherwise "a remarkable debut" play. The Tribune critic, a lapsed Catholic, said the play would make Catholics "relive every ghastly glorious moment and will remind you—with side-splitting hilarity—why you gave it all up." "Affectionately about something important, produced with skill and irreverently funny" (Times 11/8). The first New York production (Helen Hayes 10/10/79) ran for 6 performances.

77.365 For the West (P, 2a) Michael Hastings. COTTESLOE 13/8/77.  Cast: Theatricalia. Greville William Allnutt Roger Milner; Isaid Dem Ala-Messid Jalli Renu Setna; Major George "Amos" Todd Basil Henson; President Field Marshal Idi Amin "Dada" Rudolph Walker; Voice of Receptionist Fumi Layo. Dir Nicholas Wright; Dgn Anne-Marie Schöne; Light Steve Whitson; Sm Vandra Edwards; Dsm Jill Maclaren. Plot: Bull/1. Reviews: Guardian 15/8/77, 8, 16/8/77, 8; Observer 21/8/77, 24; Stage 25/8/77, 11; Tribune 16/9/77, 7. Comment: Nicholas Wright's revival did not "sustain enough tension or differentiation between the worlds of the two acts" (Guardian). Rudolph Walker gave a "remarkable performance" (Stage).

77.366 Candy Rock Goes to America (Mus) The cast (bk) and Adrian Cook (mus) and Sharon Campbell (mus). BATTERSEA ARTS CENTRE 15/8/77 (m). Cast: Stage 11/8/77, 12. Kim, Milly Media Martha Gibson; Jim Dim Fraser Cains; Uncle Sam P., Gary James Benson; Sharon Campbell, Jon Rust, Bob Biddiscombe, Julian Littman, Adrian Cook. Dir Christine Eccles. Review: Stage 6/10/77, 9. Comment: Mayday Theatre. The musical was about a young rock group who, after being exploited, finally make it big.

77.367 It Happened in Harrods (C) John Chapman. RICHMOND 15/8/77. 1st perfd Yvonne Arnaud, Guildford, 28/6/77. Jennifer Wilson, Frances Bennett, Jack Watling, Brian McDermott, Eric Dodson; Dir Joan Kemp-Welch. Plot: French/2. Comment: A one-week engagement.

77.368 Jericho (Mus) Jamal Ali. ICA 15/8/77. 1st perfd Town Hall, Battersea, 1977. Comment: Black Theatre of Brixton. It was also performed at the Young Vic (date unknown; Stage 18/8/77, 49), and reviewed there by Observer 28/8/77, 27; Stage 1/9/77, 11; Tribune 16/9/77, 7. Stage (1/9) noted the work had "now been completely overhauled, edited and directed by Peter Coe," and while it was still good, it had lost "some of its original charm and with certain parts cut out, does not hang together so well."

77.369a Kurozuka. SADLER'S WELLS 15/8/77. Reviews: Birmingham Post 17/8/77, 8; Guardian 2/8/77, 8; Stage 25/8/77, 11. Comment: Kabuki Theatre, Tokyo. "Kabuki is a form in which sophistication and simplicity exist side by side, for the staging is extremely complicated, involving the use of trapdoors and shutters, subtleties of vocal nuance and gesture, elaborate and precise make-up, to aid in the telling of stories which are strange and primitive" (Stage).

77.369b The Mansion of Kawazura Hogen. SADLER'S

WELLS 15/8/77. Reviews: Birmingham Post 17/8/77, 8; Guardian 2/8/77, 8; Stage 25/8/77, 11. Comment: Kabuki Theatre, Tokyo.

77.370 The Princess and the Plumber (P) Royce Ryton. KING'S HEAD 15/8/77 (Ln).  Cast: Stage 18/8/77, 49. Morar Kennedy, Paul Jerricho.

77.371 The Waiting Room (P) John Bowen. LAMB AND FLAG 15/8/77 (Ln).  Comment: Also performed were excerpts from James Saunders, After Liverpool.

77.372 England, England (Rock O) Snoo Wilson and Kevin Coyne (mus). JEANNETTA COCHRANE 16/8/77. * Cast: WWT/17. Father O'Grady Patrick Waldron; Fat Lady, Mum Pamela Cundell; Falcon Charlie Grima; Jim Brian Hall; Jake Bob Hoskins; Marian Marianne Price; Earl of Hainault Hugh Fraser; Laura Carole Hayman; Gilbert Tim Hain. Dir Dusty Hughes; Dgn CSDA Theatre Department; Ch Sue Lefton; Light Rob Harris. Reviews: Daily Mirror 25/8/77, 16; Guardian 23/8/77, 10; Observer 28/8/77, 28; Stage 8/9/77, 11; Times 23/8/77, 7. Comment: Presented by the Bush Theatre. The piece treated the villainous criminal Kray Twins sympathetically, and Guardian disapproved. "A variety show of crime" (Times) that lacked a "professional gloss" (Daily Mirror).

77.373 Man and Superman (C, 3a) Bernard Shaw. SAVOY 16/8/77.  207 perf. Cast: RSCA; Stage 21/7/77, 1; Theatricalia; Variety 31/8/77, 74; WWT/17. Mrs. Whitefield Renée Asherson/Georgine Anderson; Hector Malone Mark Capri; Parlourmaid Ginnette Clarke/Pamela Sholto; Roebuck Ramsden James Cossins; Ann Whitefield Susan Hampshire; Octavius Robinson Nigel Havers; Miss Ramsden Janet Henfrey; Henry Straker Nicky Henson; Violet Robinson Beth Morris; John Tanner Richard Pasco; Mr. Malone Harry Towb. Chm, Lic Hugh Wontner; Pp Savoy Theatre Ltd.; Gen mgr Frederic Lloyd; Sec K. Plot: Demastes/1, Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Mander/3, Matlaw, Patterson, Purdom, Salem, Shank, Shipley. Reviews: Birmingham Post 23/8/77, 6; Daily Mirror 23/8/77, 14; Gay News 8/9/77, 31; Guardian 22/8/77, 8; Illustrated London News 1/10/77, 93; New Statesman 26/8/77, 282-83; Stage 1/9/77, 11; Times 22/8/77, 6; Variety 31/8/77, 74. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. The original third act was dropped, the cast performed well, and the revival deserved a long run (Variety). Times noted it was a sparse traveling production with uneven acting, Nicky Henson

77.374 Shoot Up at Elbow Creek (Rock Western, 2a) Leslie Stewart and Keith Strachan and Roy Truman. GREENWICH 16/8/77.* Cast: Stage 11/8/77, 1; WWT/17. Lucille "Sugar" Diamond Linda Kendrick; Sheriff Don Quickshott Christopher Malcolm; Mary Warner Susie Blake; Eddie Coquane David Haughton; Judge Wesson Thick Wilson; Cyrus Smith John Barrard; Sam Geoffrey Leesley; Belle Gay Rose; Roach Peter Jonfield; Rissler James Saxon; Bennie Andy Forray. Pres Edward Burrell, Shineline Ltd.; Dir, Ch Christie Dickson; Dgn Jenny Beavan; Light Mick Hughes; Mus dir Keith Strachan; Sm Tricia Martin. Comment: Guardian liked the idea of spoofing second-rate westerns, but this dull piece did not work. "The play is slight, aimless and wandering in search of a fix" (Times).

77.375 Sudlow's Dawn (P) Nigel Baldwin. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 17/8/77.* Cast: Findlater; WWT/17. Dawn Caroline Hutchison; Skin Peter Wight; Sudlow Karl Johnson; Doreen Irene Sutcliffe; Reg Roger Booth; Tess Merdelle Jordine. Dir Tim Fywell; Dgn Caroline Beaver; Light Charlie Paton. Reviews: Guardian 18/8/77, 8; Observer 21/8/77, 24; Stage 25/8/77, 11. Comment: MPS 674. English Stage Company. A sprawling, unfocused play about "a young, nearly subnormal life-loser mentally disturbed since the death of his parents" (Guardian). Stage dubbed Baldwin a "promising writer," and admired the creation of Sudlow, the "mentally-retarded waiter."

77.376 Up the Truncheon (Rock F, 2a) Barrie Keeffe. SHAW 17/8/77.* Alex Jennings, David Robinson, Rosy Clayton, Clare Toeman, Hazel Ellerby, Peter Lennon, Clive Mantle, Stephen Jacobs. Dir Graham Chinn. Plot: Weintraub. Reviews: Birmingham Post 19/8/77, 6; Guardian 17/8/77, 8, 18/8/77, 8; Observer 21/8/77, 24; Spectator 27/8/77, 22; Stage 25/8/77, 11; Times 19/8/77, 7. Comment: National Youth Theatre. A light-hearted piece using music by the Rolling Stones, the Kinks, and The Who, that became "laboured as invention flags and the jokes become thin" (Spectator). Times thought the piece possessed a "patronizing tone," and the production lacked pace and polish.

77.377a Never Right, Yet Again (P, 1a) Peter Terson. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 18/8/77.* Cast: WWT/17. Mr. Duncan Stoner Paul Clayton; Mrs. Doreen Stoner Nina Mitchell; Wendy Anne Miller; Kirby Simon Morris; Ian Nick Collett; Katie Kate Buffery; Judy Catherine

Grey. Dir Derek Seaton; Dgn Gerald Kitching; Light Mark Jonathan. Reviews: Birmingham Post 22/8/77, 6; Guardian 17/8/77, 8, 19/8/77, 8; Observer 21/8/77, 24; Spectator 27/8/77, 22–23; Stage 8/9/77, 11; Times 19/8/77, 7. Comment: Performed under the collective title Family Ties. National Youth Theatre. Guardian said both pieces were about "all put-upon daddies" rather like Terson himself, with good "versatile performances." Times noted in both plays Terson's good use of colloquial language often became inflated and arch; the young actors performed well.

77.377b Wrong First Time (P, 1a) Peter Terson. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 18/8/77.* Cast: WWT/17. Dad Tim Spall; Mum Hilary Jones; Penny Vanessa Knox Mawer; Barry David Balcombe; Barry's Father Ian Kearney; Barry's Mother Belinda Cowdy; Sandra Anne Miller; Emily Kate Buffery; Claude Lee Galpin; Smudge Mike Robinson. Dir Derek Seaton; Dgn Gerald Kitching; Light Mark Jonathan. Reviews: Birmingham Post 22/8/77, 6; Guardian 17/8/77, 8, 19/8/77, 8; Observer 21/8/77, 24; Spectator 27/8/77, 22–23; Stage 8/9/77, 11; Times 19/8/77, 7. Comment: Performed under the collective title Family Ties. National Youth Theatre.

77.378 Jubulubu (Rock mus) Christine Eccles (lyr, bk; adpt of Alfred Jarry, Ubu roi, 1896) and Tim Webb (lyr) and Julian Campbell (mus). BATTERSEA ARTS CENTRE 19/8/77.* Cast: Stage 11/8/77, 12. Ma Ubu Martha Gibson; Pa Ubu Fraser Cains; Prince James Benson, Sharon Campbell, Jon Rust, Bob Biddiscombe, Julian Littman, Adrian Cook. Dgn Paul Dart. Plot: Fletcher, Gassner, Griffiths, Hochman, Matlaw, Patterson, Shipley. Review: Stage 8/9/77, 11. Comment: Mayday Theatre. Regardless of its source material, Stage described this as "yet another anti-silver jubilee tract though the volume of the amplified sound makes it difficult to catch many of the words."

77.379 Eva Peron (P) Copi. ROCK GARDEN 22/8/77 (Ln). Cast: Stage 25/8/77, 20. Evita Sandra Payne; Mother Jackie Skarvellis; Nurse Elena Secota; Ibiza Raad Rawi; Brian Gregson. Dir Alan Orenstein. Reviews: Gay News 8/9/77, 31; Stage 8/9/77, 17. Comment: The work "turns the legend topsy-turvey, giving a different meaning to the belief that Evita did not die" but ended up alive in Switzerland (Stage). Gay News declared the play was "fascinating"; moreover, "those critics who don't appreciate Copi have lost touch with the theatre somewhere in the wasteland of the modern British fringe, and those who have not seen him will find it is their loss."

77.380 Killing Time (P, 1a) Barrie Keeffe. SOHO POLY 22/8/77 (Ln).* Albert Booth, Michael Kelly, Robert Glenister, Dotun Adebayo. Dir Bill Buffery. Plot: Bull/2, Walford. Reviews: Guardian 17/8/77, 8, 25/8/77, 10; Observer 28/8/77, 27; Stage 1/9/77, 11; Times 24/8/77, 12. Comment: National Youth Theatre. "Keeffe writes with angry sympathy and a perfect ear for South London speech" (Observer), a sentiment repeated by Guardian. Times said the play possessed authenticity and the young actors understood the material even if their acting lacked complete skill.

77.381 The Old Country (C, 2a) Alan Bennett. RICHMOND 22/8/77. 1st perfd Playhouse, Oxford, 16/8/77. Plot: Bull/3; Fletcher. Comment: The pre-West End production prior to opening at the Queen's in September (77.395).

77.382 Powder (P) Anthony Swerling. THREE HORSESHOES 23/8/77.* Cast: Stage 11/8/77, 12. Peter Kenvyn, Joy Rilman, Dennis Egan. Dir Sam Snape. Comment: Mole Stage Company.

77.383 After Shave (Mus revue, 2a) Stephen Wyatt (bk, lyr) and Nic Rowley (mus). APOLLO 24/8/77. 22 perf. 1st perfd Haymarket Studio, Leicester, 6/77. Cast: Theatricalia; Variety 31/8/77, 74; WWT/17. Sue Aldred, Nicolette Marvin, Linda Dobell, Caroline Noh, Belinda Sinclair. Dir, Ch Christie Dickason; Dgn Clive Lavagna; Light Brian Harris; Mus dir Nic Rowley. Plot: OTF, OTF/2. Reviews: Daily Mirror 26/8/77, 16; Gay News 8/9/77, 31, 22/9/77, 25; Guardian 25/8/77, 10; Observer 28/8/77, 28; Spectator 3/9/77, 22–23; Stage 1/9/77, 11; Times 25/8/77, 15; Variety 31/8/77, 74. Comment: MPS 12366. "Appallingly old-hat, recycling topics and premises that someone presumably thought were chic" (Variety). "Just too predictable. It lacks bite and wit" (Spectator). Times thought this all-female show really belonged in a fringe theatre. Gay News (8/9) endorsed the production heartily and told readers to ignore "jaundiced and discomfited straight male critics."

77.384 Sir Is Winning (P) Shane Connaughton. COTTESLOE 25/8/77.* 17 perf. Cast: NTA; Theatricalia; WWT/17. The controversial play was about the control of the "William Tyndale School in Islington" and "even before the first night there were those who tried to stop in being performed at all"

(Irish Times). The production was "proof that local documentary can flourish in London as well as on regional stages" (Times). The production remained in repertory until 29/10/77.

77.385 Academy of the Arts (One-woman show) Barbara Perry. KING'S HEAD 28/8/77. 2 perf. Barbara Perry. Dir Edmund Balin. Review: Stage 29/9/77, 13. Comment: "Explores with affection as well as with humour the half-world of the has-been and the never-quite-made-it" (Stage).

77.386 Sweeney Agonistes (P) T. S. Eliot. KING'S HEAD 29/8/77 (Ln). Cast: Stage 25/8/77, 20. Susan Baker, Paula Bent, Hywel David, Robert Karas, Philip Kendall, Stephen McNeff, Charlie Peacock, Jacqueline Pearce, Renee Smithens. Plot: Demastes/1, MacNicholas, Matlaw, Patterson, Shipley. Comment: Ex Act Music. Also performed earlier in the foyer of the National Theatre.

77.387 Dean (Mus) John Howlett (bk) and Robert Campbell (songs). CASINO 30/8/77. 45 perf. Comment: The musical cost £130,000 to mount (Stage 22/9/77, 1) and closed after a month, playing to only 40% capacity. The theatre reverted to a cinema on 16/10/77. "A painstakingly compiled portrait of the hero [James Dean] set within a standard showbiz framework" (Times). Gay News noted Glenn Conway's "chilling physical resemblance to Dean," but ultimately his performance was lost "in a slush of show biz stardust and snow flakes." Daily Mirror indicated Conway's performance was the one worthwhile aspect of the production.

77.388 The Private Ear (C, 1a) Peter Shaffer. LAMB AND FLAG 30/8/77 (Ln). Cast: Stage 25/8/77, 20. Philip Kelleher, Christine Richmond. Dir Leon Head. Plot: Bordman/4, 390, Demastes/2, Fletcher, French/2, Hischak, Hochman, Loney, Salem, Walford, Weintraub. Comment: Ram Theatre Group.

77.389 Stan Bolovan and the Stupid Dragon (P for children). ORANGE TREE 1/9/77 (m). Comment: Performed at 11:00 am and 1:15 pm.

77.390 A Murder Is Announced (Mystery, 3a) Leslie Darbon (adpt of Agatha Christie's novel, 1950) RICHMOND 5/9/77. 1st perfd Theatre Royal, Brighton, 29/8/77. Plot: Fletcher, Loney. Comment: The pre-West End production prior to opening at the Vaudeville later in September (77.422).

77.391 Parachute (One-man show) Harry Jones. KING'S HEAD 5/9/77 (Ln). * Cast: Stage 25/8/77, 20. Harry Jones. Dir John Bruce; Light David Gibbons.

77.392 Good Lads at Heart (D, 2a) Peter Terson. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 6/9/77.  Paul Blackman, Robert Addie, Kilian McKenna, Patrick Field, Richard Burge, Kate Buffery, Peter Lennon, David Taggart. Dir Michael Croft, Graham Chinn; Dgn Gerald Kitching. Plot: Hishchak/2, 145–46, Vinson, Weintraub. Reviews: Gay News 22/9/77, 29; Stage 15/9/77, 11; Times 7/9/77, 10. Comment: National Youth Theatre. The revival showed “the playwright and company in their top form” (Times).

77.393 Psychosis: Unclassified (P) Ken Campbell (adpt of Theodore Sturgeon, Some of Your Blood, 1961). BUSH 6/9/77. 1st London perf. Cast: Stage 8/9/77, 12. George Chris Fairbank; John Joyce. Dir Ken Campbell; Dgn David McHenry. Reviews: Stage 29/9/77, 13; Times 12/9/77, 11; Tribune 30/9/77, 12. Comment: Science Fiction Theatre of Liverpool. “A spine-chilling dissection of a disordered personality ... in an amazing psychological SF whodunit, and why” (Tribune). Times described the show as “a piece of psychiatric Grand Guignol” that failed to “arouse shivers.”

77.394 A Singular Sensation (Mus ent). DUKE OF YORK'S 6/9/77. Anita Harris, Ali Bongo, George Giles, Bernard Jamieson, Danny Moss, Ronnie Moss. Dir Mike Margolis; Mus dir Dave Hancock. Reviews: Daily Mirror 9/9/77, 16; Stage 15/9/77, 9. Comment: Essentially a one-woman show performed by Anita Harris. Daily Mirror said the show exposed her limited talents. However, Stage thought Harris “shows that she has been quietly absorbing the techniques of the theatre to such effect that she is a remarkably satisfying artist.”

77.395 The Old Country (C, 2a) Alan Bennett. QUEEN'S 7/9/77.  371 perf. Cast: Stage 25/8/77, 1; Theatricalia; Variety 21/9/77, 106; WWT/17. Comment: Guardian admired the play's “style but question[ed] its limited historical vision.” Gay News agreed that absent style, there was little else to the play. Alec “Guinness's performance pointedly conveys the play's dominant mood of spiritual homesickness and melancholy” (Variety). “Guinness is brilliant as Hilary and he is well supported” by the cast (Daily Mirror). The play swung “between moments of atmospheric incandescence and prolonged evocations of Ruislip on a dull afternoon” (Times 8/9). See also Lloyd Evans, 225–26.

77.396 Twelfth Night; or, What You Will (C) William Shakespeare. Dir Michael Gearin-Tosh; Dgn Robin Don. Reviews: Guardian 15/9/77, 10; Stage 29/9/77, 11. Comment: Stage described this production, which used a complete text, as “a thinking production, not a perverse one, and it rings true.” “Much of the evening is dull and lifeless” in this production performed by professionals and students (Guardian). Iris Murdoch apparently declared the production “Absolutely Magical” (advt. Observer 25/9/77, 30).

77.397a Any Other Business (P) Gordon McKerrow. PRINTER'S DEVIL 8/9/77. * Cast: Stage 1/9/77, 12. Comment: Coquelin. The company for this double bill comprised Guy Graham, Gavin Harding, Linda Clifford, Phyllis McMahon, Bernard Douglas. Dir Hilary Wood.

77.397b The Waiting Room (P, 1a) John Bowen. PRINTER'S DEVIL 8/9/77.  Plot: Walford. Cast: Stage 1/9/77, 12. Comment: Coquelin.

Ward; Cassius James Simmons; Brutus Simon Templeman; Octavius Mark Payton; Casca Alan Turton. Dir Michael Croft; Dgn Humphrey Jaeger. Reviews: Stage 29/9/77, 13; Times 14/9/77, 12. Comment: National Youth Theatre. The production was “modern dress with a vengeance—this is the world of guerilla fighting and punk rock hooliganism with nobility of purpose fading a good way into the shadows behind political expediency,” and good performances as well (Stage). Times thought Michael Croft’s handling of the crowds raised intrusive questions.

77.399 A Mad World, My Masters (C, 2a) Barrie Keeffe. ROUND HOUSE 8/9/77. Cast: Stage 25/8/77, 1; WWT/17. Vi Sprightly Gillian Barge; Superintendent Sayers Simon Callow; Robertson, Charlie Paul Freeman; Bill Sprightly Robert Hamilton; Janet Claughton Cecily Hobbs; Mr. Fox Will Knightley; Horace Claughton David Rintoul; Dr. O’Flaherty, Guard Tony Rohr; Grandma, Elizabeth Jane Wood. Dir William Gaskell, Max Stafford-Clark; Dgn Hayden Griffin. Comment: Russell’s main attributes are he does not patronize or despise people, and he “can entertain contradictory points of view.” (Guardian). Daily Mirror disliked Russell’s contemptuous and insulting attitude towards his characters. Russell “presents various arguments in this trenchantly observed comedy-drama, but neglects to develop them. For that reason, the play remains disturbing” (Variety). For Times the characterizations were too predictable and the incidents were set up for an endless series of gags. For Spectator the play needed more focus; Wendy Craig was “appallingly good.”

Comment: National Theatre. Press night was 20/9/77. Guardian (21/9) described Bill Bryden's production as "a model of urban realism," and Cyril Cusack's performance as "Irish comic acting at its meridian." Illustrated London News said the play and the production were masterpieces. For Irish Times the one defect in the production was the mix of northern and southern Irish accents. Spectator commended only the performances of Cusack and J. G. Devlin. Times said the production lacked "any fresh relish." The production remained in repertory until 29/3/78.

Comment: Six in the large cast were American, the remainder British. "Performed with a precision, vitality and choreographic panache that is the envy of the English" (Variety). "A superb combination of nostalgia and frenzy" with little plot (Guardian). New Statesman said it was a good show; unfortunately, "what was presumably conceived as an expression of black pride in black culture has become a sort of glossy tourist brochure." Times praised the show's "burnished professionalism ... Altogether a joyous noise, and for sheer glamour there is nothing in London to touch it." The first Broadway production (ANTA Playhouse 2/3/76) ran for 766 performances.

Comment: The three plays (Killing Time, Abide with Me, and *In the City) were about the deprived lives of working-class boys and showed them "on the attack" (Times). "Like a living demonstration of Wilhelm Reich's analysis of the conditions that breed fascism" (Spectator). Tribune said what the characters in the plays lacked was "a sense of belonging." "Keeffe's heart is in the right place but his sociology is suspect" (Guardian).

Mead. Review: Stage 13/10/77, 11. Comment: Theatre Workshop. Stage described this pantomime-like piece as "a delightfully melodramatic horror spoof. It involves a multitude of farcical sub-plots which centre around the main theme of the dastardly monster who he is and how to catch him."

77.435 Cavalcade (P, 22sc) Noël Coward. TOWER, CANONBURY, 30/9/77. 1st perfd Drury Lane 13/10/31. Cast: Stage 29/9/77, 11; TTC. Plot: Demastes/1, Fletcher, Law, Levin, 38–42, Loney, 178, Mander/4, Matlaw. Review: Stage 17/11/77, 17. Comment: Stage said this spectacular piece worked at this small theatre by use of "imagination and the substitution of film and slides for the scenes of national spectacle which interleave the family story."

Comment: A "vague and airy play" attempting to be Chekhovian (Guardian). "A dense, portentous piece about a crazed genius" (New Statesman). Times found the symbolism too heavy at times; however, there were "finely turned jokes on sexual subjects from male pride to lesbianism and women's liberation."

77.437 Henry Pilk's Awesome Worlds (P) Ken Campbell. YOUNG VIC 30/9/77.* Cast: WWT/17. C. J. Allen, Chris Langham, Peter O'Farrell, Maynard Williams. Dir Ken Campbell; Dgn Mario Tardito; Light Derek Watson.

Review: Stage 13/10/77, 11. Comment: "A series of sketches that play havoc with our well-ordered world. The company handles the material with ease, good humour, and a naturalness which allows the ideas to tickle your fancy without the usual sledge-hammer approach" (Stage).

Comment: The play was about "the uneasy coexistence between the spiritual and the worldly lives of 20th century American Franciscans" (Gay News). "Instead of dialectic and doubt, we get a hyped-up monk-opera" (Guardian). "A nakedly honest and well written theatrical document, played with impressive dedication" (Times).

77.443 Care and Control (P) Helen Barnaby and Kate Crutchley and Nancy Duguid and Natasha Fairbanks and Michael Kellan and Kate Phelps and Michelene Wandor and Terri Quaye (mus). HALF MOON 4/10/77. Plot: Bull/3. Review: Tribune 21/10/77, 7. Comment: Gay Sweatshop. "Based on actual cases of women who have lost custody of their children ... a little long-winded, but the show left little doubt about society's deep-rooted resentment of independent non-conforming women" (Tribune).

77.444 The Dragon Variation (D, 2a) Robert King. DUKE OF YORK'S 4/10/77. 28 perf. Comment: Stage found the play a little confusing: it "has a hint of murder mystery, a faint suggestion of thriller, a little comedy and ... owes a debt to both Sleuth and Pinter's The Lover. As in ... Sleuth, [the] play has a man specialising in disguises and changed identities." "A contrived and exasperating piece of hokum about a young widow's retreat into a small world of fantasy" (Variety). The piece was more about games-playing than being a thriller (Times).

77.445 Lament for Rastafari (P, 30sc) Edgar White. KESKIDEE CENTRE c. 4/10/77. Review: Guardian 5/10/77, 10. Comment: Directed by Rufus Collins. "A requiem with Rastafarian music for the passing of Jamaican kinship, for the loss of national identity and Jamaican culture in the mass migrations away from home" (Guardian).

77.446 Up for Grabs (P) Joe Lang. CROSS KEYS 4/10/78.* Cast: Stage 29/9/77, 12. Dave Brett, Tom Goddard, Keith Allen, Sandy Maberley. Dir Richard Robinson; Puppets Thirzie Robinson. Review: Stage 17/11/77, 17. Comment: MPS 1179. Covent Garden Community Theatre. The play was concerned with the evils of the gentrification of the inner city.

Comment: Newcastle Tyneside Theatre Company production. Guardian thought the production paid too little attention to the play’s “moral content,” but Janet Suzman was “magnificent” as both Shen Te and Shui Ta. Variety praised the production generally, adding “it’s far from being a purely didactic event.” Times disapproved of Keith Hack’s production in which “the relaxed, thought-inviting manner and the Oriental stage conventions give way to feverish expressionist distortion.”

Comment: Australian Popular Theatre Company (Queensland). This piece, about white exploitation, was pedestrian, repetitive, and “sadly old hat” (Tribune). Times said the production proved “that theatrical didacticism can be fun.” “An evening saved only by its climax, but vivid, vital and endearingly performed by the company. Duncan Campbell is outstanding” (Guardian).

Comment: MPS 683. National Theatre. Press night was 18/10/77. "A typical National Theatre production—nothing wrong with it, nothing special about it" (Tribune). "A delightfully racy and idiomatic translation ... one of the funniest shows" (Spectator). "Opulently produced, stylishly performed and delightfully entertaining" (Variety). Although the piece was "a wonderful farce" given an expert translation by John Mortimer, Times opined the Lyttelton could pursue "a more pathfinding role" than staging Feydeau. The production remained in repertory until 29/3/78.

Reviews: Gay News 3/11/77, 32; Guardian 14/10/77, 10; New Statesman 21/10/77, 562; Observer 16/10/77, 32; Spectator 22/10/77, 28; Stage 20/10/77, 11; Times 14/10/77, 11; Variety 2/11/77, 82. Comment: Observer faulted the direction and the performances. However, Spectator found the piece "gripping" and some of the acting "superb." "It's puzzling that anyone should want to produce such a social and dramatic dinosaur" (Variety). Times disapproved of the formal "solemnity" of the piece, but still thought the production was "a work of manifest integrity."

77.462 Scapino (P) Frank Dunlop and Jim Dale (adpt of Molière, Les fourberies de Scapin, 1671). YOUNG VIC 13/10/77. Cast: WWT/17. Waitress Rosalind Boxall; Waiter Michael Fitzgerald; Headwaiter Hugh Hastings; Carlo C. J. Allen; Sylvestro Terence Frisby; Ottavio David Henry; Scapino Derek Griffiths; Giacinta Natasha Pyne; Argante Teddy Green; Geronte Job Stewart; Leandro Malcolm Reynolds; Nurse Lotti Taylor; Zerbina Joanna McCallum. Dir Frank Dunlop; Dgn Carl Toms; Mus Jim Dale; Light Mike Alvey. Plot: Fletcher, French/2, Hochman, Salem. Reviews: Stage 27/10/77, 11; Times 18/10/77, 14. Comment: The revival was again "a very happy romp" that played to "a cheerful and rowdy young audience" (Times).

77.463 An Anatomy of Keats (P) Hugh Hayes. DRILL HALL c. 17/10/77 (Ln).* Keats Hugh Hayes; Charles Brown Alasdair Ramsey; Fanny Brawne Kiki Gale. Dir Kate Dove. Review: Stage 24/11/77, 15. Comment: Action Space. The play used excerpts from Keats's play and poems to convey an impression of the last months of his life.

77.464 'Ave You 'Eard the One About Joey Baker? (P) Mel Smith and Bob Goody. OVALHOUSE c. 17/10/77. 1st perfd Edinburgh Festival 1977. Cast: Stage 20/10/77, 12. Joey Baker Mel Smith; Bob Goody, Tony Britten. Mus David Learner. Review: Stage 3/11/77, 24. Comment: An "unsentimental exploration of the mind and motives of a third rate stand up comic" (Stage). Also performed as a late-night show.

77.465 Flare Path (P, 3a) Terence Rattigan. RICHMOND 17/10/77. 1st perfd New, Oxford, 13/7/42. Diana Coupland, Rula Lenska, Christopher Strauli, David Ashford, Alan Bennion, Barbara Bolton, Yvonne Edgell, James Galloway, Bunny May, Anthony McEvoy, Anthony Woodruff. Pres Roger Clifford; Dir Kim Grant; Dgn Richard Brown; Light Geoffrey Hillier. Plot: Best/42, 453–54, Bordman/4, 219, Fletcher, Hischak, Law, Loney, 231, Rusinko, 47–50, Vinson. Comment: A one-week engagement. The first New York production (Henry Miller's 23/12/42) ran for 14 performances.

77.466 It's Better than a Kick in the Groin. OVAL HOUSE c. 17/10/77 (Lt). Cast: Stage 20/10/77, 12. Jim Sweeney, Steven Steen, Pippa Sparks, Geraldine Pilgrim, Frick Nye. Review: Stage 3/11/77, 24. Comment: The Wee Wees. "The good idea of using video together with live actors to explore the effects of television was wasted on rather obvious humour" (Stage).

77.467 No Pasaran (P) David Holman. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 17/10/77. 1st perfd 1976. Cast: Findlater. Liz Brailsford, Rod Brookes, Graham Downes, John Martin, Karen Merkel, John Say. Dir Sean Cunningham. Comment: English Stage Company. Young People's Theatre Scheme. Free Form Roadshow'77.

77.468 Scenes from Soweto (Documentary D) Steve Wilmer. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 17/10/77.* Cast: Stage 20/10/77, 12. Nigel Gregory, Rufus Collins. Dir Brian Croucher. Plot: Hischak/2, 127. Reviews: Guardian 15/10/77, 10, 20/10/77, 10; Observer 23/10/77, 30; Stage 27/10/77, 11; Tribune 4/11/77, 6–7. Comment: Group 3. "Wilmer's play is based on fact, on the life of a black friend of his from Oxford who returned to Soweto and died mysteriously while in police custody for questioning" (Guardian 20/10). "Burning sincerity flashes out of every moment" (Stage). The first New York production (Stage 73 1/2/78) ran for 35 performances.

77.469 Suicide in B Flat (P, 1a) Sam Shepard. OPEN SPACE 17/10/77. 1st perfd Yale Repertory Theater, New Haven, Connecticut, 15/10/76; 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 13/10/77, 12; WWT/17. Musician Pat Smythe; Pablo Christopher Benjamin; Pauvette Carol Cleveland; Louis Barry Martin; Laureen Deborah Norton; Petrone Anton Phillips; Niles Dudley Sutton. Dir Kenneth Chubb; Dgn Stephen Ormrod; Light Jon A. Adams. Plot: Fletcher, Hochman. Reviews: Guardian 18/10/77, 8; New Statesman 4/11/77, 632; Observer 23/10/77, 30; Stage 27/10/77, 11; Times 18/10/77, 14; Tribune 4/11/77, 7. Comment: Wakefield Tricycle Theatre. "One or two of the verbal riffs have a marvellous energy but by the end the Niagara-like flow of language had me reeling with exhaustion" (Guardian). "A low-key production of high-key material" (Tribune). Times posited the piece might be a satire on detective thrillers, or something else; regardless, "there is something wrong with any play when 80 minutes seems a long time."

77.470 Emigrés (D, 2a) Sławomir Mroček (trans Gabriel Mérétić of Emigranci, 1975). FRENCH INSTITUTE 19/10/77. Cast: Stage 13/10/77, 12. Raymond Avenièrè, Jean-Claude Frison. Dir Raymond Avenièrè; Dgn Robert Clement. Plot: Hischak/2, 155, Hochman. Review: Stage 17/11/77, 17. Comment: Théâtre National de Belgique. A "fine" revival performed in French (Stage).

77.471 Rosmersholm (D, 2a) Henrik Ibsen (trans Jeremy Brooks of Ibsen's play, 1887). HAYMARKET 19/10/77. 109 perf. Cast: Stage 13/10/77, 1; Theatricalia; Variety 26/10/77, 80; WWT/17. Rebecca West Claire Bloom; Mrs. Helseth Constance Chapman; Doctor Kroll Michael Aldridge; John Rosmer Daniel Massey; Peter Mortensgard Terrence Hardiman; Ulrik Brendel Frank Middlemass. L Frederick Harrison Trust Ltd.; Pres Duncan C. Weldon, Louis I. Michaels; Dir Clifford Williams; Dgn Ralph Koltai; Light James Baird. Plot: Bryan, Fletcher, French/2, Hochman, Matlaw, Patterson, Shank, Shipley. Reviews: Birmingham Post 20/10/77, 6; Gay News 3/11/77, 32; Guardian 20/10/77, 10; Illustrated London News 1/12/77, 111; Observer 23/10/77, 30; Spectator 5/11/77, 27; Stage 27/10/77, 11; Times 21/10/77, 17; Variety 26/10/77, 80. Comment: Claire Bloom gave a "pleasing" performance, but Clifford Williams's direction was "stodgy" (Variety). Observer reported Williams was the "director of five current productions" in the West End and Frank Middlemass gave a "striking portrayal" of Ulrik Brendel. Williams did not "so much revive the play as embalm it" (Guardian); Williams did not have "any dazzling new light to cast on it" (Times). Illustrated London News averred Williams's direction "possessed absolute honesty."

77.472 The Caretaker (D, 3a) Harold Pinter. GREENWICH 20/10/77. Cast: WWT/17. Mick Anthony Higgins; Aston Peter Guinness; Davies Max Wall. Dir Paul Joyce; Dgn Voytek; Light Nick Chelton. Plot: Best/61, 49, Demastes/2, Fletcher, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shipley, Vinson, Weintraub. Reviews: Birmingham Post 25/10/77, 6; Gay News 17/11/77, 33; Guardian 25/10/77, 12; New Statesman 4/11/77, 632; Stage 3/11/77, 13; Times 25/10/77, 15. Comment: Times was unable to disassociate Max Wall's performance from his standup comedy routines, though someone who had never seen him before might. Guardian reported Paul Joyce's production ran "a funereal three hours plus"; moreover, "Pinter's tramp constantly veers between a forelock-tugging ingratiating and a surly aggressiveness and the latter is a quality outside Wall's natural range."

77.473 The Catering Service (P) Bryony Lavery. ACTION SPACE 20/10/77. 1st perfd Edinburgh Festival 1976. Cast: Stage 20/10/77, 12. Gerard Bell, Steph Bramwell, Su Elliott, Diana Goodhand, Colin Marsh, John Rawlinson. Dir Bryony Lavery. Reviews: Stage 24/11/77, 15; Times 22/10/77, 7. Comment: Les Oeufs Malades. The piece was about unspecified forces preparing to “make social and sexual trouble in the world” (Times).

77.474 John Barrymore: Confessions of an Actor (One-man show) David M. Kwiat. KING’S HEAD 20/10/77 (Ln). 1st perfd Heriot Watt Theatre, Edinburgh, 21/8/77. Cast: Stage 27/10/77, 12. David M. Kwiat. Pres Richard Jackson. Review: Times 25/10/77, 15. Comment: Kwiat’s performance about Barrymore’s life concentrated too much on Barrymore’s drinking at the expense of more interesting aspects of the man (Times).

77.475 Find Me (Documentary P) Olwen Wymark. ORANGE TREE 21/10/77.* Cast: Stage 20/10/77, 12. Liz Crowther, Sharman Macdonald, Cherith Mellor, Cindy O’Callaghan, Auriol Smith, Andrew Branch, Robert East, Rio Fanning. Dir Sam Walters. Plot: Bull/1. Reviews: Guardian 26/10/77, 10; Stage 3/11/77, 13; Times 26/10/77, 9. Comment: Richmond Fringe. “About a disturbed 22-year-old girl now in a maximum security hospital and likely to be there for life” (Guardian). The doubling of roles reinforced the effectiveness of the play (Times).

77.476 Skoolplay (P) Alan Brown. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 21/10/77.* Cast: Findlater; Stage 20/10/77, 12. Grandad Leslie Pitt; Mother Joan Geary; Father Richard Henry; Gilbert Dave Hill; Flower Chloe Salaman; Peter Sproule, Susan Porrett. Dir Ian Kellgren; Dgn Roger Parker; Sm Bobby Comber. Reviews: Guardian 21/10/77, 10, 22/10/77, 10; Spectator 29/10/77, 26–27; Stage 27/10/77, 11. Comment: English Stage Company. Performed without decor. Also presented was Brown’s film, Brown Ale with Gertie. “For Alan Bown, Skoolplay is an unusually restrained and gentle study of family life” (Spectator).

77.477 Aphasia (P, 1a) Andrew Hislop. SOHO POLY 22/10/77 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 3/11/77, 19. Terence Edmond, Ian Mackenzie, Anthony Dutton, Edmund Pegge. Dir John Link; Dgn Susanna Beswick. Review: Stage 8/12/77, 13. Comment: “Whatever it is Mr Hislop wants to say, he has obscured it in an over-wordy text which may read well, but is often cumbersome to act” (Stage).

77.478 Romeo and Juliet (T) William Shakespeare. RICHMOND 24/10/77. Michele Dotrice, Clive Francis, Doris Hare, John Stone, Edgar Wreford, Mark Wynter, Robin Wentworth, Frank Barrie. Dir Peter Coe.

Another Jubilee Year play, this about a woman who wants to christen her baby daughter Jubilee.

77.480 Antony and Cleopatra (T) William Shakespeare. SHAW 26/10/77. Cast: Stage 27/10/77, 1. Antony David Weston; Cleopatra June Ritchie; Charmian Ann Penfold; Pompey David Moran; Octavius Michael Hadley; Eros Bill Buffery; Agrippa Tom Karol; Enobarbus Michael Croft; Matthew Francis, Donald MacIver. Dir Michael Croft. Reviews: Birmingham Post 27/10/77, 13; Stage 3/11/77, 13; Times 27/10/77, 11. Comment: Dolphin Theatre Company. A workshop production because the company was short of money. A “substandard company” consisting of seventeen performers most of whom had performed formerly in the National Youth Theatre (Times).

77.481 Laburnum Grove (C, 3a) J. B. Priestley. DUKE OF YORK’S 27/10/77. 76 perf. Comment: Yvonne Arnaud Theatre production. Daily Mirror reported Priestley attended opening-night. “Clearly dated but still moderately amusing” (Variety). “It is not the play that seems dated, but [Hugh] Goldie’s constant symmetrical staging” (Times). The piece needed “a more consistently expert production,” but Arthur Lowe gave an excellent performance (New Statesman). “A very pleasant experience in well made theatre” (Gay News).

77.482 The Merchant of Venice (C, 5a) William Shakespeare. QUESTORS 29/10/77. Cast: QTA.

77.483 The Loudest Tears in Town (P) John Muir. RICHMOND 31/10/77. 1st perfd Forum, Billingham, 26/9/77? Gemma Craven, Rodney Bewes, Adrienne Posta, Mark Kingston.

77.485 Return to My Native Land (Monol) Aimé Césaire (trans John Berger and Anna Bostock of Cahier d'un retour au pays natal, 1939). THEATRE UPSTAIRS 31/10/77. Cast: Findlater; Stage 20/10/77, 1; WWT/17. Cy Grant. Dir John Russell Brown; Dgn Jim Clay. Reviews: Guardian 1/11/77, 8; Stage 17/11/77, 11; Times 1/11/77, 17. Comment: English Stage Company. "Cy Grant delivers the work splendidly," although the background effects were irritating (Guardian). Although a very good poem, it is not "a dramatic poem ... and the production proves it" (Times).

77.486 Speaking Hands. ROCK GARDEN 31/10/77 (Ln). Michael Brojer, Herbert Marvin. Dir Martin Jones. Review: Stage 17/11/77, 17. Comment: "Uses speech mime rather than deaf and dumb sign language most successfully to communicate verse, situation comedy and drama to its lunchtime audience" (Stage).

77.487 Street (P for children) Joan Aiken. ARTS c. 31/10/77. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 3/11/77, 19. Ursula Jones, Gabrielle Hamilton, Penny Casdagli, Roland Oliver, Hugh Trethowan. Dir Nicholas Barter; Dgn Russell Craig; Light Angus Stewart; Mus John Brown; Mus dir Ilona Sekacz. Review: Stage 17/11/77, 11. Comment: Unicorn Theatre. The play was about a village street which separates the inhabitants on either side because of the heavy traffic.

77.488 Factory Birds (P) James Robson. WAREHOUSE 1/11/77.* Cast: RSCA; Stage 3/11/77, 1; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Buyer Keith Clarke; Constable Paul Wagar; Detective Sergeant Hoy John Nettles; Evie Turner Pippa Guard; Gerald Norman Tyrrell; Hobnail Peter Woodward; Judy Avril Carson; Marjorie Meg Davies; Max Austin Martin Read; Mick Hilton McRae; Mr. Springer Dennis Clinton; Nazzer Roger Rees; Peggy Ruby Head; Rosalie Marilyn Galsworthy; Shank Allan Hendrick; Tojo Rod Culbertson; Tom Hubert Rees; Wilf Clyde Pollitt. Dir Bill Alexander; Dgn Mary Moore; Light David Boshell. Both Guardian and New Statesman thought the piece, about factory life, possessed a fresh honesty in its subject matter. Times agreed, adding "in the hands of Bill Alexander's company [the play] takes off like a rocket."

77.489 The Fall of the House of Usher (P) Steven Berkoff and Terry James (adpt of Edgar Allan Poe, "The Fall of the House of Usher," 1839). Reviews: Guardian 3/11/77, 10; Stage 10/11/77, 11; Times 3/11/77, 17. Comment: The play concerned the rehabilitation of American soldiers caught up in the Viet Nam war. Guardian lamented the cast's poor American accents. "All talk ... no real drama or necessity to the action" (Times). The first New York production (De Lys 28/3/76) ran for 41 performances.

77.491 Writer's Cramp (C) John Byrne. BUSH 1/11/77. 1st perfd Calton Studios, Edinburgh, 1/8/77. Cast: WWT/17. *F. S. Comment: “Staged by Franco Zeffirelli, the show isn't much more than soap opera, Italian style, but it has enough touching and funny moments to please most audiences” (Variety). Observer found the characters “refreshingly exotic.” Times declared this play was better than Saturday, Sunday, Monday and it possessed “prodigious craftsmanship.” Spectator was embarrassed by the play's melodramatic elements and “tawdry emotion,” and by “self-conscious acting conspiring with contrived writing.” “A first-rate cast is on hand to support the magnificent Plowright” (Daily Mirror).

77.493 Untitled: 5 plays by Denys Ives. LAMB AND FLAG 3/11/77. Cast: Stage 3/11/77, 19. Jules Mannheim, Rosemarie Croom-Johnson, Keith Norrish, Iris Rougier. Comment: Source does not mention the five plays involved.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Previews 1/11–3/11/77. Tribune said “Howard Davies' production of Clive Barker's colloquial translation is a cut above the usual British standard Brecht,” but well below Berliner Ensemble standards. New Statesman faulted the production entirely. The production looked like “a workshop version unceremoniously dumped on a large stage” (Times).

Comment: Keith Michell and Penelope Keith were "standouts in a sparkling ensemble performance directed with grace and flair by Patrick Garland" (Variety). Gay News approved only of Michell's performance. "More effective where the political aspect is concerned, less so with the central frolic between King Magnus and his delectable mistress Orinthia" (Stage).

8/11/77, 11; Tribune 18/11/77, 7. Comment: Foco Novo. Guardian said the play was flawed in its attempt to "make Merrick represent both the certainties and uncertainties of the same era"; David Schofield gave "a tremendous performance." New Statesman was also critical of the play. Observer called the play "a superb act of imagination." The play, "spare and poetic," in a "stunning and powerful" production by Roland Rees, "so far transcends its horrific images that it becomes compulsive and beautiful to watch" (Times). The first New York production (Theatre of St. Peter's Church 14/1/79) ran for 73 performances; it transferred to the Booth 19/4/79 and ran for 916 performances.

Comment: MPS 692. National Theatre. Press night was 10/11/77. This "spurious and self-indulgent" piece involved social workers and their hopeless cases (Spectator). The play "immerses itself in lyric squalor," evades real issues, and is at times ludicrous (Observer). "A turgid, offensive and humourless indulgence cloaked in the guise of social relevance" (Times). The production remained in repertory until 25/1/78.

Review: Stage 17/11/77, 17. Comment: Highway Shoes (Cardiff). "Yet another of this author's Wild West hang ups ... [the cast had] the unpleasant experience of seeing their audience walk out on them—not a surprising phenomenon given the puerility of concept and dialogue and the inability of the players to make themselves audible except at full bawl!" (Stage).

77.506 Shut Your Eyes and Think of England (F, 2a) Anthony Marriott and John Chapman. RICHMOND 7/11/77. 1st perfd Alexandra, Birmingham, 17/10/77.

Comment: Theatre Workshop. This biography of Dan Leno needed Leno himself to bring it to life; Leno's talent was unique and so beyond the capabilities of "the valiant Sam Kelly" (Guardian). "Short on biography and long on music hall routines—and it should have been the other way round" (Tribune). Times disagreed with both of those assessments.

Comment: National Theatre. Press night was 29/11/77. Variety suggested this uncut version should have been cut in order to maintain the momentum of the production. Guardian thought a major drawback was John Bury's "solid, pillared ... set that makes few concessions to realism." Times agreed, noting Bury's design was based on Christopher Wren's Drury Lane stage; this, Times declared, was "historical pedantry" and was partly to blame for "a ponderous evening." Spectator drew attention to the same defect. "An unaffected but rather loud and extrovert version of the play" (New Statesman). The production remained in repertory until 25/7/78.

The piece was an early version of L'annonce faite à Marie. Times noted "many of the religious speeches" had been cut and commended the acting.

Reviews: Spectator 19/11/27, 27; Stage 17/11/77, 11. Comment: Loosely based on T. S. Eliot's Murder in the Cathedral, this musically cliché-ridden piece was given "a highly professional showcase production" (Stage). "A nonsense plot about a disillusioned rock star" (Spectator).

77.513 Grand Larceny (Mus) Andy Smith (lyr) and Paul Abrahams (mus). HALF MOON 10/11/77.* Cast: SHM. Reviews: Guardian 17/11/77, 12; Stage 8/12/77, 13; Times 17/11/77, 8. The piece was an unfettered attack on Elizabeth II and "her moral responsibility for the acts committed in her name" (Guardian). The play's major fault was its "sheer clumsy, pretentious writing" (Times).

Comment: MPS 691. National Theatre. Press night was 17/11/77. The play was about a retired Oxford archaeologist bewailing his life and career with a good part for John Gielgud who had not mastered his script on opening night (Guardian 18/11). "Witty, sometimes funny and occasionally stimulating. But it's also a static affair in which the plot becomes strained" (Variety). Gay News (23/3) predicted audiences would have mixed reactions to the piece. Times (18/11) said this was very much a West End play and so was somewhat unexpected at the experimental Cottesloe. When the piece transferred, Times (3/3) said it was "the work of an intelligent writer strenuously belabouring an irreclaimably trivial story into wider meaning." There were 206 performances at the Duke of York's.

Comment: Variety objected to the piece's racial, sexual, "contrived jokes," although the less discriminating” might find them entertaining; Donald Sinden hamming up his role “outrageously” was the sole major attribute. “This ‘comedy’ wriggled under a compost heap of prejudices so stale that not even the dimmest member of the Festival of Light or the National Front could possibly be entertained” (Gay News). Times commended Donald Sinden’s “marvellous, deft comic playing,” and appeared to enjoy the piece as a whole, as did Illustrated London News.

Comment: Neither Patrick Allen nor Vivien Merchant provided the necessary “passionate and profoundly emotional acting” (Guardian). Times indicated the first-night performance was under-rehearsed.

77.529 Rogues and Vagabonds (Ent) Michael Meyer. TOWER, CANONBURY, 17/11/77. Cast: Stage 17/11/77, 17; TTC. Comment: The piece was about actors and acting (TTC).

77.530 Mr. Whatnot (C, 2a) Alan Ayckbourn. ORANGE TREE 18/11/77. Cast: Stage 10/11/77, 12; WWT/17. Andrew Branch, Liz Crowther, Sharman Macdonald, Paddy Ward, Stephanie Cole, Vilma Hollingbery, Richard O’Callaghan, Peter Wyatt. Dir Patrick Lau; Sm Tegfryn Davies. Plot: Vinson, Weintraub. Review: Stage 1/12/77, 19. Comment: Richmond Fringe. “A delightful pre-Christmas fribble” playing to full houses (Stage).

77.531 Censored Scenes from King Kong (P, 2a) Howard Schuman and Andy Roberts (mus). OPEN SPACE 21/11/77. 1st London perf. Comment: Originally intended as a play for BBC Television but was never transmitted. “A raucous fantasy

... that too often tends to teeter" (New Statesman). Guardian opined "the piece might become a cult-play." "A camp spoof" which lacked "any consistent view" together with a "prolix plot" that became wearying (Gay News). "The play comes near to bursting with ideas," but it was "monstrously enjoyable" (Times). "The play becomes a healthy and refreshing attack on the kind of gullibility, the appetite for conspiracy theory, that has swept America" (Spectator). The first New York production (Princess 6/3/80) ran for 5 performances.

77.532 The Immortal Haydon (One-man P) John Wells and Julius Gellner. MERMAID 21/11/77; trfd to GREENWICH 17/1/78.* Cast: WWT/17. Comment: The show was "based on the diaries of the painter Benjamin Robert Haydon" (Stage 10/11/77, 1). Rossiter gave a "witty and impassioned" performance (Times). "Rossiter is an effective character actor whose idiosyncrasies of manner and speech, familiar in other parts, hardly seem now to compose a portrait of 'the immortal' Haydon" (Illustrated London News).

77.533 The Kyan Story (P, 1a) Paul Smith and Terry Kyan. PINDAR OF WAKEFIELD c. 21/11/77 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 24/11/77, 14. Mark Knight, Rob Quirk, Duncan Robertson, Yvonne Collins, Graham Fielder. Dir Mark Knight. Review: Stage 8/12/77, 13. Comment: Shirk Productions. "A surreal little story about role reversal between a doctor and his patient ... the diverse elements of farce, horror film and 59th minute of the eleventh hour thriller do not quite coalesce" (Stage).

77.534 The Adventures of Pinocchio (MP, 3a) Barrie Stacey (bk) and David Aman (mus). WIMBLEDON 21/11/77. Review: Stage 1/12/77, 19. Comment: Stage recorded the piece had already proved to be popular in the provinces.

77.535 The Second Monday (Monol) A. S. Robertson. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 21/11/77. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 10/11/77, 12. Adrian James. Review: Stage 22/12/77, 16. Comment: One Man Theatre Company. This was "an effective monologue for a man of indeterminate age in that decaying state which is not quite tramp nor yet quite acceptable humanity" (Stage).

77.536 Virgins, Vultures and Love (P) Michael Sharp. SOHO POLY 21/11/77 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 24/11/77, 14. John F. Parker, Anni Lee Taylor, Robert Schofield, Elisabeth Day. Dir Jeremy Gagan. Review: Stage 1/12/77, 13. Comment: The play involved an American couple imposing themselves on a young English honeymoon couple; however, all is not well sexually with both couples.

77.537 The Zoo Story (D, 1a) Edward Albee. HOLLYWOOD ARMS c. 21/11/77 (Ln). Cast: Stage 24/11/77, 14. Bryan Moseley Bill Kenwright. Plot: Bordman, Bryer, Fletcher, Hochman, MacNicholas, Matlaw, Nelson/2, Patterson, Salem, Wilmeth.

Comment: Moving Being. Comment: A "synthesis of a gymnastics display and a colour supplement" (Times). "Its busy 2½ hours of life are occupied with serious verbal quotations both live and on TV screens from many contemporary writers, music from varied sources, bits of film, acting, mime, dancing and much else, yet without leaving a firm impression on the mind of something positive having been achieved" (Stage).

77.539 Do Not Go Gentle (P) Gavin Richards. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 22/11/77. 1st perfd 1977. Comment: Belt and Braces.

"Obvious, banal, shallow" (Tribune). "Just a string of sketches, mostly about a couple of morons and their monster child" (Guardian). "Williams has plenty to say about our sex mythology and obsolescent institutions," but becomes distracted by personal "predictable pet hates" (Spectator). Times said the play lacked "points of reference which an audience could hang on to," although it did possess other attributes.

Comment: Abbey Theatre production. The play was about Matthew Talbot (1856–1925) an Irish Catholic mystic. Spectator thought the play became too entertaining in an attempt to avoid a real, earnest debate arising from issues presented in the play. Times observed John Molloy made Talbot sympathetic. “Short, witty and clever ... reserving its irreverent satire for the church” (Variety). Irish Times provided a synopsis of first-night reviews.

77.542 Soon Maybe Boogie (Mus) Paddy Fletcher. WATERSIDE 24/11/77; trfd to OVAL HOUSE 30/11/77. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 24/11/77, 14. Diana Goodhand, Geoffrey Glendower, Philip Lewis, John McKenna, Lee Partis, Paddy Fletcher. Dir Paddy Fletcher; Dgn Tessa Hayes. Review: Stage 5/1/78, 15. Comment: Incubus Theatre Company. “About two generations of Brown-shirts, Black-shirts or whatever the colour may be”; Stage could not discern the lyrics because the sound amplification was too loud.

77.543 A Woman of No Importance (C, 3a) Oscar Wilde (adpt Paul Dehn). TOWER, CANONBURY, 25/11/77. Cast: TTC. Plot: Demastes/1, Fletcher, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shipley, Sobel.

77.544 Home (P, 2a) David Storey. QUESTORS 26/11/77. Cast: QTA. Plot: Demastes/2, Fletcher, Griffiths, Hischak/2, 23–24, Hochman, Loney, Patterson, Salem, Vinson, Weintraub.

Reviews: Guardian 29/11/77, 12; Observer 11/12/77, 37; Stage 8/12/77, 11. Comment: Wakefield Tricycle Company. The play, about a weekend of confessions by various friends, “is all dressed up with nowhere special to go” (Guardian). “A truth-game with some witty lines but too heavily contrived for the slender facts it reveals” (Observer).

77.547 Elvis (Mus, 2pt) Jack Good and Ray Cooney. ASTORIA 28/11/77.* 614 perf. Comment: The Astoria was formerly a cinema (see Stage 6/10/77, 1). The piece won the Evening Standard Award for best musical of 1978. Seats cost £1.50–£5.50 and the theatre also offered “Dinner & Top price seat £8.50” (advt.). A charity performance was given on 5/12/77 in aid of the Save London's Theatres Campaign. Variety reported the house lights were accidentally left on “robbing the show of much of its atmosphere; nevertheless, there were good performances from the three actors portraying Elvis at different stages in his life. “Simply a seamless flow of 70 numbers backed by film and still projections and celebrating Elvis rather than exploring him” (Guardian); Times agreed.

Comment: A second helping of "old music hall jokes and communal sing-songs dragged kicking and screaming into a loony parody of one of those Crowthers of Bankdam family sagas" (Guardian). "Exuberant, primitive theatre ... with funny lines and boisterous performances" (Times).

Based on the life of Jimmy Boyle, a murderer, his time in prison, and who eventually became an artist. The things the play lacked were "plot development or any sort of tension" (Times). "A superb performance by Peter Kelly" (Stage).

77.552 Monsieur Artaud (P) Michael Almaz. JACKSONS LANE 29/11/77. Cast: Stage 24/11/77, 14. John Ioannou, Liz Brailsford. Comment: Artaud Company.

Reviews: Guardian 2/12/77, 12; Stage 22/12/77, 16; Times 30/11/77, 19; Tribune 27/1/78, 7. Comment: Pirate Jenny. Based partially on facts, the play was about discrimination of various kinds in a factory. Tribune praised Edgar as "one of the most politically intelligent and committed of contemporary playwrights." Times said that generally Edgar handled the courtroom thriller format well, although perhaps some hints were buried "too deep to create much tension."

77.556 A Right Christmas Caper (P for children) Willis Hall. Comment: Prospect Theatre Company. Times noted the performance was poorly attended which was a pity because "Frank Hauser's production is a major act of rehabilitation, which triumphs in putting historical accuracy to expressive use." "The actors breathe unexpected life into Dryden's verse, making the play stand up strongly as powerful tragedy," with strong performances by John Turner and Barbara Jefford (Stage).

Reviews: Guardian 20/12/77, 8; Times 7/12/77, 16; Tribune 13/1/78, 7. Comment: "A fine piece of feminist theatre ... a stunning study of female sexuality" (Tribune). Times commended the play but thought the conflict in the piece was "too schematic."

77.564 Franz into April (P) Pam Gems. ICA 5/12/77 (Ln). * Cast: Stage 1/12/77, 10. Franz Warren Mitchell; April Patricia Franklin; Lise Hilboldt, Chris Monk, Alan Cullen. Pd Pam Gems, Frank Hatherley; Dir Frank Hatherley; Dgn Sally Gardner. Reviews: Guardian 8/12/77, 12; Spectator 24/12/77, 34; Stage 22/12/77, 16; Times 6/12/77, 7. Comment: The play, based on "the work and character of Fritz Perls," a Californian Freudian therapist, was unusual for a lunchtime piece because it was “actually about something interesting” (Guardian). “Leaves you with a powerfully comic idea of Gesalt as a living process” (Times).

77.565 Kiss and Kill (P) Ann Mitchell and Susan Todd. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 5/12/77. 1st perfd 1977. Josefina Cupido, Clive Russell, Gillian Hanna, Chris Bowler, Mary McCusker, Roger Allam, Helen Glavin, Susan Todd. Dir Susan Todd; Dgn Stephanie Howard. Comment: Monstrous Regiment. “It seemed all to be out of a sociology textbook, a rambling and contrived piece built around woman as a victim of physical and emotional violence” (Gay News). “Too loosely structured to work overall” (Tribune). Times generally approved the piece, though the text could have been trimmed.

77.566 The Late Edwina Black (P, 3a) William Dinner and William Morum. WIMBLEDON 5/12/77. Stephen Yardley, Carole Mowlam, John Bentley. Plot: Best/50, 317, Bordman/4, 294, Fletcher, French/2, Hischak, Kabatchnik/2.

A “powerful assessment of relative values” in Rhodesia (Observer). Times described the writing as a “mystical web ... [that] suggests an excursion into the brain ... which, seen from the left, resembles Africa.”

77.567b Richard III, Part Two (P) David Pownall. COTTESLOE 5/12/77. 1st perfd Traverse, Edinburgh, 24/8/77. Press night was 8/12/78. “Combines a fascinating myth with an innocent physical exuberance” (Guardian). Observer thought the piece a little long but reported the children “seemed gripped.” Times commended the piece for leaving the poem intact. The production remained in repertory until 23/2/78.

Comment: Attic Theatre Company. “A dramatised version of cantos II and IV ... Terence Seward as a rather too Victorian Byron is the linkman. Julie Neubert is a charming Julia and Haidee with Stephen Oxley very much the wide-eyed innocent adrift as Juan” (Stage).

77.571 A Pinprick of History (Surrealist paradox) Margaretta D'Arcy. ALMOST FREE 6/12/77 (Ln). * Cast: Stage 8/12/77, 12. The problem with the rant was its overpowering rage (Tribune 13/1). "Too intentionally amateurish and cluttered to convey any information" (Times). "After an hour of these 'brief chronicles of our time,' the audience was given the choice of leaving or staying behind for questions. I left" (Stage).

Comment: Connaught Theatre (Worthing) Production. For the Westminster transfer the production was rewritten to accommodate the smaller auditorium. "Too much of a wreck to get very far ... resembles a series of TV variety show skits tied together by 23 songs and a common but inconsistently delineated theme" (Variety). "A bewildering affair, now primed with comic anachronisms, now developing into cloak-and-sword, and never sure of itself in either vein" (Illustrated London News). Times' description of the piece implied strong disapproval.

A well-written "off-beat" piece about fairground stuntmen (Guardian). "It carries total conviction as a backstage study of the stunt game" with Prunella Gee as an "ex-Roedean girl" turned into "the ill-used showgirl" (Times).

Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Review: Stage 22/12/77, 15. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. A ten-week season 12/12/77-18/2/78. "Still retains its remarkable musical vitality and freshness, and one can only marvel at the way the company goes through its very familiar routines with clockwork precision and an air of spontaneity. The devotees still applaud every number and go into raptures over the simple fooleries of the 'Here's a how-de-do' encores" (Stage).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Press night was 13/1/78. The play's sub-title was New Narrow Road to the Deep North. The production lasted nearly three hours. "The play contrasts the Eastern way of rule by oppression with the Western one of tyranny by guilt" (Observer). "An unsentimental parable: one that assumes man can, through collective action, change his environment" (Guardian). Times found the narrative somewhat unclear but called the play "complex and marvellously written." Gay News commended Mike Gwilym's "powerful performance" and Patrick Stewart.

77.580 The Gingerbread Man (P for children) David Wood. OLD VIC 13/12/77 (m). 1st perfd Towergate, Basildon, 13/12/76. Comment: The production demonstrated "that pantomime, the one art form invented in England according to Max Beerbohm, is a great gallimaufry in which cruelty, doggerel, transvestism, puns and pop are mysteriously licensed"; Leslie Crowther and Arthur Askey were the star attractions, and the Principal Boy was male rather than the traditional female (Guardian).

production which was given in several locations. The piece featured a Cinderella who is "a punk in Peckham who lives by snatching handbags from old ladies" (Times).

77.598 The Incredible Johnny Banger (P for children) Chris Langham. "Heath Robinson whimsy alone doesn't make a show and this one gradually sinks under the sheer confusion of its plot" (Guardian). Times generally approved but said the production lacked the necessary "constant bounce and involvement" required for a successful children's show.

Review: Stage 19/1/78, 13. Comment: The Combination. "Celebrates, if that is the right word, the characters, adventures and attitudes of the villains and heroes of comic cartoons, satirising as it goes their political naiveté" (Stage).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Sometimes Keeffe's "social indignation, not his ear and eye, are in control of character and plot" (New Statesman). "Episodic, entertaining, slangy and as sentimental as a Capra movie" (Guardian). Spectator agreed with both assessments. For Times Keeffe was at his best when he wasn't writing propaganda.

Plot: Bordman/2, 380, Demastes/1, Fletcher, Gassner, Griffiths, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Shipley, Sobel. Review: Stage 30/12/77, 9. Comment: The play "gets quite a shaking-up, for Denise Coffey's production gives it a touch of the Charley's Aunts. This classic drag-act farce is also in repertory at the Young Vic and the same setting and cast are used for both plays. This means that Aunt Augusta—the formidable dragon, Lady Bracknell—is played by Teddy Green, a likeable performer in other shows but inflicted with a totally unsuitable role in this instance" (Stage).

Comment: Stage (30/12) praised the revival thoroughly, particularly Bart's adaptation, Sean Kenny's innovative setting, and Roy Hudd's performance. Times noted the production was not merely a "carbon-copy" of the original. Daily Mirror called the revival "enchanting."

Comment: Guardian remarked how much removed productions of Pan were from “the mysteriously small-scale work” Barrie wrote; Susannah York was “an unusually sexy Peter.” Times lamented the huge venue and the television references, but thought the production still recalled the “wonderful things” the stage can do.

Comment: Times thought the piece possessed an insufficient narrative element and the amplified singing by Davy Jones and Micky Dolenz had “an alienating effect.” “But if it's all very obvious it's all very pleasant. The mode is tuneful, the costumes colourful and the settings have a picture-book appeal. It's entertaining that's the main point” (Daily Mirror).

Comment: "A work of such unremitting power and savage modernity" (Guardian). New Statesman discussed how the adaptation omitted trenchant aspects of Tolstoy's piece. Spectator confessed to not having read the original, but found the adaptation "an astonishingly modern piece of self-revelation." David "Suchet's is a sulphurously obsessive performance, with the kind of deliberate timing that signals a complete involvement in the character's emotions" (Times).

78.2 Creepy Crawlies (Ent) Joe Lang and David McGillivray and Walter Zerlin, Jr. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 3/1/78. 1st perfd Tollcross Primary School, Edinburgh, 22/8/77. Pippa Sparkes, Clare Booth, Peter Dawson, Peter Harding, David McGillivray, Sandra Manning, Walter Zerlin, Jr., Henry Rose. Dir Mike Sparrow. Review: Stage 19/1/78, 13. Comment: Entertainment Machine. A satire on B-films that transformed the Round House Downstairs "into a 1950s picture palace, and sets before us the whole of a film bill—trailers, advertisements, newsreel and travelogue as well as the main feature" (Stage).

Comment: MPS 698. National Theatre. Previews 21/12/77–22/12, 26/12–31/12/77. "Peter Woods directs the play as if it were a parable about role-playing" (Spectator). However, Times declared "this flamboyant artificiality seems absolutely right for a piece that equates marriage with a theatrical performance." "Glossy agreeable entertainment ... an eye-ravishing production ... appealing performances by Diana Rigg and Richard Johnson" (Variety). Illustrated London News praised Marcus's "subtle and witty" translation.

Comment: MPS 682. Siobhan McKenna was the chief attraction in this modest two-hander dealing with Sarah Bernhardt at the close of her career (Variety). "A quiet and fastidious portrait" of Bernhardt" given "a beautiful performance" by McKenna (Times). "McKenna's technique is matched to the dramatist's civilized text. Right through her temperamental splendours Sarah remains true, affecting, recognizable" (Illustrated London News).

Reviews: Birmingham Post 17/1/78, 6; Stage 26/1/78, 11; Times 17/1/78, 9. Comment: Dolphin Theatre Company. Times complained the cast members failed to pay attention to each other. "Built like a well-engineered detective story, the plot ... holds together this somewhat mystical moral tale and makes it all seem credible (Stage).

78.20 We All Fall Up (P) Robin Whiteman. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 16/1/78. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 30/12/77, 10. Michael Blackham, James Preston, Karin Scott. Dir Christopher Wenner; Pd Ray Hancock. Reviews: Stage 26/1/78, 11; Times 17/1/78, 9. Comment: Box Theatre. Times panned this more than confusing version of what the programme dubbed a "modern Pilgrim's Progress" in which the "hero sets off in pursuit of his runaway father."

78.21 Kingdom Come (Irish-Caribbean MC) Stewart Parker and Shaun Davey (mus). KING'S HEAD 17/1/78.* Plot: Schrank. Comment: Guardian said the "whole concept is fundamentally flawed" because "an Irish political allegory in the context of a Caribbean island's quest for identity” became impenetrably confusing. The two Observer reviews presented opposing views on the merit of the piece. Times commended the songs but had difficulty deciphering the plot.

78.22 Floorshow (Cabaret) Caryl Churchill and Michelene Wandor and Bryony Lavery and David Bradford and Helen Glavin (mus) and Josefina Cupido (mus) and Roger Allam (mus). Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Press night was 26/1/78.

Guardian said the play possessed "an important seminal influence" even though its message was no longer original. Spectator entertained similar thoughts. Times opined the revival needed a "more boisterous audience than it had on opening night."

78.35 The Irish Hebrew Lesson (P, 1a) Wolf Mankowitz. ALMOST FREE 24/1/78 (Ln); trfd to SHAW 18/2/78.* Cast: Stage 26/1/78, 12. Leonard Kenton, Patrick Drury, Michael Low, Patrick Connor. Dir Ed Berman; Assist dir Stuart Owen; Cost dgn Sarah Newman. Plot: Hirschak/2, 163, Walford. Reviews: Guardian 26/1/78, 8; Irish Times 25/1/78, 9; Stage 2/2/78, 11. Comment: Inter-Action. Sunday perfs only at the Shaw. The play's "'dialogue' between an elderly Jewish street-trader in 1921 Ireland and a boy on the run from the Black and Tan soldiers, contrasts human violence with the kindness and understanding of which humanity is also capable" (Stage). "A tender and witty ... play about loyalty, faith and ignorance" (Irish Times). The first New York production (Colonnades 22/2/80) ran for 88 performances.

Comment: MPS 687. English Stage Company. Spectator detected "a sense of strain, in both the writing and the production." Variety noted the changes of mood and paradoxical material were confusing, and the final scene was so stunning that on the first night the audience "could only muster a perfunctory and very hesitant hand for the single curtain call." "Charles Marowitz directed in a Hammer horror style, leaden with symbolism, a play which delights in showing the delights of horror, but doesn't deal with its dialectics"

(Tribune). “If [Barnes] is out to display the impotence of comedy, he is also striving to extract whatever comic effects he can from the most impossible material” (Times).

78.37 Split Ends (Duol) Philip Morgan. SOHO POLY 24/1/78 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 26/1/78, 12. John Flanagan, Jeremy Blake. Dir Peter Stevenson; Dgn Vivienne Cartwright. Reviews: Stage 2/2/78, 11; Times 26/1/78, 9. Comment: This “deft” duologue was about a loutish young man being transformed into flattering hairdresser (Times).

Comment: “Only as a vehicle does [the play] seem worth reviving” (Variety). “An enchanting revival of a modest, well-mannered play pairs Ingrid Bergman with Wendy Hiller in one of the notable performances of the current London season” (Christian Science Monitor). Times thought the play was worth reviving and added Derek Godfrey and Frances Cuka to the list of worthy performers.

Reviews: Stage 9/2/78, 14; Times 30/1/78, 6. Comment: Richmond Fringe. The five actors played 14 characters; thus all not named in above reviews. “A tragic farce—farcical because it sends up rotten bureaucracy, big business, do-gooding and any number of sacred cows of formula existence; tragic because all these second-rate people haven’t a hope for anything but third-best to look forward to in what remains of their lives” (Stage). The play’s serious intent was overwhelmed by its “overall triviality” (Times).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. “John Barton’s production ... is like the play itself: a thing of shreds and patches” (Guardian). Instead of “gratuitous style and show” the production offered “a group of plausible worldlings in plausibly domestic surroundings” (New Statesman). “What we get is a superlative treatment of the individual scenes, linked rather better than usual,” and with fine performances from Michael Pennington, and Judi Dench, and Beryl Reid (Times). The latter performances also impressed Illustrated London News, especially Judi Dench's.

78.45 Rosmersholm (P, 4a) Henrik Ibsen (trans Michael Meyer of Ibsen's play, 1887). QUESTORS 28/1/78. Cast: QTA. Plot: Bryan, Fletcher, French/2, Hochman, Matlaw, Patterson, Shank, Shipley. Review: Middlesex County Times 3/2/78, 10.

Comment: "The piece makes great demands on a British audience" and "the strain is intensified" by the intimacy of the New End (Observer). Times had reservations about the play now being old-fashioned, but recommended the production and the performances of Don Fellows, Pat Starr, and Peter Weller ("a superbly macabre performance"). The first New York production (Public/Anspacher 7/11/71) ran for 121 performances.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. A dramatised reading of a script about the inquest into Stephen Biko’s death. “A piece of life made theatre” with notable performances from Ian McKellen, Patrick Stewart, and Clyde Pollit (Guardian). The production remained in repertory until 19/2/78. The first New York production, as The Biko Inquest (Theatre Four 17/5/78), ran for 31 performances.

78.60 Birdbath (P, 1a) Leonard Melfi. KING’S HEAD 6/2/78 (Ln). Cast: Stage 9/2/78, 11. Michael Dickinson, Jennie Anderson. Dir Paul Jerricho. Plot: Eisler Vinson, Walford.

Comment: “About the social and moral persecution of a middle-aged transvestite who runs a speech and drama school,” “painstakingly performed by Gordon Chater” (Variety). Chater’s performance was “both furiously funny and extremely sad” (Spectator). “A blissfully happy marriage between a performer and his material” (Times). The first New York production, as The Elocution of Benjamin (Theatre Four 20/3/79), ran for 31 performances.

Grantham. Review: Stage 23/2/78, 11. Comment: Chameleon Theatre Projects. The characters—"gran left over from the Battle of Britain, dad a NF [National Front] stalwart, mum just plain on the turn, daughter in love with an Irish boy and son (recently appointed a deputy head master) engaged to a Pakistani beauty"—offered plenty of potential that was unrealized (Stage).

78.64 Media Hack—or, The Frustrated Revenge of Derek the Eighth (F) Steve Grant. SOHO POLY 7/2/78 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 9/2/78, 11. Comment: Steve Grant was theatre editor of Time Out. The plot involved minor terrorists and a husband and wife fighting, but it lost its point because it did not observe the rule that "farce requires an internal logic and consistency" (Guardian). "The piece is compact of pleasing jokes if uncertain how to deploy them" (Observer).

78.65 The Rear Column (D, 3a) Simon Gray. RICHMOND 7/2/78.* Plot: Hischak/2, 138, Loney, Weintraub. Comment: The pre-West End production prior to opening at the Globe later in February (78.103). The first New York production (Stage 73 7/11/78) ran for 40 performances.

Plot: Demastes/1, Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Mander/3, Matlaw, Patterson, Purdom, Salem, Shank, Shipley. Reviews: Birmingham Post 10/2/78, 6; Illustrated London News

1/4/78, 77; Observer 12/2/78, 28; Spectator 18/2/78, 25; Stage 16/2/78, 11; Times 10/2/78, 13. Comment: Prospect Theatre Company. Eileen Atkins succeeded "in recreating the most hackneyed speech anywhere in Shaw ... and turning its stale rhetoric into concrete tragic emotion. A great performance" (Times). Spectator enjoyed the production but pointed out Shaw's flawed travesties of history in the play and their consequences.

Comment: MPS 704. National Theatre. Press night was 15/2/78. Tribune said the piece had "translated badly from short story via television to the stage ... On stage all subtlety was lost." Spectator pointed to the "clumsy device of having the wife send a series of passionate love letters to her husband," a weakness also discussed by Times. "Its construction suggests that it would be best consigned to radio" (Guardian). The production remained in repertory until 3/4/78.

78.73 The Monstrous Regiment (Anthology) Robert Spencer and Jill Nott-Bower. OLD VIC 12/2/78.* 1 perf. Cast: Stage 26/1/78, 12. Review: Stage 23/2/78, 11. Comment: "Co-starring Judi Dench and Michael Williams, is a delightfully light-hearted retrospect of man's relations with the superior sex (Stage 23/2/78, 11). Given in aid of the Catholic Stage Guild.

Reviews: Guardian 15/2/78, 10; Irish Times 24/2/78, 10; Stage 9/3/78, 13. Comment: Belt and Braces. "An absorbing and morose description of institutionalised old age," but one that does not provide any answers (Guardian).

78.80 Taking Our Time (P) The cast. JACKSONS LANE 13/2/78. Reviews: Stage 23/2/78, 21; Times 14/2/78, 12. Comment: Red Ladder. This touring piece was about the great strike of 1842. Times admired the capacity of the cast "to make the social point while never sacrificing individual perspective." "First-class entertainment and moving drama by any standards and shows a company in full bloom, assertive in its aims, slick and professional in its presentation, highly talented in its component parts" (Stage). The piece was also performed at Hammersmith Town Hall on 14/2/78.

Comment: MPS 703. National Theatre. Previews 2/2–13/2/78. Variety thought the revival was noteworthy for individual performances by Tutin, Stephens, Richardson, and Kingsley. Like Variety, Spectator observed the production emphasized the play's comedy. Times noted the dominance of Chekhov's specified nursery setting in Peter Hall's production which helped emphasize the piece as a comedy. Observer thought the revival only partially successful, but praised Frayn's "nippy" translation. The production remained in repertory until 18/11/78.

78.84 We Love You (P with mus) Doug Lucie. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 14/2/78.* Flick Knife Tim McInnerny; Carolyn Colquhoun, Doug Lucie. Dir Doug Lucie, Just Gregson. Reviews: Stage 2/3/78, 15; Times 15/2/78, 19. Comment: A still evolving piece about the disintegration of a punk rock band (Times). Stage said the plot was familiar and the performances unremarkable.

78.85 Brainstorming with the Boys (P) Andrew Davies. ORANGE TREE 16/2/78.* Cast: Stage 16/2/78, 12.

Dorothea Marian Diamond; Max Anthony Higgins; Geoffrey Geoffrey Leesley; Elwyn Zia Mohyeddin. Dir Anthony Cornish. Review: Stage 9/3/78, 13. Comment: Richmond Fringe. A weekend meeting of television script-writers and a producer resulted in numerous sexual encounters.

78.86 Wet Maps Dry Seas (Epic MD). OVAL HOUSE 16/2/78. Cast: Stage 9/3/78, 15. Colin Wood, David Humpage, Lou Gladfield, Lizzie Lockhart, Dagmar Krause, Di Davies, Steve Gumbley, Louise Oliver, Dave Wheeler. Review: Stage 30/3/78, 11. Comment: I. O. U. Stage declared the piece "is atmosphere, imagination and theatre of the absurd, mime and design, demanding and relaxing all at the same time. In short, it is theatre. Superlatively good theatre"; however, Stage did not indicate there was any specific meaning.

78.91 Antony and Cleopatra (T) William Shakespeare. OLD VIC 20/2/78.  Cast: WWT/17. Antony John Turner; Caesar Terence Wilton; Cleopatra Barbara Jefford; Charmian Zoe Hicks; Iras Rosamond Truman-Attwood; Enobarbus Kenneth Gilbert; Decretas Trevor Martin. Dir Toby Robertson; Dgn Nicholas Georgiadis; Mus Donald Fraser. Reviews: Birmingham Post 20/3/78, 6; New Statesman 3/3/78, 298; Stage 2/3/78, 15; Times 23/2/78, 15. Comment: Prospect Theatre Company. Many of the performers were the same as for 77.523. Barbara Jefford and John Turner were not successful in their roles; there was "certainly no strong sexual bond" between them (New Statesman). Times noted Jefford and Turner were also performing the same characters in All for Love (77.558), but much less successfully in Shakespeare.

78.92 Bodies (CD, 2a) James Saunders. HAMPSTEAD 20/2/78. 73 perf. Comment: "For all its dogged intelligence, the play boils down to nothing more than a series of words" (Guardian). Only Dinsdale Landen's performance was worthwhile (New Statesman). "Some painfully impressive writing here, but its argument is characteristically blurred" (Times).

Comment: "Give or take a couple of jokes, the humour is leaden, and the suspense is non-existent. The combination is fatal"; however, West End audiences are more tolerant than American ones, and so the piece might survive (Variety). "If this is a show, murder might be preferable" (Observer). Roger Redfarn's production reinforced Times's "prejudices against this kind of show." The first New York production (Biltmore 28/12/75) ran for 17 performances.

Comment: Guardian wondered why Simon Gray had written the piece. "A survival test for audiences, since it's long, talky, downbeat and generally baffling" (Variety). Illustrated London News found the play effective until the final explanatory third portion. New Statesman provided a lengthy analysis of the play and its intent, and urged readers to ignore other critics' "stingy reviews." Times sided with New Statesman: a "fine, scrupulously considered play ... Rarely have I seen a show as perfectly cast."

Comment: Essentially "a straight melodrama, with a plot about two men who knock off a titled old lady for her money. The twist ... is that the pair are homosexual lovers"; should have a prosperous run (Variety). Fails "to satisfy even one's meagre curiosity about all those loaded twists and turns" (Observer).

ARTS 25/2/78.* Cast: Stage 16/2/78, 12. Storyteller Frank Lazarus; McTwingle Roland Oliver; Zoe Bright, Keren Wilson, Geoffrey Drew, Ray Roberts. Dir Ursula Jones; Dgn Quentin Thomas; Cost dgn Jo Staples; Magic adviser Kovari. Review: Stage 9/3/78, 15. Comment: Unicorn Theatre.

“About a girl who lives in a high-rise block, meets an eccentric Scots gardener, is given the titular vegetable for a birthday present and goes on some very strange adventures in the countryside” (Stage).

78.109a The Sandbox (P, 1a) Edward Albee. NEW INN 25/2/78. Plot: MacNicholas, Matlaw, Nelson/2, Wilmeth.

78.109b The Zoo Story (D, 1a) Edward Albee. NEW INN 25/2/78. Plot: Bordman, Bryer, Fletcher, Hochman, MacNicholas, Matlaw, Nelson/2, Patterson, Salem, Wilmeth.

78.110 Bad Dream in an Old Hotel (P) James Pettifer. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 26/2/78.* 1 perf. Cast: Findlater. Patrick Duggan, Nick Gecks, Roland Macleod, Bryan Murray, John Say, Christine Schofield, Frank Vincent. Dir Jonathan Holloway. Comment: English Stage Company.

78.111 The Lunatic, the Lover and the Poet (Anthology) Jane McCulloch (adpt of Lord Byron’s works) and Donald Fraser (mus). OLD VIC 26/2/78.* Cast: Stage 26/1/78, 12. Isla Blair, Derek Jacobi. Review: Stage 9/3/78, 13. Comment: MPS 814. Stage commended the music in its own right, in addition to the piece and the cast.

78.112 Colour Fairy Tale (P) Jiri Srnec. WIMBLEDON 27/2/78. 1st British perf. Review: Stage 9/3/78, 13. Comment: Black Theatre of Prague. “A charming allegory on happiness for children of all ages. If nothing else, it reminds one how skilful Jiri Srnec’s company is how numerous and what a lot many of our puppet and black cabinet technique operators have still to learn” (Stage).

78.113 Hinge and Bracket (Ent). RICHMOND 27/2/78. George Logan and Patrick Fyffe. Comment: A one-week engagement.

78.114 Penny Whistles (Ent). ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 27/2/78. 1st perfd 24 George Square, Edinburgh, 5/9/77. Robert Louis Stevenson Mike Maran; Thomas Stevenson David Sheppard. Review: Stage 9/3/78, 15. Comment: About Robert Louis Stevenson and his father. “It would have been tolerable if it had been about half the length and a good deal slicker” (Stage).

78.115 The Prodigal Father (C) Jim Hiley. SOHO POLY 27/2/78 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 2/3/78, 16. Christopher Ettredge, Angela Rooks, Paul Williamson, Susan Wooldridge. Dir Penny Chearns; Dgn Terry Jacobs. Review: Guardian 28/2/78, 8. Comment: A father returns to his family after spending two years in the African desert; the play was “intended to be a ruthless exposé of family hypocrisy” (Guardian).

78.116a Rattling the Railings (P) Peter Terson. SOHO POLY 27/2/78.* Cast: Stage 2/3/78, 16; WWT/17. Pauline Elizabeth Proud; Brenda Ann Firbank; Dad Eric Francis; Alec Barry Lowe; Robert Terry Cowling. Dir Graham Chinn; Dgn Terry Jacobs. Reviews: Guardian 2/3/78, 12; Stage 9/3/78, 13. Comment: The theme of both plays was that “families stick together not for love or money but from a morbid fear of loneliness in old age” (Guardian).

78.116b Twilight Joker (P) Peter Terson. SOHO POLY 27/2/78. 1st Brighton 1977. Cast: Stage 2/3/78, 16; WWT/17. Cynthe Ann Firbank; Basil Barry Lowe. Dir Graham Chinn; Dgn Terry Jacobs. Reviews: Guardian 2/3/78, 12; Stage 9/3/78, 13.

THEATRO TECHNIS 28/2/78. Demos Chris Johnston; Angelique Rockas, René Rice, Anna Savva, Alkis Kritikos. Dir George Evgeniou; Mus Duncan Brown. Plot: Gassner, Hochman, Law, Patterson. Review: Stage 18/5/78, 13. Comment: “A somewhat uneven muddle,” with some characters turned into punk rockers, others into clowns; “but as a subsidised piece of touring theatre it is just not good enough” (Stage). Stage also reported the piece had been staged during the first three months of 1978, and was now being toured nationally.

78.124a Scared to Death (Improvised P). ICA c. 28/2/78; trfd to OVAL HOUSE 3/78. Review: Stage 9/3/78, 15. Yolande Bertsch, Cas Enklaar, Hans Man in't Veld, Shireen Strooker, Gerard Thoolen, Ivan Wolffers. Comment: Het Werkteater (Amsterdam). “They eschew such theatricality as the use of costumes and the obvious use of a woman to play a woman’s part, a man for a man’s. They insist on keeping the house lights full on throughout the hour and a half’s playing time” (Stage).

78.124b You’ve Got to Live with It (Improvised P). ICA c. 28/2/78; trfd to OVAL HOUSE 3/78. Marja Kok, Joop Admiraal, Frank Groothoff, Herman Vinck, Helmert Woudenberg. Reviews: Stage 9/3/78, 15; Times 1/3/78, 9. Comment: Het Werkteater (Amsterdam). This improvised piece was about hospital life and death which Times praised fully as it did the “playing of its five fine actors.”

78.125 Diary of a Rat (P) Michael Almaz (based on Alain Harte’s novel). OVAL HOUSE 1/3/78. 1st perfd Traverse, Edinburgh, 10/1/77. Cast: Stage 23/2/78, 12. Jenny Cryst, John Ioannou, John Wyman, Alexa Povah, Pam Martell, Michael Almaz. Dir Michael Almaz. Comment: Artaud Company. The play was about the German occupation of Paris during World War II.

Comment: MPS 711. Birmingham Repertory Theatre Production. A “vulgar, witless charade” (Guardian). “Visually pleasant, cleverly staged and sometimes funny, but lacks impact ... a chancy bet” (Variety). Finlay “looks wrong, sings worse, and is altogether an embarrassment” (Spectator). “Another ghastly British musical” (Times).

78.127 Twelfth Night; or, What You Will (C) William Shakespeare. Review: Stage 4/5/78, 15. Comment: Mayday Theatre. “About Battersea's first socialist MP, one John Burns, who is seen by Mayday's lights to have been something of a cause/class traitor" (Stage).

78.130 'Ave You 'Eard the One About Joey Baker? (P) Mel Smith and Bob Goody. KING'S HEAD 6/3/78. Cast: WWT/17. Mel Smith, Bob Goody. Mus David Learner, Tony Britten. Reviews: Guardian 9/3/78, 12; Observer 19/3/78, 38; Stage 16/3/78, 11. Comment: Guardian described this piece, about a "third-rate comedian going down and out," as "original, touching and funny in its bleak fashion." Observer found the piece was "not as infinitely fascinating" as the authors did.

78.131 Game of Kings (P) Thomas Muschamp. WIMBLEDON 6/3/78. Barbara Ferris, John Clements, Edward Petherbridge, Robert Grange, Bernard Hepton. Dir Donald MacKechnie. Dgn Pamela Ingram. Review: Stage 20/4/78, 13. Comment: The play, about the grim aspects of war, was a considerably revised version of The Brass Hat. "There is, however, a peculiar datedness which keeps on pulling the involved listener up short" (Stage).

78.132 My Cousin Rachel (P) Diana Morgan and Gerald Frow (adpt of Daphne Du Maurier's novel, 1951). RICHMOND 6/3/78. 1st perfd Repertory, Birmingham, 9/6/76. Review: Stage 30/3/78, 13. Comment: Association of Australian Artists. Stage commended this "very good musical play in the Brechtian manner."

78.134 The Privacy of the Patients (P) Michael Heath. ICA c. 6/3/78 (Ln). 1st perfd Heriot-Watt Theatres, Edinburgh, 3/9/77. Cast: Stage 9/3/78, 15. Roger Malcolm Edwards; David Edward Seekerson. Dir John Steer. Review: Stage 30/3/78, 11. Comment: The play was about two homosexual brothers, one suffering from a lobotomy, the other out, proud, and camp; but both are suffering painfully.

78.135 Rat (P) Clive Walker. PINDAR OF WAKEFIELD 6/3/78 (Ln). 1st perf? Pamela Wendy Ellis, Sidney Thomas, Derek Broome, David Greenaway, Joe Leeway.

Dir Mark Knight; Dgn Anne Morrison. Review: Stage 6/4/78, 17. Comment: Shirk Productions. About "human waste-drop-out students, practically teenage tramp, secretary bird after her boss worm"; it suffered from "insufficiently created characters and dialogue" (Stage).

78.136 The Typists (TC, 1a) Murray Schisgal. UPSTREAM c. 6/3/78. Cast: Stage 9/3/78, 15. Paul Andrew Lawler; Sylvia Annabel Petrie. Dir Peter Murphy. Comment: Tom Conti's performance, "the comically tart and snappish hero, with periodic lapses into depression, is expressive, sustained and credible" (Variety). Gay News was ambivalent about some of the moral and ethical issues raised in the play. New Statesman thought Brian Clark's "indignation is measured, judicious and, in the end, persuasive." Times (8/3) welcomed the return to the stage of a play dealing with "non-political social issues." The first New York production (Trafalgar 17/4/79) ran for 223 performances.

78.138 The Boston Strangler (P) Mike Stott. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 7/3/78.* Cast: Stage 2/3/78, 16. Albert DeSalvo John Cunningham; Jackie Skarvellis. Dir Anthony Matheson. without an interval. "Stott's treatment was an insult to the subject matter" (Tribune). Observer, indicating the piece was largely documentary, said "it grapples with some kind of truth, not contemptible." Times reported that as the number of murders increased the audience began to leave gradually during the blackouts.

78.139 Sleuth (Thriller, 2a) Anthony Shaffer. SAVOY 7/3/78; trfd to AMBASSADORS 9/5/78. Cast: Theatricalia; Variety 5/4/78, 86; WWT/17. Comment: MPS 695. English Stage Company. "A scathing study of one of the dark corners of our social system written with what one can only call a blazing promise" (Guardian 7/4). "Frightening, frequently funny, and compassionate" (Times 13/3). Stage conceded the play packed "a powerful wallop," but thought Williams had "heavily loaded" his viewpoint. The first New York production (Players 19/11/79) ran for 184 performances.

78.142 Don Juan (C [5a]) Molière (trans David

Comment: Foco Novo. “About a poor little rich girl hooked on heroin and her working-class husband” (Tribune). “A play of patently sincere intentions but somewhat muffled effect ... raises lots of interesting issues without really exploring them” (Guardian); Times concurred. For Observer (19/3) the play exhibited Taylor’s “fatal habit” of making “his characters endlessly but opaquely talkative.”

Review: Ealing Gazette 24/3/78, 19. Comment: The production introduced some modern twists, “but it was questionable whether the story benefitted theatrically from the heroine being played by a man in drag and the murderer by a woman in sexy rig” (Ealing Gazette).

78.164 Orpheus (P) Steven Rumbelow. OPEN SPACE 20/3/78. * Reviews: Observer 26/3/78, 26; Stage 6/4/78, 17; Times 21/3/78, 11. Comment: Triple Action. While Times found potential in this radical reworking of the Orpheus and Eurydice story, it took exception to Rumbelow’s and the Company’s “ironic disdain for the public.” Rumbelow’s “story-telling technique ... is unnecessarily obscure, with side-show performers acting out their kinky version of the myth of Orpheus and Eurydice” (Stage).

Comment: "The first-night audience gave it an ecstatic reception" (Daily Mirror). "Still a satisfying show," this revival was essentially "the production mounted last year by Edwin Lester for the Los Angeles and San Francisco Civic Light Operas" (Variety). A "full-blooded" revival (Times). The first New York production (Ziegfeld 3/12/53) ran for 583 performances.

Comment: Set in a Parisian jazz club in 1968, the play examined the varying attitudes of a disparate group of characters thrown together during that turbulent period. Guardian found the play uneven but interesting, with good performances from Antony Sher, Janet Henrey, and Pamela Moiseiwitsch. "Less a political drama than an anecdote on the lines of there was an Englishman, a Frenchman and a German ... sparky dialogue and sharply defined characters" (Spectator).

Comment: MPS 712. National Theatre. Press night was 29/3/78. The play lasted slightly more than two hours and was performed without an interval. Guardian (31/3) noted Dewhurst had “shrewdly concentrated events into a single, Under Milk Woodish day.” Observer and Times reported the same effect. Illustrated London News described the piece as “a true pastoral” that was not “sentimentally idyllic.” Both Observer and New Statesman commented on the use of audience members as part of the production. The production remained in repertory until 27/4/78.

78.175 Mr. Director (P) Fay Weldon. ORANGE TREE 24/3/78.* Cast: Stage 23/3/78, 22. The play “examines the case of a 14-year old girl at an approved school—she has had a couple of abortions after the council took her into care and turned down her mother’s sterilisation request; she runs away persistently and has to be retrieved from casual motorway prostitution and now she is a guinea pig [in] an isolation unit” (Stage). “A cry of rage against the horrors of solitary confinement” (Guardian). New Statesman questioned the plausibility of aspects of the piece.

Reviews: Guardian 7/4/78, 10; Stage 13/4/78, 13; Times 11/4/78, 9. Comment: The play was originally entitled Samson’s Riddle (Dublin 1972). Guardian questioned the style of the piece, indicating it was either “a sort of sitcom .. or an organic fable.” Times noted the dialogue switched between the biblical and the modern in style, and there were additional anachronisms.

Comment: “Little more than an excuse for parading the talents of Bruce Forsyth ... essentially a one-man variety display” (Variety).

“Short of selling ices during the interval or conducting the orchestra, there’s not much more Bruce Forsyth can do in this show ... Without Forsyth, I doubt if the show would get a booking in a village hall” (Daily Mirror). The show proved Bruce Forsyth was “an all-round entertainer,” bursting with “personality and sheer energy” (Times).

Review: Stage 25/5/78, 18. Comment: Shirk. About "the social and sexual naiveté [of] three friends whose attempts to have a swinging time are frustrated by their own ineptitude and an overlay of fantasising" (Stage).

78.196 Sounds of Soweto (P). GREENWOOD 3/4/78. Cast: Stage 23/3/78, 22. Azanian Singers and Dancers. Ch Josh Makhene; Dir Louis Mahoney. Reviews: Guardian 6/4/78, 10; Stage 13/4/78, 15. Comment: Black Theatre Workshop. The piece was given by performers formerly in Ipi Tombi and dissatisfied with the portrayal of African culture in that work.

The adaptation consisted of four parts, performed on different nights. "Done with great skill," but adds nothing to just reading the novel itself (Guardian). Observer said the performance passed on the pleasure derived from the novel. Tribune declared enthusiastically: "the nearest to pure magic I've ever seen in a theatre." Times reviewed only Part 2 and opined the complete adaptation needed to be seen before making a final judgment.

78.198 Macbeth (T) William Shakespeare. "Into a jaded saloon somewhere in the Wild West saunter a succession of American archetypes, all too clearly borrowed from the plays of Sam Shepard, each concerned by a drought that threatens the future of the world ... never achieves much beyond a juggling with archetypes, symbols and apocalyptic fantasy" (Guardian). "As with most exercises in mythopoeia, the politics of the piece are profoundly conservative but too flimsy to bear examination" (Spectator).

Comment: Variety was mildly disappointed by the piece, but noted Ayckbourn had added a political dimension to the play and praised the “strong characterizations, precision casting and a splendid physical production.” “By his own formidable standards ... a meagre piece of work” (New Statesman). Spectator said it was not Ayckbourn’s funniest play whilst declaring it an “often hilarious cartoon of a society going through an identity crisis.” Times described the play as “a fine and unusual piece of work,” and noted this was the first time Ayckbourn had directed his work in the West End.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Guardian did not think the play was worth reviving, but said Emrys James's portrayal of Edgar was remarkably similar to Olivier's in 1967 (67.48). Observer thought James's performance "suggests an inadvertent parody of Olivier's," while Spectator said it was "splendid ... touchingly repellent." For Variety the production was "often explosively funny." Times reported some audience members were uncertain whether they should laugh or not.

The piece explored master-servant relationships which came "theatrically alive" in this production (Guardian). In addition to Swift, New Statesman noted these "sado-masochistic frolics" were indebted to the Sadists and surrealists, Artaud, Genet, and Pilobolus. "Comes over as a sumptuous sado-masochistic dream" performed by a "most accomplished" troupe (Times).

Comment: MPS 713. National Theatre. Previews 7/4–11/4/78. Variety faulted the play's structure of twelve "scenes or sketches, many in confusing flashback. The effect is disjointed, and works against sustained mood and character development. Declamatory and self-conscious style is also a handicap." Observer expressed similar reservations, but commended the acting. Times found much to admire in the piece but the plotting raised unanswered questions. Spectator thought Hare was becoming more like John Osborne, an old radical who dislikes progress. See also Lloyd Evans, 229–31. The production remained in repertory until 4/11/78. The first New York production (Papp Public/Newman 21/10/82) ran for 45 performances.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Press night was 17/4/78. A modern dress production with Mafia suggestions. "A vigorous production, with performances that occasionally curdle the blood" (Stage). Guardian saw no reason for this modern dress version; moreover, "to stage it in the round may provide dividends in terms of space for violence and fighting but it leaves intimacy shielded by actors' backs."

Press day was 15/4/78. The three parts were given in turn on 15/4/78, morning, afternoon, evening. "Alan Howard gives a wonderfully modulated performance as Henry: remote in his bouts of wonderment, suddenly plunging into the awful fray around him: a man with an inner life, steadfast to be rightful King yet also tortured and unsure. The entire company seems totally integrated into time and place, movement and flow of character" (Stage).

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 14/4–17/4/78. This "pointilliste play" built up Don Juan's character "like some elliptical puzzle" from twenty-four scenes; a very good performance from Daniel Massey (Guardian 19/4). New Statesman described Hampton's translation as "insistently actable." Times commended Massey, Hampton, and Stewart Trotter. The production remained in repertory until 10/6/78. The first New York production was at the Manhattan Theatre Club 3/4/79.

Comment: MPS 738. National Theatre. Previews 14/4–15/4, 17/4–18/4, 21/4–22/4, 24/4/78. The production lasted nearly four hours. “The physical production is the show’s most impressive aspect” (Variety). Guardian attributed the failure of the production to the miscasting of Michael Bryant. New Statesman made the same point and also reported the first-night audience was restless. Times commended Geoffrey Hill’s translation, but little else. The production remained in repertory until 11/7/78.

Comment: MPS 722. “Appealingly performed in a clockwork physical production ... Ingratiating corn mixed with some tart humor ... An investment reportedly in excess of $700,000, which is steep for London” (Variety). “I found the show engaging, amusing, and for most of the time interesting” (Spectator). “It chucks in every known trick for nailing down the family audience ... A great night out” (Times). “Here is the Broadway musical at its most beguiling and most professional. It has practically everything, including a lost dog but omitting, I am sorry to say, a kitten, to woo us into a state of uncritical bliss” (Illustrated London News). “What a notably soppy first-night audience found irresistible [was] a three-foot tot with a singing voice like an ill-oiled peppermill and a shambling, stupid dog of uncertain pedigree” (New Statesman). The first New York production (Alvin 21/4/77) ran for 2,377 performances.

whimsical production but “not nearly experimental enough” (Guardian). Spectator described in detail the gallimaufry of bizarre aspects of the production. Times noted disapprovingly that the Group was still firmly rooted in the 1960s and compared its 90-minute rock Shakespeare collage unfavorably with Charles Marowitz’s Shakespeare collages; moreover, the cast had “a fixed loathing of Shakesperian verse.”

Plot: Hischak, Hischak/2, 120, Hochman. Reviews: Gay News 1/6/78, 35; Guardian 17/5/78, 12; Illustrated London News 1/7/78, 67; Observer 21/5/78, 15; Spectator 3/6/78, 26; Stage 25/5/78, 13; Times 17/5/78, 9. Comment: Gay News criticized the stodgy translation and said the actors did their best with the material. Guardian's view was diametrically opposed. Spectator thought the play worked on the biographical level but was less significant in "the context of current feminist debate." Times found the "psychodrama ... convincing," with strong performances from Peter Woodthorpe and Georgina Hale. The first

New York production, as The Night of the Tribades (Helen Hayes 13/10/77), ran for 12 performances.

78.296 The Flying Bedstead (C) John Petherbridge. KING'S HEAD (2) 17/5/78 (Ln). * Cast: Stage 18/5/78, 20. Corinne Jennie Curtis; Hugh Peck John Darrell; Sheila Julianne Evans. Dir Antonia Bird. Review: Stage 1/6/78, 21. Comment: A visit to a young married couple by a women's lib friend generates discord.

78.297 More Bawdy Medieval Tales. NEW INN 17/5/78.

78.298 Sentenced to Life (Parable, 2a) Malcolm Muggerridge and Alan Thornhill. WESTMINSTER 17/5/78. * 76 perf. Comment: The play involved "a college professor and the mercy killing of his paralysed wife" (Variety). "If the play fails to grip as much as it deserves, it is because ... it presents a moral problem and answers it with a form of sermon, beseeching instead of illustrating or persuading" (Stage).

78.299 The Achurch Letters (P) Don Taylor. GREENWICH 18/5/78. 1st perfd BBC-2 TV 12/1/77; 1st stage perf. Reviews: Guardian 19/5/78, 10; Stage 25/5/78, 13; Times 19/5/78, 9. Comment: Young Writers' Festival. "One of the funniest plays of the year so far ... all about feminine vanity but I was laughing so much I'm not quite sure" (Stage).

78.300d The School Leaver (P) Michael McMillan. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 18/5/78.* Cast: Findlater. Errol's Stepfather, Lester's Father Alister Bain; Williams Mustafa Djemal; Teacher, Political Activist David Ellison; Dean John Fowler; Errol Chambers Trevor Laird; Errol's Mother, Lester's Mother Isabelle Lucas; Lester's Sister Beverley Michaels; Stall-Holder Stephen Petcher; Marcia Veronica Quilligan; Miss Pocrisy Jane Wood; Lester Johnson Herbert Norville; Voices Over Miles Landesman, Paul Daly, Barry Neill. Dir Gerald Chapman. Reviews: Guardian 19/5/78, 10; Stage 25/5/78, 13; Times 19/5/78, 9. Comment: Young Writers' Festival. "Indicts, with a clarity of observation which is frightening in its logic, the mess of education, job opportunity (or the lack of it) and parental unrest in which so many black teenagers find themselves" (Stage).

78.301 The Mahabharata (Sanskrit epic) attributed to Vyasa. SADLER'S WELLS 18/5/78. Reviews: Guardian 13/5/78, 11, 19/5/78, 10; Stage 25/5/78, 14. Comment: Kathakali Drama Company. "It is not difficult to follow. Emotions are emotions the world over; terror, anger, supplication, fear and lust are easily recognisable no matter what convention of language gesture is used" (Guardian).

78.302a The Picnic (FC, 1a) Malcolm T. Mather. STANHOPE 18/5/78.* Dir Malcolm T. Mather, Wilfred Sharp; Dgn Andy Rudnai. Review: Stage 29/6/78, 19. Comment: Stanhope Theatre Company. An historically-minded father's dreams are interrupted by his family reincarnated as various historical figures.

78.302b The Scarecrow General (P, 1a) Malcolm T. Mather. STANHOPE 18/5/78.* Dir Malcolm T. Mather, Wilfred Sharp; Dgn Andy Rudnai. Review: Stage 29/6/78, 19. Comment: Stanhope Theatre Company. "A Christian allegory contrasting good with evil on the path to redemption" (Stage).

78.303 American Margins. ORANGE TREE 19/5/78 (Ln). Reviews: Stage 29/6/78, 19; Times 22/5/78, 10. Comment: Louisiana Playwright's Theatre. American Margins was the collective title for six one-act American plays: A Texas Romance by Edelma DeLeon; Deano Rides Again by Owen J. Reamer; The Surgeon General Has Determined by Paul T. Nolan; Bondage by J. E. Rishl; Pawn's Gambit by John Fiero; Games Old Men Play by Jim Wilson. Individual performance dates not determined. Performers included Richard Cusimano, Wendy Edmundson, Lisa Cusimano, Melody Faul, Jackie Wilson, Jim Wilson, Randy Holmes, Ernesto Edmundson, Owen Reamer, J. E. Riehl, Paul Nolan, John Fiero. "A thoroughly worthwhile exercise in cultural exchange" (Stage). Times described the plays as "pleasant. It is carefully crafted to fit the actors and even makes teasing comparisons from play to play and playwright to playwright."

78.304 Minutes (P) Geraldine Pilgrim and Janet Goddard and Sally Cranfield (devisers). OVAL HOUSE 19/5/78. Cast: Stage 11/5/78, 20. Henry, "Hesitate and Demonstrate: A photographic Portrait and Script," P.S. Primary Sources on the International Performing Arts, 1 (June-July 1979), 8-13.

78.305 The Lion and the Unicorn Hullabaloo (P for children) "Marged Smith." ARTS 21/5/78.* Cast: Stage 18/5/78, 20. Lion Elyot Marshall; Unicorn Jeremy Condon; MC Ken Gregson; Roger Lane, Marianne Delahaye, Steven Law. Dir Nicholas Barter; Dgn Ralph Adron; Mus Ilona Sekacz. Review: Stage 15/6/78, 9. Comment: Unicorn Theatre. The piece involved a great deal of interaction and participation by the children.

78.306a Cut (P, 1a) Michael Almaz. SOHO POLY 22/5/78. Cast: Stage 25/5/78, 14. Posterkrantz Simon Callow. Dir Robert Walker; Dgn Iona McLeish, Antony McDonald. Review: Stage 1/6/78, 20. Comment: "Simon Callow as the outrageously funny director Posterkrantz, who wants to reshoot the whole of his latest screen epic because someone in the Babylonian orgy is wearing Y-fronts" (Stage).

78.306b Letters from K (One-woman P) Michael Almaz. SOHO POLY 22/5/78. 1st perfd 1974. Cast: Stage 25/5/78, 14. Felice Bauber Caroline Harrington. Review: Stage 1/6/78, 20. The piece derived from Franz Kafka's letters to his fiancée Felice.

78.307 Les parents terribles (P, 3a) Jean Cocteau. OLD VIC 22/5/78. Cast: Stage 18/5/78, 1; WWT/17. Georges Jean Marais; Yvonne Lila Kedrova; Leo France Delahalle; Madeleine Anne Ludovik; Michel Pierre Malet. Dir Jean Marais; Dgn Pace; Cost dgn Gerard Pipart. Plot: Hochman, Matlaw. Reviews: Birmingham Post 23/5/78, 4; Gay News 15/6/78, 31; Guardian 23/5/78, 8; Stage 1/6/78, 13; Times 23/5/78, 9. Comment: Les Galas Karsenty-Herbert. Performed in French and directed by Cocteau's lover, Jean Marais, who also made his British debut as the husband. Guardian noted the production tended to become too melodramatic. "A dire example of the traditional French incapacity for tragic-comedy" (Times).

78.308 The Poet and the Women (C) Andy Smith and Ken Morley (adpt of Aristophanes, Thesmophoriazusa, 411 B.C.). SOHO POLY 22/5/78 (Lt).* Cast: Stage 25/5/78, 14. Ian Collier, Berwick Kaler, Ken Morley, Phil Brether-ton, Susan Majolier, Elisabeth Day, Rita Furzey. Dir Ken Morley. Plot: Gassner, Gunn, Hochman, Patterson, Ship-ley. Review: Stage 1/6/78, 20. Comment: "A contemporary romp, and a busy cast lost no time in turning the whole thing into a sort of X-certificate Up Pompeii—a highly-enjoyable slapstick comedy complete with giant phalluses, naked policemen and much high camp" (Stage).

78.309 The Sons of Pandu. SADLER'S WELLS 22/5/78. Review: Guardian 13/5/78, 11. Comment: Kathakali Drama Company.

78.310 We Can't Pay? We Won't Pay! (Political F, 2a) Dario Fo (trans Lino Pertile; adpt Bill Colvill and Robert Walker of Non si paga? No si paga! 1974). HALF MOON 22/5/78. 1st British perf. Cast: SHM; Stage 18/5/78, 1; WWT/17. Antonia Frances de la Tour; Luigi Denis Lawson; Margherita Patti Love; Giovanni Christopher Malcolm; Policeman Matthew Roberton. Dir Robert Walker; Dgn Lolly Hahn, Mary Lawson. Plot: Fletcher, Hischak/2, 178–79, Patterson. Reviews: Guardian 27/5/78, 11; Observer 28/5/78, 28; Stage 1/6/78, 13; Times 23/5/78, 9; Tribune 16/6/78, 7. Comment: Guardian remarked on the "rapid-fire delivery" of the production. Observer thought the adaptation had reduced the more blatantly polemical aspects of the original. Times reported there was "communal laughter" during the performance, although "much of the general comedy was obvious." The first American production (Westside Theatre/ Downstairs 16/12/80) ran for 120 performances.

78.311 The Zoo Story (D, 1a) Edward Albee. SOHO POLY 22/5/78 (Ln). Cast: Stage 25/5/78, 14. Jerry Douglas Lambert; Peter Harry Towb. Dir Joost Hunningher. 78.312 The Charlie Chaplin Show (P) Sue Dunderdale and Jonathan Cross and Trevor T. Smith (mus) and Mervyn Stutter (mus). THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD EAST, 24/5/78. 1st perfd Harper Adams Agricultural College, Edgmond, Shropshire, 28/4/75. Cast: Stage 18/5/78, 1; WWT/17. Charlie Chaplin Ken Robertson; Richard Albrecht, Hedy Gradalla, Alfred Molina, Pauline Siddle. Dir Sue Dunderdale; Dgn Di Seymour; Light Peter Sutton. Reviews: Guardian 25/5/78, 10; New Statesman 2/6/78, 750; Stage 1/6/78, 13; Times 25/5/78, 14. Comment: MPS 596. Pentabus Theatre Company. A touring production and "not surprisingly, the result is breathless and confusing"; but Dunderdale's production was "affectionate" (Times). "Sketchy, hurried, a bit amateurish," and rescued somewhat by Ken Robertson's performance (New Statesman).

78.313 Dial "M" for Murder (Thriller, 3a) Frederick Knott. TOWER, CANONBURY, 26/5/78. Cast: TTC. Plot: Best/52, 90, Bordman/4, 309, Fletcher, French, Hischak, Loney, 277, Salem.

78.314 Puttin' on the Style (P). OVAL HOUSE 26/5/78. Comment: Major Road. "A light-hearted look at popular music over the past 25 years" (Stage 26/6/80, 27).

78.315 She Asked for It (P). JACKSONS LANE. 26/5/78. Cast: Stage 25/5/78, 14. Kate Rutter, Philippa Williams, Ray Meredith. Review: Tribune 5/5/78, 9. Comment: Counteract/Grapevine. Tribune saw this play about rape at a hall in Whitechapel where it sparked "a heated discussion on the psychology of rape for victim and rapist."

78.316 Oscar Remembered (One-man P, 2a) Maxim Mazumdar. MAY FAIR 28/5/78, 4/6/78. 1st perfd Phoenix, Montreal, 1974; 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 25/5/78, 14. Bosie Maxim Mazumdar. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Previews 31/5–1/6/78. With "Alan Howard's wonderful performance in the title role" the play "comes vibrantly alive, tense with nervous and physical energy" (Spectator). Observer said Howard was "ideally cast" and delivered "the performance of his career." Illustrated London News praised Howard and Terry Hands's production. Times said Hands's formalistic production, while good in itself, ignored "a world of dramatic action in the play."

The London stage debuts of Robert Wilson and Lucinda Childs. "An evening spent swimming not once but twice round someone's pool of free-associations isn't my idea of stimulation" (New Statesman). Times reported some audience members walked out, while others kept looking at their watches; the reviewer, however, experienced "the soothing, intelligent theatricality" of the play. The first New York production (Cherry Lane 22/5/77) ran for 14 performances.

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 27/5–5/6/78. The production used the full 1623 folio version, including the Hecate scenes, and was performed without an interval. "A spare, almost stylized production ... seeming more like a pageant than a compelling drama of murderous ambition" (Variety). Guardian thought the production "totally misguided," and Albert Finney struck the wrong note as Macbeth. "Albert Finney is the Macbeth, a simple-minded man not over-endowed with intelligence and, to judge from his general behaviour, as nutty as a fruit-cake. How he could ever have inspired others to have confidence in his leadership qualities is a mystery, for he appears unreliable from the outset" (Stage). Illustrated London News expressed reservations, while commending Dorothy Tutin, but judging the production overall as "capable." "The bare stage is used only to make the text pedantically plain, not to illuminate its drama" (Times). The production remained in repertory until 31/1/79.

78.339 The Featherstone Flyer (Ent). KING'S HEAD 7/6/78. Cast: Stage 1/6/78, 27. Robin Driscoll, Martin McNicholas, Peter Robinson, Becky Stevens. Review: Times 8/6/78, 11. This play, about two sprinters, failed to develop potential ideas (Observer). "For all the hints of other matters along the way, this is a play about running and nothing else" (Times).

The play, "by focusing on [the second world war] when Britain was united and victorious, tells us much about the present" (Times). "Holman shows a gift for characterisation and for the sort of detail which seems to be authentic even when it isn't any such thing. He is very well served by his large cast" (Stage).

78.362 Gast (P) Alfio Bernabei. THEATRE SPACE 16/6/78. 1st perfd 1976. Comment: Bite Theatre Group. "About the causes and conditions of migrant labour" (Red Weekly 11/11/76, 8).

78.363 At the Crocodile Club (P). NEW INN 17/6/78.

78.364 Grunwicks (P) Alfio Bernabei. THEATRE SPACE 17/6/78. Comment: Bite Theatre Group.

78.367 Paddington Bear on Stage (P for children) Alfred Bradley (adpt of Michael Bond's book). WIMBLEDON 19/6/78. 1st perfd Leas Pavilion, Folkestone, 24/12/77. Comment: Presumably matinée performances.

78.368 You'll Never Believe It (Drag revue). WIMBLEDON 19/6/78. Review: Stage 8/6/78, 6. Comment: An Australian trans-sexual drag show presented by Simone Royce Smith and Monique St. John's Playgirls Revue. "Whether men or women, the Playgirls are great value for anyone who likes a good floor show with plenty of colour, sequins, feathers, crystal staircases and coyness mixed with earthy vulgarity" (Stage).

78.369 Flying Blind (Tragi-F, 2a) Bill Morrison. COURT 20/6/78. 36 perf. 1st perfd Everyman, Liverpool, 21/11/77. Comment: MPS 719. The play "is both funny and full of anguished eloquence on the subject of the strife in Northern Ireland" (Variety). Guardian faulted the piece for providing "alternating slabs of violence and farce rather than a headlong merger of the two" (Guardian). Observer thought Morrison was "a master of the unexpected modulation; he does not delicately blend his tones, he switches them—ferociously and hilariously." "The most audacious comedy that has emerged from Ireland's new troubles ... [Alan Dossor's production] is a burnished display of farce technique" (Times).

78.370 Evita (Mus, 2a) Andrew Lloyd Webber (mus) and Tim Rice (bk, lyr). PRINCE EDWARD 21/6/78.* 3,176 perf. Comment: MPS 721. The theatre was formerly the Casino. Daily Mirror reported the production cost over £400,000. Observer admired aspects of the staging but found the piece unsatisfactory because "You come to the end of it not knowing why it is there." "Could well be a landmark in the entire history of the genre ... Evita scores primarily on its words and music as an opera, because that is what it is. There is no spoken dialogue except extracts from political speeches or from such interpolated sources as film clips" (Stage). Times thought the piece came close to rivaling Jesus Christ Superstar, and praised Elaine Paige's Evita. Variety called it "a corker" and predicted success in London, on Broadway, "and is obviously a prospect for a picture version." The first New York production (Broadway 25/9/79) ran for 1,567 performances.

78.371 Bartholomew Fair (C) Ben Jonson. Comment: Performed in modern dress. "It's all very Young Vic, but not always very Ben Jonson" (New Statesman). "For all the richness of individual moments, there is still a frenetic incoherence to the production" (Times).

78.372 Stage Directions (P, 1a) Israel Horovitz. ORANGE

Plot: MacNicholas, Walford. Review: Stage 29/6/78, 19. Comment: Richmond Fringe. "There is no dialogue as such; the story unfolds through literal stage directions ... which the three characters recite ... a play requiring concentration, but it works" (Stage).

78.373 The Bourgeois Gentilhomme (C) Molière (anon trans of Le bourgeois gentilhomme, 1670. QUESTORS 24/6/78. Cast: QTA. Plot: Gassner, Hochman, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Shipley. Review: Middlesex County Times 30/6/78, 21. Comment: Middlesex County Times lauded the production which had been updated somewhat while retaining "a sense of period."

78.374 Wren (Mus celebration) David Adams (mus, lyr, bk) and Chuck Mallett (mus) and Ken Hill. Bryer, Fletcher, Griffiths, Hischak, Hischak/2, 112–13, Hochman, Mac-Nicholas, Patterson, Salem, Shipley, Wilmeth. Reviews: Guardian 29/6/78, 12; Illustrated London News 1/9/78, 107; New Statesman 7/7/78, 30; Observer 2/7/78, 24; Spectator 8/7/78, 27; Stage 6/7/78, 23, 19/10/78, 13; Times 19/6/78, 6. Comment: National Theatre. Previews 22/6–27/6/78. Press night was 28/6/78. Guardian commended the play for making “its points about society through the way people actually behave” and the cast for doing “justice to Mamet’s springy dialogue.” “What gift [Mamet] has is muffled by the silly insistence on an epithet-ridden ‘realistic’ text: possibly there is significance we cannot discern beyond the repetitive monotony of the language” (Illustrated London News). Observer admired the play but was unhappy with an English cast when so much depended on “American speech rhythms.” “A play in which everything is in the speech” (Spectator). The production remained in repertory until 21/10/78. The first New York performance was at the Theatre of St. Clement’s Church 26/1/76.

78.386 The Hourglass (P). WATERSIDE 28/6/78; trfd to TRAMSHED 29/6/78; trfd to JACKSONS LANE 30/6/78; trfd to ST. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Press night was 5/7/78. The play, about urban blight and the people caught up in it, was emotionally strong but not very analytical (Guardian). New Statesman dubbed the piece an addition to the “burgeoning Theatre of Cataclysm,” and like Guardian and Spectator singled out David Threlfall’s performance. “A powerful and disturbing piece of work” (Spectator). Times averred part of the success of the play was due to Flannery’s “outraged knowledge” of the Manchester slums. “A drearily fragmented fringe piece, worth notice only for David Threlfall’s sketch of a youth almost agonizingly inarticulate” (Illustrated London News).

Comment: “The play basically is a hackneyed and over blown affair” about a family “keeping up appearances” (Variety). “The characters have their bearings only in the author’s head” (Observer). “Gauche and clumsy” (Guardian). The cast “could have made a good play appear great. They have made a dead play seem alive” (Times).

78.408 French without Tears (Light C, 3a) Terence Rattigan. TOWER, CANONBURY, 7/7/78. Cast: TTC. Plot: Best/37, 372, Bordman/4, 155, Demastes/1, Fletcher, Hirschak, Hochman, Law, Loney, 202, Matlaw, Mplots, Rusinko, 40–46, Salem, Sobel.

Comment: The revue had a cast of three with Rowan Atkinson performing most of the stale material (Observer). Times agreed the material was dated and discussed Atkinson's performance in detail. "Atkinson, a comedian in the vein of the young Jonathan Miller, has a sense of the absurd that will be more profitable, I think, when it is less emphatic" (Illustrated London News).

78.433 The Maids (P) Jean Genet (anon trans of Les bonnes, 1947). NEW INN 19/7/78. Solange Maggie Mercer; Claire Judy Gale; Madame Ally Thomas. Plot: French/2, Gassner, Hochman, Kabatchnik/2, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Walford. Review: Southall Gazette 28/7/78, 19.

Comment: Company of Three. Observer opined the actual text was worth listening to but there was scarcely any production. Guardian was more favorably disposed.

78.439 Picture of Innocence (F) Robert Morley and John Wells. RICHMOND 24/7/78. 1st perfd Alexandra, Birmingham, 8/5/78. Robert Morley, Lally Bowers, Derek Fowler, Susie Blake, Milo Sperber, Bernard Archer, Heather Chasen. Dir Robin Midgley. The "play concerns a High Court judge, who with two friends (one a young hairdresser and the other a chartered accountant) enjoy dressing up as women. The point is made that transvestites are usually heterosexual: certainly these ones are and the plot deals rather heavy-handedly with their decision to confess all to their wives" (Birmingham Post 9/5/78, 6). Comment: A two-week engagement.

Cast: RSCA; Stage 27/7/78, 1; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Amy Anne Raitt; Barry David Shaw-Parker; George Michael Bertenshaw; Jake David Threlfall; Phil Charles Wegner; Rob Pete Atkin; Robertson Nicholas Le Prevost; Ronnie Nigel Garvey; Will Barrie Rutter. Dir Walter Donohue; Dgn Douglas Heap; Light Brian Wigney; Sound John Leonard. Reviews: Birmingham Post 31/7/78, 6; Guardian 29/7/78, 11; New Statesman 4/8/78, 163–64; Observer 6/8/78, 20; Stage 3/8/78, 19; Times 29/7/78, 7. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Press night was 28/7/78. "A fine honest piece of observation, though too rambling and far too honestly boring to be consistently interesting theatre" (Guardian). Times called the piece "dramatically highly charged" with "three interweaving plot lines." "An instructive and not displeasing evening" (New Statesman).

78.441 Hess (One-man show) Michael Burrell. YOUNG VIC STUDIO 26/7/78.* Cast: WWT/17. Rudolf Hess Michael Burrell. Dir Philip Grout. Reviews: Guardian 8/8/78, 8; Stage 3/8/78, 21; Times 27/7/78, 13. Comment: MPS 11692. Burrell lacked "the revealing spark of insight that could illuminate the man and his miserable cause" (Times).

78.442 Tigers in the Snow (P) Dave Marson. HALF MOON 26/7/78.* Cast: SHM; Stage 13/7/78, 1. Vera Bell Maggie Jordan; Veronica Yardstone Elaine Ives-Cameron; Amanda Grove Eve Bland; Joan Gamble Lizza Aiken; Nurse Janet Bradshaw Jane Lee; Charge Nurse, John Bailey Matthew Roberton; Dir Sue Parrish; Dgn Mick Bearwish; Sm Tom Donnellan, Vic Jarvis. Reviews: Guardian 27/7/78, 8; Stage 3/8/78, 19; Tribune 4/8/78, 7. Comment: The play, about the treatment of women in a mental hospital, was lacking in documentary evidence to be convincing (Guardian). Marson "never gets his characters connected in an effective dramatic fashion to make the message clear or meaningful" (Tribune).

78.443 Boo Hoo (C) Philip Magdalany. OPEN SPACE 27/7/78. 1st perfd Playwrights Horizon, New York, 1976; 1st British perf. Cast: WWT/17. Melanie Georgina Hale; Minerva Janet Suzman; Sally Estelle Kohler. Dir Charles Marowitz; Dgn Timian Alsaker; Light Matthew Richardson. Reviews: Guardian 28/7/78, 10; New Statesman 4/8/78, 163; Observer 30/7/78, 24; Spectator 5/8/78, 22–23; Stage 3/8/78, 19; Times 28/7/78, 9. Comment: The play was about "a trio of Miami hookers" in conversation; the set was more interesting (Observer). A farce that lacked action and seemed "tight, hermetic and enclosed" (Guardian). Times declared it generally admired the Open Space, but not when it occasionally staged "a certain kind of leering, anti-feminist sex comedy" such as this "knowing little piece."

78.444 Paul Robeson (P) Philip Hayes Dean. HER MAJESTY'S 27/7/78. 27 perf. 1st British perf. Cast: Variety 16/8/78, 80 WWT/17. Paul Robeson James Earl Jones; Lawrence Brown Burt Wallace. Pres Robert Stigwood; Dir Lloyd Richards; Dgn Charles Nelson Reilly; Cost dgn Noel Taylor; Light Ian Calderton. Plot: Hirschak, Hirschak/2, 127, Peterson/2. Reviews: Birmingham Post 28/7/78, 6; Guardian 26/7/78, 8, 28/7/78, 10; Observer 30/7/78, 24; Spectator 5/8/78, 22; Stage 3/8/78, 19; Times 28/7/78, 9; Tribune 28/7/78, 6; Variety 16/8/78, 80. Comment: Variety reported the piece "has been running to thin business, possibly because it's in too large a theatre." Jones presented "a figure of prodigious power and prodigious self-control, endowed with a sovereign dignity entirely untouched by arrogance" (Times). The first New York production (Lunt-Fontanne 19/1/78) ran for 77 performances.

78.445 Helen and Her Friends (P) Bryony Lavery. KING'S HEAD 31/7/78 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 27/7/78, 12. Helen Su Elliott; Jessica Higgs, Pippa Sparkes. Dir

Brony Lavery. Reviews: Stage 10/8/78, 11; Times 1/8/78, 9. Comment: Les Oeufs Malades. Stage reported the piece, about a young woman dying in hospital, was playing to packed houses. "It is not the comedy that rings oddly, but the seriousness of death," the theme of the play (Times).

78.446 The New Arrival (P, 1a) Mikhail Roman (trans Farouk Abdel Wahab). AFRICA CENTRE 31/7/78. 1st British perf. Cast: Brian Davey, Ted de Carmilla. Review: Stage 17/8/78, 53. Comment: TOCAD. "Concerns the arrival of a lone visitor to a Kafkaesque hotel where the world beyond the reception desk turns into a nightmarish one as servants and waiters become interrogators and tormentors, slaves to the new age of 'the button,' an all-pervading society of scientific data, red tape and machines" (Stage).

78.447 School for Clowns (P) Friedrich Waechter (adpt Ken Campbell of Schule mit Clowns, 1975). HALFMOON 31/7/78.  Cast: SHM. Richard Hope, Peter Bensted. Dir Sylvester McCoy. Comment: A touring production which was also performed in Hackney, Newham, and Tower Hamlets during July and August 1978.

78.448 Sherry and Wine (C of conflicts) Jimi Rand. OVAL HOUSE c. 31/7/78.  Cast: Stage 3/8/78, 21.

78.450 The Women Pirates—Ann Bonney and Mary Read (D) Steve Gooch. ALDWYCH 31/7/78. * Cast: RSCA; Stage 27/7/78, 1; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Barnet Stephen Jenn; Child Perry Green/Abigail Knight; Corporal, Earl Ron Cook; Creole Woman, Elizabeth Deirdra Morris; Davies, Kendal Alan David; Deane Peter Clough; Forbes John Burgess; Ginny, Young Whore Jill Baker; Harwood Ian McNeice; Man in Public Mike Hall; Mrs. Read, Old Whore Yvonne Coulette; Norris Jeffery Dench; Peg, Ann Diana Quick; Pierre, Eaton Philip Dunbar; Polly, Mary Charlotte Cornwell; Rackham Nigel Terry; Sergeant, Howell Geoffrey Hutchings; Soldier Bille Brown; Soldier, Bonney David Hobbs; Spelow, Will, Lawes Edwin Richfield; Norris Jeffery Dench; Thomas, Charley, Fetherstone Jeffery Kissoon; Vosquin, Blackie Charles Dance; Woman in Public, Mabel Denyse Alexander. Dir Ron Daniels; Dgn Chris Dyer; Cost dgn Di Seymour; Fight arr B. H. Barry; Light Leo Leibovici; Mus Guy Woolfenden. Reviews: Birmingham Post 2/8/78, 6, 12/8/78, 6; Daily Mirror 5/8/78, 7; Guardian 1/8/78, 8; Illustrated London News 1/10/78, 98; New Statesman 11/8/78, 193–94; Observer 6/8/78, 20; Spec-tator 12/8/78, 22–23; Stage 10/8/78, 11; Times 1/8/78, 9; Tribune 4/8/78, 6–7. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. The play was about two eighteenth-century female pirates. Daily Mirror reported "hisses and the odd boo mingled with applause at the final curtain." Guardian was confused about the piece's genre, while Observer had difficulty following the plot. "A rowdy, slovenly written business which may or may not be history, but is certainly not theatre and has an outmoded Brechtian method to put it down still further" (Illustrated London News). Tribune attributed it with "a very Brechtianly analytical style to emphasise the underlying economic cause of individual actions." Times thought it was "an incoherent feminist extravaganza."

78.451 Chekhov in Love (P) Tom Rothfield. TOWER, CANONBURY, 1/8/78. 1st perfd BBC Home Service 29/5/66 as Married to a Genius? 1st London perf thus. Cast: Stage 27/7/78, 12. Chekhov George Pravda; Olga Knipper Mary Peach. Dir Tom Rothfield; Dgn Ingeborg Krause. Reviews: Guardian 12/8/78, 11; Stage 10/8/78, 12; Times 2/8/78, 9. Comment: Ekaton Productions. A two-hander about Chekhov's marriage to Olga Knipper which lacked an explanation of why Chekhov married her (Times). Guardian called the piece dull and the direction fussy.

78.452 Eclipse (D, 2a) Leigh Jackson. COURT 2/8/78. * 25 perf. Cast: Findlater; Variety 16/8/78, 86; WWT/17. Trevelyan Paul Rogers; Askey James Cossins; Mills Leonard Fenton; Tess Ann Bell; Bennet Peter Bowles. Dir Stuart Burge; Dgn Nadine Baylis; Light Jack Raby. Reviews: Guardian 3/8/78, 8; New Statesman 11/8/78, 193–94; Observer 6/8/78, 20; Stage 10/8/78, 11; Times 3/8/78, 8; Variety 16/8/78, 86. Comment: English Stage Company. "A portentous drama ... about a man confronted with a changed world and values" (Variety). Despite the cast's best efforts the characters failed to come to life (Observer). The central character is merely a stereotypical imperialistic old buffer (New Statesman). "May rank as an elegy for a dying class, but it has precious little to offer in the way of living human characters" (Times).

78.453 Bartholomew Fair (C) Ben Jonson (ed. Peter Barnes). ROUND HOUSE 3/8/78.  Cast: WWT/17. John Littlewit Jonathan Cecil; Win Littlewit Victoria Plucknett; Dame Purecraft Sheila Burrell; Zeal-of-the-Land Busy Rowland Davies; Winwife Maurice Colbourne; Quarlous Donald Gee; Bartholomew Cokes John Wells; Humphrey Wasp Henry Woolf; Adam Overdo Peter Bayliss; Dame Overdo Iona Banks; Grace Wellborn Jennie Stoller; Lantern Leatherhead Antony Milner; Joan Trash Patricia

Ford; Ezekiel Edgworth Steven Beard; Nightingale David Foxe; Ursula Fanny Carby; Mooncalf Peter Craze; Jordon Knockem David Bailie; Trouble-All David Claridge; Bristle Marcus Bell. Dir Peter Barnes; Dgn Robin Don, Tanya McCallin; Cost dgn Lindy Hemming; Light Leonard Tucker. Plot: Brock, Fletcher, Gassner, Hochman, Holzknacht, Patterson, Shipley. Reviews: Guardian 4/8/78, 8; Observer 6/8/78, 20; Stage 10/8/78, 11; Times 4/8/78, 11. Comment: The production possessed “a rather stolid, generalised jollity and all too little sense of audience-involvement” (Guardian). Times said Peter Barnes’s production offered a “non-moralizing view of the play,” and felt, for the first time, it had really seen the play.

78.454 The Dark Horse (CD, 2a) Rosemary Anne Sisson. COMEDY 3/8/78. 76 perf. 1st perfd Yvonne Arnaud, Guildford, 11/7/78. Cast: Variety 16/8/78, 80; *WWT/17. Reviews: Guardian 4/8/78, 8; Illustrated London News 1/10/78, 98; New Statesman 11/8/78, 193–94; Observer 13/8/78, 20; Stage 10/8/78, 11; Times 7/8/78, 9; Variety 16/8/78, 80. Comment: A “romp through English royal history, focusing on Henry VII ... and the ascent of the Tudors. It’s well-written and impressively performed” (Variety). “The play is neither serious enough, comic enough, nor sure enough about who is the subject” (Times). Stage found the play uneven and the characterizations rather weak, but the cast did its best to lift the production.

78.455 The Editor Regrets (P, 2a) William Douglas Home. GREENWICH 3/8/78. 1st perf this version. Cast: WWT/17. Rt. Hon. Sir Eric Brown, P.C., M.P. Anthony Roye; Charles Astell Robin Marchal; Rosemary Brown Penny Croft; Lord Thornton Ballard Berkeley; Grace Caroline Dowdeswell; Jimmy Lawrence Wade; Editor Denys Hawthorne; St. John Walpole Frank Williams. Dir Anthony Roye; Dgn Neville Dewis. Reviews: Stage 10/8/78, 11; Times 4/8/78, 11. Comment: A thirty-minute version was performed on BBC-2 TV 27/11/70. The play dealt with indiscretions being published in newspapers and blackmail. Times said Home needed to give “some thought to construction and characterization.” Stage criticized the performances of Penny Croft and Robin Marchal for “setting a very stilted tone” in the first act from which it was difficult for the remainder of the production to recover.

16/8/78, 80. Comment: MPS 877. National Theatre. Previews 4/8–9/8/78. Presumably “meant to be a parable for our times. It’s also a busy, noisy, confusing affair about the sacking of Troy” (Variety). Guardian found the second half of the play, where Bond “seems to be inventing his own myth,” less impressive than the first. Times said the real play did not begin until the second act, and overall Bond “tells a story that is at once unpredictable and inevitable.” Tribune quoted Bond’s aim in the play: “It illustrates ‘capitalism as unable to satisfy the acquisitiveness it creates to maintain itself.’” The production remained in repertory until 11/1/79.

78.466 Bukharin (Documentary P) Andy McSmith. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 11/8/78. Cast: Findlater. Comment: The play was about a West Indian tailor adjusting to life in Britain and “what it says about love, race, and business is provocative” (Guardian). For Times the play made “more sense as a private story about four confused people.” “Very well acted. Lloyd Anderson as the suave Horace, the black man’s answer to W. C. Fields, is particularly enjoyable. Don Warrington, another fine actor, plays Walker, the would-be entrepreneur” (Stage).

78.468 Caught Napping (F, 3a) Geoffrey Lumsden. RICHMOND 14/8/78. 1st perfd Playhouse, Salisbury, 27/10/58 as Gwendoline. Comment: MPS 740. Nottingham Playhouse production. Di Trevis replaced Sheila Gish after two performances because the latter refused to accept script changes made by Williams (Irish Times). Guardian described the play as a “vortex of silliness,” and the writing as “dire bathos.” Observer was laudatory and placed the play on the same level as A Streetcar Named Desire. Variety still rated Williams's writing skills. Times said the material was familiar but Williams was “completely in control as a writer”; with fine performances from Sylvia Miles, Karl Johnson, and Jonathan Kent. New Statesman panned this “wretched self-parody.” The New York production ran for 6 performances.

Reviews: Guardian 17/8/78, 8; Observer 20/8/78, 21; Stage 24/8/78, 13; Times 17/8/78, 6. Comment: Hull Truck Theatre Company. The original 1974 production being ahead of its time, Times thought London might be ready for this revival for “Campbell's innocent delight in the end of the world.” “Gone is Hull Truck's much acclaimed style of improvisation of previous productions, replaced by Campbell's scripted but no less unpredictable and humorous escapade of mammoth proportions set in a world which resembles a giant loony bin, with God presiding over it all, like a sadistic psychiatrist” (Stage).

The play, about the recruitment of young people to fascism, reeked “with a host of irrelevant personal prejudices” on Terson's part (Guardian). The play was “a success when it comes to gainfully employing over 100 members of the National Youth Theatre of Great Britain. As a serious analysis of the reasons why young people might be attracted to the National Front it falls some distance short of the mark” (Stage).

Comment: Prospect Theatre Company. The production also toured nationally, returning to the Old Vic in October. New Statesman thought the production somewhat ponderous but admired Derek Jacobi's performance. Times recommended this production over the RSC's 1976 production (76.433) particularly because Jacobi was the right actor for Ivanov. Illustrated London News commended this truly ensemble production. Spectator was disappointed by "this rudely overacted production," and Jacobi in particular.

78.478 Suite in Two Keys (P) Noël Coward. RICHMOND 21/8/78. Margaret Lockwood, Phyllis Calvert, Robert Fleming, Alan Gifford. Dir Nigel Patrick. Comment: The production comprised Shadows of the Evening and A Song at Twilight. A one-week engagement.

A strong production, although the words were not always clear (Stage). Guardian warned readers "Do not expect too much but the piece pairs well with Puccini's [Gianni] Schicchi."

78.481 Soldier Boy (P, 2a) Peter Terson. JEANNETTA COCHRANE 22/8/78.* Soldier Boy Michael Roye; Simon Morris, Nick Collett, Joanna Sims, Fiona Farrell, Hazel Ellerby. Dir Derek Seaton. The play was about a young soldier returning from Ulster suffering from PTSD and holding some people hostage. Guardian found it a strongly emotional work hampered somewhat by slack production. Times thought the young cast achieved "an unusual assuredness ... and manage[d] to control the play's shadings between comedy and terror with surprising skill."

Comment: MPS 724. Variety noted some changes to the original tale: the location was switched to an English asylum, Dracula was a more romantic figure, and the "authors have drawn a parallel with the Christ Story." Spectator found the additions beneficial. "The setting is splendidly atmospheric and the stage is littered with garlic and crucifixes to ward off evil and bundles of stakes to drive through vampire hearts. Two intervals slow the pace in a show that provides more giggles than gasps" (Daily Mirror). "If it had stuck a bit closer to Stoker and pitched a bit less camp, it might have offered a more full-blooded evening's entertainment" (Guardian 24/8). Times noted the "rare display of technical trickery" in the production "had not yet been fully mastered by the technicians." The first New York production was at Cherry Lane, New York, 28/9/77.

Comment: English Stage Company. "Schmalz in a gritty setting ... generally unbelievable and over-sentimental" (Variety). "A dark and very rich play which explores unknown territory in the war between the sexes" (Observer 27/8). "Viewed as anything but an allegory about the United States, the play is ridiculous. It is also funny and gruesomely fascinating," with a powerful performance by Kevin McNally (Times). The first New York production (Joseph Papp Public/LuEsther Hall 27/12/77) ran for 127 performances.

Comment: The production tried to present the case for reopening the case against Derek Bentley (hanged for murder in 1953) and for clearing his name. Neither Guardian (30/8) nor Tribune were convinced by the show itself, although both believed in Bentley's innocence.

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 1/9–6/9/78. Press night was 7/9/78, also advertised as a low price opening. Observer thought Christopher Morahan's production was "the National's best this year." Guardian agreed. Times noted the production, rightly, ignored Shaw's injunction to perform his work without pauses; "again and again prolonged silences allow ironies and contradictions to crystallize in the air between a speech and a response." New Statesman confessed to thinking the play Shaw's nastiest, most emotionally stunted play," but this production at least caused the reviewer to rethink his stance. The production remained in repertory until 5/9/79.

78.507 The Killing of Sister George (D, 3a) Frank Marcus. QUESTORS 9/9/78. Cast: QTA. Plot: Fletcher, French/2, Hischak, Loney, Patterson, Salem, Vinson, Weintraub. Review: Middlesex County Times 15/9/78, 17.

Reviews: Guardian 12/9/78, 8; Observer 17/9/78, 32; Stage 21/9/78, 19; Times 16/9/78, 8. Comment: Gloria Grahame was “absolutely excellent” as the faded Hollywood queen (Guardian). Times agreed, adding there were good supporting performances from Lamont’s “fans.” The New York production ran for 36 performances.

78.511 Bilbo McTurk at Armageddon (P, 2a) Paddy Fletcher. TRAMSHED 11/9/78; trfd to JACKSONS LANE 16/9/78; trfd to HALF MOON 9/9/78. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 7/9/78, 27. Paddy Fletcher, Lee Partis. Dir Paddy Fletcher. Review: Stage 12/10/78, 22. Comment: Incubus Theatre. “Fletcher spins around a great many ideas although most of them are highly derivative” in this piece on the state of the evolution of mankind so far (Stage).

78.512 Ipi-Tombi (Mus, 2a) Bertha Egnos Godfrey (mus) and Gail Lakier (lyr). RICHMOND 11/9/78. Plot: Bordman/5, 689, Hirschak, OTF. Comment: A one-week engagement.

78.513 Lark Rise (D) Keith Dewhurst (adpt of Flora Thompson, Lark Rise to Candleford, 1945). COTTESLOE 11/9/78. Cast: Stage 31/8/78, 1. Reviews: Stage 28/9/78, 14; Times Educational Supplement 22/9/78, 94. Comment: National Youth Theatre. Although aspects of the production were imperfect, “these young people seem to know what the exact meaning of the words, phrases and lines is and so they can communicate the proper sense to a young audience ... Kate Buffery as Beatrice and James Simmons as Benedick ... gave mature performances and spoke beautifully” (Stage).

78.515 Small Ads (P) Julian Garner. YOUNG VIC STUDIO 11/9/78. Cast: Stage 7/9/78, 1. Mel Annette Badland; Terry Karin Bossick; Mike Philip Croskin; Douglas Robert Longden; Park Keeper Michael Sommerville. Dir Antonia Bird; Dgn Jane Harding. Reviews: Guardian 20/9/78, 10; Stage 21/9/78, 19; Times 15/9/78, 10. Comment: A revised and extended version. The piece demonstrated the almost schizophrenic nature of apparently likeable people. Times averred “I think we have found a new playwright.” Guardian called the piece “rough and at times amateurish” but Garner showed promise, and the play was performed well.

78.516 The Android Circuit (P) Tom McGrath. ICA 12/9/78. 1st perfd Traverse, Edinburgh, 5/7/78. The revival featured “a memorable performance by Nicol Williamson” repeating his earlier successes as Bill Maitland (Variety). Williamson made the play for Illustrated London News. Times agreed while revising its opinion of the play itself.

78.518 Dracula (P, 3a) Hamilton Deane [and John L. Balderston] (adpt of Bram Stoker’s novel, 1897). SHAFTESBURY 13/9/78. 60 perf. Comment: The action was set in the 1920s and played “in the thorough-going camp style which America enjoys bestowing on old melodrama” (Times). “A rather broadly performed affair in which the laughs seem intended,” but Terence Stamp “lacks the flair, authority and the voice for the role” (Variety). Illustrated London News said Stamp was disappointing but admired the production’s exciting sets.

78.519a Edward and Agrippina (P) Rene de Obaldia. NEW INN 13/9/78. Comment: Two of the Impromptus for Leisure (Sept impromptus à loisir, 1957).

78.520 Julius Caesar (T) William Shakespeare. SHAW 13/9/78. Mark Antony Alex Jennings; Brutus Clive Walton; Cassius Julian Freeman. Dir Michael Croft. Reviews: Stage 21/9/78, 14; Times Educational Supplement 22/9/78, 94. Comment: National Youth Theatre. A modern dress production. Stage objected to the sheer number of performers and “the interpolation of a gay punk is just too much”; further, the Youth Theatre needed to give the play a rest. “An austere, well measured, mechanical production that smacks of age and unconvinced verse speaking” (Times Educational Supplement).

78.521 The Singer [(C, 1a) Frank Wedekind (adpt Peter Barnes of Der Kammersänger, 1899)]. THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD EAST, 14/9/78. Plot. Walford.

Reviews: Stage 28/9/78, 14; Times 26/9/78, 9. Comment: Unicorn Theatre. “An incoherently plotted, poorly characterized retelling of an Arabian Nights Fable, perversely lumbered with Brechtian captions and Brechtian messages” (Times).

78.524 Would the Real Judy Garland Please (MP) Terry Jacobs (deviser). Comment: This eighty-minute piece was mostly “a conventional cataloguing of Garland’s singing life,” but was preceded by an “exciting preamble” of a “game of identities” (Guardian). “It’s difficult not to find the sordid aspects of this rather odd entertainment somewhat offensive” (Gay News). Times found “intense feeling” in Elaine Loudon’s singing of Garland’s numbers.

78.525 Queen Victoria’s Granddaughters (P) Royce Ryton. ROUNDHOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 17/9/78, 24/9/78. 1st perfd 1976? Cast: Stage 7/9/78, 27. Morar Kennedy. Dir Royce Ryton,

The production was set in modern Italy but “the connections of the original with contemporary Italy are tenuous” (Tribune). Spectator thought the attempt to “incorporate a women’s lib theme” worked only partially, but “as agitprop Shakespeare” the production was “more than passable.” “The company makes the most of the feminist possibilities of Claudio’s transformation into a woman” (Times).

78.530 Tigers (P) David Cregan. ORANGE TREE 18/9/78.* Cast: Stage 21/9/78, 9. Sally Sharman Macdonald; Toby Peter Gordon; Margaret Carrie Shore; Sam Walters, Gwen Nelson, Rio Fanning, David Gillies. Dir Keith Washington. Review: Stage 28/9/78, 13. Comment: “A seedy little garage proprietor who has had a bright idea to increase sales—free sex with eight gallons or more and variations thereon for a full car service” (Stage).

78.531 Ubu (F) Alfred Jarry. YOUNG VIC 18/9/78. Cast: WWT/17. Père Ubu Andréas Katsulas; Mère Ubu Michèle Collison; Urs Bihler, Malick Bowens, Mireille Maalouf, Alain Maratrat, François Marthouret, Bruce Myers, Jean-Claude Perrin. Dir Peter Brook. Plot:

Comment: Bouffes de Nord Theatre, Paris. Both Père Ubu and Ubu enchaîné were performed. With Peter Brook as director, the company succeeded in turning Père Ubu “into an enjoyably witty charade” (Spectator). For Times the production made the plays “funnier than their keenest advocates ever cracked them up to be.”

78.532a Mobile 4 (P) Stephen Jeffreys. ALMOST FREE 19/9/78. 1st perfd Cathedral Hall, Edinburgh, 17/8/78. Stella Francesca Folan; Robert Paterson. Reviews: Guardian 20/9/78, 10; Times 20/9/78, 10. Comment: The play was set in a London art gallery and “about the break-up of a commune as people opt for the nuclear family, a job in graphic design or simply the gay life in Glasgow” (Guardian).

78.532b Privitus Privitorum—Privet Hedge (C) Angie Farrow. ALMOST FREE 19/9/78. 1st perfd Cathedral Hall, Edinburgh, 17/8/78. Reviews: Guardian 20/9/78, 10; Times 20/9/78, 10. Comment: “Set in a school staff-room: its theme is the way academic institutions clobber privacy” (Guardian).

Comment: Variety said “Oscar James stands out with a broadly funny performance as the illegal alien who outsmarts a couple of immigration officers”; however the required “thick Jamaican accent ... [was] a problem for audience comprehension.” Guardian, delighted by the play’s outrageous invention, placed it “in the classic tradition of comedy.” The impossible events of the plot “supply the basic theatrical pleasure of seeing an amiable, quick-thinking hero wriggling out of trouble” (Times).

78.534 Shay (P, 2a) Anne Commire. KING’S HEAD 20/9/78. 1st perfd O’Neill Theater Center, Waterford, Connecticut, 1973; 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 21/9/78,

Comment: Guardian (22/9) pointed out the paradoxical problem of the play, that of “presenting credibly a heroine suffering from acute agoraphobia.” “Libby Morris gives a performance of understanding and power as Shay, creating a living aura about the woman as she reveals something of the root and heart of her suffering” (Stage). The first New York production (Playwrights Horizons 23/2/78) ran for 20 performances.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Spectator faulted the play’s “paperback psychology” and its implausibility, the latter was recurrent criticism in other reviews. The first New York production (Marymount Manhattan 27/12/79) ran for 30 performances.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Previews 20/9–21/9/78. “Interesting ideas and good jokes are swamped by an implausibly contrived plot in which most of the characters ... are repellent or foolish or both” (Variety).

Observer opined the play said very little and the acting fell short. Times said the characters were “journalistic constructs” and the actors were “unimaginatively type-cast.” However, Tribune was more convinced by the political issues touched on in the piece, and found the play “curiously optimistic.”

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 22/9–26/7/78. "The old piece rediscovers an enchantment of high comedy, the richest Restoration revival for many years" (Illustrated London News). "A gorgeous production" that failed "to shape the stellar cast into a smooth ensemble unit" (Variety). Spectator said this rather slow and bland production would be acceptable to those looking for a "glossy, star-studded production" typical of the West End. Peter Wood's production made "no clear distinction between the worlds of folly and villainy" (Times). The production remained in repertory until 30/8/79.

Comment: The play was about a fat boy turning his self-disgust about sex into a food fetish as he eats himself to death (Gay News). New Statesman found the play disgusting and meritless. Times said the piece had "a raw, disturbing force." The first New York production (Astor Place 10/3/77) ran for 61 performances.

78.553 Future Shock (Mus) John Saxby (bk; based on Alvin Toffler's book, 1970) and Lionel Gibson (mus). ROUNDHOUSE 3/10/78. 1st perfd YMCA Theatre, Edinburgh, 21/8/77? Comment: Guardian found the piece lamentable but offered the assuagement: "one man's agony is another man's entertainment." "What gives this show its character is the music. Good songs in familiar '60s rock style ... which carry the show along more securely than the book itself" (Stage).

78.554 Hamfat-on-the-Turn (Ent). ACTION SPACE 3/10/78. Cast: Stage 28/9/78, 11. Reviews: Gay News 19/10/78, 33; Spare Rib Magazine, No. 74 (Sept 1978), 39–40. Stage 12/10/78, 22. Comment: Cunning Stunts. The piece drew eclectically on various sources for this "richly funny—and effective—feminist package" (Gay News). "A world inhibited by tap-dancing spiders, violin-playing donkeys, human pyramids, Italian cooks and he-men wielding saxophones, all drawn together under the roof of Teutonic pub-owner Mr. Hamfat who wants his motley crew of barmaids to offer a little more sex appeal with their service. Essentially this was a feminist pantomime" (Stage).

78.555 An Evening with Dave Allen (Solo show, 2a). VAUDEVILLE 4/10/78. 52 perf. Comment: Variety commended Dave Allen's style and delivery, and said his material was refreshingly non-insular. "A liberal comedian" who "offers the more rarefied spectacle of an educated mind pinpointing the absurdities of the human race" (Guardian).

78.556 The Traitor (T) James Shirley. BEAR GARDENS MUSEUM 4/10/78. 1st perfd 1630. Cast: Stage 5/10/78, 11. 1st perfd 1631. Plot: Gassner, 783, Hochman. Comment: Bare Boards Theatre. Directed by Eric Standidge. Played in repertory with following item.

Comment: "A confident revival ... and a fairly full house" (Guardian). Frank Hauser's production was "polished without risking slickness and amusing without, except on one occasion, degenerating into farce" (Times).

78.560 Meat Love (P) Jeffrey O. Rodman. ALMOST FREE 5/10/78 (Ln). 1st perf? Reviews: Gay News 19/10/78, 32; Stage 19/10/78, 14. Comment: The plot involved a quartet of black singers condemned to perpetually recording songs for white people (Gay News). Stage commended the production generally, but thought it tapered off somewhat in the second half.

78.562 A Penny for a Song (FC, 2a) John Whiting. QUESTORS 7/10/78. Cast: QTA. Plot: Demastes/2, Hochman, Law, Mplots, Shank, Weintraub. Review: Middlesex County Times 20/10/78, 15.

Alun Armstrong, Elizabeth Estensen, Philip Jackson, Prunella Scales. Pres Robert Stigwood; Dir Mike Ockrent; Dgn John Gunter. Plot: Bull/1, Demastes/2, Fletcher. Comment: MPS 694. Produced as Happy Returns (Theatre Royal, Brighton, 2/10/78?); also known as One for the Road (1979). The title was originally Tupperware Man but was changed because of a legal threat from the Tupperware Company. A one-week engagement.

78.564 Look after Lulu! (P, 3a) Noël Coward (based on Georges Feydeau, Occupe-toi, d'Amélie, 1908). Plot: Bordman/4, 359, French/2, Hischak, Loney, 315, Mander/4, Shipley. Reviews: Birmingham Post 10/10/78, 6; Daily Mirror 14/10/78, 9; Guardian 11/10/78, 10; Stage 19/10/78, 13; Times 10/10/78, 9; Variety 25/10/78, 84. Comment: "A bedroom romp about as naughty as a pillow fight ... Coward's treatment of the plot ... is hardly sophisticated. But it is all good, clean, nonsensical fun" (Daily Mirror). "Adroit performances and amusing sets," but not Coward at his best (Variety). Patrick Garland's direction was "an uneasy combination of hectic and superficial farce and florid burlesque" (Guardian). Times thought Garland tried too hard at generating humour. The first New York production (Henry Miller's 3/3/59) ran for 39 performances.

78.565 The Night of the Twentieth (P) Yehoshua Sobol (trans Michael Salkind of Leil ha'Esrim, 1975). THEATRE SPACE 9/10/78. 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 28/9/78, 11. Susan Cutler, Mike Finesilver, Moira Hughes, Robert Iger, Kenneth Owens, David Soames, Sidney Thomas. Dir Raphael Nathan; Dgn Moshe Mussman. Plot: Hochman. Reviews: New Statesman 13/10/78, 483–84; Stage 19/10/78, 14. Comment: Jewish Living Drama (apparently London's first professional Jewish theatre group [Stage 28/9/78, 11]). The play involved a group of people intending to build a commune in Israel and their attitudes towards that purpose. New Statesman said the piece was "an animated discussion," not a play, and the acting possessed a "shrill saminess." Stage agreed the piece was not theatrically effective and would sound better on radio.

78.566 The Play of Margery Kempe (P) Roger Howard. ICA c. 9/10/78 (Ln). 1st perfd Fermoy Centre, King's Lynn, 9/5/78. Cast: Stage 12/10/78, 18. Roma Tomelty, Stuart Gotland, Colin Carnegie. Review: Irish Times 13/10/78, 10. Comment: The portrait of a 15th century East Anglian misfit (Stage 1/6/78, 20). "Brilliantly played by Roma Tomelty ... a very good little outing ... one you won't forget for a long time" (Irish Times).

78.567 AID Thy Neighbour (C, 2a) Michelene Wandor. NEW END 10/10/78.* Cast: Stage 28/9/78, 11; WWT/17. Georgina Archer Patricia Donovan; Mary Lacey Elizabeth Revill; Sandra Mills Nina Ward; Joseph Lacey John Gillett; Daphne Davies Arbel Jones; Geraldine Kramer Sara Boyes. Dir Kate Crutchley; Dgn Mary Moore; Light Nancy Duguid. Plot: Bull/3. Reviews: Gay News 19/10/78, 33; Observer 15/10/78, 32; Stage 9/11/78, 12; Tribune 3/11/78, 7. Comment: MPS 849. Women's Project '78. Parodying the sit-com form, the piece was about a lesbian and a heterosexual couple trying to have a baby. Stage thought it a "thin" play and not particularly credible.

78.568 Colonial Boy (One-man show) Roger Leach. KING'S HEAD 10/10/78 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 5/10/78, 11. Roger Leach. Dir Paul Marcus; Mus dir Chris Littlewood; Dgn Andrew L. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. "A tabloid production of a quality play" (Guardian). Spectator pointed to several "false moments— which quite destroy the psychological force of the drama." Observer said the production was better than the earlier Riverside one because it was "much steamier," and played close attention to the verbal wit. Not "as emotionally powerful as the Riverside version" (Times).

78.574 Death at the Big House (P) Anon. SHAKESPEARE TAVERN AND PLAYHOUSE 16/10/78 (Ln).

Comment: Part of the Action Man Trilogy. A modern dress production. Times noted modern dress was "a pale description for a version that also runs to press photographers, newspaper vendors and couriers on bicycles." "A crisp interpretation" although the naturalism reduces the overall "sweep and scale" of the play (Guardian). New Statesman expressed a similar reservation, that at times the "modern dress has inhibited the performers and shrunk the play."

Comment: Part of the Action Man Trilogy. Performed in modern dress. Philip Bowen just managed to be a "probable" Hamlet (Guardian). Times could not discern the reason for "all the monkeying about" with the "brutally cut" text. "Ruined by an insensitive disregard of its dramatist: no high noises here. Thus the marvellous opening is distorted, goodness knows why, by textual rearrangement" (Illustrated London News).

78.584 Hot Spot (P) Eileen Fairweather and Melissa Murray. OVAL HOUSE 19/10/78. 1st perfd 1978. Review: Stage 23/11/78, 22. Comment: Women's Theatre Group. The piece was concerned with "the ambiguous role of woman in society," and Stage declared it was "dull, because there are far too many words and most of them do not say anything very much."

Review: Stage 2/11/78, 15. Comment: Unicorn Theatre. "The story brings in Echo, Narcissus and Iris, the rainbow messenger of the gods of Olympus. The moon is about to extinguish her light, fed up with spacemen who trample all over her surface and never once break into song" (Stage).

Comment: Prospect Theatre Company. Variety called the production "honorable" but uneven, especially Anthony Quayle's Lear, the costumes, the set, and the interpretation. Guardian echoed those reservations. The production was "more stage-managed than directed" (Times). Stage reviewed the production favorably, particularly Quayle's Lear. Illustrated London News did not express any reservations.

Comment: The play was based on the murder of Francis Rattenbury (1867–1935) who was killed by his wife's young lover (see also Rattigan's Cause Célèbre, 77.300). Times reported the play was adapted from Gray's television play, Death of a Teddy Bear [BBC TV-1 15/2/67]. A "lackluster" play but with an excellent performance by Billie Whitelaw (Variety). Spectator thought the piece was just a conventional suburban melodrama with "some plodding psychological insight." New Statesman defended the play as having "more substance and certainly more subtlety than some of my fellow-hacks seem ready to recognise."

Comment: MPS 760. National Theatre. Press night was 2/11/78. The play, dealing with “the social and political ferment” following Charles I’s execution, covered so much “intractable” material that Guardian was confused. Observer (5/11) reported the audience was also confused, and the staging did not help. Times noted the play relied on the audience to connect the various historical threads. The production remained in repertory until 6/2/79.

Comment: MPS 723. The show cost a reported £300,000 to produce, and "producer Peter Witt later added a further £50,000 of his own money in a bid to keep the show from closing" (Stage 4/1/79, 1). Rosenthal's play was originally broadcast on BBC-1 TV 14/9/76. "Doesn't have a single sock song or dazzling production number," but does have sympathetic characters (Variety). Gay News said the television play had not transferred entirely successfully to the stage; New Statesman concurred. Times added the production failed to turn "a truthful ethnic comedy into a popular smash." Illustrated London News generally viewed the piece and production favorably.

Review: Stage 9/11/78, 12. Comment: ATC London. "Director John Retallack has shared out the verse between the players, sometimes even to sharing a single line in order to make a point more theatrically effective. And to link incidents and episodes, he has Byron as narrator, a true gentleman neatly characterised by Ian Frost" (Stage).

Reviews: Guardian 2/11/78, 10; Stage 16/11/78, 14; Times 2/11/78, 9. Comment: The play was about the recruitment of young schoolboys to be apprentice football players, an interesting subject that Guardian felt had not been fully explored. "Not dramatic, not filled with incident, but it is absorbing and entertaining" (Times).

78.616 The People Show No. 77. OVAL HOUSE c. 2/11/78. Review: Times 3/11/78, 9. Comment: Times declared the show was "the truest theatrical magic in Britain."

The play was about Frances Farmer, "a forgotten movie actress whose life and dreadful times ... read like terminal melodrama" (Guardian). Gay Times remarked on the difficulty of "capsuling" her career into one evening. The play failed to arouse the interest of Times.

78.623 Confinement (P) Kate Phelps. OVAL HOUSE 8/11/78.* Claudette Yvonne Gidden; Chris Kate Crutchley; Betty Arbel Jones; John Gillett, Nina Ward. Dir Nancy Diuguid; Dgn Mary Moore. Reviews: Gay News 16/11/78, 35; Stage 30/11/78, 22; Tribune 29/12/78, 13. Comment: Women's Project '78. Gay News found that this play about women in prison was "genuinely moving, angering" and that it made "enormous demands" on its actors, two of whom played eight parts. Tribune was equally moved and noted the piece was based on research conducted at Holloway prison.

78.624 The Measures Taken (Political Cantata) Bertolt Brecht (trans Carl Mueller of Die Massnahme, 1930). KING'S HEAD 8/11/78; trfd to COCKPIT 28/11/78 (Ln). Cast: Stage 9/11/78, 40. Review: Spectator 18/11/78, 25; Stage 23/11/78, 22. Comment: Attitude Theatre Company. Spectator said this revival was "authentic," although the music was by Christopher Hobbs, not Hanns Eisler.

Comment: “Serious, often funny, stylishly produced and persuasively performed. A prosperous run should follow” (Variety). “I admire its cause, distrust many of its arguments and applaud to the echo its wit, irony and relaxed gaiety” (Guardian 9/11). Times noted similarities with Evelyn Waugh’s Scoop and expressed complete admiration for the play’s “journalistic argument.” Tribune described the play as “very, very funny, particularly in its Right-wing repartee and anti-Left invective. And it ends with a 48-point banner headline moral—‘information is light.’” The first New York production (ANTA Playhouse 27/11/79) ran for 95 performances.

Comment: Production costs were £350,000. “Pushovers for schmaltz and spectacular scenic effects should love” the piece, “should prove money in the bank for all concerned” (Variety). “A runny-fudge musical” (New Statesman). Times said the piece proved backer Harold Fielding’s law: “if you look after sets and costumes, the rest of the show will look after itself.” “I found the sustained simplicities exhausting, and I suspect they would not be very much better if they were played backwards” (Illustrated London News).

Comment: The theatre reverted to a cinema in January 1979 (Stage 18/1/79, 1). “The American Negro singers rise above a comically melodramatic plot and Johnny Thompson’s score is often likable” (Illustrated London News). “Customs and Excise should be prosecuted” for allowing the importation of this American musical (Guardian). Times enjoyed the music but nothing else.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. RSCA indicates, incorrectly, that press night was 7/11/78. Guardian called the play, concerning “the evils of shock treatment,” “a truly individual piece of work.” Spectator said the characters were “closely observed types,” and the writing was “at the one-dimensional stage.” “The play is as timid as its people” because O'Malley failed to take a stance on her subject (Times).

Comment: MPS 739. National Theatre. Previews 10/11–14/11/78; Press night, advertised as a low-price opening, was 15/11/78. Variety was surprised by the “relative clarity” of the play but which “seems so slight.” New Statesman thought the reversal of the chronology in the play “deepens and darkens our perception.” Spectator called the writing “a technical tour de force” and praised its “blinding honesty” together with the cast’s performances. Times headlined its review, “Pinter, master of ambiguity, offers a blank endorsement of the obvious.” “Peter Hall’s production and the acting of the cast ... could not be tuned more exactly to the piece” (Illustrated London News). The production remained in repertory until 8/9/79. The first New York production (Trafalgar 5/1/80) ran for 170 performances.

Comment: National Theatre. Press night was 29/11/78. The play was “the final instalment of a trilogy whose first part was Veterans and second the still unseen Script. The subject, once again is the film industry ... commemorating American independence ... It all seems overblown and silly” (New Statesman). “No great point to it in the end but ... a thoroughly enjoyable skit” (Spectator). Times declared this was an “uproarious sequel” very much dependent on Albert Finney’s performance. The production remained in repertory until 8/1/79.

Reviews: Guardian 27/11/78, 10; Stage 30/11/78, 19. Comment: Apparently unconnected with Ernst Toller’s Hoppla! Wir leben! apart from the post-World War I Germany setting. Little more than “a medley of the songs and poems” written in Germany between 1919–33 (Guardian). Stage said this “collection of songs and sketches, illustrated by slides, capture the flavour of the times, even if the spirit is more elusive.”

The plot was “frantic, giddy, and disorientating,” not a good source for laughter (New Statesman). Guardian found the play “fascinating,” often funny, “but there comes a point where technical ingenuity stifles mirth.” Stage and the audience found it “exceedingly complicated—but great fun,” and well acted.

Review: Stage 14/12/78, 21. Comment: Head Theatre. The play, about a small-time petty thief and his job as a road sweeper, appeared to need an additional act (Stage).

Comment: Guardian (29/11) said the theme of the play remained relevant and “fresh,” but its expressionist technique was dated. “Tim Albery’s fine production” did what it could with limited resources, the acting was uneven but with memorable performances by Simon Callow and Robin Hopper (Observer). “Of considerable academic interest but lacking immediacy and vitality” (Tribune). Times said the play was a tough “assignment” but the “company have pulled it off.”

Reviews: Guardian 29/11/78, 12; Stage 7/12/78, 22; Times 28/11/78, 15. Comment: Keskidee Workshop production. Guardian called it a “bewildered and bewildering play,” and the complete review needs to be read to discern the fragmentary plot. For Times the production did not make much sense of “White’s messianic allegory.”

A modern-dress revival with Prospero on stage throughout the production so that it became “devoid of tension” (Guardian). Michael Bogdanov’s production “suggests the whole play is a power-fantasy simmering inside the imagination of Prospero himself” (New Statesman). “An example of wasted ingenuity, especially as eloquence is drained from the play and nothing happens to fix our imaginations” (Illustrated London News).

Plot: Fletcher, French/2. Reviews: Guardian 6/12/78, 10; Stage 7/12/78, 15. Comment: Guardian said John David’s production was “slovenly” and did not much improve this dated farce. The piece began slowly but gradually improved: “One strong point in the favour of this production is its accurate evocation of wartime Britain—the utility clothing, the blackout blinds, the Brylcreemed young men in battledress” (Stage).

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 24/11–29/11/78; Press night, advertised as a low-price opening, was 30/11/79. A superb revival that reminds us of what good drama is and of Galsworthy as “a dramatist of social concern and passion” (Variety). The play was given a “ceremonial production” and was “made tolerable” (Observer). Andrew Cruickshank and Michael Bryant “give virtuoso performances and the brilliant ensemble playing of the rest of the cast is a tribute to the impeccable standards of our National Theatre” (Stage).

Press night was 11/12/78. Guardian found the only thing pleasurable about the piece was Birtwistle’s music; staging a medieval mystery play on Herod would have been preferable. The production remained in repertory until 17/1/79.

Plot: Hochman, Patterson, Salem. Review: Stage 11/1/79, 15. Comment: Cherub Company. The adaptation stripped the play “to its bare bones to keep the action moving at a furious pace while retaining the essence of the poetry in fiery, speedily delivered speeches” (Stage). On the Cherub Company, see Brian Edward George Cook, “(In)famous Angel: The Cherub Company and the Problem of Definition,” Ph.D. dissertation, University of Oregon, 2012.

Comment: This staging by Ron Knee told the familiar story and included numerous songs, but the production was very cheap (Financial Times). "A version complete with the songs left out [of the film], well staged, well acted, well sung and exceedingly well played by a band of a size one is seldom treated to nowadays" (Stage).

Reviews: Observer 17/12/78, 19; Stage 29/12/78, 9. Comment: Hull Truck. Observer called Mike Bradwell's direction "mainly mulish." "There is a good deal of Irish self-wallowing, off-hand philosophising, and religious comment, not much of this being in any way remarkable. I do not know the novel by O'Brien. I just hope it is more worthwhile than this play" (Stage).

Plot: Fletcher. Reviews: Stage 11/1/79, 13. Comment: "A masterpiece of children's theatre—a simple, but intelligent text, full of explicit comedy, suspense and pathos for finely-drawn characters which in this production are very powerfully interpreted under Jonathan Lynn's excellent direction" (Stage).

Comment: Variety thought Penelope Keith, giving "a performance gem," was "a strong draw with English audiences." "Served as a vehicle for popular Penelope Keith but otherwise hardly seemed worth reviving" (Spectator); Daily Mirror agreed. "Miss Keith sweetens a senile play" (Guardian). Illustrated London News endorsed the preceding viewpoints.

Reviews: Guardian 27/12/78, 6; Stage 11/1/79, 21. Comment: This Aladdin was "another episodic tribute to Isherwood" (Guardian). "Uncomplicated characterisation, a simple and constantly exciting story set to clever, catchy and effective songs, now a trademark of the Duncan panto, plus Alain Dehay's stylised choreography, result in two hours of unadulterated pleasure" (Stage).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. The play was about the investigation of arson in a prison. Tribune noted Barker's hatred of people. Observer found the characters lacked energy. Guardian remarked on the piece's "fevered, hectic debate about the English attitude to crime," but added it "eventually lurches into frantic impossibility."

Plot: Ayre, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Shipley, Sobel. Review: Stage 29/12/78, 10. Comment: D'Oily Carte Opera Company. “The same works, the same traditional productions, the same bits of foolery, the same encores, the same delighted acclaim. Miraculously they avoid monotony and the danger of listless repetitiveness; the standard is reasonably level, never dropping to inadequacy, seldom rising to the heights” (Stage).

Review: Stage 4/1/79, 12. Comment: Beryl and the Perils. The four female cast members “leered at conventional acceptance of the submissive woman, illustrating their points by casting one of the players as Dennis while the others sought sexual initiation from him. This was earthy blunt stuff all right if you like that sort of thing, but not actually advancing the feminine cause” (Stage).

Comment: On efforts to keep the show running, see Stage 18/1/79, 1. "A leaden item about love and the Crusades. It has cardboard characters, feeble songs, trite dance routines and a lot of dreadful verse dialog" (Variety). "Most of the show's budget, put at £300,000, has been spent on the gorgeous gowns. But if they sparkle, the script and the music certainly do not. In appeal it is like Panto without the comedy" (Daily Mirror). "It proves a fairly intractable subject for a musical, save for the fact that it gives Tim Goodchild the opportunity to create the most memorable sets and designs for a musical since his Thomas and the King" (Stage).

Plot: Fletcher. Reviews: Birmingham Post 29/12/78, 6; Illustrated London News 1/3/79, 73; New Statesman 5/1/79, 24; Stage 4/1/79, 11. Comment: The piece consisted of the Knight's, Reeve's, Wife of Bath's, Miller's and part of the Cook's tales, "each somewhat randomly translated and updated ... played in the extrovert, jocular [Young Vic] style" (New Statesman). Illustrated London News thought only the Knight's Tale worked.

78.709 Peter Pan; or, The Boy Who Wouldn't Grow Up (P) J. M. Barrie. Plot: Bordman, Demastes/1, Fletcher, French/2, Geduld, 53-70, Griffiths, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem,

Shipley, Sobel. Reviews: Birmingham Post 30/12/78, 4; Guardian 23/12/78, 10; New Statesman 5/1/79, 24; Spectator 6/1/79, 23; Stage 4/1/79, 11. Comment: Guardian thought there was too much emphasis on flying and not much on audience involvement. "Jane Asher's Peter is very disappointing, with little emergence of the character's saucy, cocky conceit, boyish defiance or endearing wistfulness" (Stage).

78.710 Zastrozzi: The Master of Discipline (D, 2a) George F. Walker. KING'S HEAD 20/12/78. 1st perfd Free, Toronto, 2/11/77. Plot: Hirschak/2, 198. Reviews: New Statesman 5/1/79, 24; Observer 24/12/78, 18; Stage 4/1/79, 11. Comment: Wakefield Tricycle Company. "An arresting but often puzzling piece about a vengeful fatalist" on various missions (New Statesman). "John Castle in the title role, this outsize character is portrayed in highly convincing style even in this intimate theatre" (Stage). The first New York production (Other Stage 17/1/82) ran for 49 performances.

78.711 Humpty Dumpty (Panto) John Farrow. INTIMATE 21/12/78. 1st perf? Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. A dated, "rather laborious comedy of intrigue" saved only by Ronald Eyre's production (Guardian). New Statesman reported the audience was amused but was actually responding more to "the director's glosses and interpolations and than to the play itself." The first New York production ran for 101 performances.

78.714 Puss in Boots (Panto) Martin Cort. BROADWAY, KILBURN, 22/12/78. 1st perf? 79.1 The Mikado; or, The Town of Titipu (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 2/1/79. Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

79.2 The Warp (Morality P) Neil Oram and Ken Campbell. ICA 2/1/79.* Cast: Stage 29/12/78, 10; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Phil Masters Russell Denton; John Joyce, David Rappaport, Jim Broadbent, Janet Fielding, Jonathan Barker, Mitch Davies, Maggie Jordon, Steve Williams. Dir Ken Campbell; Mus Camilla Saunders. Reviews: Guardian 5/1/79, 8; Observer 7/1/79, 13; Stage 1/2/79, 11. Comment: Science Fiction Theatre of Liverpool. A cycle of ten plays. During the first two weeks one play per night was performed; the entire cycle was performed 18/1–21/1, beginning at 10:00am. The Guardian article provides a lengthy, full account of the content, staging, and writing of the piece. "It is a very lucid exposition on contemporary 'alternative' philosophies—containing references to freedom of choice, thought and action and the breaking down of conventions. The play contains a multitude of questions and few definitive answers. It might be said that it is a saga of escapism within the dilemma of free thought" (Stage).

79.3 Fears and Miseries of the Third Reich (P) Bertolt Brecht (anon trans of Furcht und Elend des dritten Reiches, 1938). THEATRESPACE 3/1/79. Plot: French/2, Hochman, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shipley. Comment: Gamut Theatre Company (York).

79.4 Would the Real Judy Garland Please (MP) Terry Jacobs and Elaine Loudon (devisers). YOUNG VIC STUDIO 3/1/79. Comment: Blue Dahlia Company.

79.5 It's Nothing Serious (Revue) Sue Tilling (bk) and Richard Ritchie (bk, mus) and Patrick Twigg (mus).

ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 4/1/79. 1st perf? Cast: WWT/17. Eileen Batty, Sue Tilling, Charles Tilling, Harriet Lawson, Richard Ritchie. Dir Sue Tilling; Light Alasdair Clement. Plot: OTF/2. Review: Stage 11/1/79, 15. Comment: "Literate, intelligent, neatly staged, smartly performed and is not without point. Nevertheless, it still comes across as oddly dated and strangely class-ridden" (Stage).

79.6 An L of a Lamp (Panto) Bobby Robi. LAMB AND FLAG 4/1/79.* Cast: Stage 29/12/78, 10. Chubby Oates, Jules Mannheim, Iris Rougier, David Lynton. Comment: LAMP.

79.7 Guys and Dolls (MP, 2a) Jo Swerling (bk) and Abe Burrows (bk; fnd on Damon Runyon's stories) and Frank Loesser (mus, lyr). Plot: Best/50, 45, Bordman, Bordman/5, 575–76, Fletcher, Gänzl, Green, Hischak, Kennedy, Law, Loney, 267, Shipley, Vinson, Wilmeth. Reviews: Guardian 10/1/79, 6; Observer 14/1/79, 16; Stage 18/1/79, 15. Comment: Sources differ on the date of opening night, with SHM giving 1/1/79, others, more probably, giving 8/1/79. An "economy-size version" of the piece with a Brechtian approach that Guardian said worked. Observer noted some of the best jokes had been cut, but the production was still funny and amusing.

79.8 Patience; or, Bunthorne's Bride (Aesthetic O, 2a)

W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 8/1/79. Plot: Ayre, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

79.9 Anchorman (P) Ron Hutchinson. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 9/1/79. 1st perfd Belgrade 2, Coventry, 13/11/78. Cast: Findlater; Stage 29/12/78, 1; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Brady Jack Chissick; Girl Caroline Hunt; Skinner Will Knightley; Plug Joe Marcell; Strachan John Nightingale. Dir John Dove; Dgn Quentin Thomas. Reviews: Guardian 11/1/79, 6; New Statesman 19/1/79, 89; Observer 14/1/79, 16; Stage 18/1/79, 15. Comment: CV1 Theatre Company (Coventry). The piece was about four soldiers in a lawless revolutionary England; "sensationalist tosh because it deals wholly in effects and not at all in causes" (Guardian). New Statesman faulted the "windy, directionless, doggedly obscene dialogue."

79.10 The Erpingham Camp (C, 1a) Joe Orton. KING'S HEAD 10/1/79. Cast: Stage 11/1/79, 1; WWT/17. Erpingham Peter Vaughan; Ted Brian Capron; Padre Paul Greenhalgh; Eileen Catherine Kessler; Mason Olga Lowe; Kenny Barry Philips; Riley Patrick Waldron; Harrison Alan Cheeseman; Lou Rosalyn Elvin; Redcoats Chaz Marrow, Graham Newton, Dereck Simpson, John Tindle. Dir Stewart Trotter; Dgn Judith Crozier; Ch Fred Peters. Plot: Fletcher, Hischak/2, 6, Loney, Patterson, Walford. Reviews: Gay News 25/1/79, 33; Guardian 19/1/79, 6; New Statesman 19/1/79, 124; Observer 21/1/79, 13; Stage 25/1/79, 11. Comment: An "anaemic and tentative" revival (Guardian). "The play asks for a larger production" (Observer). "Ingeniously staged, impeccably costumed, lovingly acted and beautifully directed" (Gay News).

79.11 Mary Barnes (D, 3a) David Edgar (adpt of Mary Barnes and Joseph Berke, Mary Barnes: Two Accounts of a Journey through Madness, 1971). Comment: Birmingham Repertory Company. Birmingham Post reported "at the first night there was a large number of distinguished psychiatrists, including Ronald Laing whose methods were used to 'cure' the real-life Mary Barnes of her schizophrenia." Stage commended Edgar for his straightforward documentary approach to Mary Barnes's disease. Illustrated London News recalled "the emotional acting of Patti Love ... in far more helpful detail than the bones of the play itself." "The potentially heavy theme enthralls through witty, intelligent writing and warm performances by the young cast" (Variety).

79.12 Da (C, 2a) Hugh Leonard. GREENWICH 11/1/79. Cast: Stage 4/1/79, 1; WWT/17. Mother Mary Chester; Charlie Now Tony Doyle; Da Eamon Kelly; Charlie Then Mike McCabe; Oliver Kevin Moore; Mrs. Prynne Anne Robson; Drumm P. Best/77, 298, Fletcher, French/2, Griffiths, Hischak, Hischak/2, 132, Hochman, Patterson, Salem, Schrank, Weintraub. Reviews: Birmingham Post 17/1/79 10; Guardian 13/1/79, 5; Illustrated London News 1/3/79, 73; New Statesman 19/1/79, 89; Spectator 3/2/79, 25; Stage 18/1/79, 15. Comment: Guardian thought the revival was an improvement on the King's Head production (77.329) not least because of Bernard Culshaw's sets. Despite the piece's success in New York Stage thought "something does seem to be lacking, possibly in the construction or even the characterisation."

79.13 The Paranormal Review (C) Erik Brogger. Comment: The reopening of the Albany after a fire in July 1978. The Combination. The play was “about adult unemployment in Deptford and 30 less-than-glorious years of the welfare state” (Tribune).

79.16 Daddy's Girl (P, 2a) Eric Sutton. SOHO POLY 15/1/79.* Cast: Stage 18/1/79, 16. Harry Sturia Jestyn Phillips; Tom Georgeson, Jean Warren. Dir Philip Draycott; Liz Dawson. Review: Stage 1/2/79, 12. Comment: Stage declared the play, about an all-around male failure, was thin and “not yet completely a play.”

79.17 A Day in Hollywood, A Night in the Ukraine (Double-feature mus) Dick Vosburgh (bk, lyr) and Frank Lazarus (mus). Comment: MPS 757. Guardian thought the production lacked “the madcap festivity of the Marx Brothers at their best.” “A light evening of particular interest to firm film buffs” (Gay News). “Movie buffs will be in their element” (Stage 25/1). Daily Mirror declared the performances were often funnier than anything the Marx Brothers did. There were 168 performances at the May Fair. The first New York production (John Golden 1/5/80) ran for 588 performances.

79.18 Double Exposure I (One-man P) Alan Pope and Alex Harding. HEAD 15/1/79 (Ln). Cast: Stage 18/1/79, 16. Alan Pope. Review: Stage 1/2/79, 12. Comment: The piece was about growing up gay.

79.19 Party Piece (P) Chris Bailey. KING'S HEAD 15/1/79 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 18/1/79, 16. Adrienne Posta. Dir Julia Pascal. Review: Stage 1/2/79, 12. Comment: “This is literally a ‘party piece’—something to stand up and do at parties, an extended monologue with a ring of truth, having funny and poignant and silly moments” (Stage).

79.20 Daughters of Men (P) Jennifer Phillips. HAMPTSTEAD 17/1/79.* Cast: Stage 11/1/79, 1; WWT/17. Kate Lister Frances de la Tour; Boy Kruschefsci Bill Bailey; Anne Trownbridge Anna Carteret; David Lister Terence Hardiman; Mrs. Daphne Kershaw Annabel Leventon;

Eddie Marchant Kevin McNally; Bahama Kelly Margaret Nolan; Sally Lister Kate Valentine. Dir Nancy Meckler; Dgn Poppy Mitchell; Light Alan O'Toole. Comment: New Statesman failed to make sense of the play. “A play that does more than most to explain the plight of today's liberated woman, engaged in a balancing act between marriage, children, sexual freedom and a career, though not necessarily in that order” (Stage). Guardian (19/1) described it as “an acute and intelligent play about the rancorous disillusion of a marriage.” Illustrated London News said the play was written fluently and the production depended upon the performance of Frances de la Tour.

Comment: Le Grand Magic Circus. “A semi-scatological version, or inversion, of various familiar tales such as Aladdin, Ali Baba and Sheherazade has a desperate, anything-for-a-laugh quality which all too often has precisely the opposite effect” (Stage). Observer thought the mechanical objects were the most interesting aspect of the production.

Comment: "It shows the suffering of a black woman imprisoned in a windowless cell; suffering that changes her from weak-willed victim to determined political animal ... Millie Kiarie ... gives a dementedly realistic performance" (Stage).

79.23 The Yeomen of the Guard; or, The Merryman and His Maid (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 18/1/79. Plot: Ayre, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

79.24 Double Exposure II (One-man P) Alan Pope and Alex Harding. HEAD 22/1/79 (Ln). Cast: Stage 18/1/79, 16. Mary Alan Pope; Alex Harding. Review: Stage 8/2/79, 21. Comment: In the piece, a companion work to Double Exposure I, Pope played "the self-proclaimed housewife and upholder of our nation's morality, 'Mary' ... who sees the fabric of our society tearing if she doesn't keep her child under 'lock and key'" (Stage).

79.25 HMS Pinafore; or, The Lass That Loved a Sailor (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 22/1/79. Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

79.26 The Putney Debates (P) Jack Emery. COTTESLOE 24/1/79.* 3 perf. Cast: NTA. John Wildman Jack Shepherd; Colonel Thomas Rainborough Brian Glover; Commissary General Henry Ireton Brian Cox; William Goffe Mark McManus; Oliver Cromwell Nial Toibin; David Rintoul. Dir Sebastian Graham-Jones. Reviews: Observer 28/1/79, 15; Stage 1/2/79, 11. Comment: National Theatre. "The debates in question are the deliberations of the council of the New Model Army in 1647 after the Parliamentary victory in the first Civil War" (Stage). "Damnably dull," and "the readings are appallingly slovenly" (Observer).

79.27 Sherlock Holmes and the Riddle of the Royal Regalia (P) Phil Woods. YOUNG VIC STUDIO 25/1/79.* Cast: Theatricalia. Holmes Philip Bowen; Watson Tim Thomas; Marquis of Bosworth Terry Mortimer; Lady Diana Fiona Victory; Queen Victoria Linda Polan; Lord Bognor James Carter. Dir Jeff Teare. Review: Stage 8/2/79, 21. Comment: "A light-hearted, affectionate spoof that allows no grain of plausibility to Holmes's fantastic armchair deductions or impersonations of piano tuners" (Stage).

79.28 The Caucasian Chalk Circle (P, 5a) Bertolt Brecht (trans James Stern and Tania Stern and W. H. Auden of Der kaukasische Kreidekreis, 1948) and James Saunders (preamble). ORANGE TREE 26/1/79. Cast: Stage 25/1/79, 13; WWT/17. Geoffrey Beevers, Lee Cornes, Rio Fanning. David Gillies, Roger Heathcott, Peter Holmes, Mick Landmann, Eileen Nicholas, Isobil Nisbet, Diana Payan, Auriol Smith. Dir Sam Walters. Plot: Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Mplots, Patterson, Salem, Shank. Review: Stage 8/2/79, 21. Comment: "Performed by eleven actors, no costumes and no scenery, without subtleties of lighting or sound effects. Prefaced by a 'preamble' written by the theatre's dramatist James Saunders" (Stage).

79.29 Don't Drink the Water (C, 3a) Woody Allen. TOWER, CANONBURY, 26/1/79. 1st perfd Walnut Street, Philadelphia, 29/9/66; 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 25/1/79, 13. Axel Magee Lawrence Werber; Krojack Gabor Vernon; Paul Rutledge. Maxine Howe, Devon O'Brien, David Mosey, Gustav Phillip. Dir Spencer Butler. Plot: Bordman/4, 412, Bronner, Fletcher, French/2, Hischak, Salem. Reviews: Guardian 30/1/79, 7; Stage 1/2/79, 12. Comment: "A feeble play," but the cast delivered the lines with "zest" (Guardian). The first New York production (Morosco 17/11/66) ran for 598 performances.

79.30 Pantagleize (F, 3a) Michel de Ghelderode (trans George Hauger of Pantagleize, un coeur innocent dans le monde, 1930). ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 26/1/79. Cast: Theatricalia; WWT/17. Pantagleize John Turnbull; David Bauckham, Mike Burnside, Chris Gillespie, Ian Godfrey, Martin Ransley. Dir Brian Gregson; Dgn Andy Bond; Ch Sue Lefton; Mus John Walsh. Plot: Hochman, Matlaw, Patterson, Shipley. Reviews: Birmingham Post 29/1/79, 6; Observer 28/1/79, 15; Stage 1/2/79, 12. Comment: P. A. N. Theatre Company. A poor revival by a company "out of their depth" (Observer).

79.31 The Waltz of the Toreadors (P, 3a) Jean Anouilh (adpt Lucienne Hill of La valse des toréadors, 1952). QUESTORS 27/1/79. Cast: QTA. Plot: Fletcher, French/2, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shipley.

79.32a Dutchman (P, 1a) Leroi Jones. OMNIBUS c. 29/1/79. Cast: Stage 1/2/79, 13. Lula Sherrie Berk; Clay Erick Ray Evans. Dir James Brockington; Dgn Russell Brian Ward. Plot: Bryer, MacNicholas, Nelson, Patterson, Peterson/2, Salem, Vinson, Wilmeth. Reviews: Guardian 3/2/79, 12; Stage 1/3/79, 19. Comment: A dated play but performed well (Guardian). "The two plays pair nicely, for both are concerned with violence apparently unmotivated yet prepared for from the moment each play begins" (Stage).

79.32b The Zoo Story (D, 1a) Edward Albee. OMNIBUS c. 29/1/79. Cast: Stage 1/2/79, 13. Quentin Secome, David Taggart. Dir James Brockington; Dgn Russell Brian Ward. Plot: Bordman, Bryer, Fletcher, Hochman, MacNicholas, Matlaw, Nelson/2, Patterson, Salem, Wilmeth. Reviews: Guardian 3/2/79, 12; Stage 1/3/79, 19.

79.33 The Honey Spike (P) Bryan MacMahon. IRISH CLUB 29/1/79. 1st perfd Abbey, Dublin, 26/5/61. Cast: Stage 1/2/79, 13. Breda Brid Brennan; Maurice Blake, Patch Connolly, Kay Dunn, Finola Keogh, Michael Loughnan, Gerald McAllister, Sara Rae Maddern, Michelle Marriott, John O'Toole, Redmond Roche, Treasa Ni Fhatmarta, Kevin Wallace. Dir Roland Jaquarello; Dgn John Hallé, Angela Brock; Fight arr Malcolm Ranson. Reviews: Guardian 31/1/79, 8; Stage 1/3/79, 19. Comment: Green Fields and Far Away. The play was about an Irish tinker and his pregnant wife journeying in Ireland: "drenched in a twilit, empurpled romanticism" (Guardian).

79.34 Nine to Five (C) Jack Bingham. WHITE LION c. 29/1/79 (Ln). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 1/2/79, 13. Dave Acton, Jim Kirby, Elaine Loudon, Ian Lowe. Dir Ken Morley. Review: Stage 8/2/79, 21. Comment: "An interesting, intensely funny" play about an individual trapped in a dead-end office job (Stage).

79.35a In the Workhouse (P) Margaret Wynne Nevinson. KING'S HEAD 30/1/79 (Ln). 1st perfd Kingsway 8/5/11. Cast: Stage 25/1/79, 13. Review: Stage 22/2/79, 16. Comment: Mrs. Worthington's Daughters. The company for this double bill comprised Diane Adderley, Jo Cameron Brown, Stacey Charlesworth, Anne Engel, Stephen Ley, Lill Roughley, Maggie Wilkinson. Dir Jules Holledge; Dgn Mary Moore. Stage was unimpressed by the performances in both pieces.

79.35b The Oracle (Burletta, 1a) Susanna-Maria Cibber. KING'S HEAD 30/1/79 (Ln). 1st perfd Covent Garden 17/3/1752. Review: Stage 22/2/79, 16. Comment: Mrs. Worthington's Daughters.

79.36 Look Back in Anger (D, 3a) John Osborne. YOUNG VIC 1/2/79. Cast: Theatricalia; WWT/17. Alison Porter Susan Wooldridge; Cliff Lewis Christopher Ashley; Colonel Redfern Ian Taylor; Helena Charles Laura Cox; Jimmy Porter John Labanowski. Dir Mel Smith; Dgn Marty Flood. Plot: Best/57, 67, Bordman, Bordman/4, 346, Demastes/2, Dorney, Fletcher, Griffiths, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Loney, 299, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Shipley, Vinson, Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 3/2/79, 12; Stage 8/2/79, 15. Comment:

"Revived vividly as a period piece with Marty Flood's designs," the production was plodding and the actors looked too mature for their roles (Guardian).

79.37 On Top (P) Liane Aukin. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 1/2/79.* Cast: Findlater; WWT/17. Baker Sean Scanlan; Mickey Brian Cox; Cissie Christine Hargreaves. Dir Ann Pennington; Light Peter Cox; Sound John Del' Nero. Reviews: Guardian 2/2/79, 10; Stage 8/2/79, 15. Comment: MPS 10381. Production without decor. English Stage Company. The play was "about people on the run for a variety of reasons" but doesn't say very much (Guardian). "Everything seems inconsequential, down to the very details of the dialogue" (Stage).

79.38 Ruddigore; or, The Witch's Curse (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 1/2/79. Plot: Ayre, Gänzl, Hochman, Shipley. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

79.39 The Plantagenet Saga (One-man show) Kenneth McClellan. NAG'S HEAD 2/2/79. 1st perf? Review: Stage 15/2/79, 18. Comment: "Condensing eight Shakespeare historical plays into an evening's performance is a feat achieved with exceptional success by Kenneth McClellan—a one-man dramatic compilation, coherently put together with great attention to detail, continuity and sustained interest" (Stage).

79.40 Stop Thief! (P for children) Gregory Marshall. ARTS 3/2/79.* Cast: Stage 1/2/79, 13. Maddy Ursula Jones/Matyelok Gibbs; Lloyd James Coombes; Richard Syms, Kevin Huckstep, Judy Riley, Elyot Marshall. Dir Ursula Jones; Dgn Sue Jenkinson; Light Angus Stewart. Review: Stage 15/2/79, 18. Comment: Unicorn Theatre. "It is almost a well-made adult farce" (Stage).

79.41 The Cockroach That Ate Cincinnati (One-man show) Alan Williams. BUSH 5/2/79. 1st London perf. Cast: WWT/17. Alan Aldred. Dir Mike Bradwell. Reviews: Observer 28/1/79, 15; Stage 1/2/79, 11 [sic]. Comment: Hull Truck. The show was about "The alleged glory and the alleged decline of rock music since the sixties" (Stage).

79.42 Empress Eugenie (One-woman show) Jason Linsey. MAY FAIR 5/2/79; trfd to VAUDEVILLE 5/3/79. 1st perfd ADC Theatre, Cambridge, 16/7/78. Margaret Rawlings. Dir Marianne Macnaghten. Comment: On the Margaret Rawlings' alterations to the piece, see Stage 22/2/79, 25. "A remarkable story remarkably told. Miss Rawlings creates an atmosphere and a multiplicity of memories which have the effect of giving the character an extraordinarily immediate impact" (Stage).

79.43 A Gentleman's Agreement (C) Murray Watts. UPSTREAM c. 5/2/79. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 8/2/79, 29. Richard Everett, Nigel Forde. Sue Beresford. Paul Burbridge. Diana Lang. Sarah Finch, Julie Higginson. Dir Murray Watts; Dgn Gill Douglas.

Cast: Stage 8/2/79, 29. Lalla French Penny Casdagli; Nancy Silverman Helen Kluger; Joan Craighton Meryl Hampton. Dir Nicholas Barter; Dgn Elizabeth da Costa. Review: Stage 22/2/79, 16. Comment: "Pokes fun at some of the senseless traditions that go on behind the scenes in the theatre ... It concentrates on three neurotic would-be starlets facing the first night of a revue" (Stage).

79.45 Sleuth (Thriller, 2a) Anthony Shaffer. RICHMOND 5/2/79. Plot: Bordman, Fletcher, Hischak, Hischak/2, 22-23, Law, Loney, Salem, Shipley, Vinson, Weintraub.

79.46 Two-Faced (Sex C) Rodney Cardiff. LAMB AND FLAG c. 5/2/79. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 8/2/79, 29.

79.47 A Rite Kwik Metal Tata (P) David Halliwell. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 6/2/79. 1st perfd Crucible, Sheffield, 11/1/79. Cast: Stage 1/2/79, 1; WWT/17. Catherine Terris, Gwenda Holt, Brian Gwaspari, Oswin Fairfax Reddington, Christian Rodska, Albert Jadder, David Daker, Michael Whitton, Annie Hayes, Dominica Popham. Dir Janos Bruck; Dgn Diana Mosely; Light Hugh Laver. Reviews: Gay News 22/2/79, 33, 39; Guardian 8/2/79, 12; Stage 15/2/79, 18; Tribune 16/2/79, 7. Comment: Presented by Crucible, Sheffield. A satiric play based around the idea of Yorkshire becoming independent. Tribune translated the Yorkshire title as "a quick bullet goodbye," and "Bang, you're dead." Gay News found the first half of the play had "too many unleavened polemics," but said overall the play was rewarding.

79.48 Tommy (Mus, 2a) Pete Townshend and John Entwistle and Keith Moon and Sonny Boy Williamson. QUEEN'S 6/2/79. 118 perf. 1st British theatre perf Playhouse, Derby, 15/5/75. Comment: Queen's (Hornchurch) production. Variety opined some would "dig" the piece, while others might "find it as bewildering as a dream and an assault on the eardrums." Gay News declared the attempt to update the ten-year-old original sound recording in theatrical form failed: "The show is a full frontal assault on sense and sensibility, the trashiest piece of theatre around." For Stage the piece succeeded: "As technological theatre, it represents an advance on anything that has been done before, blending film, slides, lasers, sound effects and inventive design into an undeniably exciting experience." The first New York production, as The Who's Tommy (St. James 22/4/93), ran for 899 performances.

79.49 Aspects of Max Wall (One-man show). VAUDEVILLE 7/2/79. 22 perf. Cast: Variety 21/2/79, 120. Max Wall, William Blezard, Tony Parkinson. Pres Peter Saunders. Plot: Bull/1, Fletcher, Patterson. Reviews: Gay News 22/2/79, 33; Guardian 8/2/79, 12; Observer 11/2/79, 16; Spectator 17/2/79, 29; Stage 15/2/79, 15; Tribune 9/3/79, 7. Comment: Tribune said Potter failed to exploit his theme and “so the violence was gratuitous and the ending dreadfully deus ex machina.” Gay News found aspects of the piece interesting but was struck by the banality of the language.

79.51 Talent (C) Victoria Wood. ICA 7/2/79. 1st perfd Crucible, Sheffield, 9/11/78. Cast: Stage 1/2/79, 13. Maureen Victoria Wood; Julie Hazel Clyne; Jim Broadbent, Liz Craven, Eric Richard, Roger Sloman. Dir David Leland; Dgn Annette Sumption; Light Hugh Laver. Reviews: Guardian 10/2/79, 13; Observer 11/2/79, 16; Stage 1/3/79, 19. Comment: The play was about northern English young women attempting to avoid a dismal future by entering a talent contest. Guardian relished the play and the production.

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 5/2–7/2/79; Press night, advertised as a low-price opening, was 8/2/79. Spectator averred the play was mainly of interest for scholastic reasons and did not perform as well as it read. “Long, sententiously windy, diffusely plotted and often confusing,” but presumably a part of the National’s remit is to exhume “even inferior quality theatrical artifacts” (Variety). “Though it is done serviceably in a theatre-in-the-round production by William Gaskill on a stage of rough, bare boards, I did miss the flash of inspiration that could have turned a curiosity to a prize” (Illustrated London News). “This must be the biggest pile of rubbish to be seen in London at the moment” (Daily Mirror). The production remained in repertory until 15/5/79.

Comment: English Stage Company. Winston Ntshona gave an “excellent performance,” the play was “funny and moving” (Gay News). “There’s a lack both of satiric subtlety and of human idiosyncrasy in Mr Hasting’s would-be fascist”; the play needed to be written by Mustapha Matura (New Statesman).

79.62 The Ordeal of Gilbert Pinfold (P) Ronald Harwood (adpt of Evelyn Waugh's novel, 1957). ROUND HOUSE 14/2/79. 1st perfd Royal Exchange, Manchester, 15/9/77. Cast: Stage 8/2/79, 1; WWT/17. Gilbert Pinfold Michael Hordern; Mr. Scarfield Frank Crompton; Angel, Spanish Official Geoffrey Bateman; Indian Steward, Injured Crew Member Derrick Branche; Margaret Lindsay Duncan; Glover Gareth Forwood; Dr. Drake, 2nd General, Clutton Cornforth Willoughby Gray; Norwegian Lady, Goneril Carol Gillies; Mrs. Pinfold Margaret Inglis; English Steward Ron Emslie; Captain Steerforth John Ringham; Mrs. Scarfield, Mother Pauline Jameson; Fosdyke, Fosker, Clergyman, Officer Geoffrey McGivern; Murlock, Murdoch Ken Randle; Young Girl Tilly Tremayne; Young Gentleman, Billy Jeffrey Perry; Reggie Graves-Upton, 1st General Lockwood West. Dir Michael Elliott; Dgn Stephen Doncaster; Light Mark Henderson; Sound Tim Foster, George Glossop. Plot: Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 15/2/79, 10; Illustrated London News 1/4/79, 87; New Statesman 23/2/79, 262; Observer 18/2/79, 14; Spectator 24/2/79, 24–25; Stage 22/2/79, 11. Comment: Spectator said Harwood and Michael Hordern had created a "Gilbert Pinfold ... more presentable and cuddlier" than Waugh's. However, New Statesman thought Hordern's Pinfold was "now sufficiently grouchy, menacing and lugubrious" than had been the case in the Manchester production. Guardian noted some drawbacks to the theatre-in-the-round presentation.

79.63 The Homosexual or the Difficulty of Expressing Oneself (P) Copi (trans Steven Dartnell of L'homosexuel, ou, la difficulté de s'exprimer). ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 15/2/79. Cast: Stage 8/2/79, 29. Rodney Archer, Andrew Norton, Tussie Silberg. Dir Steven Dartnell; Dgn Jennifer Carey. Reviews: Gay News 22/2/79, 32; Observer 25/2/79, 14; Stage 8/3/79, 26. Comment: Radiator. Also performed as Sex Change in Siberia (77.337). Gay News said the piece was not developed enough to be "a satire upon the sexual strait-jacketing which seems to be its target." "This is the sort of presentation which uses many times over more people off-stage than on it. It is not a particularly worthwhile play and Radiator need to do better than this to keep going" (Stage). "The real stinker of the week" (Observer).

79.64 Plugged In (Trilogy) John McGrath. CORNER HOUSE 18/2/79. Cast: Stage 15/2/79, 16. Corinne McClounie, Harry Percy, Alison Thomas, Joy Cameron-Taylor, Alex Moore, Bridget Lynch-Blosse. Dir Alison Thomas, Alex Moore; Pd Mitchell Symons. Plot: Vinson. Review: Stage 8/3/79, 26. Comment: Not a successful revival (Stage). The Stage review indicates the Company had previously produced Pinter's The Collection at the Corner House; I have been unable to verify this information.

79.65 The Diary of a Nobody (P) Ian Taylor (adpt of George Grossmith and Weedon Grossmith's book, 1892). WHITE LION 20/2/79. Cast: Stage 22/2/79, 12. John English. Dir Jon Bromwich; Dgn Sally Gardner. Comment: Treble-B Theatre Company.

79.66 The Ghost Sonata (P) August Strindberg (trans Michael Meyer of Spöksonaten, 1908). QUESTORS 20/2/79. Cast: QTA. Plot: Fletcher, Gassner, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Shank, Shipley.

79.67 The Long Voyage Home (P) Eugene O'Neill. COTTESLOE 20/2/79. Comment: National Theatre. Under the collective title of The Long Voyage Home, the production included The Long Voyage Home (1917), The Moon of the Carribees (1918), Bound East for Cardiff (1916), and In the Zone (1917). “Could be regarded as the drama equivalent of a modern disc compilation album, being the assemblage of four one-act plays loosely related chronologically but sired by one hand and all salted with the tang of the sea” (Stage). Guardian called the production a series of “unrelenting miseries,” but directed “with energy, detail and conviction,” and “splendid” acting. “The overall impact is cumulative and relentless” (Spectator). “The four plays cumulatively convey what his later work was to elaborate” (New Statesman).

79.68 Forty Love (C, 2a) Leslie Randall. COMEDY 21/2/79. 5 perf. 1st perfd Yvonne Arnaud, Guildford, 24/10/78. Cast: Stage 15/2/79, 1; Variety 28/2/79, 122; WWT/17. Myra Joyce Blair; Murray Bernard Cribbins; Arnold Norman Rossington; Ruth Stella Tanner. Pres Paul Elliott; Dir Val May; Dgn Tony Hemmings; Light James Baird. Comment: Yvonne Arnaud Theatre production. Variety described the piece as “frantic hokum about a couple of menopausal marriages, not the game of tennis.” Illustrated London News thought the piece was better than some similar farces largely because of Val May’s swift direction. According to Guardian 24/2/79, 3, the producer took the production off after reading the Guardian’s negative review (“this evening of situation-trash”). He incurred at a loss of £35,000.

79.69 The Bully (P) Horace James (adpt of Anton Chekhov, The Bear, 1888). ICA 22/2/79. 1st London perf this adpt? Cast: Stage 22/2/79, 12. Nina Baden Semper, Jimi Rand, Lloyd Anderson. Dir Brian Taylor; Dgn Eva Swiderska. Review: Stage 1/3/79, 19. Comment: Stage called this West Indian adaptation “a joyous experimental achievement. It marries phrase-for-phrase ‘translation’ with easy-to-speak Caribbean colloquial dialogue, while not losing any of the comic nuance of the original.”

79.70 The Aspern Papers (C of Letters, 3a) Michael Redgrave (adpt of Henry James’s novel, 1888). Review: Stage 22/3/79, 16. Comment: Company of Three. The production lacked any sense of direction or control (Stage).

79.72 Yes, We Have No Pyjamas (P, 2a) André Launay. WIMBLEDON 26/2/79. 1st perfd Playhouse, Harlow, 5/2/79. Julia Fiona Richmond; Stanley Oldroyd Jack Carlton; Marlon Kevan Sheehan; Rosanna Deborah Brayshaw; Trixie Fiona Douglas-Stewart; Click Petrina Derrington; Master of Ceremonies George Phillips. Lic, L Elliott-Young Promotions; Pres Mark Furness; Mgr dir Peter Elliott; Dir Victor Spinetti; Sm Arnold Fry, Georgie Phillips, Jenny Charles. Comment: The show, starring “sex queen” Fiona Richmond, was described as a “light panto entertainment for adults,” and caused protests by some local residents (Daily Mirror 21/2/79, 15).

79.73 Audience (P) Cherry Potter. COCKPIT 27/2/79. 1st perfd 1979. Comment: English Stage Company. Variety was perplexed as to why it had taken so long to revive this Restoration comedy “since it’s a reasonably adroit and amusing show.” Guardian described it as being more of a farce and a useful reference point in the history of English farce. Observer praised Stuart Burge’s direction and the “very intelligent” casting.

79.77 Teendreams (P) David Edgar. ICA 27/2/79. 1st perfd Vandyke, Bristol, 25/1/79. Edgar “presents only a tired (and very confusingly organised) run-through of every contemporary archetype of oppressed female” (Observer). “The worthy material was trivialised, the result banal ... The tone is bleeding-heart feminist—all woe is woman and what a rotten world with all those beastly men” (Tribune).

Comment: Guardian reported Leonard Rossiter was not as good as he had been for the play’s premiere in Coventry in 1962. For Illustrated London News Rossiter’s high speed performance removed the play’s reality. “In the production ... the impression is more of an extremely broad satirical farce, rather in the Elizabethan manner, about the more absurd middle-class pretentions” (Stage).

79.79 Assassinations Indiscriminate (C) Paddy Fletcher. YOUNG VIC 1/3/79 (Ln). 1st perfd Traverse, Edinburgh, 23/1/79. Cast: Stage 22/2/79, 12. Jerbil Tarquin Paddy Fletcher; Patti Bee, Danka Gordon, Lee Boxshall. Dir Paddy Fletcher; Dgn Annie Hayes. Review: Stage 8/3/79, 26. Comment: Incubus. Stage found the play self-indulgent, too long, and too indiscriminate “as in sprawling, chaotic, satirical fashion it sets about demolishing the fads of contemporary society.”

79.80a Cecilia (C fantasy, 1a) Michael Ashe. POLISH HEARTH THEATRE CLUB c. 1/3/79. Cecilia Margaret Praglowska; Rudolf Nick Wilton. Dir Mehmet Izbudak. Reviews: Gay News 22/3/79, 36; Stage 5/4/79, 22. Comment: IZ2 Theatre Group. “The play sets out to satirise both left and right wing political postures while finding time to poke fun at middle-of-the-road pragmatism” (Stage).

79.80b Rainbows (P, 1a) Michael Sharp. POLISH HEARTH THEATRE CLUB c. 1/3/79. William John F. Parker; Kate Yvonne Manners; Walter Brendan John Somers. Dir Mehmet Izbudak. Reviews: Gay News 22/3/79, 36; Stage 5/4/79, 22. Comment: IZ2 Theatre Group. Comment: The play was about a gay man and his lack of sympathy for his former wife ill with cancer (Gay News).

ham Post 5/3/79, 4; Illustrated London News 1/5/79, 103; Stage 15/3/79, 15. Comment: Oxford Playhouse Company. A satisfactory revival (Stage). Though the revival was ably done, Illustrated London News disapproved of the play's "foul language."

79.82 Partisans (P) Ernest Dalton. JACKSONS LANE 1/3/79. 2 perf. Review: Tribune 9/3/79, 7. Comment: North West Spanner. The play was about striking workers at a car factory and attempted "to spice hardline agit-prop with stand-up comickng and surrealist fantasy ... solidly socialist, imaginatively conceived and well-performed" (Tribune).

79.83 Crown Matrimonial (D, 2a) Royce Ryton. TOWER, CANONBURY, 2/3/79. Cast: Stage 8/3/79, 11; TTC. Plot: Fletcher, Hischak, Hischak/2, 63, Loney.

Review: Stage 5/4/79, 15. Comment: Inter-Action. The plot involved the murder of a prime minister of a South African country oppressed by colonialism. Stage thought the writing was committed but the play rather drawn out.

79.85 Cul de Sac (P) Peter Terson. UPSTREAM c. 5/3/79. 1st perfd Dolphin and Anchor, Chichester, 22/7/78. Comment: Variety said the piece lacked Ayckbourn's familiar "farcical high spots," but his name alone was "a virtual guarantee of box office prosperity." Observer repeated that objection while noting Ayckbourn had maintained "his comic gaze and his comic perceptions." Spectator reported the audience clearly expected "to be laughing more than it was." "It is a subtle piece, often extremely amusing but essentially serious ... No one can afford to write off Alan Ayckbourn as simply the parodist-chronicler of suburban life" (Illustrated London News). See also Lloyd Evans,

The play was about the life of Edward Carpenter, and “by any standards [was] a daunting and magnificent achievement” (Gay News). The play “has a gentle charm which seems utterly in keeping with the man and his work. There have been some rather strident plays about homosexuality, but this is not one of them” (Stage). After giving a subsequent performance at Birmingham Repertory some members of the cast were attacked in the street (Gay News 19/4/79, 3).

Review: Stage 5/4/79, 22. Comment: Théâtre Onze (Switzerland). The final performance was given on 17/3/79. Stage saw nothing new in this production that was concerned with “whether the wild individual or the community should triumph in their inevitable confrontation.”

Comment: Performed under the collective title Subjects for Interrogation. The link between the two plays “lies in the question [they ask] about men who inflict torture” (Guardian). Tribune saw a wider concern: “to show how the gradual erosion of civil liberties is reflected in the individual, corrupted by the state; to show the unacceptability of liberal values.”

Comment: "A good melodramatic yarn, super special effects and atmospheric settings," but only competent acting (Variety). "Run-of-the-mill melodrama depending on the most blissfully flamboyant stage effects the West End has seen in years, particularly the storm that volleys and thunders round Pondicherry Lodge" (Illustrated London News). "A brilliant performance by Keith Michell" (Stage). The first New York production (Helen Hayes 28/9/78) ran for 236 performances.

Comment: MPS 781. Joint Stock Theatre Group. Spectator discussed the virtues and vices of the Joint Stock acting technique. “An amusing sex-obsessed play ... with a commendable satiric flourish ... [but not developed] with depth or sustained with ingenuity” (Variety). Guardian opined the play was too diffuse: Churchill “opts not for a detailed exploration of one area but for a frivolously superficial jog around the whole complex and fascinating territory of sexual relations.” The first New York production (De Lys 18/5/81) ran for 971 performances. Comment: “Excellent. The show is no smash but lively fun, deserves to prosper and probably will” (Variety). Observer reported a good response from the first-night audience, but thought the show itself was full of “the tricks of the showman’s trade” and was “self-indulgent.” “A thoroughly conventional and predictable piece of work” (Spectator). Daily Mirror welcomed the piece whole-heartedly. The first New York production (46th Street 3/6/75) ran for 936 performances.

79.156 Miss Julie (P, 1a) August Strindberg (trans Michael Meyer; adpt Lee Davis of Fröken Julie, 1889). ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 10/4/79. Cast: Stage 5/4/79, 17; Theatricalia; *WWT/17. Plot: Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Griffiths, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson,

Shank, Shipley, Sobel, Walford. Review: Stage 26/4/79, 18. Comment: Acacia Theatre Trust, Omnibus Theatre Company. The piece was set in South Africa. Stage saw potential in a South African version; however, “both John and Christine are patently West Indian in character and speech, and Miss Julie is a middle-class South Kensingtonian ... an appallingly disastrously pedestrian drawing-room non-drama, even to an ending done very casually indeed.”

79.157 Ben Her (Show) Rix Pyke and Caroline John and Rae Levy. OVAL HOUSE 11/4/79; trfd to UNIVERSITY OF LONDON UNION 10/5/79.* Comment: Clapperclaw. A deliberately amateurish version of the epic performed by the writers.

Comment: The opening had been postponed for a week because a cast member became ill. Guardian complained that Jonathan Miller’s production possessed a “sedate dullness ... there is little in the way of invention or insight.” New Statesman said the performances were uneven and also wondered why Miller had chosen this comedy for revival.

Comment: Royal Exchange Theatre Company, Manchester. Variety thought that at the Vaudeville "the stylized presentation struggles in a ponderous, agitated fashion for great truths." New Statesman quoted Eliot's own negative judgement of the play and said this present production showed how wrong Eliot was about it. Spectator commended aspects of the production itself but was "as irritated as ever by Eliot's portentous and allusive obscurity." Guardian (20/4) "felt that for much of the evening I was watching a fascinating archaeological specimen," but nevertheless was grateful for the experience. There were 174 performances at the Vaudeville.

Comment: MPS 782. Guardian said Kirkwood did not "develop the play's great chances," opting for easy resolutions and sentimentality. "The style is slick New York," which works occasionally, "has a highly original idea but ... leaves an impression of only the lightest of light entertainment" (Gay News). Stage reported the production was playing to "House Full" notices, and noted three minor characters were cut from the second act. The first New York production (John Golden 7/4/75) ran for 16 performances.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. "Superlatively acted" (Guardian). "Important as the first and perhaps the best example of our burgeoning Theatre of Cataclysm" (New Statesman 27/4). Spectator held the play in contempt, noting "political and artistic honesty are inseparable. Indeed, a political mind as stunted as Brenton's is unlikely to approach truth of other kinds. [The play] is overblown, overwrought and overrated." "A poor, feverish and ungenerous piece by a dramatist born in 1942" (Illustrated London News).

Comment: National Theatre. “An anachronism of limited interest as a theatrical period piece” (Variety). “Although bad, [the play] is at least interesting as an anti-war period piece” (Spectator). Illustrated London News viewed the play as being symbolic rather than realistic. The New York production of this antiwar play (Booth 12/4/33) ran for 21 performances.

Comment: The plot involved three Scottish men whose “aim [is] to blow up the local power station and actively begin the casting-off of their smug English masters”; the piece was really too brief to explore the topic fully (Stage).

79.195 Fifty Words–Bits of Lenny Bruce (Revue) Danny Brainin. KING’S HEAD 2/5/79; trfd to OPEN SPACE 5?/6/79.* Cast: Stage 10/5/79, 2; WWT/17. Comment: “A cavalcade of Gallic chansons, ranging from traditional airs to music hall and present day pops. ... moderately entertaining” (Variety). Gay News thought some of the songs did not work well in translation and the production on the vast Piccadilly stage lacked the intimacy of the original at the King’s Head (78.436).

Review: Stage 17/5/79, 20. Comment: Square One Theatre Company. This production “does away with the sub plot of Gloucester and his sons and introduces Edgar merely as the Tom o’Bedlam of the heath scenes. Lear is seen, in fact, as a political power game” (Stage).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Performed in Edwardian dress. Spectator thought the austere Warehouse was the wrong venue for the play and John Barton's directorial intention was not clear. Guardian admired Barton's decision to treat the play exactly as a comedy and to "give the Venetian scenes social reality." New Statesman observed Barton used "the simple expedient of treating his combatants [Christians and Jews] with equal scepticism." Illustrated London News was impressed by Lisa Harrow's Portia.

Comment: MPS 747. English Stage Company. "A work of considerable dignity and passion ... A play that deals in historical persecution without an ounce of facile self-pity" (Guardian 4/5). Gay News complained about "dialogue as dead as Mr Sherman's." "Despite thoroughgoing performances by Ian McKellen and Tom Bell, there's little else to recommend it" (Variety). Tribune declared the play was "primarily about fascism ... and should be seen by anyone concerned about the growth of fascism in Britain and the various forms of fascist repression." The first New York production (New Apollo 2/12/79) ran for 241 performances.

79.201 The Plague Column (P) Jaroslav Seifert (trans Ewald Osers of Morový sloup, 1975; adpt Eric Starck). YOUNG VIC 4/5/79.* Cast: Stage 3/5/79, 41. Charles Turner, Peter Macklen, David Ereedman. Roberta Grant, Finolla Keogh, Val Meredok, Agapi Stassinopoulos. Dir Eric Starck; Dgn Henry Livingstone; Mus Rozanne Mark, Paul Sanders. Reviews: New Statesman 18/5/79, 731; Stage 17/5/79, 20. Comment: Terra Nova Theatre. "An impassioned but delicate assembly of lyrics about love, youth, memory and the agonies of age" (New Statesman).

79.202 Body Check (P) Harry Constantine. SOHO POLY 7/5/79 (Ln). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 17/5/79, 29. Brian Hayes, Tony London, Raymond Skipp. Dir Gerald Chapman; Dgn Mary Moore. Review: Stage 31/5/79, 12. Comment: The encounters of three men in a railway carriage "provides a terse comment on the unimaginative and blinkered way we lead our lives" (Stage).

79.203 Feet First (P) Carol Lee. KING'S HEAD 7/5/79 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 17/5/79, 29. Jiggy Bhore, Tony McCabe, Sue Blake, Daniel Hill. Dir John Parker; Song Mike Khan. Review: Stage 24/5/79, 11. Comment: A marital piece that needed reworking (Stage).

79.204 Ludlow Fair (P, 1a) Lanford Wilson. LAMB AND FLAG c. 7/5/79 (Ln). Plot: MacNicholas. Comment: American Repertory Theatre.

79.205 Mzumba (African Mus). RICHMOND 7/5/79. Review: Harrow Observer 23/2/79, 7. Comment: The musical had begun its world tour at the Wembley Conference Centre on 26/2/79. "The true Africa as it was, and still is" (adv). A one-week engagement.

79.206 From Laughing about the World, To Living in the World. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 10/5/79. Cast: Stage 3/5/79, 1. Ekkehard Schall. Reviews: Guardian 11/5/79, 7; Observer 13/5/79, 14. Comment: A recital of songs and poems by Brecht given by Ekkehard Schall (of the Berliner Ensemble).

79.207 A Tickle on the River's Back (P, 2a) Nick Darke. THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD EAST, 10/5/79.* Cast: Stage 10/5/79, 2; WWT/17. Socks John Ashton; Watcher Keith Bartlett; Francis, Charlie Peter Biddle; Frank Noel Collins; Bill, Customs Man Bob Critchley; Arnie Ken Gregson; Franky Tom Wilkinson. Dir Jules Wright; Dgn Sarah Paulley, Pat McNamara; Light Dave Horn. Reviews: Guardian 11/5/79, 7; New Statesman 18/5/79, 730–31; Stage 17/5/79, 17. Comment: MPS 761. The play was about workers on the River Thames and advances in transportation displacing them as seen through a particular father and son relationship. A well-researched play with some good performances (Stage).

79.208 Is That Your Body, Boy? (P, 1a) Andrew Davies. ORANGE TREE 11/5/79 (Ln). 1st perfd BBC-2 TV 9/5/70; 1st stage perf? Instructor Michael Cotterill; Penrose Chris Cregan; Waller Aaron Harris; Millar Paul Dalton;

Spratt Jamie Foreman. Dir Anthony Cornish. Review: Stage 31/5/79, 12. Comment: The play explored “the character of a PT instructor of retirement age facing four youngsters who regard him as an obstacle, a challenge and a laughing-stock as well as an old fogey” (Stage).

79.209 Landscape of Exile (P) David Zane Mairowitz. HALF MOON 11/5/79.* Cast: SHM; Stage 17/5/79, 20; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Edward Aveling David Hargreaves; Eleanor Marx Frances de la Tour; Friedrich Engels John Phillips; Helene Demuth Vera Jakob; John Burns Carl Davies; *John L. Reviews: Guardian 16/5/79, 12; New Statesman 25/5/79, 763; Spectator 26/5/79, 24–25; Stage 17/5/79, 29, 24/5/79, 11; Tribune 25/5/79, 7. Comment: MPS 798. Foco Novo and Half Moon Company. Previously given a reading at the Warehouse 19/6/78. “About the way the Marxist vision was never translated into political reality in England” (Guardian). “A dramatised text-book ... but a pleasant enough way to learn about that crucial period of Labour history [1883–1895]” (Tribune).

79.210 A Canary Called Quintessence (Revue). ACTION SPACE c. 12/5/79. Hyman Catz David E. Thompson; Radio Announcer Paul Holmes; Cathy Downes, Rhonda Liss. Review: Stage 24/5/79, 11. Comment: Heartache and Sorrow Company. “A stylised satiric play-revue on a fairly straightforward feminist plot-line—the moral being that a woman should realise herself and not give up all for the sake of a man who may leave her” (Stage).

79.211 The Entertainer (P, 2a) John Osborne. QUESTORS 12/5/79. Cast: QTA. Plot: Best/57, 225, Bordman/4, 351, Demastes/2, Fletcher, Gassner, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Loney, 305, Matlaw, Mplots, Patterson, Salem, Vinson, Weintraub.

79.212 Latecomer (P) Eric Presland. PRINCE ALBERT (2) 12/5/79. 1st perfd Spring Cottage, Walsall, c. 25/4/77. Simon Jeremy Adams; Colin Peter Kirby; Derek Allan Brayne; Eric Presland. Review: Gay News 31/5/79, 30. Comment: A substantially revised version. The play, unevenly written and performed, was about the relationships of four gay men (Gay News).

79.213 Sweetcorn (P) ACTION SPACE c. 12/5/79 (Ln). Cathy Downes, Jane Waddell. Dir Jean Betts. Review: Stage 17/5/79, 20. Comment: Heartache and Sorrow

Company. The piece “appears to be a mick-take of the corny sentimentality and narrow sexist thinking of country-and-western songs and the people who sing and live them ... Sadly this piece is like a long bad joke” (Stage).

79.214 Semi-Detached (C, 3a) David Turner. RICHMOND 14/5/79. Fred Midway Leonard Rossiter; Robert Freeman Bruce Bould; Avril Hadfield Anita Carey; Hilda Midway Gillian Raine; Tom Midway Enn Reitel; Garnet Hadfield Joan Sanderson; Arnold Makepeace Peter Schofield; Nigel Hadfield David Timson; Eileen Midway Theresa Watson. Chm Louis I. Hardman; Sm John Benjamin; Dsm Daniel Lawton; Asm Marella Oppenheim, Yvonne Sadler; Pq Simon (Wigs) Studios. Plot: Bordman/4, 390, Hischak, Loney, Vinson. Comment: A one-week engagement.

79.215 The Barneys Pocket Show. UNIVERSITY OF LONDON UNION 15/5/79. 2 perf. Cast: Stage 10/5/79, 21. The Barneys (Daniel Rovai and Margaret Biereye).

79.216 The Lady from the Sea (D) Henrik Ibsen (trans Michael Meyer of Fruen fra havet, 1889). ROUNDHOUSE 16/5/79. Cast: Stage 10/5/79, 2; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Arnholm John Franklyn-Robbins; Ballested Ronald Herdman; Bolette Sherrie Hewson; Dr. Wangel Graham Crowden; Ellida Vanessa Redgrave; Hilde Lynsey Baxter; Lynstrand Christopher Good; A Stranger Terence Stamp; Tourists Jane Butler, Victoria Constan, Andrew Cuthbert, Camille Davis, Chris Morton, Ian Swann. Dir Michael Elliott; Sc dgn Laurie Dennett; Cost dgn Clare Jeffery; Light Mark Henderson; Sound Tim Foster, George Glossop. Plot: Bryan, French/2, Hochman, Matlaw, Patterson, Shipley. Reviews: Birmingham Post 23/5/79, 6; Gay News 31/5/79, 31; Guardian 16/5/79, 12, 17/5/79, 10; Illustrated London News 1/7/79, 73; New Statesman 25/5/79, 763; Spectator 26/5/79, 25; Stage 24/5/79, 9; Tribune 25/5/79, 7. Comment: Royal Exchange Theatre Company Manchester. Guardian (17/5) found the production worked on a psychological level but faulted the “over-insistence on the play’s hydrophilic content” reflected in the production’s set; Vanessa Redgrave was outstanding. The production was “old-fashioned (stilted, over-stylised and melodramatic)—unnecessarily and to the detriment of a beautiful play and fine performers” (Tribune). Vanessa Redgrave played Ellida “with rare intelligence and energy” (New Statesman). For Illustrated London News the problem with the production was the use of in-the-round staging, particularly for a play conceived for the proscenium stage.

79.217 Makbethe (P) Gordon McDonald (adpt of William Shakespeare, Macbeth). OVAL HOUSE 16/5/79. 1st perf? Makbethe Lee Beagley; Lady Makbethe Ewa Ohlsson; Banquho Philip Osment; Duncan John Michelson; Makduffe Ross Foley; Lady Makduffe Patricia McDadadies; George Fisher. Dir Gordon McDonald; Sc dgn Paul Dart; Cost dgn Sonny Shine. Reviews: Gay News 31/5/79, 30; Stage 28/6/79, 12. Comment: Gay News provided a descriptive account of the adaptation, noting the words were generally spoken poorly and there was an emphasis on action. Stage noted the play's numerous sources, and concluded "vocally, the playing is of as high a calibre as it is athletically. With this sort of adaptation, it is vital to leave one's theatrical prejudices in the foyer and accept what is offered on its own level. That is high, very high indeed."

79.218 The Play's the Thing (P, 3a) Ferenc Molnár (adpt P. G. Wodehouse of Játék a kastélyban, 1926). GREENWICH 17/5/79. 1st perfd (Wodehouse adpt) Playhouse, Great Neck, New York, 21/10/26; 1st British perf Civic Playhouse, Leeds, 12/11/28. Cast: Stage 10/5/79, 2; WWT/17. Mell Stephen Boswell; Almady Richard Coleman; Mansky James Cossins; Ilona Szabo Julia McKenzie; Sandor Turai John Moffatt; Albert Adam Ian Oliver; Footman Mark Preston; Johann Dwornitschek John Tordoff. Dir Alan Strachan; Dgn Peter Docherty; Light Nick Chelton; Sm Jean Tassell. Plot: Best/26, 193, Fletcher, Hochman, Matlaw, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Reviews: Guardian 18/5/79, 10; New Statesman 25/5/79, 763; Stage 31/5/79, 9. Comment: A fairly competent production (Guardian). "Elegantly directed by Alan Strachan, very properly cast and prettily decorated by Peter Docherty but has no true theatrical fire until the last act" (Stage).

79.219 Dusa, Fish, Stas and Vi (T, 2a) Pam Gems. TOWER, CANONBURY, 18/5/79. Cast: TTC. Plot: Demastes/2, Griffiths, Patterson, Weintraub.

79.220 The Fire Room (P) Harriet Rose. OVAL HOUSE 18/5/79.* Cast: Stage 17/5/79, 29. Francesca Hamilton, Evie Garratt, Nina Allison, Aubrey Wulfsohn. Dir Harriet Rose; Ch Aubrey Wulfsohn. Review: Stage 26/7/79, 14. Comment: 13th Moon. A mixture of poetry, dance, and dialogue, "the production has a theme, to do with role playing and the way that frontiers of culture and sexuality blur under pressure" (Stage).

79.221 The Desert Song (Mus) Otto Harbach (bk, lyr) and Oscar Hammerstein (bk, lyr) and Frank Mandel (bk, lyr) and Sigmund Romberg (mus). WIMBLEDON

21/5/79. Pierre Birabeau John Hanson; Susan Andrea Kealy; Benjamin Kidd Michael Walling; Captain Paul Fontaine; Philip Griffiths; Lieutenant La Vergne Roy Winbow. Plot: Best/26, 435–36, Bordman, Bordman/5, 419–20, Fletcher, Gänzl, Green, Hischak, Kennedy, Loney, 142, OTF, Wilmeth.

79.222 Then and Now (P, 2a) David Mercer. HAMPSTEAD 21/5/79.* Cast: Stage 17/5/79, 1; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Emma Baildon Patricia Hodge; Isabel Fenwick Morag Hood; John Baildon Mike Gwilym; Mr. Fenwick John Nettleton; Mrs. Baildon Liz Smith; Robert Simon Chandler. Dir Robin Lefevre; Sc dgn Sue Plummer; Cost dgn Lindy Hemming; Light Gerry Jenkinson. Comment: MPS 770. Tribune discussed in detail the aspects and problems of Mercer's Marxist drama. "What bugs me about Mr Mercer's play is the easy assumption that any form of commitment is now useless. Radical politics?" (Guardian). "Misdirected effort and human waste are the twin subjects ... it is sex rather than booze that mainly preoccupies the well-to-do residents of the English ash-can" (New Statesman).

79.223 The Wild Duck (P) Henrik Ibsen (anon trans of Vildanden, 1885). RICHMOND 21/5/79. T. P. McKenna, Helen Ryan, Benjamin Whitrow, Mark Dignam, Norman Wooland, Eva Griffith. Plot: Bryan, Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: A one-week engagement.

79.224 Nuts (P). ICA 22/5/79 (Ln).* Claudia Boulton, Christine Ellerbeck, Didi Hopkins, Lauren Jana Marks. Comment: Beryl and the Perils. The piece was about women's mental health and mental health services.

79.225 Archy and Mehitabel (MP) Mel Brooks and Joe Darion (adpt of Don Marquis' story, 1927). AMERICAN REPERTORY THEATRE 23/5/79. Cast: Stage 17/5/79, 29. Mehitabel Karen Bowen; Archie Paul Wagar; Big Bill, Tyrone T. Tattersall William Louthier; Wendy Crewson, Patricia Harrison, Gordon McConnell, Teresa Moring, Roblyn Lambert. Dir Raphael Brandow; Sc dgn Michael Anderson; Cost dgn Peter Barr, Billie Barekat, Philip Batty; Ch William Louthier; Mus dir Robert Purvis. Plot: Hischak. Reviews: Observer 3/6/79, 14; Stage 31/5/79, 12. Comment: This musical adaptation suffered from a faulty sound system (Stage). The first New York production, as Shinbone Ally (Broadway 13/4/57), ran for 49 performances.

79.226 Measure for Measure (C) William Shakespeare. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 23/5/79. Cast: Stage 17/5/79, 1; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Duke of Vienna George Baker; Escalus John Welsh; Angelo Patrick Drury; Lucio Hugh Thomas; Gentleman, Justice, Barnadine Robert Hamilton; Gentleman, Angelo's Servant Paul Kelly; Mistress Overdone Maria Charles; Pompey Michael Elphick; Claudio Paul Jones; Provost John Bailey; Friar Peter, Elbow Matthew Guinness; Isabella Helen Mirren; Francisca, Marianna Susan Brodrick; Froth Stuart Rayner; Boys Giles Ashton, Jarrod Leeds, William Palmer, Damiano Vukotic; Abhorson Robert Putt; Juliet Anne Lambert. Dir Peter Gill; Dgn Alison Chitty; Light Rory Dempster; Mus George Fenton. Reviews: Birmingham Post 25/5/79, 6; Guardian 18/5/79, 10, 24/5/79, 12; Illustrated London News 1/7/79, 73; New Statesman 1/6/79, 802; Observer 27/5/79, 15; Spectator 2/6/79 28; Stage 31/5/79, 9; Tribune 15/6/79, 7. Comment: An austere production by Peter Gill, but with a "performance of real note" from Helen Mirren (New Statesman); Illustrated London News agreed. Gill's treatment of the play's moral argument in all its paradox and ambiguity" worked well until the final scene when, of necessity, it fell apart (Spectator). Gill presented "a neutral version of a complex moral comedy that ducks many of the questions the play itself raises" (Guardian 24/5).

79.227 The People Show No. 79. ICA 23/5/79.

79.228 Richard II (T) William Shakespeare. ST. GEORGE'S 23/5/79. Cast: Stage 24/5/79, 2; WWT/17. King Richard II Bernard Hepton; John of Gaunt Joseph O'Connor; Duke of Aumerle Richard Kay; Thomas Mowbray Sam Dastor; Edmund Langley Richard Hampton; Henry Bolingbroke Alexander Davion; Isabelle of France Jenny Oulton; Duchess of Gloucester, Duchess of York Angela Brinkworth; Henry Percy Eric Lander; Harry Percy (Hotspur) Kim Begley; Sir Henry Greene, Abbot of Westminster John Moreno; Sir John Bushy Colin Starkey; Sir John Bagot Adam Kurakin; Lord Marshall, Lord Willoughby Danial Davies; Lord Ross Peter Holmes; Lord Berkeley Alex Guard; Earl of Salisbury Edward Phillips; Gardener Robin Langord; Ladies Sandra Miller, Sara Mason. Dir George Murcell; Dgn Paul Staples; Cost dgn John Bloomfield, Ann Beverley. Reviews: Birmingham Post 15/6/79, 6; Illustrated London News 1/8/79, 54; Stage 31/5/79, 9. Comment: An ordinary production with a solid portrayal of Richard by Bernard Hepton (Stage).

79.229 Six Feet Apart (P) Elisabeth Bond. KING'S HEAD 23/5/79 (Ln).* John Loudon James Bryce; Jane Loudon Tricia Scott; Tom Bowles, Sue Grantley, Denise Armon, Michael Harley, John Slade. Dir Howard Kingston; Sc

dgn, Light Matthew McKenzie. Review: Stage 31/5/79, 12. Comment: Paines Plough. This play "about John Claudius Loudon, landscape gardener, botanist and architect is not boring. It is precise, moving, atmospheric, touching. Set in 1843, just before Loudon's death, it provides a fulcrum for a realisation of his life and interests in an interesting dramatic situation" (Stage).

79.230 Close of Play (D, 2a) Simon Gray. LYTTTELTON 24/5/79.* Cast: NTA; Stage 24/5/79, 2; Theatricalia; Variety 30/5/79, 84; WWT/17. Jasper Michael Redgrave; Benedict John Standing; Daisy Annie Leon; Henry Michael Gambon; Jenny Zena Walker; Margaret Lynn Farleigh; Marianne Anna Massey; Matthew Adam Godley/Matthew Ryan. Dir Harold Pinter; Dgn Eileen Diss; Cost dgn Elizabeth Waller; Light Leonard Tucker; Assist light Ronnie Cox; Pd mgr Rodger Hulley; Sound Gabby Haynes; Staff dir Lizzi Becker; Sm Diana Boddington; Dsm Karen Stone; Asm Catherine Bailey; Angela Fairclough. Plot: Demastes/2, Hischak/2, 182, Loney, Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 25/5/79, 10; Illustrated London News 1/7/79, 73; New Statesman 1/6/79, 802; Observer 27/5/79, 15; Spectator 9/6/79, 30; Stage 31/5/79, 9; Variety 30/5/79, 84. Comment: MPS 758. National Theatre. The low price opening on 24/5/79 was preceded by previews. Gray's talent is "wasted on a play that adds up to a so-what"; however, there is the intriguing "gimmick casting of Michael Redgrave as a mute patriarch, confined to an armchair" (Variety). "The characters rarely escape the status of puppets" (Observer). Spectator noted "excellent acting" mitigated the drawbacks of the play. The play remained in repertory until 22/10/79. The first New York production was at the Manhattan Theatre Club 10/2/81.

79.231a Everyman (Morality P). PORTCULLIS 24/5/79. Cast: Stage 24/5/79, 30. Dir Anthony Murphy. Plot: Gassner, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Shipley. Review: Marylebone Mercury 4/5/79, 11. Comment: The Other Side.

79.231b The Real Inspector Hound (C, 1a) Tom Stoppard. PORTCULLIS 24/5/79. Cast: Stage 24/5/79, 30. Inspector Hound Mark Evans. Dir Gareth Martyn-Williams. The play was about a group of young Glaswegians and their experience of drugs from 1960 to 1970 and their decline. Guardian faulted the play, the production and most of the acting, apart from Ian Charleson's. New Statesman said the play was "too sketchy" and failed to achieve McGrath's objective of conveying "the emotional history of a decade, from ingenuous optimism to sullen disillusion."

79.233a Auto-da-Fe (P, 1a) Tennessee Williams. THREE HORSESHOES 25/5/79. 1st British perf. Julia Blalock, Paul Bentall. Dir Mimi Khalvati; Sc dgn Billy Jones; Light Peter Lunn. Plot: Gunn, Heintzelman, MacNicholas. Review: Stage 21/6/79, 13. Comment: Julia Blalock and Paul Bentall appeared in all three plays of this triple bill, with Blalock taking the acting honors (Stage). The first New York production was at the Lucille Lortel 18/5/86.

79.233b Talk to Me Like the Rain and Let Me Listen (P, 1a) Tennessee Williams. THREE HORSESHOES 25/5/79. Plot: Heintzelman, MacNicholas, Walford. Review: Stage 21/6/79, 13.

79.239 Deadline (P) Luanshya Greer. RICHMOND 28/5/79. 1st perfd Playhouse, Harlow, 2/4/79. Comment: The cast included Max Wall (for whom the play was written), John Carson (Greer's husband), Norma West, Paul Ratcliffe, C. Lethbridge Baker; Dir John Sichel. A one-week engagement.

79.240 Later (Monol) David Pownall. KING'S HEAD 28/5/79 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 17/5/79, 29. Mary Ellen Ray. Review: Stage 7/6/79, 34. Comment: MPS 3198. Paines Plough. "Mary Ellen Ray's performance [as a Russian daughter summoned from the dead] is riveting and pinpointedly punctuated throughout. Highly recommended" (Stage).

79.241 Sleeping Beauties (P) John Petherbridge. SOHO POLY 28/5/79 (Ln). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 7/6/79, 39. Jude Ian Gelder; Liz June Page; Lewis Ian Lindsay; Doctor Jacki Webb. Dir Ian Collier; Dgn Rita Furzey. Review: Stage 21/6/79, 13. Comment: The play was about a couple being poisoned by radiation from a power plant. Stage said the cast was exceptional.

79.242 Washroom (P) Gordon Porterfield. ALMOST FREE c. 28/5/79 (Ln). 1st London perf? Cast: Stage 31/5/79, 26. Stephanie Fayerman. Matthew Kelly, Amanda Parfitt, William Hope. Dir Malcolm McKay; Dgn Kandis Cook. Review: Stage 7/6/79, 34. Comment: The piece was one of several playlets performed which dealt explicitly with aspects of sex.

79.243 The White Guard (P, 3a) Mikhail Bulgakov (trans Michael Glenny of Dni turbinykh, 1926). ALDWYCH 29/5/79. Cast: RSCA; Stage 24/5/79, 1; Theatricalia; Variety 13/6/79, 86; WWT/17. Alexander Studzinsky John Bowe; Alexei Turbin John Nettles; Bolbotun Philip McGough; Deserter, 1st Officer Conrad Asquith; Doctor, German Army Maxim Dennis Clinton; First Officer Cadet Ian Reddington; Fyodor Bill Dean; Galanba Malcolm Storry; General von Shtratt Donald Douglas; Hetman of all the Ukraine George Raistrick; Kirpaty James Griffin; Larion Surzhansky Richard Griffiths; Leonid Shervinsky Michael Pennington; Major von Dust, Jew Dennis Edwards; Man with a Basket, Second Officer Michael Bertenshaw; Nikolai Turbin Allan Hendrick; Telephonist, Second Officer Cadet Bill Buffery; Ukrainian Soldier Brian Abbott; Uragan Alan Barker; Viktor Myshlaevsky Patrick Stewart; Vladimir Talberg Geoffrey Freshwater; Yeliena Talberg Juliet Stevenson; Officer Cadets James Adams, Sebastian Allen, Dan Brooks, Simon Grigsby, Philip Inman, Adam Shaw, Nicholas Turner, James Wolfe, Eric Carlson, John Fortnum. Dir Barry Kyle; Dgn Christopher Morley; Light Brian Harris; Mus John Riley. Plot: Hochman, Patterson. Reviews: Birmingham Post 30/5/79, 6; Guardian 30/5/79, 12; Illustrated London News 1/8/79, 54; New Statesman 8/6/79, 838; Observer 3/6/79, 14; Spectator 23/6/79, 32–33; Stage 7/6/79, 33; Tribune 15/6/79, 7; Variety 13/6/79, 86. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. “Amusing in this stylish production, and as a repertory curiosity, that may suffice for most audiences” (Variety). Tribune reported “it was one of Stalin’s favourite plays.” “A remarkably consistent cast perform it with due deference” (New Statesman). Barry Kyle’s “fitful production” was best when dealing with the “Chekhovian family scenes, weak on public action” (Guardian).

79.244 Can You Hear Me at the Back? (D, 2a) Brian Clark. PICCADILLY 30/5/79. 300 perf. Cast: Stage 5/4/79, 1; Theatricalia; Variety 13/6/79, 86; WWT/17. Colin Turner Michael Maloney; Jack Hartnoll Edward Hardwicke; Margery Hartnoll Stephanie Beacham; Philip Turner Peter Barkworth; Sarah Turner Hannah Gordon. Mgr dir Ian B. Albery; Pres John Gale, Mark Shivas; Dir Barry Davis; Dgn Carmen Dillon; Light Howard Eaton. Plot: Fletcher. Reviews: Birmingham Post 31/5/79, 4;

Guardian 31/5/79, 10; New Statesman 8/6/79, 838; Observer 3/6/79, 14; Stage 7/6/79, 33; Variety 13/6/79, 86. Comment: Because Brian Clark could not decide whether the play was about “the breakup of a marriage or the blight of modern town planning ... [it was] an unsatisfying and inconclusive drama” (Variety). New Statesman observed the same faults and reported the irony of the play “being performed right beside that impending atrocity, the reconstruction of Piccadilly Circus.” Guardian also noted that effectively there were two plays co-existing beside each other.

79.245 The Mikado; or, The Town of Titipu (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). WESTMINSTER 30/5/79. 165 perf. Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Review: Stage 7/6/79, 38. Comment: Musical Theatre Company. “The accompanying orchestral forces are slight indeed, two pianos, bass and percussion, but one hardly notices the deficiency when the standard of the singing, costumes and production is so high” (Stage).

79.246 Fearless Frank (Mus) Andrew Davies (bk) and Dave Brown (mus). KING’S HEAD 31/5/79.* Cast: Stage 31/5/79, 32; WWT/17. English Waiter, Bully, Oscar Wilde Nigel Bennett; Secretary, Jessie, Lily Mary Chilton; Kate, Nellie, Laura Carol Cleveland; Mrs. Clapton, Mrs. Clayton, Mrs. Mayhew Nichola McAuliffe; Actress, Nursemaid, Shoeshine Boy Mandy More; Mr. Mayhew, Dowson, Cowboy Olivier Pierre; French Waiter, Kendrick, Whistler Tony Scannell; Frank Harris Bill Stewart. Dir Robert Gillespie; Dgn Martin E. Tilley; Cost dgn Maggie Smith; Ch Fred Peters. Reviews: Guardian 1/6/79, 10; Observer 24/6/79, 14; Stage 14/6/79, 14. Comment: MPS 766. About Frank Harris, the writer. Guardian said this “breezy, relentlessly bright” musical lacked “distinctness” and was rather at odds with its subject matter. Observer commended Bill Stewart’s performance.

79.247 Portrait of Dora (P) Hélène Cixous (trans Anita Barrows of Le portrait de Dora, 1976; based on Sigmund Freud, Le cas de Dora). NEW END 31/5/79. 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 24/5/79, 2; WWT/17. Freud Terence Bayler; Dora Caroline Langrishe; Mr. B. Neil Phelps; Mr. K. Gérard Falconetti; Mrs. K. Sheila Gish. Dir Simone Benmussa. Plot: Patterson. Reviews: Guardian 1/6/79, 10; New Statesman 8/6/79, 838; Observer 10/6/79, 15; Stage 14/6/79, 13. Comment: "Written and performed in too solemn and soporific style" to be a drama (New Statesman). Observer opined the piece had not given an accurate account of Freud's study of Dora.

79.248 Trilogy. JACKSONS LANE 31/5/79.* Comment: Spiderwoman. Presumably the trilogy consisted of My Sister Ate Dirt, Jealousy, and Friday Night.

79.249 The Dock Brief (P, 2sc) John Mortimer. HEAD 6/79. Plot: Fletcher, French/2, Hochman, Loney, 310, Matlaw, Patterson, Vinson, Walford, Weintraub. Review: Stage 5/7/79, 14. Comment: "Harry Perscy as the bird-loving Fowle (!) and Raymond Cross as barrister Morgenhall inject wonderful life-blood into their respective parts producing enchanting characters" (Stage).

79.250a If You're Glad, I'll Be Frank (P, 1a) Tom Stoppard. TOWER, CANONBURY, 1/6/79. Cast: TTC. Plot: Hochman, Vinson, Walford, Weintraub.

79.251a 98 Days to Christmas (P) Sheila Yeger. ORANGE TREE 1/6/79 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 31/5/79, 26. Margaret Ford, Christina Greatrex. Dir Julia Pascal. Review: Stage 21/6/79, 13. Comment: Richmond Fringe. Performed under the collective title A Quieter Sex. "Directed with great intensity by Julia Pascal. Both [plays] concern chance encounters between women who at first sight have nothing in common" (Stage).

79.251b A Quieter Sort of Battle (P) Sheila Yeger. ORANGE TREE 1/6/79 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 31/5/79, 26. Catherine Harding, Janet Key. Dir Julia Pascal. Review: Stage 21/6/79, 13. Comment: Richmond Fringe. Performed under the collective title A Quieter Sex.

Match John Labanowski. Dir Michael Attenborough; Dgn Marty Flood; Light Chic Reid. Plot: Demastes/2, Dorney, Fletcher, Hischak/2, 16, Hochman, Law, Loney, Patterson, Salem, Weintraub. Review: Stage 14/6/79, 14. Comment: After praising the play, Stage observed it was given a "rather hesitant production by Michael Attenborough. There are moments when the players seem unsure whether to be firmly serious or lightly in a mood of sending-up (firmly serious, of course, it must be all the way)."

79.253 Dispatches (P) Bill Bryden and the company (adpt of Michael Herr's book, 1977). COTTESLOE 2/6/79.* 49 perf. Cast: NTA; Stage 31/5/79, 1; Theatricalia; *WWT/17. Comment: MPS 759. National Theatre. Press night was 6/6/79. Guardian was surprised this adaptation of Herr's book on the Vietnam War was "astonishingly successful." Spectator concurred, adding "at the end I was applauding real people not actors." New Statesman indicated the real value of the production was to make the audience think about why it was watching a play about the war. The production remained in repertory until 28/7/79.

79.254 Loot (C, 2a) Joe Orton. QUESTORS 2/6/79. Cast: QTA. Plot: Bordman/4, 424, Demastes/2, Fletcher, Griffiths, Hischak, Law, Loney, Patterson, Weintraub.

Plot: Bordman, Bordman/5, 675, Fletcher, French/2, Gänzl, Green, Hirschak, Kennedy, Law, Loney, OTF, Shipley, Wilmeth. Reviews: Daily Mirror 9/6/79, 7; Guardian 9/6/79, 13; Stage 14/6/79, 13. Comment: Stage reported “that the omens [for the revival] are more favourable—a better theatre which has already earned a reputation for rock and a much greater familiarity with the songs and the story than we had in 1973.” Daily Mirror averred the revival was simply cashing in on the popularity of the movie.

79.265 Happy Days (D, 2a) Samuel Beckett. COURT 7/6/79. Cast: Findlater; Theatricalia; Variety 20/6/79, 82; WWT/17. Winnie Billie Whitelaw; Willie Leonard Fenton. Dir Samuel Beckett; Dgn Jocelyn Herbert; Light Jack Raby. Plot: Demastes/2, Dorney, Fletcher, French/2, 79.268a Bye Bye Blues (P) James Saunders. NEW INN 8/6/79. Dir Eric Yardley. Review: Middlesex County Times 8/6/70, 21. Comment: Both plays are “concerned with the breakdown of family relationships ... Words of Advice ... is the most effective because the characterisation is so much better and the long passages of dialogue in the James Saunders play tend to draw the attention away from the central theme” (Middlesex County Times).

79.268b Words of Advice (P, 1a) Fay Weldon. NEW INN 8/6/79. Chloe Crabbe, Sue Atkinson. Dir Eric Yardley. Plot: Walford. Review: Middlesex County Times 8/6/70, 21.

Review: Stage 19/7/79, 14. Comment: CG and Company. Two Americans and two Englishmen discourse on London and its modes of transportation in “this loosely structured play [that] totally fails to develop ideas or generate dramatic impact” (Stage).

79.270 Exit Burbage (One-man show) Peter Whitbread. OPEN AIR 11/6/79 (Ln). Cast: Stage 21/6/79, 27. Richard Burbage Peter Whitbread. Review: Stage 28/6/79, 12. Comment: A very good revival.

79.271 It Ain't Half Hot Mum (C) David Croft and Jimmy Perry. WIMBLEDON 11/6/79. Melvyn Hayes. Comment: Based on the television sit-com series which began in 1974.

79.272a Ladybird, Ladybird (P) Pam Gems. KING'S HEAD c. 11/6/79 (Ln). Cast: Stage 14/6/79, 30. Review: Tribune 6/7/79, 9. Comment: The company for this double bill included Janet Henfrey, Carole Harrison, Philip Crickin, Angela Carroll. Dir Sue Parrish. “In both plays the point was clearly that the women's reality and society's reality never related” (Tribune).

79.272b Sandra (One-woman P) Pam Gems. KING'S HEAD c. 11/6/79 (Ln). Cast: Stage 14/6/79, 30. Review: Tribune 6/7/79, 9.

Reviews: Guardian 12/6/79, 8; Stage 21/6/79, 11. Comment: The play, about several people at a health farm, was dominated by one character and was full of talk but not much incident (Guardian). Stage complained similarly.

79.274 My Mum Doesn't Know How to Draw Elephants (P) Anon. WHITE LION c. 11/6/79 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 14/6/79, 30. Susan Gardner, Irene Kapps, Gail Mistlin, Terri O'Donohue, Elizabeth Pearce. Review: Stage 21/6/79, 13. Comment: Carpel Theatre Company. “With insight and a steady hand the five deviser-actors have explored the aspects, causes and effects of the wife-beating syndrome. It is simple, straight information produced through careful research” (Stage).

79.275 The Problem (P, 1a) A. R. Gurney. PINDAR OF WAKEFIELD c. 11/6/79 (Ln). Cast: Stage 14/6/79, 30. Diana Malin, Russell Wootton. Dir David Coulter. Plot: French/2, Wheatley/3. Review: Stage 5/7/79, 14. Comment: A capable revival which did not excite Stage.

Comment: “Revived with evident care and respect,” and advanced bookings worth over $2,000,000 “believed to be an all-time high for London” (Variety). “Altogether a wonderful, magical night of real theatre,” and Stage wondered why the musical was not revived more often. Daily Mirror noted Brynner had played his role thousands of times and Virginia McKenna “showed no trace of nerves playing governess Anna for the first time.”

Reviews: Guardian 20/6/79, 11; New Statesman 29/6/79, 963; Stage 28/6/79, 12. Comment: Black Theatre Cooperative. New Statesman reported some Rastifarians in the audience were annoyed by the play and stormed out. Guardian pointed out this was Matura’s first play to be set in London, and its objective was to ask the audience (mostly black locals) to question “their own lifestyle and the assumptions behind it.”

Comment: Tribune left before the end of this play about “three teenagers auditioning for the jet-setting executive of a big record company. The situation and the dialogue were banal in the extreme.” Guardian found the play intriguing, perceptive, and performed well. The first New York production (Stage 73 16/12/80) ran for 48 performances.

Comment: MPS 788. Michael Crawford was “impressive and sympathetic as the mental deficient who works in a bakery,” and the piece was “witty, compassionate and tactful,” but ultimately it was too much of a “downer” to be successful (Variety). “A work of decent professionalism” but “musicalising” the story is not the way to tell it (Observer). “The moral questions presented here are approached in a cliché-ridden and sentimental manner, degenerating into a tear-jerker of a love-story” (Stage). “Perhaps it fails to touch the heart, but it certainly engages the mind ... I did admire the playing of Michael Crawford and Cheryl Kennedy as his emotional girl friend” (Daily Mirror). The first New York production, as Charlie and Algernon (Helen Hayes 14/9/80), ran for 17 performances.

Reviews: Birmingham Post 5/7/79, 9; Guardian 5/7/79, 8; Stage 19/7/79, 13. Comment: New Shakespeare Company. "In the comedy and romance it seems to be silvery-shining; in the solemn passages, with Orsino and Olivia in particular, it gently makes fun of matters, though never harshly. It may not bring out the sadness and melancholy of the work, but generally it is most expressive" (Stage).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Observer found Peter Brook's production "frustratingly uneven," with Glenda

Jackson and Alan Howard playing “in different styles.” Brook’s production was “an integration of Antony’s decline in personal and political stature and Octavius’ corresponding rise with Cleopatra’s unchanging catalyst like chameleon last years” (Stage). “In the end what is so good about this production is that Brook gives us the play’s architecture and none of its archaeology” (Guardian). Commending Jackson and Howard and the swift pace, Illustrated London News declared this was the way the play should be seen.

The piece was about a day in the life of a New York couple possibly breaking up which Guardian found was “a perceptive short story” but not a dramatic work. “A lot of the time we are subjected to an overlapping layer of repetitive conversation phrase by phrase, sentence by sentence” (Stage). The first New York production (Joseph Papp Public/Newman 23/1/80) ran for 31 performances.

79.335 If You Want to Know the Time (P) John McGrath. COURT 15/7/79.* Comment: Part of the Blair Peach Memorial Event. Blair Peach was killed by a policeman in 1977 during a clash between the Anti-Nazi League and the National Front. The play’s title derives from the popular song, “If you want to know the time, ask a policeman” (see John Bull, British Theatre Companies: 1965–1979 [London: Bloomsbury, 2017], 44–45).

There is some doubt about the official first night, as press night was canceled due to injury to Tim Stern during previews (see Stage 26/7/79, 12). Observer gives 1st perf as 16/7/79. Guardian said this play about Lautrec and Degas was “a fascinating embryonic text rather than a realised play.”

Comment: MPS 785. Royal Shakespeare Company. Guardian noted Rudkin's version "transposes the play to a neutral cultural zone, removes intrusive classical allusion, and alters the structure slightly." Rudkin "has rendered the play into stern, concrete English that rarely sounds like a substitute for anything"; the chorus was played by just one actress (Observer). New Statesman thought Rudkin "seems determined to elaborate Euripides into some agonisingly earnest psychologist or sociologist." Illustrated London

News declared this version was "far from acceptable."

Comment: The play was about Kate Meyrick who ran nightclubs in London in the 1920s and who was sent to prison. "The play itself is not completely satisfactory, being taken largely from transcripts of her court appearances, and has something of the air of a radio documentary" (Stage).

Comment: MPS 786. "A contrived farce with goofy, oddball and clichéd characters who may be comic or pathetic but remain uninvolved"; the action took place during a cricket match (Variety). Guardian (25/7) questioned the choice of the Hampstead to stage this conventional piece, but noted part of the audience responded fully to the comedy. Stage (2/8) praised the production generally and thought the piece showed "a sharp intelligence and an authentic theatrical flair." There were 131 performances at the Queen's.

Reviews: New Statesman 10/8/79, 210; Stage 9/8/79, 14. Comment: Hesitate and Demonstrate. An earlier version was performed at the Liverpool Academy Gallery in May 1979. A surrealistic piece that "deals with the private and fantasy lives of the Brontë sisters and brother Branwell ... there is no denying the almost hypnotic power of the production" (Stage).

79.349 The Last Days of Mankind. OVAL HOUSE 25/7/79. Deborah Hunt, Sally Rodwell, Alan Brunton, John Davies, Ian Prior. Review: Stage 16/8/79, 52. Comment: Red Mole Enterprises. Comment: MPS 754. "A wickedly accurate, affectionate parody of pop stars and stage hits" (Daily Mirror). Variety noted the "contradiction inherent in the basic idea of using a fictional life story of a bad songwriter as a vehicle for pastiches of popular music." Observer detected the same defect but was generally more charitable towards the piece. "It pokes fun. but it does so tenderly; its satirical passages are firm and strong; there is joy as well as sadness ... directed by Jonathan Lynn with fine sensitivity as well as dash" (Stage). The first New York production, as The Moony Shapiro Songbook (Morosco 3/5/81), ran for one performance.

"A major flaw in Christopher Biggins' production was a tendency to play for easy laughs. Richard Heffer and Philippa Gail overacted in their first scene, affecting the exaggerated movements of silent movie stars" (Stage).

Comment: MPS 780. "You need to see the play to appreciate two rare and supreme performances" by Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn (Guardian). Variety noted this was a limited-run transfer of the Broadway production by Mike Nichols. Illustrated London News was unimpressed by the piece. The first New York production (John Golden 6/10/77) ran for 517 performances.

79.356 Bart (P, 2a) Bill Sheridan. FOUNTAINS ABBEY 8/79. Daniel James Dawson; Charlie Anthony Homyer. Dir James Gillhouley. Reviews: Gay News 6/9/79, 31; Stage 6/9/79, 14. Comment: Company of Three. The plot involved a novelist, his lover, and Bart (a successful creation in the novelist's novels), who threatens the relationship between novelist and lover. Gay News found the idea "promising," but inadequate for a full-length play.

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 27/7–31/7/79. Press night was 1/8/79, also advertised as a low price opening. The excessive "luxurious, eye-catching finery" converted this "bizarre" revival by John Dexter into "a formal pageant" (Guardian). Spectator described it as an "un-sentimental" production with an emphasis on creating differing moods. "The director's anthropology sits too heavily on this production" (New Statesman). Illustrated London News lavished compliments on numerous members of the cast. The production remained in repertory until 7/5/80.

Comment: Guardian averred the play was good enough to require only a straightforward production and not the too embellished one imposed by Toby Robertson. Variety praised the cast's admirable performances and Robertson's deft direction. "The satire is strong enough. the central situation amusing enough, to withstand the North of England treatment given to it by Toby Robertson and Christopher Selbie," Ian Richardson "reveled as Klestakov" (Stage); at "his superb best" (Illustrated London News).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. “Trevor Nunn’s “sizzling production of this wonderful play induces joy. There isn’t a great deal more to say than that” (Spectator). “A twenty-minute cut from the play’s three-hour length would be an advantage. Spectacular and lavishly costumed in the style of old Hollywood, Once In A Lifetime is the sort of entertainment that no commercial management would have the nerve, or the money, to stage in these hard-up times” (Daily Mirror). “A handsome and well-performed revival ... that should prove a box office hit” (Variety). The first New York production (Music Box 24/9/30) ran for 406 performances

Comment: The piece was composed of sixteen items of variable quality (Guardian). Observer declared the piece was "one of [Brecht's] most powerful," but it needed "a drier treatment" than it received at the Open Space. Spectator found much of the content banal and the production needed to be more inventive.

Comment: In place of its regular review, Guardian wittily provided a set of rules for whodunnit writers. "One thing is for sure is that Levantine is no Sleuth as to wit, urbanity, originality, or suspense"; "commercial outlook is iffy" (Variety). "I'd advise a nice glass of port and a round of Cluedo rather than play Anthony Shaffer's little game" (Gay News). Illustrated London News described the piece as tiresome, contrived, and a waste of time. The first New York production, as Whodunnit (Biltmore 30/12/82) ran for 157 performances.

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 24/8–29/8/79. Press night was 20/9/79. “The acting was so good in this production, so authentically American and marvellously restrained, that it is difficult to single out performances but the charming and gentle Harry Towb has to be mentioned” (Spectator). Warren Mitchell “shows us what Willy was as well as what he is; and that, surely, is real acting” (New Statesman). Observer praised “Michael Rudman’s excellent production,” and the superb cast headed by Mitchell. Stage said Rudman was right to treat the play as a classic, and added “John Gunter’s ingenious setting is an admirable complement to a notable production.” The production remained in repertory until 10/9/80.

Review: Stage 27/9/79, 15. Comment: National Youth Theatre. Stage commended the production generally, and in particular praised the scenes with the mechanicals.

79.418 The People Show No. 82. BUSH c. 18/9/79; 11/79. Reviews: Guardian 20/9/79, 12; New Statesman 28/9/79, 479; Stage 4/10/79, 12. Comment: Guardian pointed out the various iterations of The People Show were always elusive, unpredictable, and fascinating.

79.419 Thyestes (T) Seneca. FOUNTAINS ABBEY 18/9/79. Thyestes James Dawson; Atreus Anthony Homyer; Kalonike Jane Holstead; Robert Champion, Sonya Leite. Dir James Gillhouley. Plot: Hochman, Patterson, Shipley. Reviews: Guardian 19/9/79, 12; Observer 30/9/79, 14; Stage 27/9/79, 25. Comment: Company of Three. Guardian thought the ritualistic production by James Gillhouley was “the triumph of make-up over experience,” that it “certainly rescued Seneca from the shadows,” and that the unsubsidized group deserved to be supported.

79.420 Gogol (Monol) Richard Crane. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 19/9/79. 1st perfd Marlborough, Brighton, 16/4/78. Cast: Findlater; WWT/17. Review: Stage 27/9/79, 15. Comment: Performed in modern dress. "Michael Bogdanov's production ... relates the politics and personal drama to recent years with striking effectiveness, yet the play somehow remains set in the past. So, you can say, there is the chance of relishing Hamlet on two levels" (Stage).

Both productions suffered from technical difficulties. The Bible was "a frenetic lampoon of radical feminism, closet lesbianism, Patti Hearst, the CIA, etc in a loud, brash and increasingly monotonous cartoon-strip of a revue" (Stage).

79.426b 1984 (Video cabaret) Michael Hollingsworth (adpt of George Orwell, Nineteen Eighty-Four, 1949). ICA c. 24/9/79. 1st London perf. Winston Smith Alan Rosenthal; O'Brien Alan Bridle. This play, about a group of men on a day's pub crawl, seemed like "a shortened, seaside version of The Iceman Cometh" (Guardian). Spectator complained about the Warehouse production policy because plays there were predictable, less distinguishable, "and less and less worth seeing."

Comment: Carol Channing was in "top form" for this "audience-pleasing star performance," supported by "a talented and well-drilled British supporting cast" (Variety). "Channing is one of those larger-than-life personalities who just dares you not to adore her madly. The lady is a razzle-dazzle performer" (Daily Mirror). Tribune railed against the piece's "blatant sexism."

"Mike Leigh's latest improvisation is about the bed-sit life of a dim Birmingham girl" (Spectator). "Lack of event, plot, dramatic momentum," and characterization, but the piece did possess "authenticity of observation" (New Statesman).

The opening was moved to 1/10/79 because Sharon Duce withdrew from the principal role, and was replaced by Amanda Boxer. "A rather sombre, low-key and uninteresting play about trans-sexualism" (Guardian).

Observer noted how the piece shifted from farce to melodrama to "insecure realism." Gay News said the play was "almost very good indeed," but failed to provide a happy ending.

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 28/9–3/10/79. Press night was 4/10/79, also advertised as a low price opening. Observer faulted most aspects of the production—set, costumes, acting, and elocution. New Statesman concurred, although made sense of John Wood's portrayal of Richard. Spectator found the production unclear in its intention, and could not shake the impression of John Wood as a “pantomime villain.” Wood failed the terrify Illustrated London News.

79.447 Instant Sunshine (Mus revue). SHAFTESBURY 5/10/79. 1st perfd Edinburgh Festival 1975. Cast: WWT/17. David Barlow, Miles Kington, Peter Christie, Alan Maryon-Davis. Comment: Instant Sunshine was the name of the four member group and it appears three of group used to appear as a group under this name in London clubs during the early 1970s (see Stage 19/8/71, 36). The piece was part of a larger repertoire performed under the title The Lunatic Fringe.

A very good revival (Guardian).

79.449 The Wild Bunch (P) Bryony Lavery. JACKSONS LANE 5/10/79. * Dir Bryony Lavery, Julie Holledge; Dgn Mandy Fisk. Review: Stage 25/10/79, 18. Comment: Women’s Theatre Group. Aimed at fifteen-plus teenagers, the play was about “a quintet of teenagers, twixt school and dead-end jobs changing, not quite the world, but at least their own thinking,” with the suggestion they might become feminists (Stage).

79.450a In Camera (D, 1a) Jean-Paul Sartre [trans Stuart Gilbert of Huis clos, 1944]. UPSTREAM c. 8/10/79.  Cast: Stage 11/10/79, 2. Plot: Best/46, 443, Fletcher, Gassner, Hochman, Kabatchnik/2, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Walford.

Reviews: Guardian 9/10/79, 9; Observer 14/10/79, 14; Stage 18/10/79, 13. Comment: MPS 1148. The play was about a South African policeman consulting a coloured folk-psychiatrist after discovering his wife has given birth to a brown baby; Antony Sher gave a brilliant performance (Observer). Guardian said the piece was not very interesting or dramatic, but Sher was “compelling.”

79.452 These Foolish Things (Revue) Colin McIntyre. WIMBLEDON 8/10/79. 1st perfd Kings, Southsea, 24/9/79. Sheila White, Leonard Whiting, Richard Ashley, Sandra Carrier, Lyndsey Durant, Ian Hanham, Edward Newborn, Alison Wells. Dir Colin McIntyre; Mus dir David Steadman; Dgn David Kibart; 's sets and costumes. Comment: Based on popular music of World War II (Stage 18/10/79, 13).

79.453 The Beast (P, 2a) Snoo Wilson. ICA 9/10/79.  Plot: Vinson. Review: Stage 18/10/79, 14. Comment: Public Spirit Theatre (Manchester). “The inherent defects in the writing were only emphasised by Public Spirit’s inability to distance itself from the theme” (Stage).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Variety called the “inspired” production “often more entertaining than the play itself with its plot lulls, repetition and hackneyed philosophizing.” “Terry Hands’s production captures that specific Gorkiesque atmosphere of rows one minute, bear hugs the next and reveals the characters in all their frenetic absurdity” (Guardian, 10/10). Stage noted the cast used a variety of British accents.

79.455 Tishoo (P) Brian Thompson. RICHMOND 9/10/79. 1st perfd Stephen Joseph, Scarborough, 24/7/79. Comment: MPS 844. The pre-West End production prior to opening at Wyndham’s later in October (79.485).

Comment: On the British production see Stage 4/10/79, 10. Gay News reported the first-night audience “seemed uncertain whether it was being wooed or whipped” by this bright and bouncy production. Variety said the cast performed with “exceptional moxie,” but thought the piece was “a dubious commercial prospect” in the West End. For New Statesman, the Royalty was the wrong venue; the piece needed “somewhere smaller, and less bland.” Guardian complained that in the play “art keeps interfering with life. There is a constant irritating sense of authorial voice transforming raw experience into opulent ostentatious metaphor and simile.”

79.457 The Christian Brothers (One-man P) Ron Blair. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 11/10/79. Cast: Theatricalia; WWT/17. The Brother Peter Carroll. Dir John Bell; Dgn Larry Eastwood. Reviews: Guardian 12/10/79, 13; Stage 18/10/79, 14. Comment: Nimrod Theatre of Australia. Peter Carroll’s “bravura performance [was] beautifully timed and never afraid to hold on to silence as well as verbosity” (Stage).

His show lasts one hour and forty-five minutes—no interval—and he is rarely off stage ... He sings, dances, does a clever impression of Charlie Chaplin and has an amusing novelty spot answering questions from the audience” (Daily Mirror).

79.459 The Throne in an Autumn Room (P) Lennox Brown. KESKIDEE CENTRE 11/10/79. 1st perfd WKAR FM Radio, Detroit, 28/10/73? Plot: Peterson/2. Reviews: Guardian 16/10/79, 11; New Statesman 19/10/79, 605; Stage 29/11/79, 28. Comment: The “story of the Toronto scallywag who persuades an unemployed friend to pass himself off as an Ashanti prince” (New Statesman). Guardian did not think much of this “frailish” play and wondered why Keskidee could not find plays by British black dramatists worth producing instead turning to this Canadian author.

Reviews: Guardian 23/10/79, 15; Observer 21/10/79, 14; Stage 1/11/79, 9. Comment: The piece was about a widow, her two children, and the man who once saved her mentally handicapped son's life. Stage said the piece was documentary in style rather than dramatic. Guardian agreed but the production and the acting made the play "an engrossing occasion," and preferable to "that overrated snigger on a similar theme, A Day in the Death of Joe Egg.

79.467 The Wild Boys (P with mus) Anon (adpt of William Burroughs's novel, The Wild Boys: A Book of the Dead, 1971). ICA 16/10/79. 1st London perf? Reviews: Guardian 19/10/79, 11; Stage 25/10/79, 17; Variety 31/10/79, 102. Comment: MPS 855. The show reported losses of £80,000 (see Stage 14/2/80, 1). On the UK production problems see Stage 4/10/79, 32. "Has no life of its own. Slavish imitation, coupled with plodding backup visuals, fail to evoke the '60s era in Britain" (Variety). A skilful and "fascinating if largely pointless exercise which deserves to attract admiring audiences. The music is great, the history familiar but still interesting. But don't let us kid ourselves it has much to do with theatre" (Stage). The first New York production (Winter Garden 31/5/77) ran for 1,006 performances.

Comment: The opening of a new Half Moon in Mile End Road. Sources differ on the exact date of opening night. Guardian described Frances de la Tour's Hamlet as "tough, abrasive, virile and impassioned," and was helped by the intimacy of the small theatre. Observer also discussed the positive physical attributes of the theatre to the production. "A production of great originality and impact ... Frances de la Tour made no gestures towards either superficial masculinity or femininity. She played the prince as a person" (Tribune). Stage reported "the whole thing is pitched in the midst of a standing, sitting, and mobile audience which is distributed, like the settings, all over the place."

Comment: The opening of a new theatre (see Stage 18/10/79, 26, Illustrated London News 1/11/79, 27). "Little more than a decent, workmanlike affair" (Guardian). Spectator described the production as "elegant ... Every part was beautifully acted"; a viewpoint shared by Illustrated London News. New Statesman reported that David Giles's production was not helped by the "stolid audience."

Plot: Fletcher, Gassner, Hochman, Law, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Shipley. Review: Stage 22/11/79, 14. Comment: Company of Three. Stage praised Fagles's translation and noted "a decidedly Artaudian influence" in the production.

79.476 Twoofers (P) Angela Wye. KING'S HEAD 22/10/79 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 18/10/79, 12. Andrew Knox, Leslee Udwin. Dir Andrew Knox. Review: Stage 15/11/79, 12. Comment: MPS 836. "Wye's three short two-handed playlets tend to set up a potentially interesting situation and conflict, then peter out without extending the conflict or attempting to resolve it" (Stage).

Comment: MPS 819. English Stage Company. The play, about white Australian colonial rule of New Guinea, was “a diffuse affair and far too jokey” (Variety). Guardian found the piece fascinating as an anthropological document, but “somewhat shapeless” as a play. Tribune said the play was neither “fully convincing (and certainly not compelling).”

Set in 1916, the play concerned nurses and patients at a country house used as a hospital and was “a play about the British class-system which is also humane and softly spoken” (Observer). “An impeccably polished play and production” (Tribune).

79.484 Jean Pool (P) David Gale and Trevor Stuart. Review: Stage 29/11/79, 28. Comment: MPS 835. Lumiere & Son. The piece was based on the Hansel and Gretel tale, although here as husband and wife, and the remainder of the plot was sometimes lacking in clarity (Stage).

Comment: Variety thought success depended on Alec McCowen’s

“outstanding dominating performance” as a medical scientist losing his university’s support. Guardian said the play had too many ideas which were not developed. “Mildly amusing and mildly thoughtful” (Gay News). Illustrated London News opined the play “doubtless reads very well. In production its trouble is the principal part of a scientist engaged through 17 years in an obsessive search for a cold cure. Even Alec McCowen cannot easily commend him to us.”

Comment: The opening of a new theatre as a part of the Lyric, Hammersmith (see Stage 18/10/79, 14). Fenella Fielding’s “material was trite and simply unentertaining—and when it attempted to be moving or revealing it became embarrassing” (Stage).

Comment: “A stellar production, with outstanding staging and a superb cast” (Variety). “Superlative” (Observer). Stage praised the work as one of the best musicals and the performances of Liz Robertson, Tony Britton, and Peter Bayliss. “This production becomes the nonpareil: a salute to Robin Midgley’s supple direction, Gillian Lynne for her choreography and musical staging, and the technique of Liz Robertson and Tony Britton. Their Cockney Galatea and arrogant Pygmalion could scarcely be improved” (Illustrated London News). The first New York production (Mark Hellinger 15/3/56) ran for 2,717 performances.

Comment: Previously given a rehearsed reading at the Theatre Upstairs 18/8/78. Guardian (1/11) said this recreation of a lost play by John Webster failed "to relate the past to the present" and so lost relevance. New Statesman described this speculative reconstruction as "partly an anachronistic debate about the value of drama, partly a celebration of the brave men who kept the great tradition alive in defiance of persecution, poverty, and the demoralising growth of back-street theatre." "An effective pastiche of theatre of three centuries ago (including mock Webster)" (Stage).

9. Comment: MPS 829. The play explored the relationship between an unmarried sister and her unmarried brother. Rosemary Leach gave a very good performance (Stage). For New Statesman the first half of the play was “tense, touching, and sensitive in its skirtings round touchy subjects, unrecognised incestuous desire and the sexuality of those debilitated by time and disease”; but the second half became “too particular and peculiar.”

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 26/10–1/11/79; Press night was 2/11/79. The production ran for three hours. Spectator wanted “more music and less talk.” Variety found the staging “fluent,” Shaffer's writing “swift, light, mocking,” and Paul Scofield “magnificent.” Scofield gave the performance of the year (Illustrated London News). Stage noted Shaffer's “immaculate craftsmanship and a wonderful flair for theatrical effect,” praised Scofield and Simon Callow as “surely one of the most brilliant young actors of the present day.” The production remained in repertory until 4/6/81. The first New York production (Broadhurst 17/12/80) ran for 1,181 performances.

The play was about farm workers in 1830 rebelling about their working conditions and the suppression of them. Guardian said the issues could have been delineated more clearly. "Beautifully, even elegiacally, written" (Observer). New Statesman thought the play "needs to slough off some of its verbosity and affectation."

Comment: MPS 884. National Theatre. See also entry on Lark Rise (79.463). Press night was 14/11/79. Guardian (16/11) observed the play lacked the "inspiring energy" found in Lark Rise. Times dubbed the piece a "worthy sequel" to Lark Rise, but lacking the "formal pattern" of the latter. Observer experienced difficulties with the staging in the Cottesloe which was divided between tiered seating overlooking a promenade section below. Illustrated London News cited the work as an example of theatrical imagination that could stir sensitive viewers. The production remained in repertory until 29/12/79.

79.510 The End of the Road Show (MP) Andy Cunningham. KING'S ARMS 8/11/79. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 8/11/79, 8. Dave Brett, Martha Gibson, Tom Goddard, Kevin Bannon, Mandy Travis. Dir Richard Robinson; Dgn Jenny Saunders; Puppetry Thirzie Robinson,

The first night audience laughed themselves silly" (Daily Mirror). A satisfactory revival (Times). "It may not be richly varied and packed with rewarding characters and situations, like the farce of the master Ben Travers, but it has its unique atmosphere, invention, a strong sense of fun, and a central situation on which the authors work a neat series of stunts, gags and off-shot situations" (Stage).

Comment: The play possessed "more than a whiff of Ira Levine's Deathtrap," but was really nothing more than "overheated melodrama" (Variety). "A not-very-remarkable example of the brand of thriller patented by Anthony Shaffer" (New Statesman). Gray "gets away with murder in this comedy thriller, mainly because his dialogue is sharp and hits home more accurately than the weapons deployed" (Daily Mirror). "As stereotyped as any such entertainment could be; and its quality resides in the new dances Mr Gray conjures out of these old marionettes" (Times).

79.538 The Two Noble Kinsmen (P) William Shakespeare and John Fletcher. YOUNG VIC STUDIO 21/11/79. Goaler's Daughter Anthony Best; Emilia Charles Grant; Fippolyta Martin Ransley; Palamon Daniel Foley. Dir Andrew Visnevski; Dgn Feliks Topolski. Review: Stage 6/12/79, 12. Comment: Cherub Company. All-male cast. "Andrew Visnevski's production ... exposed the myth of courtly love as never before. The actors form pictures of the brutality of passion on stage, while the bobbing pentameters tell of the idealism, the romantic folly, and the love of fair Emilia" (Stage).

79.539 The Worlds (P) Edward Bond. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 21/11/79. 1st perfd Playhouse, Newcastle, 8/3/79. Cast: Findlater. Patrick Bailey, Belinda Blanchard, Caroline Cook, Geoff Church, Mark French, Jessica Hawkesly, Dan Hildebrand, Tom Hodgkins, Diana Judd, Fiona McAlpine, Peter Malan, Bart Peel, Matthew Purves, Faith Tingle, Dave Toneri, Julie Wallace, Gordon Warren, Peter Watson, Lindsay Joe Wesker. Dir Edward Bond; Dgn Eamon D'Arcy. Plot: Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 19/11/79, 13; Tribune 30/11/79, 7. Comment: Activists Club/Young People's Theatre Scheme. This play, about big business, presented "several sides to the thorny moral issues of terrorism," but needed stronger characterizations (Tribune).

79.540 The Ambassadors of Hampstead (P) Stavros Lillitos. THEATRO TECHNIS 22/11/79.* Janet Crawford, Laurence Davies, Declan Mullholland, Vivian Horwitz. Dir George Eugeniou. Review: Stage 20/12/79, 12. Comment: "This story of a soap-opera television episode is as two-dimensional as the genre itself" (Stage).

79.541 The Empire Builders (D, 3a) Boris Vian (trans Simon Watson Taylor of of Les bâtisseurs d'empire, ou le Schmurz, 1959). GATE 22/11/79. Cast: Stage 15/11/79, 32. Father Dudley Sutton; Joan Blackham, Eva Lohman, Leslee Udwin, Alec Wallis, Peter Cheevers. Dir Lou Stein. Plot: Hochman, Matlaw, 792, Patterson. Review: Stage 6/12/79, 12. Comment: Dudley Sutton "gives a performance which combines a stark realisation of character with emotional depth. He is well supported by Joan Blackham, Eva Lohman, Leslee Udwin, Alec Wallis and Peter Cheevers" (Stage).

79.542 Waiting for the Parade: Faces of Women in War (D, 24sc) John Murrell. LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH, 22/11/79. 1st Canmore Opera House, Calgary, Canada, 4/2/77; 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 22/11/79, 12; WWT/17. Although set in Canada, the play was relevant because of its authentic detail and characterization (Guardian). However, Observer described it as "portentious ... creaking, usually boring and utterly pretentious." The piece failed to bring the characters to life, but it was performed well (Times).

79.543 The Only 30 Days to Christmas Show. ROUND HOUSE 25/11/79 (m).* Cast: Stage 22/11/79, 12. Tony Hart, Nanette Newman, Jonathan Coudrille.

79.545 The Trial of Queen Caroline (P) Jane McCulloch and Donald Fraser (mus). OLD VIC 25/11/79.* 1 perf. Cast: Stage 22/11/79, 12; Theatricalia; WWT/17. Ballad Singer Nickolas Grace; Princess Lieven Barbara Leigh-Hunt; Brougham Stanley Lloyd; Prinney John Savident; Queen Caroline Prunella Scales; Creevey Timothy West; Attorney General Benjamin Whitrow. Dir Toby Robertson; Light Bill Wardroper. Comment: MPS 816. The piece drew on historical materials to depict the trial of Queen Caroline as a result of George IV's efforts to divorce her.

79.546 The Beggar's Opera (Mus) John Gay. RICHMOND 26/11/79. Edward Woodward, Thelma Ruby, Cyril Shaps, Michele Dotrice. Plot: Fletcher, Gänzl, Gassner, Griffiths, Hochman, Law, OTF, Patterson, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: A one-week engagement.

79.547 The Manly Bit (P, 1a) John Harding (b 1948) and John Burrows. KING'S HEAD 26/11/79 (Ln). Mike Grady, Peter Roberts. Dir Kenneth Farrington. Review: Stage 3/1/80, 10. Comment: The revival lacked the edge possessed by the previous Open Air production (76.369).

79.548 Peter Pan; or, The Boy Who Wouldn't Grow Up (P) J. M. Barrie. WIMBLEDON 26/11/79. Plot: Bordman, Demastes/1, Fletcher, French/2, Geduld, 53–70, Griffiths, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: A touring production that reached the Shaftesbury in December (79.594).

79.549 Irma La Douce (MC, 2a) Julian More (bk, lyr) and David Heneker (bk, lyr) and Monty Norman (bk, lyr; adpt of Alexandre Breffort's musical, 1956) and Marguerite Monnot (mus). Comment: The production's principal backer, Bernard Green, reportedly lost £150,000. Billy Wilson's production lacked "charm or style ... seems merely old fashioned," with a weak Irma (Variety). "The Shaftesbury has proved a graveyard for much better productions than this rag-bag offering" (Daily Mirror). Times described the piece as "flimsy."

79.550 Mayakovsky (P) Stefan Schutz (trans Tom

Comment: Sources including SHM vary on the date of the opening. Spectator said the play, lacking "theatrical impact," did not say much about Mayakovsky the poet or the Soviet apologist. Times described the play as "a jumbled-up jigsaw puzzle which the spectator has to piece together in retrospect." Tribune thought the play was effective in presenting Mayakovsky's split personality.

79.551 A Shrewd Woman (P for children) Geoff Bullen. ROUND HOUSE DOWNSTAIRS 27/11/79. 1st perfd 1979. Review: Guardian 27/11/79, 20. Comment: Theatre Centre. Part of a "four-play season under the generic title Why Are You Picking On Me?" (Stage 25/10/79, 18). Based on The Taming of the Shrew, "the play attempts to clarify the characters, situations and issues by examining them in the context of a woman's role in society today" (Guardian).

79.552 The Ancient Mariner (P for children) Michael Bogdanov (adpt of Samuel Taylor Coleridge's poem, 1798). YOUNG VIC 28/11/79(m). Cast: Stage 6/12/79, 10; *WWT/17. Apparently the press night was 6/12/79, but was advertised for regular performances beginning 28/11/79 (m). "Some admirably encapsulated Coleridge-rich pickings for both eye and ear" (New Statesman). The production was "like reading Coleridge by flashes of lightning" (Times).

Comment: "Concrete, precise, beautifully acted, ultimately moving" with only a few flaws (Guardian). Observer commended Pam Gems's "faithful" version and Nancy Meckler's "vivid, gripping production." "The undiluted Chekhov himself" (New Statesman). Times noted Gems's adaptation had a "feminist emphasis" but it was clearly the work of a dramatist.

Comment: Richmond Fringe. Guardian thought the play's premise rather improbable, although the production did have first-rate performances. "It is true that we all laugh a lot, but the taste, like the belief in the Promised Land, suggests that milk and honey have fermented and gone sour" (Stage). The New York production ran for 120 performances.

Comment: National Theatre. Previews between 21/11 and 30/11/79; Press night was 12/12/79. "Captivating performances and impressive production values, and deserves a lively run in repertory" (Variety). "Two especially truthful performances, where all are right, are by Leslie Sands, as the alderman and Robin Bailey as the intolerable councillor for whom any utterance must be an oration" (Illustrated London News). "A popular favourite mounted with ... burnished precision" (Times). Spectator strongly disapproved of the National reviving the play at all. The production remained in repertory until 12/6/80.

Comment: Jean-Baptiste Thiérrée and Victoria Chaplin endeavored to capture the essence of the circus with their mainly solo performances of various circus turns. "Childlike, technically perfect, and single-mindedly intent on awakening the basic sense of theatrical wonder. It is not to be missed" (Times).

79.566 Wilfred (P) Peter Tinniswood. BUSH 5/12/79.* Cast: Stage 13/12/79, 4; WWT/17. Mrs. Brandon Anne Dyson; Hallam Brandon Philip Jackson; Shirley Heather Tobias; Ernest Torkington H. Comment: The plot involved strained family relationships in which a dog (Wilfred) plays an important part. The dog is invisible in the play. The "five minute take structure [suggested] the instant nature of TV comedy" rather than the theatre (Guardian). Times commended the piece for successfully exploiting the techniques of radio drama on the stage.

79.567 The Collection (P) Robert Colwyn. LAMB AND FLAG 6/12/79.* Cast: Stage 6/12/79, 2. Allen Sykes, Gregory Foremski, Frances Bailey, Carl MacCallum, Tony Ahmet. Comment: LAMP.

LYRIC STUDIO, HAMMERSMITH, 12/12/79.* Cast: Stage 13/12/79, 4; WWT/17. Kit Gregory Floy; Monika Alyson Spiro; Roger McGough, Andy Roberts. Dir Mel Smith; Dgn Peter Blake; Mus Andy Roberts; Light Mark Dawson. Reviews: Stage 20/12/79, 11; Times 18/12/79, 8. Comment: The poems “are concerned with the love affair of a young girl designer and her would-be pop song writer” (Stage). The piece remained “poetic and barely dramatic” (Times).

79.577 The Astounding Adventures of Tom Thumb (Children’s P) Henry Livings. ARTS 13/12/79.* Tom Thumb Christine Absalom; Tom’s Mother Jenni Hinkes; Giant, Father Mike Savage; Merlin Gordon Case; Clive Martin. Dir Caroline Eves; Dgn Pat Macnamara; Mus Alex Glasgow. Reviews: Observer 23/12/79, 16; Stage 28/12/79, 12. Comment: MPS 858. Unicorn Theatre. “Promising if occasionally sloppy” (Observer).

79.578 The Ice Queen or Freeze Up Mother Brown (Panto) Tim Webb. CHAT’S PALACE 13/12/79.* Jack Brown, Mother Brown Rod Brookes; Scarlet Flash Susie Cunningham; Ice Queen Karen Merkel; Frank Boyd, Elizabeth Hocking, Stephanie Lowe, John Scott. Dir Graham Downes; Mus Paul Abrahams. Review: Stage 3/1/80, 10. Comment: MPS 987. Free Form Arts Trust. A modern variant of a traditional pantomime: “It’s all a bit more openly political than previous shows: the show-stopper is a lusciously snide dig at Our Blessed Maggie [Thatcher]” (Stage).

79.579 Never Mind the Bullocks (Mus) C. P. Lee (mus, lyr) and John Dowie (mus, lyr). MAY FAIR 13/12/79. 1st perf? Comment: National Theatre. Previews 7/12–12/12/79; Press night, advertised as the low price opening night, was 13/12/79. Illustrated London News described Hampton's translation as "supple." Stage thought the Olivier was the wrong theatre to stage the play. "A production whose parts compensate for any oddities or incongruities in their sum" (New Statesman). "Largely misses the point which is the wild duck" (Spectator). Times observed there was no connection between Ralph Koltai's interesting setting (emphasizing photography) and the cast's performances. The production remained in repertory until 9/7/80.

79.583 Dick Whittington (Panto) John Morley. RICHMOND 14/12/79. 1st perf? Review: Guardian 17/12/79, 9. Comment: MPS 878. Paines Plough. Guardian declared this piece, about an seventeenth-century religious cult, "was 'dreadful tosh,'" and quoted a few disastrous lines of the dialogue to prove it.

79.585a Countdown (P, 1a) Alan Ayckbourn. HOLYROOD 17/12/79 (Ln). The Wife Rita Gerza; The Husband Robert John-Jones. Dir Robert John-Jones. Plot: Fletcher, Walford, Weintraub. Review: Stage 28/12/79, 12. Comment: This double-bill was taken from Mixed Doubles (69.90), and formed a good lunchtime entertainment (Stage).

Comment: The main virtue of this “effete, hybrid” piece was that it told the tale clearly (Observer 30/12). Guardian commended Wilson’s score but averred the remainder of the piece was an odd mixture of pantomime, fairy tale and musical. Times said some of the characters were “revue sketch figures” and the piece also verged on being a “camp parody.”

79.602 Simple Simon (P) Polly Warren. JACKSONS LANE 27/12/79. 1st perfd Victoria, Stoke-on-Trent, 1/12/76. Cast: Stage 20/12/79, 2. Comment: Warren “has given an old favourite nursery rhyme character an adventure which appeals to children of all ages. Simon wants desperately to be clever, and to show he is he lets others dare him to steal an apple from [the witch] Old Hobbletoes’ orchard,” and thereafter adventures ensue (Stage 9/12/76, 13).

79.603 Songs to Uncle Scrim (Ent) Mervyn Thompson and Stephen McCurdy. KING’S HEAD 27/12/79 (Ln). 1st perfd Netherbow, Edinburgh, 3/9/79. Comment: Heartache and Sorrow. “Political theatre at its best. A challenging, informative yet nonetheless entertaining exposé of the Thirties depression in New Zealand” (Stage 13/9/79, 26).

79.604 Christmas Cabaret. HALF MOON 28/12/79. Cast: Stage 20/12/79, 2. Cast: Stage 20/12/79, 10. Jonathan Adams, Steve Alder, Richard Denning, Madeleine Newbury, Melanie Wallis. Dir Richard Denning; Dgn Michael Knight; Ch Geraldine Stephenson; Light Alan O'Toole; Mus dir Lesley Hayes. Reviews: Guardian 2/1/80, 8; New Statesman 11/1/80, 65; Observer 6/1/80, 15; Times 2/1/80, 7. Comment: Sketches about aspects of London life which Guardian called "a thoroughgoing mess" that could have been written any time in the last thirty years. "The show features a good deal of harmless old revue material," but generally Times was unimpressed by the revue.

80.2 Iolanthe; or, The Peer and the Peri (Fairytale, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 3/1/80. Plot: Ayre, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

The nearly modern dress production stressed "the emblems and manners of a vaguely Edwardian-Italian upper class society which has come home from war with some reluctance" (Guardian). Illustrated London News said the production reduced the play to "a curious anecdote in the costume of perhaps 80 years ago ... Visually, it was a glum occasion. Moreover, the speaking, with a few exceptions, was comparably grey and limp." Spectator said the production lacked poetry and did not work well in the Warehouse. However, New Statesman found it was "absorbing and strangely plausible." Times commended Charlotte Cornwell and Kenneth Colley for playing Beatrice and Benedick as "a thoroughly dislikeable couple."

80.4 The Pig Organ (or Pork with Perfect Pitch) (CO for children, 1a) Richard Blackford (mus) and Ted Hughes (lib). ROUND HOUSE 3/1/80.* Cast: Stage 3/1/80, 8. King David Wilson-Johnson; Otto (Swineherd) Graeme Matheson-Bruce; Lynda Russell, William Pool. Dir Michael Hackett; Dgn Malcolm Pride; Cond David Syrus, Richard Blackford. Reviews: Guardian 4/1/80, 9; Observer 6/1/80, 15; Spectator 12/1/80, 25; Times 4/1/80, 7. Comment: Opera Players. The libretto drew on various stories concerning pigs. Times complained the music turned the piece into "a condescending charade for the adult performers" leaving the children little to do.

80.5 Start Right (P) Jamie Reid. YOUNG VIC STUDIO 4/1/80.* Cast: Stage 3/1/80, 8. Kit Jackson, Joss Buckley, Mandy Cuthbert, Christopher Saul. Dir Michael Attenborough; Dgn Paul Bannister. Reviews: Guardian 8/1/80, 9; Times 14/1/80, 11. Comment: This "wafer-thin" play was about school children preparing for the eleven-plus exam (Guardian).

80.6 Nice (One-man show, 1a) Mustapha Matura. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 5/1/80 (m). Cast: Stage 20/12/79, 2. Norman Beaton. Dir Mustapha Matura. Reviews:

Action Gazette 17/1/80, 21; Ealing Gazette 18/1/80, 21; Guardian 8/1/80, 9; New Statesman 11/1/80, 65; Observer 13/1/80, 15; Times 7/1/80, 9. Comment: New Statesman called it a wonderful revival; Times was less enthusiastic: "it is little more than a long joke, an ephemeral bar-room conversation."

80.7 The Refuseniks (P) Felix Kandel-Kamov. LOGAN HALL 5/1/80. Cast: Stage 3/1/80, 8. Olga Kozhevnikov, Evgeny Kozhevnikov. Comment: Performed earlier in U.S.A. The play was about Soviet Jews in "the U.S.S.R. Who are waiting for exit visas ... and waiting" (Stage 22/11/79, 28).

80.8 The King and Me (P, 1a) Hanif Kureishi. SOHO POLY 7/1/80.* Cast: Theatricalia. Bill Mike Grady; Compere Eric Richard; Marie Elaine Donnelly; Nicola Jean Trend. Dir Antonia Bird; Dgn Louise Belson. Plot: Bull/2. Reviews: Observer 13/1/80, 15; Stage 31/1/80, 96; Times 9/1/80, 11. Comment: The play, about a wife who devotes her life to worshipping Elvis Presley, was "hugely entertaining but compassionate" (Observer). Times commended Kureishi's story-telling and his sympathy for his characters: "We have acquired a good new playwright."

80.9 Ooh La La! (C) Mike Bradwell. About "dons and teachers and a couple of pupils" (Stage). "The play's stereotypical notions about academic behaviour and relationships are clichéd" (Guardian). However, Times said the cast infused the "social stereotypes with an intensely personal sub-text."

80.10 HMS Pinafore; or, The Lass That Loved a Sailor (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 10/1/80. Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

Comment: Oxford Playhouse Theatre Company. Variety thought there was nothing new about the play's theme nor Barker's treatment of it and it would interest "those already converted to the author's bitter point of view." "I ran out of patience with [the play] after the opening few minutes. This was the kind of nonsense to make one despair of the minor fringe drama" (Illustrated London News). Despite some faults Spectator said it was "an interesting and often powerful play" and better than Barker's Hang of the Jail. Times was bewildered by the apparent enthusiasm for the play but added "Nicholas Kent's production is extremely well acted."

80.13 The Hindsight Saga (One-man show) Bernard Miles. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 15/1/80. Reviews: Ealing Gazette 18/1/80, 21; Times 18/1/80, 13. Comment: Bernard Miles looked back on his career which his admirers would appreciate, others less so (Times).

Comment: Stage thought highly of the comedy, but it needed "a more polished, stylish and exact production ... to be appreciated at its lively best."

sense of distance necessary to all great art" (Stage).

80.16 The Yeomen of the Guard; or, The Merryman and His Maid (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 17/1/80. Plot: Ayre, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

Reviews: Guardian 21/1/80, 9; New Statesman 25/1/80, 142; Stage 7/2/80, 12. Comment: MPS 893. Combination Company. A rock group named Mutiny breaks down on the M1 motorway. "The production is deservedly attracting full houses and a good cross-section of local people" (Stage). "It's all made palatable by some energetic acting, especially from Brian Hibbard as an ageing rocker from Manchester, and Debby Bishop ... as the young girl escaping from the backstreets" (Guardian).

Comment: Nimrod Theatre of Australia. The play was about backroom intrigues in an Australian Rules football club (Observer). "The boardroom machinations and battling for power make a robust and sustained comedy: it has, too, a satisfactory villain who glides through the night like a small puff-adder impersonating Uriah Heep" (Illustrated London News). "The rude Australian acting was mostly good" (Spectator). "A fine play and another blazing demonstration of Australian acting" (Times).

80.21 Heartaches of an English Pussycat (P) Genevieve Serreau (adpt of Honoré de Balzac, Peines de coeur d'une chatte anglaise, 1840). Comment: Group TSE (Paris). Guardian averred the satire of Balzac's story got lost in this whimsical, stylized version. Times enjoyed the curtain call, but not the rest of the production. The first New York production, as Heartaches of a Pussycat (ANTA 19/3/80), ran for 5 performances.

80.22 Akhmaton (P) Agatha Christie. FOUNTAINS ABBEY 22/1/80.* Akhmaton Anthony Homyer; Andrew King. Dir James Gillhouley. Reviews: Guardian 29/1/80, 9; Times 31/1/80, 13. Comment: Company of Three. Written in 1937, the piece was about the controversial pharaoh. "This production does nothing to show why the play should have left its mouldering printed pages" (Times).

80.23 Hughie (P, 1a) Eugene O'Neill. Stacy Keach's London debut in which he "underplayed nicely, somewhat in the old 'method' style, but such subtlety made it hard for him to sustain our interest" (Spectator). Observer said Keach's "Erie cannot be faulted except for its carefulness." Times praised the set design, lighting and Keach: "As so often with O'Neill, one goes in dread and comes out enriched." The production remained in repertory until 16/2/80.

80.24 Trees in the Wind (P, 2a) John McGrath. Royal Shakespeare Company. Tribune commended this "pop-scene epitaph on the seventies." Observer commented on the excessive amplification of the music, as did Times which also failed to understand the meaning of the piece. Guardian said the actor-musicians brought "rock society to comic and unlovely life."

80.26 Better a Live Pompey than a Dead Cyril (P) Clare McIntyre (adpt of Stevie Smith's poems) and Stephanie Nunn (mus). ACTION SPACE 23/1/80. Susan Glanville, Clare McIntyre, Marilyn Milgrom. Sc dgn Amanda Fisk. Reviews: Observer 20/1/80, 13; Stage 15/5/80, 12. Comment: Women's Theatre Group (later known as Sphinx Theatre Company). Stage commended the design elements and Stephanie Nunn's music. "Most of the occasional pieces, with their bizarre rhymes and bald, sudden departures from scansion, are the more playful when recited, or even sung, to musical accompaniment" (Observer).

80.27 Born in the Gardens (C, 2a) Peter Nichols. GLOBE 23/1/80. 307 perf. 1st perfd Theatre Royal, Bristol, 29/8/79. Comment: MPS 830. Superb cast (Stage). Variety did not find much that was new in the piece but opined "if its marquee power works [it] should have a moderate run." "As a play it is all over the place," and lacks some sort of "unity of tone" (Spectator). Observer noted the local references to Bristol (an attraction for the audience at the premiere) had been necessarily removed in order to make the piece "a state-of-England" play, and as a consequence the play suffered. Times pointed out the play was plotless, was "made up of bits and pieces," and struggled to be about "weighty matters."

80.28 The Merry Widow (MP, 3a) Victor Léon and Leo Stein (adpt of Victor Léon and Leo Stein, Die lustige Witwe, 1905) and Forman Brown (lyr) and Franz Lehár (mus). The premise of the play was that “the 1917 revolution has taken place in Britain, not Russia, which is still a capitalist, Tsarist country” (Stage). Guardian described the play as “an odd, intriguing mix of Philip King and Pirandello ... a weird stylistic hotchpotch.” Observer commended the middle section of the piece, but faulted the other two. Times also faulted aspects of the piece but still concluded “it is a jolly evening, with excellent performances” from George Cole and Oliver Cotton.

Comment: MPS 899. “A documentary on the great conductor which has play-scenes and some revue attributes” (Stage). Timothy West’s performance as Beecham made the production “an original and enjoyable theatrical event” (Variety). Times noted West’s “usual scrupulous care, his knack for discovering individual mannerisms.”

Comment: MPS 903A, 903B, 903C. Royal Shakespeare Company. A composite work divided into three plays, The War, The Murders, and The Gods which were adapted from ten original plays, seven of which were by Euripides, with additional material from Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Homer. The complete production ran for nine hours and was offered on Saturdays beginning at 10:00 am. The individual parts were performed separately as regular evening and matinée performances. “As an eccentric theatrical stunt by way of popularizing a neglected wellspring of western culture, The Greeks seems a cinch to be a box-office hit” (Variety). Observer thought the “overriding virtue [of the production] is lucidity.” Guardian commended the whole enterprise, noted its “occasional eccentricities,” and ultimately found “it also never seems irrelevant to our concerns and preoccupations.” Despite the length of the complete cycle, Times thought the production was “spellbinding.” Illustrated London News admired the ambition of the project, but found there was an “absence of heightened speech, something to lift the mind, to transform these battles long ago. Agreed, the narratives themselves can be potent, never more than when Hecuba, enslaved and fettered, mourns for burning Troy. Yet even there I waited at the Aldwych for language that would fire the spirit.”

Comment: MPS 904. Abbey Theatre Company. “The piece hasn’t the emotional urgency, the strength of love and grief” (New Statesman). Guardian admired the writing which, nevertheless, could not disguise the fact the play was “a somewhat sentimental melodrama.” Times said the company, led by Cyril Cusack, was “impressive and the play “ingeniously crafted.” The first New York production (Morosco 2/11/80) ran for 64 performances.

Comment: The New York production ran for 108 performances.

80.72 Ice (P) Peter Brooks and cast (adpt of Anna Kavan's novel, 1967). ALMOST FREE 18/2/80. 1st perfd Salisbury Church Hall, Causewayside, Edinburgh, 20/8/79. Cast: Stage 14/2/80, 14. Review: Times 19/2/80, 15. Comment: MPS 939. Impact Theatre Cooperative (a group from Leeds; see Stage 17/5/79, 30). The piece, directed by Peter Brooks, was "still primarily a novelistic narrative" performed by an anonymous cast lacking in vocal skills (Times).

80.73 Move Over Mrs. Markham (FC, 2a) Ray Cooney and John Chapman. RICHMOND 18/2/80. William Franklyn, Virginia Stride, Peter Russell, Henry Knowles, Vivienne Burgess, Valerie Hermann, Anthony Shirvell, Katie Fawkes, Wendy Marsh. Pres David Kirk, Donald Bodley; Dir David Kirk; Sc dgn William Greer. Plot: Fletcher, French/2, Loney. Comment: A one-week engagement.

80.74 Playground (P, 2a) Douglas Verrall. QUESTORS 19/2/80.* Cast: QTA. Reviews: Middlesex County Times 22/2/80, 21; Stage 17/4/80, 11. Comment: The play, which exposed the facades of five holiday makers, was "both entertaining and thought provoking. Verrall's command of dialogue was certainly impressive but his strength of characterisation did vary" (Stage).

80.75 The Primary English Class (F) Israel Horovitz. WYNDHAM'S 19/2/80. Debbie Wastba Auriol Smith; Carl Forgione, Graeme Eton, Kieran Montague. Dir Sam Walters. Plot: Hirschak/2, 99, Hochman, MacNicholas, Vinson. Reviews: Guardian 7/3/80, 9; Stage 20/3/80, 13; Times 7/3/80, 9. Comment: Richmond Fringe production. The production was "smartly acted" (Times). Stage thought the play too long, but there was "brisk direction by Sam Walters and a lively cast"

80.76 Teresa (P) Alton Kumalo. COCKPIT 19/2/80. Comment: Temba Theatre Company.

80.77 Catchpenny Twist (Charade with mus) Stewart Parker and Shaun Davey (mus). KING'S HEAD 21/2/80. 1st perfd Peacock (Abbey), Dublin, 25/8/77. Cast: Stage 21/2/80, 12. Monagh Nichola McAuliffe; Martin Bryan Murray; Roy Tony Scannell; Tony Doyle, Linda Polan, Sally Hughes, Anna Keaveney. Dir Robert Gillespie; Sc dgn Martin Tilley; Mus dir Dave Brown. Plot: Bull/2, Schrank. Reviews: Guardian 22/2/80, 11; New Statesman 29/2/80, 332; Observer 24/2/80, 15; Stage 28/2/80, 15; Times 25/2/80, 13. Comment: MPS 906. The piece had been seen on BBC-1 TV on 5/12/77, but was rewritten for this production. Guardian opined the piece made "a good point about the long, inescapable shadow cast by the current [Irish] troubles." New Statesman commended the piece although it did lack "bite" and there was a superfluous bibulous chanteuse. "A ragbag of a musical drama, wittily sliding along the razor edges of Belfast reality, though too untidy and timid to be completely successful" (Times).

80.78 Fiddler on the Roof (Mus, 2a) Joseph Stein (bk; based on Sholem Aleichem's stories) and Jerry Bock (mus) and Sheldon Harnick (lyr). WIMBLEDON 21/2/80. 24 perf. Plot: Bordman, Bordman/5, 637-38, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hirschak, Kennedy, Law, Loney, OTF, Shipley, Wilmeth. Reviews: Guardian 27/2/80, 12; Stage: 6/3/80, 15. Comment: A full blown touring production starring Alfred Marks good enough for the West End (Guardian). The production suffered large financial losses and the later stages of the tour were abandoned (Stage 27/3/80, 1, 17/4/80, 11).

80.79a Poor Man Dey Suffer (P) Rufus Orishayomi. AFRICA CENTRE 21/2/80. Cast: Stage 21/2/80, 2. Comment: MPS 937.

Reviews: Irish Times 25/2/80, 7; Stage: 6/3/80, 15. Comment: Irish Times thought the theme resembled that in Hugh Leonard's Da, but here "the two men try to spell out what is wrong between them."

80.81 Remembrance (P) Derek Walcott. KESKIDEE CENTRE 21/2/80. 1st perfd Dorsch Centre, St. Croix, US

Cast: Stage 21/2/80, 12. Mabei Jordan Yvonne Brewster; Albert Jordan Rufus Collins; Malcolm Frederick, Chrissy Gilbert, George Lascelles, Amanda Leigh. Dir Anton Phillips. Plot: Hischak/2, 147. Reviews: Guardian 25/2/80, 9; Stage 8/5/80, 40. Comment: The play consisted of the memories of a retired Trinidadian teacher "all wrapped luxuriously in imagery" (Guardian). "It is a very well written piece, tautly constructed within a time-slip framework; it was sensitively directed" (Stage). The first New York production was at the Other Stage 24/4/79.

80.81.2 Accidental Death of an Anarchist (F, 2a) Dario Fo (trans [Gillian Hanna] Morte accidentale di un anarchico, 1970; adpt Gavin Richards). Comment: Belt and Braces Roadshow. Guardian reported the audience was "young, casually-dressed"; however, the revival lacked "the sizzle" of the Half Moon production (79.118) and was missing Alfred Molina (Maniac). Spectator panned the production, describing it as "vulgar trash, crudely performed and put together." Times declared the production created "the electric atmosphere reserved for radical groups that successfully penetrate the bourgeois heartland."

80.82 The Midnight Court (Ent). Irish words and music. BURGH HOUSE 22/2/80. Cast: Stage 21/2/80, 12. Barbara Berkery, Judy Duggan, Cilla Henderson Smith, Kate O'Cannon, Vladimir Mirodan, Yossi Bal.

80.83a The Cagebirds (P, 1a) David Campton. NEW INN 23/2/80. 1st perfd Hereford College of Education, Hereford, 22/3/70. The Wild One Davina Andrews. Dir Rita Smidman. Plot: Bull/2, Walford. Review: Ealing Gazette 29/2/80, 22. Comment: "Campton takes a clever metaphor and then expands it tediously and unnecessarily into a play that is always predictable. 'Women hide behind routine pre-occupations,' he tells us, 'thinking they are free when they are really caged'" (Ealing Gazette).

80.83b The Private Ear (C, 1a) Peter Shaffer. NEW INN 23/2/80. Ted Derek Longhurst; Bob Frank Wyse; Doreen Amanda Summers. Dir John Wilson. Plot: Bordman/4, 390, Demastes/2, Fletcher, French/2, Hischak, Hochman, Loney, Salem, Walford, Weintraub. Review: Ealing Gazette 29/2/80, 22. Comment: "John Wilson's direction captures the atmosphere of the situation with convincing accuracy, but the actors are a little too typecast to allow the underlying themes of the play to surface clearly" (Ealing Gazette).

80.84 The Admission (P) Melissa Murray. ACTION SPACE 25/2/80.* Cast: Stage 21/2/80, 2. Christine Edmonds, John Levitt. Dir Sue Dunderdale. Review: Stage 3/4/80, 8. Comment: Almost Free. "It concerns a married woman of education with three children and her descent into the abyss of insanity" (Stage).

Comment: An all-male production, with spartan staging, and a "really riveting performance" from Patrick Magee (New Statesman). Observer (2/3) said the production conjured up "a wholly artificial world of universal evil" which the doubling of roles helped to sustain. "Despite some extraneous theatricality" Christopher Fettes's production was "a rare achievement" (Times 26/2). There were 203 performances at the Fortune.

80.86 From Clontarf to Castle Dracula (One-man show) Maureen Charlton. SUGAWN c. 25/2/80. Cast: Stage 28/2/80, 31. Ivan Stoker-Dixon. Review: Irish Times 22/2/80, 4. Comment: Performed by the great-nephew of Bram Stoker.

80.87 God Bless the Guv'nor (Moral melo) Ted Willis. HAMPSTEAD c. 25/2/80. Plot: Bull/3. Comment: Unity

Cast: Theatricalia. George Charles Kay; Mary Maureen O'Brien. Dir Kay Patrick; Dgn Terry Jacobs. Reviews: Stage 8/5/80, 40; Times 4/3/80, 8. Comment: The play involved people caught up by a piece of social security legislation concerning cohabitation. Times thought it was "truthfully written" and played "with great sensitivity." "The writing was humorous, sharp, and sometimes full of pathos, and the tension was always sustained" (Stage).

80.89 The Open Razor (P) Paul Wetherby (based on Georg Büchner's play, Woyzeck, 1913 [written 1836]). THEATRE SPACE 25/2/80. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 21/2/80, 12. Review: Stage 17/4/80, 11. Comment: The piece was based on "St. Paul's mission to Ephesus ... it is all very ecumenical. It is all very sincere, nicely staged, well played, sung and acted but altogether too much as a Biblical lesson dressed up" (Stage).

80.91 Rape (P) James Duke. ELEPHANT 25/2/80. Emily Newcomb Mary Conlon; George Henry Thomas Peter Cleall. Dir Peter Cleall. Review: Stage 20/3/80, 14. Comment: Stage noted Duke attempted to be fair to both parties involved, but thought he favored the male's defense.

Comment: MPS 885. Oxford Playhouse production. Overall Stage found the piece, involving a hostage situation, a "somewhat dissipated affair." Guardian (26/2) noted the arguments presented in the play divided the audience's sympathies and it had already achieved its objective of raising "over £800 for the Southall Defence Fund." Times thought even the dramatist doubted this was a play.

Press night was 4/3/80. A "triumphant production" (Stage). Although the production was over five hours long, Spectator was ultimately "engulfed in its full tidal force." Observer appeared overwhelmed by the play and thought Jack Shepherd was miscast as Hickey and there were other actors who were "hopelessly miscast." The set deprived the production of "the stimulus of visual curiosity" and the acting was uneven (Times). The production remained in repertory until 5/4/80.

Comment: MPS 909. National Theatre. Previews 2/2–25/2/80; Press night, advertised as the low price opening, was 26/2/80. Following poor reviews and ticket sales, the play was withdrawn early on 15/3/80 (see Stage 13/3/80, 1). Variety reported an observable number of audience members left the theatre during the interval and the play contained “its own verdict when a character remarks on someone’s knack ‘for making the obvious even more tedious than the commonplace’ .. one of the ... more audible and witty lines.” Times had difficulty hearing the play as well as understanding why “this dourly incoherent piece” was selected for production.

80.95 The Third Policeman (C) Ken Campbell (adpt of the novel by “Flann O’Brien,” 1967). ICA 26/2/80.* Cast: Stage 28/2/80, 2. The production ran three hours. The play, about a right-wing populist politician, was not “theatrically gripping or persuasive in its own dramatic terms. In fact it’s rather dull” (Tribune). New Statesman described it as “a paranoid vision, and surely a self-indulgent one.” “The overriding purpose is to exhibit a solemn tableau of British public life and bombard it with cream pies” (Times).

Comment: MPS 918. The reopening of the renovated theatre (see Stage 14/2/80, 10–13). “That uncommon treat of a play, one that tells a personal story well and affectingly, with style, economy and involving characters,” and with Glenda Jackson “superb” as a defeated teacher (Variety). “A well-written, well-observed play in a minor key” (Spectator). Times commended the play for succeeding in presenting “the utterly commonplace” very effectively. The first New York production (Cort 26/3/81) ran for 68 performances.

Reviews: Stage 20/3/80, 13; Times 5/3/80, 13; Variety 2/4/80, 93. Comment: Variety opined the show was of interest only to aficionados; otherwise, the two hour show was a “yawn.” Times noted Williams did not resemble or embody Dylan Thomas himself.

80.107 Jubilee Too (P) Stephen Jeffreys. NEW END c. 3/3/80. 1st perfd Arts Centre, University of Warwick, 17/1/80. Cast: Stage: 6/3/80, 39. Trevor Allan, Denise Armon, Robert McIntosh. Dir John Adams; Dgn Bernard Culshaw. Reviews: Guardian 4/3/80, 9; Times 4/3/80, 8. Comment: MPS 897. Paines Plough. The play involved recruiting African mercenaries, money, and right-wing patriotism. “A play expressing cynicism, idealism, and fear of post-imperial Britain” (Paines Plough website). Times thought the piece lacked originality and could be mistaken for “a tamed and cleaned up version of a Howard Barker first draft.”

80.108 Rhesus (T) Euripides (trans Richard Emil Braun).

FOUNTAINS ABBEY 3/3/80. Cast: Stage 28/2/80, 16. Hector Anthony Homyer; Nigel Gore, Andrew King, Ricardo Pinto, Robert Champion, Tim Robert. Dir James Gillhouley. Plot: Gassner. Reviews: Guardian 4/3/80, 9; Stage 3/4/80, 8. Comment: Company of Three. The play was somewhat obscured by James Gillhouley’s “lurid, balletic production” and the overblown translation (Guardian). “Comes close to being an unqualified artistic success” (Stage).

Review: Stage 13/3/80, 13. Comment: “An immaculately set and costumed revival ... [Hepton gave] a superbly controlled and convincing portrayal of the egotistical Sir Robert Morton,” with a “compelling” performance by Angela Richards (Stage). A one-week engagement.

Comment: Guardian (7/3) praised the production and acting generally, but complained of some tinkering with the text and period. “Another example of how good plays, if clearly and simply done, will speak for themselves” (Spectator). Illustrated London News commended the split-second precision of the production. Alan Strachan’s fiftieth anniversary production captured the play’s vitality and comedy (Times 8/3).

Comment: MPS 917. Stage found the piece “dull and tedious,” “obvious and stale,” and the characters “all too familiar.” Guardian (19/3) described it as “an extraordinary mixture of philosophical comedy and expressionist farce” but it needed pruning; Leonard Rossiter gave “his best performance since Arturo Ui.” New Statesman commended Frayn for “a genuine attempt to deepen his work,” but noted the play did have lapses of “tone and momentum.” Spectator pointed out other faults but the writing was better than in most plays. A fine alliance between Frayn and Michael Blakemore (Times 25/4). “It had a first-night performance that seemed to be aimed primarily at the stalls. Sitting at the side of the dress circle I missed line after undertoned line" (Illustrated London News). There were 284 performances at the Haymarket

Comment: MPS 1494. Variety opined the "elaborate and exciting scenery" was the best element in the production but the two leads, Keith Michell and Julia McKenzie, could be stronger. Observer was more laudatory. Times thought McKenzie gave a "stunning performance as the star." Gay News thought the piece might "become the first successful musical without one hit song to its name." The first New York production (St. James 19/2/78) ran for 449 performances.

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 14/3–19/3; Press night 20/3/80 was also advertised as the low-price opening night. The production ran for three and a half hours. Illustrated London News lauded Scofield's performance. Spectator said Paul Scofield was "disastrous and self-indulgent," but commended the remainder of the cast. Variety noted Scofield in the lead "virtually assures a sellout for the production." New Statesman found both strengths and weaknesses in Scofield's performance. "I could never quite believe that this eloquent and dignified sophisticate would be such a willing dupe" (Guardian). Peter Hall's production was designed to let "the text speak for itself" and the result was "a measured, not to say slow, performance delivered with absolute clarity on a stage shorn of everything but the essentials" (Times). The production remained in repertory until 9/4/81.

The sequel to Byrne's The Slab Boys. Stage found the Scottish dialect used in this comedy, about workers in a dye factory going to their annual works dance, difficult to understand. Observer noted the linguistic difficulty was less in the second act for some reason. Spectator commended Byrne's "comic inventiveness," but wondered what was the point of the play. Times noted the play was deliberately plotless and focused on characters and mindless routines.

"This amalgam of drama, opera, dance and pantomime is a glorious spoof on pretentious theatre" (Stage). "An extended April fool's joke, a lavish satire on the twentieth-century mania for experiment" (Times). "A joke within a joke within a joke, ad infinitum" (Guardian 2/4). Act II, "The Dream Sequence," was advertised to be performed at the ICA 14/8/79 (Stage 3/5/79, 17).

Comment: English Stage Company. The production lasted almost four hours; the Ghost was eliminated but was internalized by Hamlet. Stage found Jonathan Pryce’s Hamlet a “mercurial illustration of thought and emotion.” “A Hamlet that must go down in theatre history as one of the most original and powerful interpretations” (Tribune). “Instead of finding the man, Mr Pryce gives a series of turns” (Times). Illustrated London News condemned Richard Eyre’s direction. Eyre’s production “bristles with intelligence and good ideas,” and with a strong supporting cast (Guardian). Observer reported Pryce received an ovation on opening night.

Plot: French/2, Hochman, Matlaw, Patterson. Review: Stage 8/5/80, 12. Comment: Mouth and Trousers Company. “Excepting Matti (Mark Knight) and Michael Wilcox as chorus and four other roles including Red Surkkala, the players wore half-masks and the minimal sets (screens and boxes) and painted in a trompe l’oeil fashion from German and Nordic expressionist art of the thirties” (Stage).

80.174 Forty Years On (C, 2a) Alan Bennett. SOUTH LONDON THEATRE CENTRE 6/4/80. Plot: Bull/3, Dorney, Fletcher, French/2, Loney, Patterson, Vinson.

Trevor Nunn's revival presented "Chekhov played as it should be: with passion, detail and a feeling of life being lived" (Guardian 9/4). A production with "a refreshing respect for the head" (New Statesman). Times admired the production in which "the advantages of studio performance are manifest in its range of conversational tone." Illustrated London News commended the ensemble performance. Spectator noted this production, designed for touring, was not suited to the Warehouse, and thought it was too gloomy and noisy.

80.178 Cymbeline (R) William Shakespeare. LYRIC STUDIO, HAMMERSMITH, 9/4/80.  Cast: Stage 3/4/80, 6. Cymbeline, etc. John Dicks; Imogen, etc. Pam Ferris; Raad Rawi, Ruth Seglow, Colin Tarrant. Dir Mike Alfreds. Performed by a cast of five, without props, costumes, scenery, etc. The house lights remained on and the actors sat on one side of the stage when not performing. Guardian said the results of Mike Alfreds's production were mixed. Observer entertained an opposing view, noting the production's narrative strength and the cast's "beautiful, unassertive acting." Times pointed out the difficulties of five actors attempting to portray the numerous characters; this was particularly obvious in the concluding scene.

80.179 Domestic Front (P) Joyce Cheeseman. ACTION SPACE 9/4/80.* Cast: Stage 27/3/80, 27. Jean Eleanor Forsythe; Sarah Anne-Marie Davies; Agnes Nina Ward. Dir Kate Crutchley; Sc dgn Mary Moore. Review: Stage 8/5/80, 12. Comment: Women's Project. The play presented the emotional turmoil between three generations of women. Stage thought "the story and its expression is one not just for most sexes but also (and far rarer) for all ages."

80.180 Only in America (Ent) Ned Sherrin (deviser) and Jerry Leiber (songs) and Mike Stoller (songs). ROUND HOUSE 9/4/80.* 20 perf. Comment: Based on the movie, Les parapluies de Cherbourg (1964), the production reportedly lost £140,000 (Stage 24/2/80, 1). The producer, Jack Levin, attacked theatre critics and their negative reviews for failing to understand musicals (Stage 1/5/80, 2). "Insubstantial ... [a] naive, dated show has particular charm, and is done here with acceptable style" (Variety). Guardian opined "it's very hard to turn a film musical into a stage show," and disliked the entire production. "A grossly incompetent piece of storytelling" with a "one-tune score" (Times). The first New York production ran for 13 performances.

80.184 Kim (P, 1a) David Mowat. LYRIC STUDIO, HAMMERSMITH, 11/4/80 (Ln). 1st perfd Crucible Studio, Sheffield, 21/10/77. Cast: Stage 27/3/80, 27. Kim Leslee Udwin; Peter Peter Lyons. Dir David Mowat. Review: Stage 24/4/80, 16. Comment: A two-hander with a man and a woman discussing their lives: "Mowat's writing is on the painstaking, drab side, seldom digging into motive and passion. One waits in vain for some revelation or comment of special merit or vividness" (Stage).

80.185 Twelfth Night; or, What You Will (C) William Shakespeare. ALDWYCH 11/4/80. 62 perf. Cast: RSCA; Stage 10/4/80, 8; Theatricalia. Antonio Roger Bizley; Curio John Matshikiza; Fabian Norman Tyrrell; Feste Geoffrey Hutchings; Malvolio John Woodvine; Maria Jane Downs; Olivia Kate Nicholls; Orsino Gareth Thomas; Sea Captain, Priest Roderick Horn; Sebastian Stephen Rashbrook; Sir Andrew Aguecheek John McEnery; Sir Toby Belch Willoughby Goddard; Valentine Terence Harvey; Viola Cherie Lunghi. Dir, Light Terry Hands; Dgn John Napier; Mus Guy Woolfenden. Reviews: Guardian 14/4/80, 9; Observer 20/4/80, 16; Stage 17/4/80, 10; Times 12/4/80, 8. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. "It all seems jaded" (Observer). Guardian disliked the production's tendency to over-emphasize pointed moments in the text, "to 'pong' it a bit." Times viewed the production more favorably but still noted its "wintry regret, easy violence and melancholy."

80.186 Jeeves Takes Charge (One-man show) Edward Duke (based on two Wodehouse stories). LYRIC STUDIO, HAMMERSMITH, 13/4/80. 1 perf. Cast: Stage 10/4/80, 8. Edward Duke. Dir, Light Hugh Wooldridge. Plot: Hischak/2, 222. Review: Stage 26/6/80, 14. Comment: "Edward Duke's performance is a masterly piece of comic timing and multifaceted mimicry that is not to be missed" (Stage).

80.187 Lying Low (P) John Flanagan and Andrew McCulloch. KING'S HEAD 14/4/80 (Ln). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 10/4/80, 2. David Bradley, Desmond McNamara, George Raistrick. Dir David Fisher.

80.188 One Orange for the Baby (P) John Antrobus. PRINCE ALBERT 14/4/80.* Pam Merrick, Carl Forgione, James Fleet, Mike McKeivitt, Burt Caesar, Constance Reason, Peter Stenson. Dir John Antrobus, Lou Stein. Review: Stage 1/5/80, 11. Comment: Gate Theatre Club. Played in repertory with Antrobus's Up in the Hide (80.198). "Talk about war, marriage and women, among other things ... lead to revelations of character and emotion" (Stage).

80.189 The Story of Anansi (Dance D for children). YOUNG VIC 14/4/80. Cast: Stage 10/4/80, 8. Aklowa Drummers and Dancers. Dir Felix Cobbson. Comment:

Aklowa. Songs, dances, drumming, etc from West Africa.

80.190 The Unvarnished Truth (FC, 2a) Royce Ryton. WIMBLEDON 14/4/80. Hugh Lloyd, Douglas Fielding. Plot: Loney.

80.191 The Volunteer (P) Michael Arditti. SHAW 14/4/80.* Martin Lovell John Elmes, Jonathan Cullen, Anthony Howes, Jane Wilkinson, Colin Dayan. Dir Michael Croft; Dgn Bernard Culshaw. Reviews: Guardian 15/4/80, 9; New Statesman 18/4/80, 599; Stage 24/4/80, 15; Times 15/4/80, 13. Comment: National Youth Theatre. The reopening of the Shaw after building work. The plot involved a university graduate attempting to help a group of teenage delinquents. Guardian was unable to believe in the play's argument. New Statesman found the volunteer of the play "platitudinous." Times faulted much of the play but thought the piece was really about the volunteer discovering how cut off he was from those he was trying to help.

80.192 The Curse of the Starving Class (D, 3a) Sam Shepard. THEATRESPACE 15/4/80. Cast: Stage 10/4/80, 8. Barbara Ewing. Deborah Doole, Derek Ward, Hal Brown. Nick Wyatt, Peter McCauley, Pete Nicholl. Dir Jean Betts; Dgn Euan Frizzell. Plot: Bryer, Hischak/2, 128, Hochman, MacNicholas, Patterson, Wilmeth. Review: Stage 15/5/80, 12. Comment: Heartache and Sorrow. Stage lamented this skillful troupe had chosen to revive a creaky play.

80.193 Mother (Monol) Alistair Campbell. ICA 15/4/80 (Ln). 1st perfd Edinburgh Festival 1979 (later at London Student Drama Festival 2/80 where it won the Thames Television Award). Cast: Stage 10/4/80, 8. Alistair Campbell. Reviews: Stage 15/5/80, 12; Times 16/4/80, 9. Comment: Campbell performed "an ambiguous recitation about the difficulties of life with mother" accompanied by an "erratic racket at the rear" of the stage (Times).

80.194 On Her Own (Solo show) Eleanor Bron. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 15/4/80.* Cast: Stage 10/4/80, 8. Eleanor Bron. Reviews: Guardian 16/4/80, 10; Stage 24/4/80, 15; Times 16/4/80, 9. Comment: Eleanor Bron was "quietly beguiling" and at her best in monologues (Guardian). Times said her performance was somewhat uneven, particularly in the songs.

80.195 Poor Man Dey Suffer (P) Rufus Orishayoni. AFRICA CENTRE 15/4/80. Comment: Directed by the author.

80.196 Third Flight (P) Michael McGrath. BUSH 15/4/80.* Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 2. Donald David Howey;

Stella Anna Nygh. Dir Ian Kellgren; Dgn Gillian Daniell. Reviews: Guardian 17/4/80, 11; New Statesman 25/4/80, 642; Stage 1/5/80, 11. Comment: CVI Theatre Company. Stage found this play, about a mismatched married couple, rather puzzling. The piece involved “a satiric inversion of domestic convention,” but was not entirely clear where it stood on issues (New Statesman).

80.197 Next Time I'll Sing to You (D, 2a) James Saunders (based on Raleigh Trevelyan, A Hermit Disclosed, 1960). GREENWICH 17/4/80. Cast: Stage 17/4/80, 6. Rudge Nickolas Grace; Lizzie Judy Geeson; Colin Bruce, Michael Melia, Malcolm Mudie. Dir Toby Robertson; Dgn Bernard Culshaw; Mus Donald Fraser. Plot: Best/63, 142, Hochman, Loney, Patterson, Salem, Vinson, Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 11/4/80, 8, 18/4/80, 9; Illustrated London News 1/6/80, 113. Stage 24/4/80, 15; Times 18/4/80, 11. Comment: The revival featured Nickolas Grace who performed “with rapt vehemence” (Guardian 18/4). In addition Times commended Michael Melia, Toby Robertson, and Bernard Culshaw.

80.198 Up in the Hide (P) John Antrobus. PRINCE ALBERT 17/4/80.* Pam Merrick, Carl Forgione, James Fleet, Mike McKevitt, Burt Caesar, Constance Reason, Peter Stenson. Dir John Antrobus, Lou Stein. Review: Stage 1/5/80, 11. Comment: Gate Theatre Club. Played in repertory with Antrobus's One Orange for the Baby (80.188). “The troupe of holiday folk on an animal-less safari [in Africa] are a motley lot, funny, silly, interesting, grim. Again, dialogue and thought give an impression of swerving and curving, with the addition of a varnishing of elliptical emphasis” (Stage).

80.199 Macbeth (T) William Shakespeare. TOWER, CANONBURY, 18/4/80. Cast: Stage 17/4/80, 6; TTC.

80.200 Strip (Feminist cabaret) Celia West and Lorae Parry and Lynne Brandon. THEATRE SPACE 18/4/80 (Lt). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 17/4/80, 6. Celia West, Lorae Parry, Lynne Brandon. Comment: Blue Stocking Theatre.

80.201 The Girl in Melanie Klein (P, 3a) James Saunders (adpt of Ronald Harwood's novel, 1969). QUESTORS 19/4/80.* Cast: QTA. Review: Stage 15/5/80, 12. Comment: The plot involved an actor pondering the nature of illusion and reality.

80.202 Sparks and Embers (Show) Richard Austin (compiler). THREE HORSESHOES 19/4/80. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 17/4/80, 6. Diana Bishop, Ian Frost, Malcolm Hayes, Jo Scott-Matthews. Dir Nigel Bellairs. Review: Stage 1/5/80, 8. Comment: Pentameters. Readings from Osbert and Edith Sitwell.

80.203 Creditors (TC, 1a) August Strindberg (trans Michael Meyer of Fordringsägare, 1889). NEW END 21/4/80. Cast: Stage 17/4/80, 6. Adolf Philip Bowen; Gustav Malcolm Rennie; Tekla Heather Sears. Dir Roy Macready; Sc dgn Belinda Ackerman; Light Stephen Wentworth. Plot: Fletcher, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Sobel, Walford. Reviews: Guardian 22/4/80, 9; New Statesman 25/4/80, 642; Observer 27/4/80, 15; Spectator 26/4/80, 25–26; Stage 1/5/80, 9. Comment: “This cool and elegant production thrives in the warm intimacy” of the New End (Spectator). “This polite production ... seldom gets nearer passion than routine bluster” (Observer).

80.204 Dream Topping (P) Jeremy Sandford and Philippa Finnis. KING'S HEAD 21/4/80. 1st perfd Demarco Gallery, High St., Edinburgh, 2/9/79. Cast: Stage 17/4/80, 2.

80.205 Elvis (Mus, 2pt) Jack Good and Ray Cooney. RICHMOND 21/4/80. Middle Elvis Bo Willis; Bogdan Kominowski. Plot: OTF. Comment: A one-week engagement.

80.206 Here Lies . . . (Ent). ESSEX UNITARIAN CHURCH HALL 21/4/80. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 17/4/80, 2. Moira Lynd, Peter Lindsay, Sally Greene, Robert Swinton, Tatiana Kazemsadeh, Sheila Bryans, Jonathan Pollard, Georgia Greeph. Dir Heather Chasen. Comment: Studio'68. A compilation of the best of Dorothy Parker.

80.207 Sus (D, 2a) Barrie Keeffe. HALF MOON 21/4/80. Cast: Stage 10/4/80, 2. Leon Delroy Gordon Case; Stewart Preston, Mervyn Stutter. Dir Penny Cherns; Sc dgn Jenny Tiramani. Plot: Bull/2, Dorney, Fletcher. Reviews: Guardian 18/4/80, 9, 22/4/80, 9; Spectator 3/5/80, 28; Stage 8/5/80, 12. Comment: 7:84 Theatre Company (England). Spectator was riveted by the revival and urged readers to see it.

80.208 Carousel (MP, 2a) Oscar Hammerstein II (bk, lyr; based on Ferenc Molnár, Liliom [1909] as adpt by Benjamin F. Glazer) and Richard Rodgers (mus). WIMBLEDON 22/4/80. 1st perfd Shubert, New Haven, Connecticut, 22/3/45. Plot: Best/44, 428–29, Bordman, Bordman/5, 546–47, Fletcher, Gänzl, Green, Hischak, Kennedy, Law, Shipley, Wilmeth. Comment: The theatre closed for the summer on 3/5/80 because of poor business prospects (see Stage 17/4/89, 1, 8/5/80, 35, 12/6/80, 1, 3/7/80, 1, 7/8/80, 1). The first New York production (Majestic 19/4/45) ran for 890 performances.

80.209 Early Days (D, 2a) David Storey. COTTESLOE

Comment: MPS 999. National Theatre. Previews 11/4–21/4/80; Press and opening night was 22/4/80. The production ran for 95 minutes including the interval. “Uncommonly short” and “little more than a character sketch” of “a retired politician approaching death”; it was held together by the “sheer magnetism” of Ralph Richardson’s performance (Variety). “Ripe, vintage Richardson—utterly memorable and on no account to be missed by connoisseurs” (Spectator). “As a tribute to Sir Ralph’s acting ability it is a curiosity ... the play is a pale shade of robust writing” Storey was capable of (Times 23/4). “The text is thin; but Sir Ralph, embellishing it vocally and physically as if he were considering it for the first time, is an indubitable master” (Illustrated London News 1/2/81). The production remained in repertory at the Cottesloe until 21/6/80; there were 73 performances at the Comedy.

80.210 Auto-da-Fe (P, 1a) Tennessee Williams. NEW INN 23/4/80.  Plot: Gunn, Heintzelman, MacNicholas.

80.211 Blitz! Lionet Bart (mus, bk, lyr) and Joan Maitland (bk) and Peter Wright (ch). CURTAIN 24/4/80.  Plot: Gänzl, Kennedy, Loney, OTF.

80.212 Obilis (Fantasy) Michael Papoui. THREE FEATHERS CLUB 24/4/80. Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 10. Suzanne Fishwick, Charly Serio, Judy Boyle. Gina Par, Liz Edwards, Andrea Kelland, Karin Stookey, Maria Papoui, Miles McKane, Bill McCann, Wendy Earte, Gerry Matir, Hannah O’Dell, Lucienne Erb. Dir Michael Papoui. Review: Stage 29/5/80, 12. Comment: Performance Arts Company. “A fantasy which partly takes place in a huge white box, inhabited by a husband and wife, their androgynous offspring and the mother’s lover. All these characters wear white-face and are dressed in black and white” (Stage).

80.213 Twenty Fifth (P) Michael Kelly. SOHO POLY c. 24/4/80 (Ln). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 2. Joan Sue Greenwood; Frank Frank Coda. Dir Phil Davies; Dgn Terry Jacobs. Reviews: Gay News 29/5/80, 24; Stage 22/5/80, 20. Comment: The play was about a marriage breaking down apparently because the husband says he is gay, but that is merely an invention (Gay News).

80.214 The Storyland. ARTS 26/4/80. 2 perf. Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 10. Kristin Magnus.

80.215 Bernard at the Y (One-man show) Bernard Sharpe. YMCA 27/4/80. * 1 perf. Cast: Stage 17/4/80, 2. Bernard Sharpe.

80.216 The Unvarnished Truth (FC, 2a) Royce Ryton. RICHMOND 28/4/80.  Hugh Lloyd and Douglas Fielding. Plot: Loney. Comment: A one-week engagement.

80.217 Diary of a Madman (P) Nikolai Gogol (trans R. Wilks of Gogol’s story, 1835). OLD RED LION 29/4/80. 1st perf this trans? Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 10. Stuart Blake. Dir Percy Steven.

80.218 Hay Fever (C, 3a) Noël Coward. LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH, 29/4/80.  Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 10; Theatricalia. Myra Arundel Polly Adams; Jackie Coryton Yvonne Antrobus; Judith Bliss Constance Cummings; Sorel Bliss Felicity Dean; Clara Mary Griffiths, David Bliss John Le Mesurier; Simon Bliss Brian Stirner; Richard Greatham Moray Watson; Sandy Tyrell Jeremy Child. Dir Michael Blakemore; Dgn Julia Trevelyan Oman; Light Spike Gaden. Plot: Best/25, 460, Bordman/3, 269–70, Demastes/1, Fletcher, French/2, Gassner, Griffiths, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Levin, 61–64, Loney, 134, Mander/4, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Sobel. Reviews: Guardian 30/4/80, 10; Observer 4/5/80, 16; Spectator 10/5/80, 26; Stage 8/5/80, 11; Times 30/4/80, 15. Comment: Michael Blakemore’s revival “only spasmodically achieves the right hard-edged style” (Guardian). “The price of erasing stylistic cliché is to rob the characters of their necessary outrageousness” (Times). Spectator enjoyed the play because he had never seen it before but acknowledged the production could probably have been better.

80.219 Riff Raff Rules! (P) Vince Foxall. THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD EAST, 29/4/80. 1st perfd Bristol 11/78? Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 10. Riff Raff Robert Morgan; Tammy Shanter Paula Hamilton; *O. Stage 15/5/80, 11. Comment: MPS 956. The play was about the punk generation and its acts of violence.

80.220 Towards a Nuclear Future (P) Pip Simmons and Chris Jordan (mus). ICA 29/4/80. 1st perfd Arts Centre, University of Warwick, 10/1/80. Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 10. Rod Beddall, Sheila Burnett, Helena Fransson, Pete Gibson, Jessie Gordon, Chris Jordan, Sally Lansdale, Roderic Leigh, Peter Oliver. Dir Pip Simmons. Reviews: Guardian 1/5/80, 9; New Statesman 9/5/80, 724; Observer 11/5/80, 17; Times 30/4/80, 15. Comment: Pip Simmons Theatre Group. The piece was about “a possible future, when there will be no future at all” (Guardian). Observer found the treatment of the topic “strangely conventional.” “A refreshingly independent and sceptical debate, with as much knocking of environmental demagoguery as of establishment smugness,” although the topic was too intricate for the group’s capabilities (New Statesman).

80.221a Acrobats (P, 1a) Israel Horovitz. YORK AND ALBANY 30/4/80. 1st perfd Mickery, Amsterdam, 20/10/70; 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 10. Plot: Hischak/2, 28–29, Walford. Review: Stage 12/6/80, 14. Comment: The double-bill was “performed, directed, designed and choreographed by Sandra Kovacs and Gary Wynn” (Stage).

80.221b Hopscotch (P, 1a) Israel Horovitz. YORK AND ALBANY 30/4/80. 1st perfd Manhattan Theatre Club, New York, 21/3/74; 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 10. Plot: Hochman, MacNicholas, Walford. Review: Stage 12/6/80, 14.

Comment: MPS 931. “A touching and often hilarious slice of backstage life and lore, rich in characterization, clever in theatrical effects and radiantly performed” by Freddie Jones and Tom Courtenay (Variety). “Wonderfully affectionate and intelligent” (Guardian). “A quintessential West End play which, if not exactly a profound masterpiece, provides an enthralling evening in the theatre” (Spectator). Times pointed out the play was “a double retelling of the Lear story” with Norman acting as the Fool with Sir being Lear “off-stage” as well as “on-stage.” Illustrated London News dubbed this Harwood’s best play, and insisted on pointing out that “Sir” was not a portrait of Donald Wolfitt. The first New York production (Brooks Atkinson 9/11/81) ran for 200 performances.

80.223 Hamlet (T) William Shakespeare. ROUNDHOUSE 30/4/80. Cast: Stage 24/4/80, 10. Hamlet Steven Berkoff; Claudius Matthew Scurfield; Gertrude Linda Marlowe; Ophelia Chloe Salaman; Polonius Bob Homery; Barry Philips. Dir Steven Berkoff; Mus John Prior. Reviews: Guardian 2/5/80, 11; New Statesman 9/5/80, 724; Observer 4/5/80, 35; Stage 8/5/80, 11. Comment: A modern dress production. Stephen Berkoff both directed and played Hamlet and as the latter ruined the production; the remainder of the cast was much more talented than him (Guardian). “Berkoff himself hasn’t the range and reach to delve far into anyone” (New Statesman).

80.224a The Mourning After the Night Before (P, 1a) Red O’Hagan. YORK AND ALBANY 5/80.* Review: Stage 12/6/80, 14. Comment: Mouth and Trousers. The triple-bill was designed to give new authors a chance to see their work staged professionally. Mourning was “mainly a monologue for a don who has had a night of unbridled sex and alcohol with a chance-met tart and whose wife subsequently walks out on him” (Stage).

80.224b Night Shift (P, 1a) Richard Lord. YORK AND ALBANY 5/80.* Carol Ann Mansell, Sarah Shipton. Dir Jan Dalley. Review: Stage 12/6/80, 14. Comment: Mouth and Trousers. The piece worked well “because it is short and involves only two characters (cleaning ladies in an office block) in a lifelike setting” (Stage).

80.224c Sheets (P, 1a) Brian Rotman. YORK AND ALBANY 5/80.* Richard Bremmer, Janet Dalley, Brian Rotman. Dir John Fletcher. Review: Stage 12/6/80, 14. Comment: Mouth and Trousers. The piece involved “a husband and wife, the man being invalid, a pair of medicos and a strange non-sexual person and is apparently about creativity” (Stage).

80.225 Spring a Surprise (P for children) Penny

Casdagli. ARTS 5/80.* Nicola Pringle, Andrew Cuthbert, Stella Andrade. Dir Rod Lewis. Review: Stage 29/5/80, 12. Comment: Unicorn.

80.226 The Devil Himself (Revue) Peter Barnes (adpt of works by Frank Wedekind) and Carl Davis (mus) and Stephen Deutsch (mus). LYRIC STUDIO, HAMMERSMITH, 1/5/80. 1st perf this adpt. Cast: Stage 1/5/80, 8. Dilys Laye, Tina Marian, Charles Keating, Alan Rickman. Dir Peter Barnes; Dgn Liz da Costa; Light Leonard Tucker; Ch Stuart Hopps; Mus dir Michael Rose. Plot: OTF/2. Reviews: Guardian 3/5/80, 11; Observer 11/5/80, 17; Stage 15/5/80, 11; Times 6/5/80, 11. Comment: The piece consisted of monologues and songs taken from various works by Wedekind. The cast was "excellent" (Observer). Times favored the items that revealed Wedekind's ironic stance.

80.227 The Hothouse (D, 2a) Harold Pinter. Comment: MPS 944. The Ambassadors run came to an abrupt end when it was terminated by the theatre's management because takings had fallen below "the 'notice figure' of £8,000" (Stage 18/9/80, 1). Guardian thought this early play from 1958 was interesting because it showed Pinter dealing with familiar themes "in a style of graphic Absurdity that he wisely chose not to pursue." Variety reported Pinter had previously had misgivings about the piece: "His original instinct was probably sound, taking the play as a baffling, sometimes tedious whole." While conceding that the play was "rather heavy-handed and long-winded," New Statesman still thought the play was well worth producing. Not "first-rate Pinter, but it is lively, intriguing and brilliantly staged" (Times). There were 100 performances at the Ambassadors. The first New York production (Playhouse 6/5/82) ran for 29 performances.

Plot: Hochman, Matlaw. Reviews: New Statesman 16/5/80, 759; Observer 18/5/80, 28; Stage 22/5/80, 20. Comment: Cherub Company. The play was also performed at various London churches (see Brian Edward George Cook, "(In)famous Angel: The Cherub Company and the Problem of Definition," Ph.D. dissertation, University of Oregon, 2012, 124–25). Observer commended Cherub's abilities but disliked the play itself. "It was a play and a staging to disturb rather than a theatrical or religious experience to rest one easy. That may well be its achievement" (Stage).

80.231 Donkey Work (P for children) Bernard Goss (based on Apuleius, The Golden Ass). YOUNG VIC STUDIO 2/5/80.* Comment: Cherub Company. 80.230, 80.231, and 80.232 were performed in repertory. The two Goss plays were written specifically for Cherub.

"It has three characters, of whom one is Eros himself; Pan and Puck have had a considerable part to play in the sheer wilfulness with which he brings together a young man and woman, parts then reconciles them for his own titillation and finally moves on to restart the complete cycle with yet another pair of victims" (Stage).

Reviews: Guardian 8/5/80, 13; Stage 15/5/80, 11; Times 8/5/80, 11. Comment: "David William's production, with evocative revolving sets by Mark Negin" proved "satisfying" (Guardian). Times compared the play rather unfavorably with My Fair Lady; the latter being "a classic of its genre, and Pygmalion is not."

80.240 Sir Roger and His Most Amazing Case (F epic) Peter Leabourne and Andy Cunningham. ICA 6/5/80 (Ln). Comment: The original title was Sir Roger and Reviews: Guardian 8/5/80, 13; Stage 15/5/80, 11; Times 8/5/80, 11. Comment: MPS 925. Music and sex become intertwined in this piece, about a musical quartet, that tried to establish parallels in the two. Times complained the text contained "computerized lines."

80.242 The Stations of the Cross (P) Peter Schumann. YOUNG VIC 7/5/80. 1st perfd St. Clement's Church (West 46th Street), New York, 23/5/72; 1st British perf. Reviews: New Statesman 16/5/80, 759; Stage 29/5/80, 11. Comment: Bread and Puppet Theatre. "The show reveals itself as a moving, even spiritual, experience. Because this is experimental visual theatre (and we are, after all, in 1980) the Christ figure is that of a blonde and attractive girl" (Stage). New Statesman reported there were only nineteen people in the audience.

80.243 The Estuary (P) Robert Holman. This atmospheric play dealt with a plethora of revelations about a family's skeletons and dwindled into sensationalism (Guardian). Times found little new in yet another outdoor play about "a group of quietly frustrated people resolving their discord against a resonant stretch of English landscape."

80.244 The Merry Wives of Windsor (C, 2a) William Shakespeare. ALDWYCH 8/5/80. 31 perf. Leonard. Reviews: Observer 11/5/80, 17; Stage 15/5/80, 11; Times 9/5/80, 11. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. The production ran three hours. Times intimated Trevor Nunn's Warwickshire show (transferred from Stratford) was deliberately aimed at tourists. "John Napier's autumnal settings are hauntingly effective; the life in and out of doors in up-and-coming-class Windsor folk is made jauntily engaging, and there is a sense of social history being portrayed" (Stage).

Comment: About the private life of Queen Alexandra. "Another theatrical ramble among the skeletons of British royalty ... only seems quaint and more than a little remote" (Variety). Gay News described the piece as "a succession of good scenes" which it found interesting. "Only a strong closing scene ... redeems the not-very-original proceedings" (New Statesman).

Comment: National Theatre. Previews 8/5–12/5/80; Press night, also advertised as the low price opening, was 13/5/80. Michael Rudman's "spanking" direction of the double-bill made for "a wholly delightful evening." "Both are superbly produced, with stylish and sensitive staging by Michael Rudman ... should have a prosperous and lengthy run in repertory" (Variety). "An imperishable treasure of the English commercial tradition" (Times). The production remained in repertory until 21/3/81.

Comment: Mrs. Worthington's Daughters. Guardian opined this good play had been abridged too much. "A really dominating principal performance might lift the proceedings above the mildly melodramatic" (New Statesman). Times commended the company for putting on the play but said "they lack the acting depth for their undertaking." The first New York production (Little 24/12/12) ran for 63 performances.

The play, performed in German, was about Murieta, a Chilean folk hero, told in Brechtian fashion. Observer said the visual impact of the production was “considerable. New Statesman agreed, noting the play was verbally challenging. Times was “defeated by a totally unintelligible simultaneous translation system.”

Comment: Guardian praised Peter Gill's production for showing “there are other ways of approaching Shakespeare than through a relentless exploration of textual minutiae.” This “powerful production has gone for the guts of the play—its ideas—with mercifully little attempt at Roman realism” (New Statesman). “Youthful and exuberant, with a Caesar in Robert Fleming of effectively contrasting age and grandeur” (Stage). Times noted the entire cast was dressed identically in “grey sweaters and leg-warmers.”

The production reportedly cost £350,000 and employed revolutionary staging using computerized scene shifting (Stage 17/1/80, 36). On the production's financial woes, see Stage 12/6/80, 1, 19/6/80, 2, 31/7/80, 2. The production ran three hours. "A stomach-turning disaster" (New Statesman). "An over-extended, schmaltzy yawn that deserves and will probably get short shrift" (Variety). "Tuneful but unmemorable" (Gay News). The piece aimed to be a family musical and failed (Times). "It is almost as though all the elements of the most successful musicals had been put into a computer which then churned out the script and music of Barnardo. The obvious result is that it has no cohesive style" (Stage).

Comment: The Combination. With scarcely a plot, the piece was really "a showpiece for two extraordinary standup comics, Alexei Sayle and Keith Allen. Blacker than Joe Orton, more blue than Lenny Bruce, their's is a hardcore world where a dog is not so much a boy's best friend as his bedmate" (Guardian).

Comment: The play was about David Livingstone's Christian missionary days in Africa and his experience with one tribal leader. Guardian could not decide what the play was about exactly. Spectator opined the play simply reiterated "the conventional view that missionaries didn't do Africa much good." The first New York production was at the Quaigh 11/5/82.

Previews from 23/5/80; Press night, also advertised as the low price opening, was 3/6/80. "No current dramatist is so observant as Ayckbourn. One day, doubtless, they will be teaching social history from his work, and students will be fortunate. The dialogue, tuned and timed exactly, is never cheaply flawed" (Illustrated London News). Variety said Ayckbourn had "recovered his stride," and noted this comedy had the "gimmick" of plot variations decided spontaneously during the course of the play by a coin toss. Tribune thought Ayckbourn's strength was the "pricking [of] the colour-supplement pretensions that ... we fall prey to." Guardian urged readers to see the play twice (and thus two variations of the plot) in order to get "the full flavour"; the play also proved "Ayckbourn is always at his most serious when he is at his funniest." Times said Ayckbourn was at his best, and praised the direction, Simon Callow's "amazing performance," and Alan Tagg's set—"a superb piece of open-air naturalism and a trampoline for the cast." The production remained in repertory until 5/2/81.

Reviews: Guardian 10/6/80, 9; Illustrated London News 1/8/80, 98; New Statesman 13/6/80, 910; Spectator 14/6/80, 24; Stage 12/6/80, 13; Times 9/6/80, 7. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Illustrated London News declared the production was unsatisfactory because "melodrama supervened." Jonathan Lynn's production avoided the play's melodramatic elements and "Susan Tracy's performance as Anna is proof of abundant versatility" (Guardian); New Statesman agreed. Spectator shared Guardian's appraisal of Lynn but not of Tracy. Times thought that, like the play itself, Lynn's production was "shrouded in fog." The New York production of this Pulitzer Prize-winning piece ran for 177 performances.

80.297 Fanny Burney and Friends (One-woman show) Karin Fernald. YOUNG VIC STUDIO 6/6/80. 1st perfd Quinville Theatre, Maulden, Bedfordshire, 1/78, as Of Kings and Sealing Wax. Cast: Stage 5/6/80, 12. Karin Fernald. Dir David Rush. Review: Stage 12/6/80, 14. Comment: "An exquisite period piece ... it is quite a tribute to the remarkable talents of actress Karin Fernald that she is able to bring to life the political and artistic giants of Georgian society with such a comic clarity and deft touch" (Stage).

80.298 Overruled (P) Bernard Shaw. ORANGE TREE 6/6/80 (Ln). Mr. Lunn Bernard Holley; Anne Windsor, David Gooderson, Elizabeth Sladen. Dir Jonathan Morgan. Plot: French/2, Hochman, Mander/3, Matlaw, Purdom. Review: Ealing Gazette 20/6/80, 21. Comment: Richmond Fringe.

80.299 A Streetcar Named Desire (P [3a]) Tennessee Williams. TOWER, CANONBURY, 6/6/80. Cast: TTC. Plot: Best/47, 32, Bordman, Bordman/4, 270, Bronner, Bryer, Dorney, Fletcher, Gassner, Griffiths, Heintzelman, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Loney, 252, MacNicholas, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Shipley, Vinson, Wilmeth.

80.300 The Subjugation of the Dragon (P, 2a) Lesley Ferris. YORK AND ALBANY 6/6/80.* Cast: Stage 5/6/80, 12. Samantha Ingrid Frankenberg; Mary Sally Cranfield; Carol Thompson. Dir Lesley Ferris; Puppets Janet Dalley, Tim Howe; Sound Terry Back. Review: Stage 26/6/80, 14. Comment: Mouth and Trousers. "This modern allegory derives from a Hittite legend of the dragon who blinded the rain god and was in turn trapped by a goddess who showed a man how to kill the beast. It could all be unbearably pretentious, but turns out to be quite the contrary" (Stage).

80.301 Swine Fever (P) Andy Cunningham and Peter Leabourne. MANSFIELD FESTIVAL 7/6/80. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 5/6/80, 12. Patti Bee, Norman Boyd, Michael Davies, Steve McNicholas. Dir Richard Robinson; Dgn Penny Saunders. Review: Stage 19/6/80, 16. Comment: The piece involved "a Bavarian sausage baron with elongated frankfurter aspirations, a pig maiden (surely the archetypal female chauvinist sow), her plastics lederhosen-sheathed, yodelling swain and her embosed mama [sic]" (Stage).

80.302 Blessed Memory (P) Órnólfur Árnason (trans Jill Brooke of Blessuo minning). THREE HORSESHOES 8/6/80. 1 perf. 1st perf this trans. Cast: Stage 5/6/80, 12. Dora Joanna Dunham. Dir Jill Brooke. Review: Stage 19/6/80, 16. Comment: MPS 950. Pentameters. A one-woman play about a daughter learning about her dead mother's life as she goes through the latter's belongings. "Joanna Dunham speaks it all beautifully, never overdoing the cry for understanding inherent but not articulated in the character" (Stage).

80.303 Exit Burbage (One-man show) Peter Whitbread (deviser). OPEN AIR 8/6/80 (Ln). Richard Burbage Peter Whitbread.

80.305 Telephone Man (P) Dennis Kennedy. ACTION

SPACE 9/6/80 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 5/6/80, 25. Alex Peter Whitman; Fawn, etc. Jocelyn Cunningham. Dir Phil Young; Dgn Kandis Cook; Sm Tina MacHugh. Review: Stage 19/6/80, 16. Comment: Almost Free. The piece involved a man, under several aliases, making telephone calls to various women.

80.306 Three More Sleepless Nights (P, 3sc) Caryl Churchill. SOHO POLY 9/6/80.* Cast: Stage 12/6/80, 47. Margaret Jan Chappell; Pete Kevin McNally; Frank Fred Pearson; Dawn Harriet Walter. Dir Les Waters; Dgn Di Seymour. Plot: Loney, Walford, Weintraub. Reviews: Guardian 12/6/80, 11; Stage 3/7/80, 14; Times 11/6/80, 9. Comment: A "50-minute dance round the marriage bed ... a study in non-communication" (Guardian). Although the scenes were somewhat similar Times said the "writing has enough energy to make it intriguing;" with good performances.

80.307 Kipling's Kingdom (One-man show) Peter Whitbread (deviser). OPEN AIR 10/6/80 (Ln). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 12/6/80, 47. Peter Whitbread.

80.308 A Knight at the Bubble (P) Rony Robinson. RAVENSCOURT PARK 10/6/80. 1st perf? Philip Whitchurch, Gary Oldman, Lil Roughley. Dir Bob Carlton; Dgn Paul Abrahams; Cost dgn, Cost Claire Lyth. Review: Stage 19/6/80, 15. Comment: MPS 995. Bubble Theatre Company. Presumably a pastiche of The Knight of the Burning Pestle: "The trouble is that the up-dating adds rather than subtracts the unnecessary dimension of pseudo-reality. Pub-owner felled by Vatman (who is really a mere Freemason in disguise) is perfectly valid, but the play within a play within a community theatre may well leave the virgin playgoer with a sense that a jolly romp might well have had more substance" (Stage).

80.309 The Merchant of Venice (C [5a]) William Shakespeare. ST. GEORGE'S 10/6/80. Shylock Rowland Davies; Portia Philomena McDonagh; Nerissa Sheila Ballantine; Bassanio Stephen Jenn; Antonio, Prince of Arragon Eric Lander; Tubal, Prince of Morocco Mike Hayward; Launcelot Gobbo Lawrence Douglas. Dir George Murrell. Review: Stage 12/6/80, 13. Comment: Stage said the production "takes what may now seem a slightly old-fashioned view of Shylock; Rowland Davies wears a costume based very closely on that of Irving and some of his business in the trial scene surely goes back even further. It is all very reasonably spoken."

80.310 Travelling North (P, 2a) David Williamson. LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH, 10/6/80. 1st perfd Nimrod Upstairs, Surry Hills, NSW, Australia, 22/8/79; 1st British perf. Cast: Stage 5/6/80, 12. Frances Rosemary

Comment: An “Australian soap opera, a domestic love story” which would have been better on television” (Guardian 11/6). “A peculiarly bland and even at moments dull offering” (Spectator). The assessment of Times was diametrically opposed to both of those views.

80.311 Mind/Matter, Ramana/Einstein. LOGAN HALL 12/6/80. 1 perf. Cast: Stage 12/6/80, 12. Dir Surya Kumari. Comment: India Performing Arts.

80.312 Meet Mr. Macready (One-man show) Frank Barrie (deviser). OPEN AIR 13/6/80 (Ln). 1st perfd Northcott, Exeter, 10/79. Plot: Stage 1/11/79, 10.

80.313c Under the Bush (P, 1a) David Campton. NEW INN 13/6/80. 1st perf? Review: Ealing Gazette 20/6/80, 21. Comment: “The third play, Under The Bush, I felt was too short to add anything to the evening’s entertainment, except to display Ken Mason’s acting. But Ken was also responsible for the direction, which was throughout the three plays at a fast pace and extremely good” (Ealing Gazette).

80.316 The Dumb Waiter (P, 1a) Harold Pinter.

JACKSONS LANE 14/6/80. 1 perf. Plot: Demastes/2, Fletcher, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Weintraub. Comment: Upstage Theatre Company.

80.317 Dandelion (Comic Musical Fantasy) Judith Martin and Irving Burton and Donald Ashwander (mus). ROUND HOUSE 16/6/80 (morning and mat). Irving Burton, Jeanne Michels, Pat Brodhead, Court Miller. Dir Judith Martin. Reviews: Guardian 19/6/80, 11; Stage 26/6/80, 13; Times 19/6/80, 15. Comment: Paper Bag Players. “A sprawling, inconsequential and rather complex revue about the creation and evolution of the world” (Guardian). Designed for children, the piece had “enough participation to keep the youngest child absorbed and enough wit to keep the parents amused” (Times).

80.318 Educating Rita (C, 2a) Willy Russell. WAREHOUSE 16/6/80; trfd to PICCADILLY 19/8/80.* Cast: RSCA; Stage 12/6/80, 12, 14/8/80, 50; Theatricalia. Frank Mark Kingston; Rita Julie Walters. Dir Mike Ockrent; Dgn Poppy Mitchell; Light Leo Leibovici; Sound John Leonard. Comment: MPS 964. Royal Shakespeare Company. Tribune objected that the details about the Open University in the play were incorrect; moreover, “cheap laugh followed cheap laugh at Rita’s expense.” Guardian (17/6) also “found the opening gruesome with its endless parade of easy gags,” but thought the play developed eventually and became touching. Spectator praised Julie Walters’ “enchanting performance,” but took issue with the predictability of the play, among other aspects. Times thought the production felt like a tryout but still commended it and the performances. There were 22 performances at the Warehouse. The production ran until 18/9/82 at the Piccadilly. In June 1982 Stage (17/6/82, 2) had reported that the box office had taken in £1,700,000.

"We are in the twilight world of the dansant and the romantic yearnings so brutally cut short by the V2- bomb. As a re-creation of an era old before these performers were young, it is a remarkable achievement" (Stage).

Comment: MPS 1002A, 1002B. Royal Shakespeare Company. Press night was 21/6/80. The play lasted 8½ hours and was performed in two parts on separate occasions. Variety described it as “another highly indulgent stunt” that was far too long, although it was “lively and entertaining, perhaps even as good an evocation of the book as one could hope for.” Spectator expressed numerous reservations including “the book’s unsuitability for dramatisation.” “I couldn’t help wondering periodically if the whole thing wasn’t a waste of the RSC’s amazing resources” (Guardian). Times praised the production unreservedly, adding “but, of all the delights ... the major ones are in the acting and perhaps it should be acknowledged now that the present RSC is a national treasure.” “I have never known a more elaborate theatrical treatment of any novel. In the production by Trevor Nunn and John Caird it comes across as a group performance unsparingly loyal, most of the players ready, when needed, to fill the crevices” (Illustrated London News). Weintraub (168–69) reproduces the full cast list of the New York production (Plymouth 4/10/81) which ran for 98 performances (49 performances each part).

Comment: MPS 971. The play opened simultaneously at the Theatre Workshop, University of Sheffield (see Stage 19/6/80, 13). Tribune thought the play’s attack on the Tory government was not sharp enough. “Little more than a long-winded whinge which fails to live up to the authors’ pretensions” (Stage). “Both the voltage and wattage of Shock are disappointingly low. It is neither good Brenton nor rousing agitprop” (New Statesman 4/7). “Disappointing ... spends much of the evening setting fire to paper targets” (Guardian 26/6). Times said the piece was “mild” and “its good humoured theatricality is not threatening.” There were 28 performances at the Court.

80.332 Allergies (P, 2sc) Paul Hines. ACTION SPACE 23/6/80.* Tom Paul Hines; Alice Jayne Roberts. Dir Christine Richman. Review: Stage 31/7/80, 24. Comment: This short two-hander involved a gay man and a lesbian and their various encounters with death.

Comment: MPS 1053. Guardian commended Hughes’s “command both of character and dialogue,” but the play lacked “real thematic development”; fluent performances from Alan Rickman and Paola Dionisotti. “An absorbing evocation of a moment in recent history" (Times). New Statesman listed the several characters that reflected Hughes's careful observation. "An intelligent, well-written and honest play about politics" (Spectator). See also Lloyd Evans, 238.

80.335 Jeeves Takes Charge (One-man show, 2a) Edward Duke (based on two Wodehouse stories). LYRIC STUDIO, HAMMERSMITH, 23/6/80; trfd to FORTUNE 30/9/80. Cast: Stage 19/6/80, 14, 25/9/80, 15. Edward Duke. Plot: Hischak/2, 222. Reviews: Ealing Gazette 27/6/80, 21; Guardian 27/9/80, 10, 1/10/80, 10; Observer 5/10/80, 30; Spectator 11/10/80, 24; Stage 26/6/80, 14, 9/10/80, 13; Times 1/10/80, 11; Variety 22/10/80, 104. Comment: Edward Duke was a "faithful and talented" interpreter of Wodehouse (Guardian 5/10). Variety reported that the twenty-seven year old Duke was "reputed to be the youngest performer ever to attain London's West End with a one-man show." There were 100 performances at the Fortune. Duke performed his show at the Space, City Center, New York, 17/5/83.

80.336 Tom Fool (P, 2a) Franz Xaver Kroetz (trans Estella Schmid and Maurice Colbourne of Mensch Meier, 1978). HALF MOON 23/6/80. 1st British perf. Cast: SHM; Stage 26/6/80, 12. Martha Rachel Bell; Otto Robert Hamilton; Ludwig Michael Packer. Dir Nancy Diuguid. Reviews: Guardian 28/6/80, 11; New Statesman 11/7/80, 57; Stage 3/7/80, 14; Times 30/6/80, 11. Comment: The production ran for three hours. "Gives one a minute, detailed picture of the life of a semi-skilled German car worker" and his family; "a dramatic document of rare honesty" (Guardian). "The numbing slowness of Nancy Diuguid's production is fair to the text," but the play was somewhat trite (Times).

80.337 Whose Life Is It, Anyway? (D, 2a) Brian Clark. RICHMOND 23/6/80. Plot: Fletcher, Hischak, Hischak/2, 147, Ken Harrison Simon Ward; Dr. Scott Lynette Davies; Sister Anderson Joan Blackham; Dr. Emerson Alan Bennion; Peter Aldwyn, Peter Welch, Tom Chatto, Malcolm Frederick, Louie Ramsay, James Hayes, Peter Honri, Douglas Reith. Dir Kim Grant; Dgn Alan Tagg. Loney, Salem. Comment: A one-week engagement.

Comment: English Stage Company. Guardian recognized Dunbar's talent but the second, new half of this revised and expanded version found her "desperately treading water." Times was far less censorious and added praise for Kathryn Pogson's performance in the central role of "The Girl." New Statesman did not express any reservations. The play reminded Gay News of the 1950s new drama, such as A Taste of Honey which was actually written much better.

Review: Stage 3/7/80, 14. Comment: Court Theatre Company. "A wry study of passion divorced from the power to convey it" (Stage). This piece formed a part of Stennett's Snakes and Ladders (see 80.396).

80.340b Joe (P) Bill Gavin. FINBOROUGH ARMS 24/6/80.* June Abbott, Edmund Dehn, David Purcell. Dir Bill Gavin; Dgn Reinhard Magiera; Light Tim Godfrey; Assist dir John Greco. Reviews: Stage 5/6/80, 2, 3/7/80, 14. Comment: Court Theatre Company. "The play is allegedly a satire on bureaucracy ... [it lacked] subtlety, wit, pace, direction and a few other sine qua nons of recognisable drama" (Stage).

Comment: MPS 968. The play lost some its depth because of Nancy Meckler's direction (Observer); Guardian (27/6) agreed. "As striking a contribution to the gallery of American grotesques as even Sam Shepard has made" (New Statesman). Times thought the play rivaled Pinter's The Homecoming in importance and praised the "splendid acting and Miss Meckler's taut production." "It is simpler to take these goings-on in rural Illinois as a counterpart to the English Cold Comfort Farm: instead of something nasty in the woodshed, something unpleasant in the garden" (Illustrated London News). The first New York production was at the Theater for the New City 19/10/78; it transferred to the De Lys [now Lucille Lortel] (5/12/78) where it ran for 152 performances.

Comment: MPS 976. Guardian praised this transformation of letters between Plath and her mother into a "thrilling and complex theatrical experience" that also recreated Plath's life. "A fascinating life-story, presented with clarity and power. It is played by June Brown as Aurelia and Anna Nygh as Sylvia, who act both alone and in unison as they give brilliant performances" (Stage).

Comment: "A production of remarkable melodramatic style," with impressive performances from Denis Quilley and Sheila Hancock; the financial prospects are doubtful (Variety). Gay News objected to two songs being cut, but otherwise declared this was the most impressive American musical in many years. Guardian described it as "sensationally effective" and quite different from traditional musicals. "The music, and the headlong tensions of the melodrama, had me straining out of my seat" (Observer). Times acknowledged all the musical's strengths but objected to its "aesthetic bullying." The New York production ran for 557 performances.

Review: Stage 24/7/80, 14. Comment: Synthaxis Theatre Company (USA). About “a frog seeking a career in song and dance” and her various adventures (Stage).

80.378 Pricks of Conscience (P) Dashiell Tate. OLD RED LION 8/7/80. 1st perf? Cast: Stage 3/7/80, 35. Steff Jane Galloway; Rosalie Lizann Rodger; Paul Richard Morss; Darwin Peter Acre. Dir Joseph O'Connor; Dgn Anne McArthur. Review: Stage 24/7/80, 14. Comment: An evening meal and meeting of two couples poked “fun, gentle for the most part, at political and sociological commitment” (Stage).

80.379 The Strongest Man in the World (P, 3a) Barry Collins. ROUND HOUSE 8/7/80. 1st perfd Playhouse, Nottingham, 18/10/78. Ivan Shukhov Michael Attwell; Christopher Ettridge, Veronica Roberts, Robin Soans, Ken Morley. Dir Nickolas Simmonds; Dgn Bernard Culshaw. Reviews: Guardian 9/7/80, 9; New Statesman 18/7/80, 28; Observer 13/7/80, 30; Spectator 19/7/80, 26; Stage 17/7/80, 24; Times 9/7/80, 9. Comment: “A detailed attack on the Soviet system written by a committed left-wing dramatist” (Guardian). “The catalogue of state misdeeds and stifled protests unrolls as if from a computer” (Times). “Too crudely contrived and politically committed to a degree which impedes art” (Spectator). “Surprisingly crude” (New Statesman).

80.380 The Toast Is . . . the City of London (Dramatic anthology) John Kennedy Melling (deviser). ST. PETER-UPON-CORNHILL 8/7/80 (Ln). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 26/6/80, 25. The cast each day was selected from Avril Angers, Jan Davies, Jennifer Lonsdale, Maggie Makepeace, Barbara Miller, Leon Greene, John Kennedy Melling, Damon Sanders, Chris Serle. Mus dir Betty Lawrence.

80.381 The Two Tigers (P) Brian McNeill. THREE HORSESHOES 8/7/80. 1st perfd Stables, Darlinghurst, NSW, Australia, 17/4/78. Cast: Stage 3/7/80, 35. John Middleton Murry Adrian King; Katherine Mansfield Annie Tyson; D. H. Lawrence Michael Greatorex; Frieda Lawrence Sarah Sherborne. Dir Timothy Webster; Mus, Effects Stephen Lodder. Review: Stage 31/7/80, 24. Comment: MPS 1031. Pentameters with Rainbow Productions. A rather thin play about Katherine Mansfield and John Middleton Murry.

80.382 Betjemanian (Mus) David Benedictus and John Gould (adpt of John Betjeman's works). ALL HALLOWS

9/7/80. Cast: Stage 19/6/80, 2. Richard Bartlett, John Gould, John Gower, Gay Soper. Dir Peter Delaney. Comment: Also performed in New York at St. Bartholemew's in September 1980 (Back Stage 31/10/80, 60).

80.383 The Lunatic, the Lover and the Poet (P) Jane McCulloch. LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH, 9/7/80. Cast: Stage 3/7/80, 35. Byron Derek Jacobi; Caro, Annabelle Isla Blair; Fletcher Trevor Martin; Julian Glover. Dir Toby Robertson; Mus dir Donald Fraser. Reviews: Ealing Gazette 11/7/80, 23; Guardian 10/7/80, 11; Stage 17/7/80, 25; Times 12/7/80, 8. Comment: A "skilful montage of [Byron's] letters and poems" reflecting Byron's life (Guardian). Times commended Derek Jacobi's performance.

80.384 One Fine Day (C) Nicholas Wright. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 9/7/80.* Cast: Stage 3/7/80, 35. Mzoga Joe Marcell; Kaduma Yemi Ajibade; Troy Foster, Mike Grady, Valerie Buchanan, Brian Bovell, Larrington Walker. Dir John Burgess; Dgn Alison Chitty. Reviews: Guardian 10/7/80, 11; New Statesman 18/7/80, 28; Observer 13/7/80, 30; Stage 17/7/80, 24; Times 10/7/80, 13; Tribune 25/7/80, 7. Comment: The play concerned a white British lecturer discovering that a Tanzanian education college is "as despotically and corruptly run as anything under colonialism" (New Statesman). "A real cracker: a superlatively unpatronising comedy about the gulf that separates Britain and Black Africa" (Guardian). The play "educates best when it entertains most and that is not infrequent" (Times).

80.385 A Lesson from Aloes (P, 2a) Athol Fugard. COTTESLOE 10/7/80. 1st perfd Market, Johannesburg, 30/11/78; 1st London perf. Cast: NTA; Stage: 10/7/80, 10; Theatricalia. Gladys Bezuidenhout Shelagh Holliday; Piet Bezuidenhout Marius Weyers; Steve Daniels Bill Curry. Dir Athol Fugard; Dgn Douglas Heap; Cost dgn Vanessa Cooke; Light Mannie Manim; Sm John Caulfield; Dsm Frank Nealon; Asm Sarah Parkin, Wendy Pedley, Hilary Peek. Plot: Hischak/2, 176–77, Hochman, Salem, Shipley. Reviews: Guardian 5/7/80, 8, 11/7/80, 9; Illustrated London News 1/9/80, 98; New Statesman 18/7/80, 28; Observer 13/7/80, 30; Spectator 26/7/80, 22; Stage 17/7/80, 24; Tribune 25/7/80, 7. Comment: MPS 998A. Market Theatre Company, Johannesburg. There was a preview on 9/7/80. Guardian (11/7) admired the commitment of Fugard's theme but did not believe "the dramatic metaphor [aloes] with which he has chosen to express it." Spectator opined Fugard's "heavily-worked metaphor" did in fact work, and New Statesman explained exactly how. The first New York production (Playhouse 17/11/80) ran for 96 performances.

80.386 The Mikado; or, The Town of Titipu (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 10/7/80. Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

80.387 Wednesday Night Action (P) Johnnie Quarrell. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 11/7/80. 1 perf. Cast: Findlater; RSCA; Theatricalia. Des Howard Lewis; Eddie Daly Nicky Henson; Fiona Roberts Cindy O'Callaghan; Gary Roberts Julian Hough; Joe the Press Ron Pember; Jonathan Hurst John Malcolm; Maggie Stone Irene Handl; Narrator, Ronnie Desmond McNamara; Sandra Daly Susan Tracy; Steven Daly John Fowler; Taffy Stuart Harwood. Dir John Chapman. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. Rehearsed reading.

80.388 Scrape Off the Black (P, 1a) Tunde Ikoli. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 12/7/80. Trevor Brian Bovell; Andy Okon Jones; Rose Mary Macleod; Mary Susan Porrett. Dir Peter Gill; Sc dgn Alison Chitty. Reviews: Guardian 8/7/80, 9, 14/7/80, 11; Observer 20/7/80, 31; Stage 24/7/80, 13; Times 14/7/80, 7; Tribune 25/7/80, 7, 8/8/80, 4–5. Comment: MPS 981. The play consisted of a series of scenes that revealed what "it is like to be a young London half-caste who has an aggrieved relationship with a negligent mum" (Guardian). Times commended the performances of Mary Macleod and Brian Bovell.

80.389 Black Chiffon (D, 3a) "Lesley Storm." RICHMOND 14/7/80. Sylvia Syms, Ernest Clark, Jack Watling. Pres B and B Productions; Dir Patrick Lau. Plot: Best/50, 316, Bordman/4, 291, Fletcher, Hischak, Kabatchnik/2, 263. Comment: A one-week engagement.

80.390 Dustbin Man (P for children) Kevin Williams. ARTS 14/7/80. 1st perfd Queen's, Hornchurch, 11/5/80. Cast: Stage: 10/7/80, 10. Review: Times 15/7/80, 9. Comment: Unicorn Theatre. Times angrily pointed out that 90% of the show was a "miscellany of songs" with "no sense of coherence," and not a play for children.

80.391 The Gondoliers; or, The King of Barataria (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 14/7/80. Plot: Ayre, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

80.392 Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat (Mus, 2a) Andrew Lloyd Webber (mus) and Tim Rice (bk, lyr) and Ray Galton and Alan Simpson. GREENWICH 14/7/80. 24 perf. Cast: Stage: 10/7/80, 10. Jess Conrad. Dir Bill Kenwright. Plot: Bordman/5, 709, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hischak, Kennedy, OFT.

80.393 P. T. Barnum (One-man show) Kricker James. OPEN AIR 14/7/80 (Ln). Cast: Stage: 10/7/80, 10. Kricker James. Review: Stage 24/7/80, 14. Comment: James “manages a very good ‘look-alike’ even under daylight and he conveys perfectly the robust Yankee good humour as well as the deviousness of the man” (Stage).

80.394 Phoenix and Turtle (P) David Mowat. WAREHOUSE 14/7/80 (Ln). 6 perf. Cast: Stage: 10/7/80, 10. Richard Bob Peck; Ingrid Thelma Whiteley; Roberta Leslee Udwin. Dir Peter Stevenson. Plot: Vinson. Reviews: Guardian 19/7/80, 9; Stage 31/7/80, 24; Times 17/7/80, 13. Comment: MPS 963. Royal Shakespeare Company. The play, about a lecturer and his strained relationship with his dying wife, reflected aspects of Shakespeare’s poem; Guardian found Mowat’s “ideas more interesting than his dramatisation of them.” Bob Peck strained during what “amounts to a near monologue of an hour’s duration” (Times).

80.395 The Prison (P, 1a) Norman Smythe. PRINCE ALBERT c. 14?/7/80 (Ln). Peter Gordon, John Boswall. Dir Mervyn Watson. Review: Stage 24/7/80, 14. Comment: Gate Theatre Club. Inter-Action. The play concerned a political prisoner and his guard and their differing, paradoxical reactions to freedom.

80.396 Snakes and Ladders (P) Roger Stennett. FINBOROUGH ARMS 14/7/80. Review: Stage 31/7/80, 28. Comment: Court Theatre Company. Snakes and Ladders comprised six linked plays by Stennett: Taxi,* Going Down,* Behind a Painted Smile, You Never Said,* A Vicarage Tea Party,* A Table for Two. Four plays were performed (Taxi, Going Down, You Never Said, and A Vicarage Tea Party). The company for the four plays comprised June Abbott, Joyce Cummings, David Purcell, Louis Haslar. Dir Michael Gaunt; Dgn Reinhard Magiera. Stage said “the common theme in each of the tight two-handers is the descent of a superficial relationship into conflict.”

80.397 A Dying Business (Folk C) Mustapha Matura. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 15/7/80.* Cast: Stage: 10/7/80, 10. Malcolm Fredericks, Yvonne Ali, Lucita Lijertwood, Joe Marcell, Rudolph Walker, Corinne Skinner Carter. Dir Michael Joyce. Reviews: Ealing Gazette 25/7/80, 18; Guardian 17/7/80, 11; New Statesman 1/8/80, 26; Observer 20/7/80, 31; Stage 24/7/80, 13; Times 18/7/80, 13; Tribune 25/7/80, 7, 8/8/80, 4–5. Comment: MPS 982. The play reminded Guardian of “the kind of anecdotal North Country play you might find in a between-the-wars Samuel French catalogue.” New Statesman commended the first half of the piece but felt the second half became

“just an assembly of fragmented parts.” The play “is the material of a half-hour television sit-com dragged out with some very slow pacing, much repetition and a half-hour interval to a painful hour and three quarters” (Times).

80.398 The Elephant Man (D, 2a, 21sc) Bernard Pomerance. LYTTTELTON 15/7/80. Cast: NTA; Stage 28/5/80, 2; Theatricalia. Variety 30/7/80, 90. Frederick Treves Peter McEnery/Nicky Henson; John Merrick David Schofield; Mrs. Kendal Jennie Stoller; Belgian Policeman, Lord John Peter Bourke; Carr Gomm Peter Howell/Antony Brown; Conductor of boat train, Porter at the London Hospital Anthony Falkingham; Duchess Audrey Noble; Pinhead manager, English Policeman Dallas Cavell; Pinhead, Nurse Sandwich, Countess Heather Tobias; Pinhead, Princess Alexandra Karina Knight; Ross, Bishop Walsham How, Snork Arthur Blake; Extras Dan Meaden, Penny Ryder, Charles Wegner, Iain Rattray, Charles Spicer. Dir Roland Rees; Sc dgn Tanya McCallin; Cost dgn Lindy Hemming; Light Gerry Jenkinson; Mus Pat Arrowsmith; Mus dir Dominic Muldowney; Sound Derrick Zieba; Sm Jackie Harvey; Dsm Ernest Hall; Asm Bill Simon, Jem Wilsher. Plot: Bordenman, Bryer, Fletcher, Griffiths, Hischak, Hischak/2, 142, MacNicholas, Salem, Wilmeth. Reviews: Guardian 16/7/80, 10; New Statesman 1/8/80, 25–26; Observer 20/7/80, 31; Spectator 26/7/80, 22; Stage 24/7/80, 13; Times 16/7/80, 11; Variety 30/7/80, 90. Comment: National Theatre. Previews from 11/7/80; Press night and low price opening 15/7/80. A successful revival, “performed with sensitivity in a praiseworthy production” (Variety). The play “generated a sense of excitement and emotion great enough to fill the Lyttelton ... [with] a performance of genius by David Schofield” (Spectator). The production remained in repertory until 6/6/81.

80.399 Marionette (P) James Hare. COCKPIT 15/7/80.* Cast: Stage: 10/7/80, 10. Comment: MPS 966.

80.400 The Local Stigmatic (P) Heathcote Williams. YORK AND ALBANY 16/7/80. Cast: Stage: 10/7/80, 10. Ray Stephen Whittaker; Graham Malcolm Kaye; David Tim Brown; Man in the Street David Fielder. Dir Warren Hooper. Plot: Hischak/2, 6, Vinson, Weintraub. Review: Stage 31/7/80, 28. Comment: Scratch (formerly known as Kickshaw, apparently). A good revival.

80.401 Swann with Topping (Ent) Donald Swann and Frank Topping. UPSTREAM 17/7/80.* Cast: Stage 17/7/80, 14. Donald Swann, Frank Topping. Dir Richard Everett. Reviews: Stage 24/7/80, 14; Times 18/7/80, 13. Comment: Times remarked that a considerable religious component in the show “overwhelmed [other] best moments.” Stage reported Frank Topping was a Methodist minister and was not dissimilar physically to the late Michael Flanders, Swann’s former partner.

80.402 Fear of the Dark (P) Doug Lucie. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 18/7/80. 1 perf. Cast: Findlater; RSCA; Theatricalia. Daniels Tim McInnerny; Dr. Conway David Lyon; Drinkwater Bill Buffery; Jen Wilson Lesley Manville; Lord French Edward Jewesbury; Naomi Msane Lola Young; Rachel Berger Jill Baker; Robert Slade Anthony Head; Rory McFadden Nicholas Le Prevost; Winston Burt Caesar. Dir Walter Donohue. Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. A rehearsed reading.

80.403 Getting Off (DC) Nick Wood. ORANGE TREE 18/7/80 (Ln).* Alan Hay, Ann Windsor, John Roden, Nicholas Frankau, Sarah Wynter. Dir Nick Wood. Reviews: Ealing Gazette 25/7/80, 19; Stage 7/8/80, 24. Comment: MPS 970. Richmond Fringe. The plot involved a family preparing to leave for the day, but after much confusion does not go anywhere.

80.404 Prayer before Birth. BURGH HOUSE 19/7/80. Cast: Stage 17/7/80, 14. Barbara Berkery, Kate O’Cannain, Elisabeth Perry. Dir Vladimir Mirodan. Comment: The title is a 1944 poem by Louis MacNeice.

80.405 The Chairs (P, 1a) Eugène Ionesco (anon trans of Les chaises, 1952). SOHO POLY c. 21/7/80 (Ln). Cast: Stage 24/7/80, 2. Old Woman Collette Kelly; Old Man Michael Cashman; Orator David Ludwig. Dir Andy Hines. Plot: Fletcher, French/2, Hochman, Law, Matlaw, Mplots, Patterson, Shank, Walford. Review: Stage 31/7/80, 28. Comment: The revival was “acted with such exceptional skill” (Stage).

80.406 Song of the Lion (One-man P) Daniel Pearce. COLLEGIATE 21/7/80.* 1st perfd Ludlow Festival 27/6/80. Cast: Stage 17/7/80, 14. C. S. Lewis Hugh Manning. Dir David William; Dgn, Light Stephanie Howard, Garham Walne. Reviews: Stage 31/7/80, 23; Times 22/7/80, 15. Comment: Essentially a one-man show about C. S. Lewis and his faith with Hugh Manning giving a “truly impressive” sense of Lewis (Times).

80.407 There’s Another One Behind (P) Lee Davis. AFRICA CENTRE c. 21/7/80 (Ln). 1sr perf? Cast: Stage 24/7/80, 29. Ruben Steven Lawrence; Mary Pauline Lewis. Dir Dave Dookie. Review: Stage 7/8/80, 24. Comment: Lambeth Ensemble Theatre Company. Because of a delayed bus, a man meets his former mistress and their child.

80.408 The Man Who Disappeared Through the Hole in

His Mind (P) Steve Edwards and Stan Hewitt. CAMDEN CENTRE 22/7/80.* 2 perf. Cast: Stage 24/7/80, 29.

80.409 The Mother Country (P) Hanif Kureishi. Comment: MPS 983. “Deals with Pakistani survival tactics in a hostile Britain,” with undertones of homosexuality (Guardian). Times thought the play’s weakness was its failure to “articulate the dense contradictions of the central character (Imran).

80.410 Red Magic (P, 3a) Michel de Ghelderode (trans George Hauger of Magie rouge, 1934). OLD RED LION 22/7/80. 1st British perf Traverse, Edinburgh, 7/7/64. Cast: Stage 17/7/80, 14. Hieronymous Tim Barker; Marion Bailey, Antony Simons, Colin Tarrant, Paul Weaver. Dir Brian Gregson; Dgn Teresa Serdio; Mus Rowland Civil. Plot: Hochman, Matlaw. Review: Stage 7/8/80, 24. Comment: P. A. N. Theatre Company. “Brian Gregson’s production is a simple one with some nice touches of colour about the costumes (Teresa Serdio) and a welcome ability to let the lines speak for themselves. Tim Barker rather steals the show as Hieronymous, avare extraordinaire” (Stage).

80.411 Boiler Room Suite (P, 2a) Rex Deverell. ABBEY COMMUNITY CENTRE 23/7/80. 1st perfd Globe, Regina, Saskatchewan, 21/1/77; 1st British perf? Cast: Stage 17/7/80, 14. Comment: UNIT Theatre Group. The play, set in a Canadian prairie city, dealt with homeless alcoholics.

Stage 31/7/80, 23. Comment: "The stage version sticks closely enough to the radio scripts but, under the guidance of ace theatrical prankster Ken Campbell, has become transformed into a sci-fi spectacular" (Stage). The effects and production "could [not] quite make up for the self-indulgent, rambling plot ... [an] overfed, over-blown epic" (Gay News).

80.413 The People Show: No. 79 (ICA 23/7/80. Cast: Stage 24/7/80, 2. Review: Observer 27/7/80, 30; Times 24/7/80, 11. Comment: Subtitled the "Hamburg Show." Times noted every show was different and "they are to theatre what jazz is to music, and the fabric of their performances richly repays a second look."

80.414 The Merchant of Venice (C [5a]) William Shakespeare. CITY LITERARY INSTITUTE 24/7/80.

80.415 The Pirates of Penzance; or, The Slave of Duty (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 24/7/80. Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

80.416 The Revenger's Tragedy (T, 5a) Cyril Tournear. CITY LITERARY INSTITUTE 25/7/80. Plot: Gassner, Hochman, Holzknacht, Law, Patterson, Shipley. Comment: The play is also attributed to Thomas Middleton.

80.417 The Secret of the Universe (P) Jonathan Gems. ICA 25/7/80 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 24/7/80, 2. Reviews: Stage 14/8/80, 52; Times 29/7/80, 11. Comment: Times opined "the boring accuracy and comedy of [Gems's] reportage" was summed up in "I want to be an American."

80.418 The Great Gas (P for children) The company. HALF MOON 28/7/80. Cast: SHM. X1 Peter Bensted; X2 Kenny Breinberg; X3 Penny O'Connor; Maxine Mutants Seona McKinnon, Carrie Rod; Dr. Zorble Sara Hardy. Review: Stage 28/8/80, 12. Comment: "Concerned with the dangers of nuclear energy and the ways that governments often seek to disguise the possibility of its use. There's a great deal of audience participation (a good thing, as the extended passages of dialogue tax the attention of the smaller children)" (Stage).

80.419 The Sorcerer (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 28/7/80. Plot:

Ayre, Gänzl, Hochman, Shipley. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

80.420 The Winter Garden (P) Drew Franklin. LAMDA THEATRE CLUB 28/7/80.* Cast: Stage 24/7/80, 12. Sheree Folkson, Anita Hollander, John McAndrew, Michael Mueller, Simon Roberts, David Stacey. Dir Drew Franklin; Dgn Candida Boyes. Review: Stage 14/8/80, 52. Comment: Theatre at Large. Stage lamented new companies failed to give due consideration to their enterprises, and thought this play was not worthy of production: "Here we have a permutation sequence involving four men and two girls which comes over as a fusion of Iris Murdoch at her most convoluted and Pinter at his most perverse."

80.421 Androcles and the Lion [Fable P, Prol, 4a] Bernard Shaw. OPEN AIR 29/7/80. Cast: Stage 24/7/80, 12; Theatricalia. Androcles Chris Harris; Megaera Anne Kidd; Lion Stephen Brigden; Centurion Andrew Seear; The Captain Philip Bowen; Lavinia Philippa Gail; Lentulus Tony Westrope; Metellus Douglas Heard; Spintho Jeff Shankley; Ferrovius Bernard Bresslaw; The Ox Driver Malcolm James; Call Boy John Gay; The Editor Ian Lindsay; Menagerie Keeper Dave Redgrave; Caesar James Cairncross; Secutor Melville Jones; The Retiarius Fraser Downie; Christians, Attendants Alison Draper, Ross Macfarlane, Tamara Steele. Dir Ian Talbot, Richard Digby Day; Dgn Hugh Durrant; Light Ian Callander; Mus dir Kenneth Waller. Plot: Bordman/3, 21, Demastes/1, Fletcher, French/2, Hischak, Hochman, Law, Mander/3, Matlaw, Purdom, Salem, Shank, Shipley. Reviews: Guardian 18/8/80, 9; Illustrated London News 1/10/80, 113; Stage 14/8/80, 51; Times 6/8/80, 9. Comment: New Shakespeare Company. The Guardian's critic's first attempt to see the production was interrupted several times by bad weather. After seeing it a second time, he thought the play was "silly": "an intellectual pantomime too clever to work as knockabout, and too crude in its comic technique to convey its central message clearly." Times said the production had misinterpreted Shaw's message in the play. "Acting was first-rate, especially by Philippa Gail and Bernard Bresslaw" (Illustrated London News).

80.422a Endgame (D, 1a) Samuel Beckett. Comment: The play, about a young pregnant Jamaican woman who believes “she is carrying the second Messiah,” seemed more like a documentary than a drama (Observer). Decima Francis gave “a vibrant and powerful performance” as the woman (Melvita) (Tribune). Most of the characters were well drawn (Times).

80.424a The Confession (P, 1a) Keith Dorland. YORK AND ALBANY 30/7/80; trfd to SOHO POLY 1/9/80.* Cast: Stage 24/7/80, 12, 4/9/80, 2. Mark Knight, Geoffrey Morgan. Dir Carol Thompson. Review: Stage 14/8/80, 52. Comment: Mouth and Trousers Theatre Company. About “a young policeman, full of ideals of neighbourliness and service, who realises that his one great lapse (killing a bystander at a demonstration) is to be covered up for the good of the force” (Stage). 80.424a was given lunchtime performances at the Soho Poly.

80.424b Morris and Doris and Baby Makes Three (P) Michael Sharp. YORK AND ALBANY 30/7/80.* Cast: Stage 24/7/80, 12. Doris Deirdre Doone; David Bedard, Rory McDermott. Dir David Leveaux. Review: Stage 14/8/80, 52. Comment: Mouth and Trousers Theatre Company. “Shows us a long-married and farcical couple living not so much on their memories as on each other's nerves” (Stage).

80.424c Such a Delicate Question (P) Henry Gabriel. YORK AND ALBANY 30/7/80.* Cast: Stage 24/7/80, 12. Richard Earchy, Glyn Morrow, Amanda Orton. Dir Janet Dalley. Review: Stage 14/8/80, 52. Comment: Mouth and Trousers Theatre Company. “Two men and a woman who is the estranged wife of one of them; someone might have committed suicide. Both men could be facets of the same personality,” was the description in Stage.

80.425 I Have Been Here Before (P, 3a) J. B. Priestley. Reviews: Guardian 31/7/80, 9; Illustrated London News 1/10/80, 113; Observer 3/8/80, 31; Stage 7/8/80, 24; Times 31/7/80, 13. Comment: Horseshoe Theatre Company (Basingstoke). The revival failed “to give the text the frissons it requires” (Guardian). Observer said the revival demonstrated the play should not have been revived. “Priestley's main dramatic statement on time ... returns among us in the likeness of a lead boomerang” (Times).

80.426 Hedda (P) Charles Marowitz (adpt of Henrik Ibsen, Hedda Gabler, 1891). ROUND HOUSE 31/7/80. Cast: Stage 31/7/80, 14. Hedda Gabler Jenny Agutter; Thea Elvstead Kathryn Pogson; Eilert Loevberg Frank Grimes; Tesman David Firth; Judge Brack Denis Holmes. Dir Charles Marowitz; Sc dgn Timian Alsaker; Light Mark Henderson. Comment: Apparently press night was on 6/8/80. Guardian declared Marowitz had “become imprisoned in his own house style ... His method has become automatic.” “The trouble with Mr Marowitz's approach is that one feels got at all the time” (Observer). New Statesman wondered whether the production added anything but an “admiration for Marowitz's witty and triumphant technique.” Times noted “the addition of characters and the insertion of scenes imagined by Hedda, or at least imagined by Marowitz to have been imagined by Hedda,” and thought Marowitz's version “proceeded with ... a sense of urgency” similar to his version of Macbeth.

80.427 Krapp's Last Tape (Monol) Samuel Beckett. LAST CHANCE 31/7/80. Cast: Stage 31/7/80, 14. Krapp Tony Frey. Dir Robert Hughes; Light Wendy Lowder. Plot: Demastes/2, Fletcher, French, French/2, Hochman, Royal Shakespeare Company. Observer noted Ron Daniels's production "is pretty heavily padded, puffed and stuffed with comic business at every conceivable juncture." The play needed "far greater stringency and riven force" than Daniels gave it (Guardian). In this "fine production ... the whole comedy is poised on the brink of expressionist nightmare" (Times). The first New York production (ANTA 9/10/80) ran for 60 performances.

80.429 The Yeomen of the Guard; or, The Merryman and His Maid (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 31/7/80. Plot: Ayre, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

Comment: Black Theatre Cooperative. Tribune placed the play in the context of contemporary social unrest by the British black community. Times thought Dhondy's position on violence was too diffuse because he presented too many sides of the argument.

80.433 Night and Day (D, 2a) Tom Stoppard. Comment: SHM gives opening night as 25/7/80, presumably previews. Guardian (5/8) approved of the (financially necessary) small orchestra of six because “for once the balance between singers and musicians is almost ideal.” In addition to Sian Phillips Times (5/8) particularly enjoyed the chorus girls who turned in “a drilled, joyful performance that is captivating.” The first New York production (Ethel Barrymore 25/12/40) ran for 374 performances.

80.435 Rough Magic (FC) Kerry Lee Crabbe. NEW END 4/8/80.* Cast: Stage 31/7/80, 14. Tom Hugh Fraser; Katie Gabrielle Lloyd; Penny Celia Imrie; Mark Timothy Davies; Beth Delia Lindsay. Comment: Given by the Soho Poly cast (80.306). Guardian thought the theatre management should advertise the fact that the play was very short and did not amount to a night out for prospective theatre-goers.

80.438 Bush People (P, 2a) Peter Rodda and Jo Shallis. AFRICA CENTRE c. 7/8/80 (Ln). 1st London perf. Cast: Stage 7/8/80, 2. Delia Roberta Fox; Diane Zoe Rutland; Candy Leo Wringer; Thom Delaney. Comment: National Theatre. Previews from 8/8/80; Press night and low price opening 13/8/80. The production ran three-and-a-half hours. "John Dexter's treatment of Galileo is so good that the play seems to be better than it is" (Illustrated London News). Michael Gambon was "outstanding" with an effective supporting cast and a "striking physical production by Jocelyn Herbert" (Variety). Spectator praised the stylish use of the mechanics of the Olivier stage. Guardian's sole complaint was the production lacked "physical urgency." Of Brenton's translation Times said it was "muscular and slangily eloquent, but offers few fresh insights over the published version of Desmond Vesey." The production remained in repertory until 13/10/81.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. The production ran 3¼ hours. “The revival lives for Donald Sinden’s Othello who never betrays that early phrase—a natural quotation, I think, but often curiously overlooked—‘I fetch my life and being/From men of royal siege’” (Illustrated London News). The most notable performance came from Suzanne Bertish (Guardian). Observer called Ronald Eyre’s production “superbly lucid, detailed, eloquent and moving.” “A determinedly domestic treatment of the play, and the energy tends to leak out of it in the public scenes” (Times).

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. “As gruelling an evening as any I have spent at this location” (Guardian). Spectator praised David Jones’s production and Ralph Koltai’s design, but said Ben Kingsley was “heroically miscast.” Times praised the production and Kingsley’s performance, as did Illustrated London News which still thought that the play was “wretched.”

Previews from 12/8/80; Press and opening night was 18/8/80. Guardian described the piece as “a rather hectic, flustered melodrama” about the current vital issue of picketing and secondary picketing. Observer thought the idea of the play was “rather muzzy.” Times opined there was little in the play or production beyond Phil Daniels’s manic, “loud and foul-mouthed performance.” Illustrated London News also objected to the “dreary torrent of obscenities in the ‘realistic’ dialogue.” The production remained in repertory until 13/9/80.

Comment: MPS 1001. Guardian indicated the piece had been updated somewhat. New Statesman noted the influence of Brecht on the production and deprecated the musical score. “A charming production ... It is light, airy and colourful. Perhaps there is too much instant pleasure in it, and insufficient acidity and worldliness, although the political satire and the examination of moral codes are well fixed” (Stage).

Comment: MPS 994. The show was withdrawn after only four weeks of a planned fifteen-week run, the management blaming poor reviews by critics (Stage 25/9/80, 2). Calling Reg Livermore “really a camp clown,” New Statesman expressed reservations about whether the piece was entertaining. Gay News found parts of the production “dazzling,” some of “the language and visual presentation ... grossly over the top,” and the musical element confusing. Livermore “has invention and wit. His theatrical panache and personality radiate into the large theatre. I think it is his individual quality which makes his material telling, for there is little that is surprising or even new in it” (Stage).

Reviews: Guardian 2/9/80, 9; Stage 9/10/80, 14. Comment: MPS 993. The complete cast numbered approximately 40. “Deep in the Kalahari area of Botswana live Goma Bushmen and to investigate one tribe descends a white South African. He makes friends and enemies falls a little in love, does some harm and some good" (Stage).

"The standard of acting was extremely high and it was also obvious that a great deal of care and thought had gone into the production" (Stage).

80.467 Pack Up All Your Cares and Woes (One-woman show) Bertice Reading. KING'S HEAD 31/8/80.* Cast: Stage 4/9/80, 1. Bertice Reading, Corky Hale (musician). Reviews: Observer 7/9/80, 31; Stage 11/9/80, 13; Times 6/9/80, 10. Comment: Bertice Reading belongs "among the very best singer-comediennes" (Observer). For Times personally Reading's performance was over the top; however, it reported the audience's "stamping and cheers, and clap along participation in 'Ole Man River.'"

Review: Stage 25/9/80, 16. Comment: The play was about the people who have disappeared during the military rule in Argentina. The play was designed for "upper secondary pupils, though David Holman's play stands superbly upon its own feet as a fine piece of work suitable for even more adult consumption" (Stage). Also given one performance at the Young Vic Studio 18/10/80. Note: items 80.468, 80.469, and 80.470 were not performed on the same date.

Comment: Variety thought Ayckbourn was "over-stretching himself" by writing too many plays, and described this one as "out and out farce, with a plot of pure hokum, unbelievable characters and frantic action, or in this case not frantic enough." Similarly, Guardian pointed out "prime farce is about characters reduced to desperation; these merely suffer minor inconvenience." "Mechanically [Ayckbourn] is way off form" (Observer). Gay News was pleased the play was free of cheap gay innuendos. New Statesman described the play was a reversion "to the fun-house spirit of Relative Values," but preferred Ayckbourn's more recent work. "The nuts-and-bolts comedy in this piece does not always match its thematic content" (Times).

Performed in Polish. The piece was about Kantor's hometown of Wielopole and his life and the country, conveyed largely through images. Times called the production "impassioned," "thrilling and memorable." Stage did not find the language barrier a problem. The first New York production was at the La Mama Annex 13/5/82.

The production was panned, but it attracted audiences because it was so bad. "There is little to note in a production as subtle as pickaxe-work in a quarry. It has had as a news story more attention than it would have done otherwise, merely because it is a 'star' business and the star is so manifestly wrong" (Illustrated London News).

Comment: National Theatre. Previews from 22/8/80; Press night and low price opening 16/9/80. "Despite its pat and contrived plot, the play rises to compelling drama" and it received "a generally excellent production" (Variety). New Statesman said it was quaint and dated, while Spectator entertained various responses to the production. Times averred everything that could be done for the play had been done, but it was still dated. The production remained in repertory until 23/2/81. The first New York production (Martin Beck 1/4/41) ran for 378 performances.

Wakefield Tricycle Company. The play concerned a Trinidadian in England apparently denying his own ethnic roots. Guardian found the message somewhat confused but the production was good. "A plodding piece, clumsily done, despite a whimsically commanding performance by Norman Beaton" (Observer). Times was less impressed by Beaton.

WESTMINSTER 23/9/80 (m). Cast: Stage 18/9/80, 2. Wilberforce Anthony Howden; Philip Tyndale Biscoe, John Justin, John Holden, Julian Battersby, Judi Lamb, Robin Wentworth, Reggie Oliver, Christopher Snell. Dir James Alby; Sc dgn W. Cameron Johnson; Cost dgn Dorothy Phillips. Review: Stage 16/10/80, 12. Comment: The revival "reeks of purpose in Alby James's new production for matinée performances—and misses the theatrical boat completely" (Stage).

80.517 The Passion, Part One [Creation to Nativity] (P) Tony Harrison and the company. COTTESLOE 23/9/80. Cast: Stage 18/9/80, 12. Brenda Blethyn, Dai Bradley, Jeffrey G. Reviews: Guardian 29/9/80, 11, 29/12/80, 9; Observer 28/9/80, 35.

Comment: Observer noted how the piece engaged the audience.

80.518 Colette (Mus, 2a) John Dankworth (bk, lyr). COMEDY 24/9/80. 47 perf. 1st stage perf Alexandra, Birmingham, 2/9/80. Cast: Stage 18/9/80, 12; Variety 8/10/80, 155. Narrator John Moffatt; Colette Cleo Laine; Kenneth Nelson. Pres H. M. Tennent; Dir Wendy Toye; Mus dir Richard Holmes. Plot: OTF. Reviews: Gay News 16/10/80, 27; Guardian 25/9/80, 9; New Statesman 3/10/80, 29–30; Observer 28/9/80, 35; Spectator 4/10/80, 29; Stage: 2/10/80, 21; Times 25/9/80, 9; Variety 8/10/80, 155. Comment: "It was originally staged at the Dankworth's [sic] converted stable theatre at their home in Wavendon to an audience of their friends" (OTF). Variety observed there was only slight resemblance between this stage Colette and the real one, and the show itself was slight. New Statesman said fans of Cleo Laine could enjoy her singing songs but it was a mystery why the remainder was staged at all; Times concurred.

80.519 The History of the Devil (P) Clive Barker. YORK AND ALBANY 24/9/80.* Devil Douglas Bradley; Oliver Parker, Jay Venn, Lynn Darnell, Mary Roscoe, Philip Rimmer. Reviews: Guardian 26/9/80, 9; Stage 9/10/80, 28. Comment: Dog Company. The six actors played thirty-seven parts in order to show the various sides of the Devil (Guardian).

80.520 The Merchant of Venice (C) William Shakespeare. Comment: The production was set "in a somewhat nautical 18th century," but lacked "freshness and excitement, and the delivery of some of the verse is, bluntly, disgraceful" (New Statesman). Notable for Timothy West's "sympathetic reading of Shylock," and a witty Portia by Maureen O'Brien (Guardian). Times intimated the main reason for the production was because the play was being set for schools examinations; regardless, it was not a good production.

80.521 Song of the Lion (One-man P) Daniel Pearce. WESTMINSTER 25/9/80. Cast: Stage 18/9/80, 2. C. S.

Comment: A meritorious revival (Observer). New Statesman described Alan Strachan's production as "sensitive and sentient." The lively young cast provided some of the "vitality that the play must have shown in its original production" (Times).

80.523 The Bitter Tears of Petra von Kant (P) Rainer Werner Fassbinder (trans Anthony Vivis of Die bitteren Tränen der Petra von Kant, 1972). TOWER, CANONBURY, 26/9/80. Cast: Stage 25/9/80, 14; TTC. Review: Gay News 16/10/80, 27. Comment: A satisfactory revival (Gay News).

Comment: MPS 1051. What appealed most to Guardian was "Bennett's ruthlessly unsentimental vision of working-class family life." Variety singled out the "highly satisfying portrayals" by Colin Blakely and Joan Plowright, but added that the presentation "is an uneasy blend of the surreal and the natural that doesn't quite jell." Illustrated London News also noted the play's uneven style or tone. "An embarrassing farrago about attitudes to age and sex and is totally confused" (Spectator). Times pointed to a disconnection between the two acts "as if [Bennett] were writing two different kinds of plays."

80.526 Ipi-Tombi (Mus, 2a) Bertha Egnos Godfrey (mus) and Gail Lakier (lyr). WIMBLEDON 29/9/80. Plot: Bordman/5, 689, Hischak, OTF.

Comment: A set of "duologues between actors representing inanimate objects" (Observer). "These are slender fables, as obvious as Aesop and much less witty than La Fontaine. They are also, inevitably, prolix" (Times). Gay News described it as "an extraordinary evening's entertainment."

80.529 The Sea Wolf (P) Peter Godfrey (adpt of Jack London's novel, 1904). KING'S HEAD 29/9/80 (Ln). Review: Times 30/9/80, 11. Comment: Rational Theatre. "More promise than achievement" (Times). See 80.320 for probable cast.

Review: Stage 16/10/80,

12. Comment: MPS 1033. Wakefield Tricycle. "The story concerned West Germany's 'guest workers,' come for a share in the country's prosperity from less developed nations and often regarded in the light of second-class non-citizens" (Stage).

80.531 The Undersea World of Erik Satie (P) the company. ICA 30/9/80. 1st perfd St. Bernard Davidson Church Hall, Henderson Row, Edinburgh, 18/8/80. Graeme Miller, Fiona Freer, Steven Shill, Xero Slingsby. Dir Peter Brooks. Reviews: Guardian 1/10/80, 10; Stage 9/10/80, 14. Comment: Impact Theatre (Leeds). The production, seventy-five minutes long, mimicked the style of the People Show, was almost wordless, and was devoted visual and aurally to the spirit of Satie (Guardian).

80.532 The Winter's Tale (R) William Shakespeare. ST. GEORGE'S 30/9/80. Cast: Stage: 2/10/80, 2. Leontes Alex Scott; Hermione Jenny Oulton; Perdita Amanda Boxer, Camillo Ralph Watson; Antigonus Brian Oulton; Polixenes Eric Lander; Florizel Francis Lloyd; Clown Peter McKriel; Paulina Moira Redmond; Autolycus Robert Cary; Sian Frederic, Ralph Watson, Philip Raymond, Barry Thomas, Richard Seymour, Kate Beswick. Dir Adrian Brown. Review: Stage 9/10/80, 28. Comment: "Characters and events are made clear and convincing under Brown's forceful yet sensitive direction," and with good ensemble acting (Stage).

80.533 King Lear (T) William Shakespeare. Comment: Guardian (10/10) complained about unintelligible elocution and "Philip Locke's curious interpretation" of Lear; in addition, Frank Dunlop "set out to create a brisk, brutal, militaristic Lear in which there was no room for pity: what he has actually given us is an express train version that flashes past without ever engaging our emotions." Observer said Dunlop's "visual style has something of the flurry of a rock show ... a physical production at the expense of what the [young] audience might term the 'verbals.'" "A skilled evening of dramatic story-telling that uses the open space of the stage and brisk performances to earn rapt attention" (Times).

80.534a Lone Star (C, 1a) James McLure. BUSH 1/10/80. 1st perfd Actors Theatre of Louisville, Kentucky, 7/2/79;

1st British perf? Cast: Stage: 2/10/80, 2. Plot: Hischak/2, 151–52, Walford. Comment: The company for this double bill comprised David Hayman, Kevin Elyot. Dir Simon Stokes; Sc dgn Grant Hicks. Reviewers generally admired McLure's writing, wit and humour in these two pieces featuring Vietnam veterans and the emptiness of American machismo. The first New York production (Century 7/6/79) ran for 69 performances.

Comment: MPS 1036. Guardian called the play, involving Soviet Russia under Stalin, "a fragmented history lesson rather than a work that grips our imagination." "Those looking for intellectual trenchancy and political sophistication will be disappointed" (New Statesman). "A very small-scale epic played out with small lives"; the significant achievement was John Byrne's design (Times).

80.540 Children of the Mist (P) Hector Macmillan. CITY LITERARY INSTITUTE 3/10/80. Cast: Stage: 2/10/80, 12. Comment: Fir-Chlis.

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. This was Mercer's final play. While admiring Mercer's work, New Statesman pointed to a certain lack of organization and structure in the play which reflected Mercer's improvisatory method of writing. "I like to think that Mercer, had he lived, would have fine-edited a rather sprawling script" (Guardian). Observer thought the characters were not fully realized. Times (7/10) declared the piece was "Mercer's best play in years."

Comment: Royal Shakespeare Company. "A glowing realisation of a play steeped in a poetic, humorous despair" (Guardian 8/10). "First-rate acting, immaculate staging by Trevor Nunn, and impressive physical values" (Variety). "Judi Dench [gave] the most telling performance of [Juno] in my memory" (Illustrated London News). Spectator praised every aspect of the production enthusiastically. For Times Nunn's production was notable for its truly ensemble work and Nunn's "particular sense of musicality."

80.549 The Wild Duck (P, 4a) Henrik Ibsen (Ronald Hingley trans of Vildanden, 1885). Comment: Times found aspects of Hingley's translation inappropriate, but Michael Blakemore's production was "good, strong and intelligent." New Statesman, providing examples, declared the translation was "brusque stuff: an indication, not only of the extremes of colloquialism to which Ronald Hingley pushes his translation, but of the immediacy of Michael Blakemore's production." Spectator disliked the play with "its stagy Victorian contrivances, and ... Richard Briars and a peculiarly ill-coordinated cast hardly bring the characters to life."

80.550 For Whom the Ball Rolls (Revue) David John Pope (words) and Chris Rae (mus). YORK AND ALBANY 8/10/80.* Cast: Stage: 2/10/80, 21. Chris Rae, David John Pope, Ann Davey, Shannon Sales, Inez Thron. Dir Sue Colgrave. Review: Stage 16/10/80, 12. Comment: Canvas Theatre. "A thoroughly up-to-date version of the glossier products of the thirties through to the sixties. The framework is that of a football Cup Final match" (Stage).

80.551 Heads Down for a Full House (One-man show). GROVE 8/10/80. 1st perfd Theatre at the Park, Bracknell, 3/9/80? Cast: Stage: 2/10/80, 21. Peter Corey. Review: Acton Gazette 23/10/80, 17. Comment: Reunion 2 Theatre Company. "A very funny tribute to one of this century's best British comics, Tony Hancock ... it features actor Peter Corey" who looked like Hancock and had "much of [his] deft comic timing and ability with the wry, throwaway line" (Acton Gazette).

80.558 The Satyricon (P) Petronius (devised Peter Benedict and Peter Collins). PHOENIX 12/10/80. 1 perf. Review: Stage 16/10/80, 2. Comment: Oracle Company. "A spectacular display of self-help, a do-it-yourself theatre company is bringing its show into the West End without help from a commercial management. The search is on for a theatre to house The Satyricon after a sell-out showcase at the Phoenix on Sunday. And director Peter Benedict is hailing the production as the first genuine fringe transfer to the West End" (Stage). The piece was given a full production at the Phoenix 5/5/81.

Comment: MPS 1040. English Stage Company. Guardian described Williams's point in the play as "that male and female adolescents, for all their bravura, often exist in a state of enthralled horror at each other's sexuality"; however, the piece was "as phoney as hell," and Williams's plays were beginning to sound alike. Observer entertained similar views. Times said Williams had "a grotesquely inflated reputation," and described this piece as "condescending nonsense, exploitative and nasty."

80.563 Vanity (P) Richard Crane. GATE 13/10/80. 1st perfd Wildcat, The Pleasance, Edinburgh, 17/8/80. Cast: Stage 9/10/80, 12. Dir, Dgn Faynia Williams. Comment: MPS 1021.

Comment: Leicester Haymarket Theatre Company. A lively and fresh revival of the original four-act version (Spectator). Guardian thought the production lacked the appropriate "tone and manner" required by Wilde's work.

80.567 Nutcracker Sweet (Family mus) David Wood and Peter Pontzen (mus arr). SADLER'S WELLS 14/10/80. 1st perfd Redgrave, Farnham, 20/12/77. Gypsy Brazil Lucy Fenwick; William the Conqueror Alan Bodenham; Monkeynut Robin Wright. Reviews: Guardian 17/10/80, 9; Stage: 23/10/80, 11. Comment: Whirligig Theatre. The plot involved characters as varieties of confectionaries. Guardian reported hundreds of children in the audience were completely caught up in the piece. "The moment when, at a given signal, every child in the audience stood up, waved their arms and sang 'nutty, nutty, nutty, nutty, nuttiness' is the moment when I realised that I was experiencing perfection in theatrical experience; the audience and performers unselfconsciously acting as one" (Stage).

Comment: MPS 1010. Times noted this was the original Scarborough production and cast, and, appropriately, performed in the round. Observer averred Ayckbourn was repetitive because "he explores different areas of the same family canvas."

80.569 Good Fun (P) Victoria Wood. KING'S HEAD 15/10/80. 1st perfd Crucible, Sheffield, 4/4/80. "The play's undramatic idea is to describe the confusions and disappointments ... of Liz, a northern arts administrator ... faced with the problem of giving an artistic party for 300 sufferers from cystitis" (Guardian). There was "enough in Miss Wood's writing to delight and entertain regardless of the awkward staging" (Times).

Comment: MPS 1228. National Theatre. Previews from 10/10/80; Press night and low price opening 16/10/80. "It's crude as history, labored and pretentious as art, and disaffecting even as a political tract aimed at winning hearts and minds"; the theatre was "far from capacity" (Variety). "Its three hours are devoid of wit, beauty or drama" (Financial Times). "A brilliant theatrical and artistic revelation of the historical patterns of imperialism" (Tribune 31/10). Brenton "has shown no sign of being able to write a play so far and the reiterated limitations of class confusion and socio-sexual immaturity are stridently boring" (Spectator). New Statesman was more ambivalent in its judgment but still pointed to the play's "intellectual and political crudeness." The parallels in the play "are driven home with a bludgeon that [Brenton's] regard for an adult audience must be questioned" (Times). "The text reminded me of a scrawl of puerile graffiti ... The language is thick with obscenities; the action resolutely violent" (Illustrated London News). See also Lloyd Evans, 238–240. The production remained in repertory until 24/3/81.

Comment: A restaging of Diane Cilento's production at Stratford East (80.144). Guardian was somewhat disconcerted by the production's "technical mishaps and a particularly campy first-night audience response." "Enjoyable as a superior specimen of the kind of old-fashioned meller which unashamedly manipulated audiences" (Variety).

80.588 Fairy Tales of New York (P) J. P. Donleavy. TOWER, CANONBURY, 22/10/80. Cast: Stage 16/10/80, 10; TTC. Plot: Vinson.

Comment: The main attraction of the revival was the first appearance of Joan Collins in the West End since her child-hood debut; "The real hit of the show, however, is the scenic designer, Anthony Holland" (Variety). "A stylish entertainment," but Joan Collins was really too old for her role (Times).

80.593 The Misunderstanding (T, 3a) Albert Camus (anon trans of Le malentendu, 1944). CAFE THEATRE c. 23/10/80. Cast: Stage 30/10/80, 2. Reviews: Stage 13/11/80, 28; Times 29/10/80, 9. Comment: The piece, about bored Swedish students, was really a series of "dramatic scenes" rather than a composed play (Times).

80.599 Ghashiram Kotwal (MP, 2a, 39sc) Vijay Tendulkar. RIVERSIDE STUDIOS 28/10/80. 1st perfd Bharat Natya Mandir, Pune, India, 16/12/72; 1st London perf? Ghashiram Ramesh Tillkar; Chancellor Nohan Agashe; Ramesh Tilekar. A political parable set in eighteenth-century India. Times said the production could be understood easily without knowing the language.

80.600 Guy Fawkes' Big Night Out (P) Andy Cunningham. ICA 28/10/80. Cast: Stage: 23/10/80, 10. Cecil David Newlyn; King James John Butterly; Catesby James Castle; Guido Fawkes Kevin Bannon; Richard Robinson, Cliff Stapleton. Dir Richard Robinson; Dgn Penny Saunders; Puppets Thurzie Robinson. Review: Stage 13/11/80, 28. Comment: Epic Theatre. The piece, based on the Gunpowder plot, also involved puppets, incidental music, and some rather pantomimic characters that delighted children in the audience (Stage).

Comment: National Theatre. Previews from 23/10/80. Press night and low price opening 28/10/80. Spectator was impressed by "the superb costumes and sets of Carl Toms." "Performed with proper spirit in a stylish production staged by Peter Wood" (Variety). "Glittery ostentation ... all too often we seem to be asked to applaud the scenic ideas rather than the verbal wit" (Guardian). "The element of zest and vigour is conspicuously lacking from this fastidious show" (Times). The production remained in repertory until 18/5/81.

80.602 Sound Out (P) Terry Ruane. Comment: National Theatre. Previews from 25/10/80. Press night and opening was 30/10/80. A satisfactory revival that "does occasionally veer towards melodrama" (Guardian). A "fine production" by Bill Bryden, although the last act, inevitably, reveals the play's dignified melodramatic element (Times). New Statesman commended the "excellent company" of actors. The production remained in repertory until 1/1/81.

80.607 Just Waiting (P) Karim Alrawi. ICA 30/10/80. Comment: Playwrights Cooperative. A rehearsed reading.

Comment: MPS 1244. Times detected various musical borrowings and “the idea of an East End Lear ... who sets out to divide his business between three sons.” “In a series of thin rather obvious scenes, with rather pale lyrics and somewhat pale music, the comedy drama of the Weavers jerks along” (Stage).

80.612 The Jackpot (P) Kevin Clarke. HOXTON HALL 31/10/80. Cast: Stage 30/10/80, 28. Comment: Platypus Theatre Company.

80.613 Cabaret Weill (Ent). LA BONNE CREPE 11/80. Review: Stage 20/11/80, 34. Comment: “Robert Purvis and Kevin Amos have directed a tight, racy three-hander which presents Kurt Weill’s Berlin and Broadway music as unabashed entertainment ideal for the cafe theatre setting” (Stage).

80.614 1945! (P). THE NEW THEATRE 11/80. 1st perf? Paul Stebbings, Simon Clews. Review: Stage 4/12/80, 16. Comment: The piece “has the variety stage as a background for a wartime tale about a soldier returning to find that his girl friend has left with a more available civilian. The narrative is carried through dream-like sequences ... [as well as] cutting from pantomime to performance art and back to Music Hall” (Stage).

80.615 Kennedy’s Children (D, 1a) Robert Patrick. SOUTH LONDON THEATRE CENTRE 2/11/80. Plot: Bryer, Eisler, Gunn, Hischak, Hischak/2, 94, Loney, Vinson, Walford, Wilmeth.

Reviews: Guardian 7/11/80, 11; New Statesman 14/11/80, 25; Observer 9/11/80, 31. Comment: MPS 1237. Hull Truck. “A rather fragile play about four sad, lonely Northern fantasists” (Guardian). Observer reported Alan Williams played under the alias “Alan Aldred.”

80.621 My Dinner with André (P) Wallace Shawn and André Gregory. THEATRE UPSTAIRS 4/11/80.* Cast: Stage 30/10/80, 12. André Gregory, Wallace Shawn. Dir Louis Malle. Plot: Wheatley/3. Reviews: Guardian 6/11/80, 9; New Statesman 14/11/80, 25; Observer 9/11/80, 31; Times 7/11/80, 12. Comment: MPS 1086. “A dense, funny, quirky, deeply articulate play that inevitably causes one to take sides” (Guardian). New Statesman commended the play but said some subjects were dealt with too superficially. Observer welcomed the idea that a play can do “smaller things” for its audience.

80.622 This Jockey Drives Late Nights (P) Henry Livings (adpt of Leo Tolstoy, The Power of Darkness [Vlast tmy], 1888). THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD EAST, 4/11/80. 1st perfd Midlands Arts Centre, Birmingham, 27/1/72. Cast: Stage 30/10/80, 12. Gil Brailey, Michael Forrest, Margery Mason, Larry Noble, David Roper, Malcolm Terris, Marjorie Yates, Odette Bennett, Hazel Maycock, Bob Packham, Bert Parnaby. Dir Philip Hedley; Dgn Sarah Paulley; Light Mark Jonathan. Plot (of Tolstoy play): Best/19, 415–16, Gassner, Hirschak, Hochman, Matlaw, Patterson, Salem, Shank, Sobel. Reviews: Guardian 5/11/80, 10; Observer 9/11/80, 31 Stage 13/11/80, 28; Times 6/11/80, 13. Comment: Livings “transposed [Tolstoy] to late twentieth century urban working-class northern England. The pressures of a taxi hire firm replace the dramas of agricultural life” (Guardian). “The text treads an uneasy line between farce and horror” (Times).

80.623 Bohemian Rhapsody (Mus) Sue Jamieson and Caroline John (mus) and Peter Brodie (mus). OVAL HOUSE 5/11/80.* Cast: Stage 30/10/80, 12. Vlasta Patti Bee; Jeannie Crowther, Steve A’Dor, Ralph Everson, Deborah Knapp, Cameron Ivors. Dir Kate Crutchley; Dgn Kate Owen. Review: Stage 27/11/80, 16. Comment: The plot involved a “feminine uprising in the Prague before Good King Wenceslas ... But the connection between the Jamieson version and accepted historical legend is about as close as between the pantomime Babes in the Wood and the documented Third Crusade” (Stage).

80.624 Fine Life (mus) Paul Goodman and Ian Russell. BULL AND GATE 5/11/80.* Cast: Stage 30/10/80, 2. Paul Goodman, Ian Russell, Lezlee Carling. Review: Stage 20/11/80, 34. Comment: “More a concert than a play: the lightweight link pieces between numbers are really thrown away as Goodman moves effortlessly from one song to the next to chart his aspirations, bedsitter miseries and brushes with the record companies, Beautiful People and a neglectful personal manager” (Stage).

80.625 The Night John (Monol) Peter Terson. GROVE 5/11/80. 1st perfd Chichester College Theatre 7?/80. Review: Marylebone Mercury 14/11/80, 4. Comment: Reunion 2. The play involved a night porter at a motel remembering his past and his encounters with guests (Stage 7/8/80, 24). “Peter Baldwin had to teeter on a very fine line to sustain audience credibility on a storyline spelled out in a melange of rhetorical patter and cloying sentiment. However, the sensitive acting of Mr Baldwin finally won through over the inconsistencies of the script” (Marylebone Mercury).

ARTS 5/11/80.* Lamarck Hugh Hayes; Skysail Tony Wredden; Stella Goodier, Nicky Margolis, Jean Marlow, Leda Hodgson. Dir Nicholas Barter; Dgn Rodney Ford; Mus Iona Sekacz. Review: Stage 20/11/80, 34. Comment: MPS 1060. Unicorn Theatre. Two young children brought up by wolves become part of a hilltop community.

80.627 All Together Now (P, 2a) Peter Buckman. GREENWICH 6/11/80. 1st perfd Haymarket, Leicester, 4/7/79. Comment: Stage noted the play, about a brass band and its players in a small country town, had been rewritten since the Leicester performance. “As likeable and original a comedy as any we have had for some time” (Illustrated London News). Times reported Peter Dews’ production featured fifteen actors who could also play brass band instruments.

Comment: Moving Being. “Geof Atwell, Glenn Davidson, Neale Goodrum, Anne Hayes, Belinda Neave and Caroline Noh are not simply actors, singers or dancers taking the stage for show, they are committed members of a team that is repulsed because ‘modern life is so clear on the surface, so dirty underneath’” (Stage). Directed by Geoff Moore.

Comment: National Theatre. Previews from 6/11/80. Press night and low price opening 11/11/80. "An indifferent revival ... [with] Warren Mitchell's bizarre interpretation of the tramp" (Guardian). "Pretty well perfect" (Spectator). "The acting is too fussy" (New Statesman). "Warren Mitchell was clearly born to play Pinter's tramp, and he is superbly partnered by Jonathan Pryce and Kenneth Cranham" (Times). The production remained in repertory until 3/9/81.

80.640 Death and Co (P) Munich Mannequins. HALF MOON 11/11/80. Cast: Stage 6/11/80, 14. Sara Mason, Ginnette Clarke, Monica Buford. Review: Performance Magazine No. 9 (1981), 21. Comment: Munich Mannequins. "A punk life of the poet Sylvia Plath presented by three women calling themselves the Munich Mannequins. This is not the first play about Sylvia Plath; well actually it is the first but bugged out of all recognition. Barry Kyle, whose name has been generously dropped from the programme and publicity, devised the original for the RSC, incorporating the poet's own brief and only piece of dramatic writing into a theatrical compilation of her life and works. It is on this that the Mannequins seem to have based their performance" (Performance Magazine).

80.641 Gloo Joo (C, 2a) Michael Hastings. Wakefield Tricycle Company. Observer said the direction was sloppy when the piece needed precision. The piece was "a bit of a shambles ... but never meant to be plausible" (New Statesman). "A pretty dull evening ... The play needs both a stronger controlling idea and greater visual wildness" (Guardian). Times was at a loss to know what the play meant, "neither does Kenneth Chubb's production give many clues to meaning, or even to mood."

80.643 'Tis Pity She's a Whore (T) John Ford. Plot: Fletcher, Gassner, Hochman, Holzknicht, Law, Patterson, Shipley, Sobel. Review: Stage 27/11/80, 16. Comment: A successful revival performed in modern dress and with the subplot cut (Stage). Stage indicated the production was performed for a week at the old Half Moon after this production.

80.644 The Amazing Comedy Show. BULL AND GATE 12/11/80. Cast: Stage 6/11/80, 14. Ben Benison, Roddy Maude-Roxby, Ric Morgan, John Muirhead. Reviews: Guardian 25/11/80, 9; Times 13/11/80, 11. Comment: Theatre Machine. The piece was an improvised comedy event with audience participation, "and many clumsy jokes were redeemed by goodwill on the opening night" (Times).

Comment: MPS 1091. At one performance during the run an audience member suffered a heart attack and was attended by Dr. David Owen, a former Foreign Secretary (Acton Gazette 20/11/80, 6). Peter Jenkins was dramatic critic of The Spectator. The play, set during a political party conference in Blackpool, was about divisions in the Labour Party, but failed to really nail down the important issues (Guardian). New Statesman said Jenkins was too selective in presenting his arguments and too many of the characters were stereotypes. While the substance of the play was "as topical as today's paper ... the effect of implanting this material behind the fourth wall is to translate actuality into a mildly entertaining fiction that has nothing to do with life outside" (Times). "The play finally doesn't work, lapsing only too quickly into a parade of attitudes and beliefs with no real action" (Spectator).

80.646 That's Not It (Show) Natasha Morgan. OVAL HOUSE 12/11/80. Review: Tribune 28/11/80, 9. Comment: "Inspired by Virginia Woolf and indebted to the performance style of the People Show ... [Morgan] demonstrates some of the problems women face in trying to do creative work" (Tribune).

80.647 Benefits (P) Susan Todd (adpt of Zoe Fairbairns' novel, 1979). ALBANY EMPIRE 13/11/80. Reviews: Gay News 27/11/80, 19; Tribune 28/11/80, 9. Comment: The Combination. "Argues loudly the case for treating women as people" (Tribune). This three-hour adaptation failed to convey the complexities of a "good, tightly constructed novel" (Gay News). Directed by Susan Todd and designed by Di Seymour.

80.648 Breaking Through (Mus) Timberlake Wertenbaker and Stephanie Nunn (mus) and Joanne Richler (mus). Review: Stage 4/12/80, 16. Comment: Women's Theatre Group. "Aimed at teenagers, though I wonder if they will have the patience for what at times is a rather long-winded allegory about the dangers of nuclear power" (Stage).

80.649 The Ice Chimney (Monol) Barry Collins. LYRIC STUDIO, HAMMERSMITH, 13/11/80. 1st perfd Traverse, Edinburgh, 19/8/80. Cast: Stage 13/11/80, 14. Christopher Ettridge. Comment: MPS 1069. The only attraction of the production was Sheila White's "out-standing performance" as a young Mary Pickford; "Otherwise, the show's a let-down" (Variety). Gay News found the songs hummable. New Statesman said the piece lacked "a captivating score [and] a gripping book." Times faulted most aspects of the production.

Comment: A platform performance and a tribute to David Mercer drawing on numerous excerpts from his works. "I was astonished to discover how in eight mere snippets of scenes Mercer had managed to delve into such matters as age, love, marriage, sex, drink, family, class, loyalty, betrayal, honesty, loss of faith, and madness" (Spectator).

Foco Novo. Tribune commended Wymark for assuming that "women are people," not just stereotypes, and so this play about marital infidelity became unusual; however, there were places where it wasn't convincing or perceptive. "Palpably, it's the work of an intelligent writer; yet everything exists at such a weird tangent to reality I found it hard to get engrossed" (Guardian 21/11). The component parts of the play were like a jigsaw puzzle which needed assembling (Times).

18/12/80, 16; Times 23/12/80, 7. Comment: Phantom Captain. The authors, as “the Foster Brothers,” played “with relish, comic effect and a touch or two of pathos, as two old-timers in a small USA community” ... It is diverting entertainment ... Some of it may be obvious but all of it is bursting with sincerity” (Stage). Times thought the satiric element needed to be sharper.

Kember has an evident and impressive talent for plotting, for funny lines, and for plausible characters” (Variety).

“An excellent first play” (Tribune). “Using the kibutz as the setting for this parable is a brilliant stroke” (Spectator). “A play that seeks to explore without distorting, explain without patronising, a most auspicious debut” (New Statesman). “An insidiously clever piece of writing, paced to a nice comic trot but structured to finally question the basis of British life” (Times).

The play was concerned with young women getting caught in the trap of marriage and not realizing the drudgery involved. Times said the images worked better than the words. “Many short and pungent sequences, alive with the influences of music halls, pantomime, Elizabethan drama and surrealist art, sketch the insidious conventions which tie women to the sink and cooker” (Stage).

Citizens Theatre, Glasgow. Gay News objected to “its general nastiness about sex and its particularly virulent brand of misogyny.” The play lacked the wit, emotion, and theatricality that used to be found in Anouilh’s work (Observer). “A rather top-heavy mixture of Anouilh and Wilde, Shaw and Rochefoucauld: rich but overweight” (Guardian). “Combines flashy theatricalism and non-dramatic literary posturing to a degree that evokes the university stage at its most self-admiring ... too much of the playing ... rises no higher than a narcissistic sneer” (Times).

Comment: MPS 1088. Royal Shakespeare Company. Spectator described the piece as "a picture of electronic Grub Street" that possessed "the engaging quality of a genre play written from the inside." New Statesman found it predictable and given to burlesque. Observer was not engaged by the middle portions of the play. Times said the piece "contains some half-dozen unrelated showbiz fables" which the production and acting pulled together. "On the whole a rather tiring exposure of some exceptionally tiresome people" (Illustrated London News).

Reviews: Guardian 12/12/80, 11; Stage 18/12/80, 10; Variety 17/12/80, 86.

Comment: Paul Daniels, "a prepossessing, personable, funny and, not least, artful illusionist," was the featured performer (Variety). "No artist can look back over the past ten years with more satisfaction than Paul Daniels, who began the seventies as a club turn and ends the first year of the eighties with his own show in the heart of the West End" (Stage).

Comment: Also performed was the one-act opera, A Man of Feeling by Stephen Oliver. A good revival “thanks to Peter Stevenson’s quilted production and two commanding performances” by John Standing and Estelle Kohler (Guardian). “It is the music which makes the play possible in that tiny space” (Times).

80.727 Toad of Toad Hall (P) A. A. Milne (adpt of Kenneth Grahame, The Wind in the Willows, 1908). Reviews: Guardian 18/12/80, 9; Stage: 8/1/81, 18; Times 29/12/80, 13. Comment: “An old fashioned exercise in good clean fun” (Guardian). “Tells a story without too many digressions ... [with] some promising new twists in the tale” (Times).

80.729 Canterbury Tales (P) Phil Woods (adpt of Chaucer) and Michael Bogdanov and Andrew Branch (mus) and Chris Barnes (mus). ROUND HOUSE 16/12/80. 34 perf. Micky O'Donoghue, Anthony Milner, John Labanowski, Bev Willis, Lesley Mackie, Jane Paton, Terry Taplin. Dir Michael Bogdanov; Dgn Paul Bannister; Light Chic Reid. Plot: Fletcher. Reviews: Guardian 24/12/80, 15; Stage 2/1/81, 9; Times 29/12/80, 13. Comment: Young Vic Company. Times noted the pre-performance presence of the cast in the bar and the auditorium that generated “rowdiness” compatible with the performance itself.

80.730 Le cirque imaginaire (Circus) Victoria Chaplin and Jean-Baptiste Thiérrée and Lionel Epailard (mus). Comment: Spectator “highly recommended [it] for children,” but missed such elements as “stand-up comics, chorus girls and music hall turns.” Times described the pantomime as “quirky,” but “rhythmic and rollicking” musically, and with an interesting fairy godmother from Eleanor Bron.

80.739 Cinderella (Bsq panto) H. J. Byron (adpt Maurice Browning) and Geoffrey Brawn (mus arr). PLAYERS’ 17/12/80. Cast: Stage 18/12/80, 36. Reviews: Guardian 29/12/80, 9; Stage: 8/1/81, 18; Times 29/12/80, 13. Comment: Guardian approved the modern interpolations, both verbal and musical. “At least it supplies puns that are worth groaning at and a formula that guarantees absurdity on the grand scale” (Times).

80.740 Dangerous Corner (P, 3a) J. B. Priestley. AMBASSADORS 17/12/80. Cast: Stage 11/12/80, 14; Theatricalia. Freda Caplan Jennifer Daniel; Miss Mockridge Madeleine Newbury; Betty Whitehouse Stacy Dorning; Olwen Peel Ann Lynn; Charles Stanton Peter Dennis; Gordon Whitehouse Anthony Daniels; Robert Caplan Clive Francis. Pp Ambassadors Theatre Ltd.; Lic J. Comment: Variety averred the “melodrama [was] so anachronistic that the audience has no choice to but laugh where no laugh was intended.” “A good cast, efficiently directed by Robert Gillespie, plays it straight” (Spectator). Times agreed with Spectator about the cast and said of the play that “it still works like a sturdy old hurdy-gurdy grinding out a maddingly unforgettable tune." Guardian said the final five minutes redeemed the play.

80.741 The Merry Widow (MP, 3a) Victor Léon and Leo Stein (English version Christopher Hassall; revised Milton Lazarus [adpt of Victor Léon and Leo Stein, Die lustige Witwe, 1905] and Forman Brown (lyr) and Franz Lehár (mus). Comment: Nicolai Gedda and Hildegard Heichele appeared as guest artists at the gala performance on 30/12/80 "to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the operetta's premiere" (Stage). "This revival has been polished up with splendid vitality by Peter Foster" (Guardian).

80.742 The Revolt (P) Auguste de Villiers de L'Isle-Adam (trans Donald Watson of La révolte, 1870). NEW END 17/12/80. Cast: Stage 11/12/80, 14. The play dealt with a marriage verging on a breakdown. Guardian commended the hour-long piece but thought it was short on convincing details. "You have to keep reminding yourself that it was written in 1870, and is thus a striking anticipation of modern feminism" (Observer). Simone Benmussa's production "merely painted a chilly intellectual picture of passion" (Times).

Comment: Spectator singled out Nickolas Grace for his "show-stealing performance"; Times also complimented Grace, but thought little of the production overall. For Observer the production was "something of a bore," but worth seeing because of Grace.

80.748 Cinderella (Panto, 2a) John Morley. WIMBLEDON 20/12/80. Knight; Mus dir Gordon Rose. Reviews: Guardian 23/12/80, 9; Stage: 8/1/81, 18. Comment: "A pretty banal concoction that includes many of the externals of pantomime" (Guardian).

80.753 The Incredible Vanishing!!! (Squelching P) Denise Coffey. HALF MOON 22/12/80 (m). Cast: SHM; Stage 18/12/80, 36. Bert Sparky Steve Byrne; W.P.C. Parker Penny O'Connor; Jenny Jones, Her Marshesty Seona McKinnon; Gob Sara Hardy; Twerp Simon Rose. Dir Nick Hamm; Dgn Martin Sutherland. Reviews: Guardian 29/12/80, 9; Stage 8/1/81, 41. Comment: The plot was about the search for numerous children who have been snatched by Her Marshesty, the Monarch of Drains. A "cheerfully noisome play ... with its mixture of fear, clownery, rudeness ... and audience participation" (Guardian). Evening performances were added from 27/12/80 onwards.

80.754 Mother Goose (Panto) Bill Owen (bk, mus) and Max Bradley Fisher (bk) and Mike Sammes (mus) and Nigel Morton (mus). INTIMATE 22/12/80.* Cast: Stage 18/12/80, 36. Bill Owen, Natalie Forbes, Geoffrey Drew, 80.755 The Ring Gangsters (P) Ivor Dembina and Peter Cheevers. BARLEY MOW 22/12/80 (Ln). 1st perf? Cast: Stage 18/12/80, 4. Peter Cheevers, Ivor Dembina. Review: Acton Gazette 29/12/80, 11. Comment: The authors "contacted hardened criminals for their views on boxing and concluded that for them professional boxers are heroes representing the epitome of manliness. The play, put together from improvisations by Ivor and Peter, attempts to expose what they see as the nonsense of this type of hero worship" (Acton Gazette).

80.756 The Sorcerer (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 22/12/80. Cast: Stage 18/12/80, 14. Plot: Ayre, Gänzl, Hochman, Shipley. Reviews: Guardian 18/12/80, 9, 23/12/80, 9. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. The season ran 22/12/80–21/2/81. Guardian (23/12) faulted many in the cast for failing to deliver the words clearly.

80.757 Captain Stirrick (Ballad O, 2a) Jeremy James Taylor (bk) and David Scott (bk) and Richard Brett (mus). YOUNG VIC 29/12/80. 1st perfd Haberdashers' Aske's School, Elstree, 7/80. Cast: Stage 24/12/80, 10. Ned Stirrick Julian Silvester; Signor Fantoccini Daryl Lax. Reviews: Guardian 7/1/81, 11; Harrow Observer 9/1/81, 16. Comment: MPS 1167. Children's Music Theatre. The piece was about "a school of pickpockets in Regency London" (Guardian).

80.758 An Evening with Walter Plinge (P) Hugh Hastings. YOUNG VIC STUDIO 29/12/80. 1st perfd Key Theatre, Peterborough, 3/2/79. Cast: Stage 24/12/80, 10. Hugh Hastings. Review: Stage: 8/1/81, 14.

80.759 The Ikon Maker (P) Desmond Hogan (adpt of his novel, 1976). GATE 29/12/80. 1st perfd South Hill Park Arts Centre, Bracknell, 26/9/80. Cast: Stage 24/12/80, 10. Mary Duddy, Liam Halligan, Isolde Cazelet, Lisa Cook, Frances Quinn, Michael Loughnan. Dir Roland Jaquarollo; Dgn John Hallé. Reviews: Gay News 8/1/81, 19; Guardian 2/1/81, 9; Irish Times 3/1/81, 12. Comment:

Green Fields and Far Away. The play involved an Irish mother following her son to London and discovering more about him and herself. Irish Times commended the production and the piece which was perhaps somewhat dated in its vocabulary. Gay News praised the cast for its efforts in this unsatisfactory play that needed revision.

80.760 The Mikado; or, The Town of Titipu (CO, 2a) W. S. Gilbert (lib) and Arthur Sullivan (mus). SADLER'S WELLS 29/12/80. Plot: Ayre, Bordman, Fletcher, Gänzl, Hochman, Law, Salem, Shipley, Sobel. Comment: D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

80.761 Post Mortems (P) Jill Hyem. SOHO POLY 29/12/80 (Ln).* Cast: Stage 24/12/80, 10. Philippa Urquhart, Ruth Goring. Dir Kay Patrick; Dgn Terry Jacobs. Reviews: Observer 11/1/81, 27; Stage: 15/1/81, 21; Times 5/1/81, 5. Comment: MPS 1095. The play was about a lonely, bereaved wife and a futile meeting with the woman she once thought was her best friend.

80.762 The Roman Invasion of Ramsbottom (MP, 3a) David Nield (mus) and Jeremy James Taylor (bk, lyr). YOUNG VIC 29/12/80. 1st perfd George Square Theatre, Edinburgh, 7/8/87. Cast: Stage 24/12/80, 10. Review: Guardian 2/1/81, 9. Comment: Children's Music Theatre. The piece poked fun at government ministers and their hostile attitude towards local amenities. "It's merry lark stuff performed with zest by its large and young cast. The pity is that the text itself is not more imaginative or witty" (Guardian). Also performed ITV 26/12/80 (Winsford

80.763 All the Trimmings (Revue) Roger McGough. LYRIC STUDIO, HAMMERSMITH, 30/12/80.* Cast: Stage 24/12/80, 10. Roger McGough. Plot: OTF/2. Reviews: Guardian 31/12/80, 8; Stage: 8/1/81, 14; Times 31/12/80, 5. Comment: MPS 1212. "An excuse for indulging in Sixties nostalgia without feeling old" (Guardian). "A stream of inconsequential ideas floating like soap bubbles from the compulsively cataloguing author" (Times).

80.764 Cinderella or Love Makes the World Go Round (Panto, 2a) V. C. Clinton-Baddeley (bk) and Gavin Gordon (mus) and Walter Leigh (mus).. QUESTORS 30/12/80. Cast: QTA.

80.765 E = MC². THEATRE SPACE 30/12/80. Comment: "A sensual theatre. Our work is of a formal, symbolic and ritual nature ... Our conventions are those of our generation; movement, lighting and live electric music" (Performance Magazine No. 9 [1981], 28). Directed by Sarah Toft, the piece ran until 3/1/81.

80.766 The Golden Pathway Annual (D, 2a) John Harding and John Burrows. UPSTREAM 30/12/80. Cast: Stage 24/12/80, 10. Kit Jackson, Carole Harrison, Dorian Healy, Peter Wight, Cecily Hobbs. Dir Alby James; Dgn Hildegard Bechtler; Light Dick Bloxsidge. Plot: Fletcher, Vinson. Review: Stage: 15/1/81, 25.
